Anti-French Junta Is Now In Control Of Viet Nam Army

Launch New Drive on Sect As U.S. Endorses Premier

BULLETIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Agence France-Presse reported from Saigon tonight that the Vietnamese national army has seized all rebel resistance points in Cho Lon and fighting has ceased.

SAIGON, Indochina (CP)—Units of Viet Nam's national army, now taken over by an anti-French revolutionary junta, today launched an attack against forces of the rebel Binh Xuyen sect in the Chinese shanty town of Cho Lon on Saigon's outskirts.

The new fighting, following seizure of power Sunday by the junta, broke an uneasy truce which had been in effect in Saigon and Cho Lon since fighting last week in which 300 persons were killed.

Eye-witnesses said, two battalions of governmental forces, mustering about 1,200 men, slammed across a canal and fell on the Binh Xuyen forces as they gathered to load rice paddies and a maze of nearby waterways.

The minor units of the Binh Xuyen force were hit by the government attack. The estimated main force is drawn up well outside Ho Lon.

In addition, strong Binh Xuyen detachments guard strongpoints on the busiest streets of the city. They have not been attacked because of the heavy risk of life likely in fighting in the city centre.

REBELS SPLIT

(Reports in Paris said a serious split was developing in the ranks of the Binh Xuyen forces between rebels resisting the war on fighting and those who want to reach a compromise with the government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.)

Diem today launched a new offensive on chief of state Bao Dai. The premier's office announced that a national assembly will meet here Wednesday to depose the absentee ex-emperor who tried unsuccessfully to oust Diem last week.

Dim issued the announcement after conferring with Gen. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy who returned by plane from Washington today. Shortly after the general's arrival, United States charge d'affaires Randolph Sidder called reporters at the airport that American backing for Premier Diem's government still stands.

The French were expected to oppose strongly any move to oust Bao Dai. They installed him as chief of state in 1949.

ARMY APPROVES

Diem's office said Bao Dai will be requested to call the national assembly to be made up of provincial councillors from South Viet Nam's 44 provinces.

Calls Ontario's Housing Program 'Inadequate'

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario CCF Leader Donald MacDonald said this morning the province's housing program has been "pitifully inadequate" in meeting the need for low-cost and low-rental housing in Ontario.

Mr. MacDonald, speaking at a CCF educational conference here for delegates from five Toronto and suburban ridings: York South, York West, York East, York-Humber and Davenport.

He said Premier Frost of Ontario promised in 1951 to build 5,000 low rental homes through a partnership arrangement with the federal government.

"Fortunately Mr. Frost didn't set any time-limit for this objective," he said. "To date, 1,600 units have been built and occupied; 100 are under construction, and tenders have been called for 54 more. There, briefly put, is the government's housing program—a tragic failure."

Mr. MacDonald said the CCF would implement realistic housing policy for at least 10,000 low-rental homes for each of the next four years.

Road Accidents Take Five Lives, Three Drowned

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic accidents caused half of eastern Canada's 10 accidental deaths during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey shows five persons died on the highways between midnight Friday and midnight Sunday. Three were drowned, one was killed by a train and one by fire.

In addition four youths were feared drowned near Kenora when a cabin cruiser overturned on Lake of the Woods.

Five persons were killed in Ontario, four in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. No deaths were reported in Nova Scotia, Newfoundland or Prince Edward Island.

Feared drowned in Lake of the Woods were Michael Maybank, 20, Winnipeg, son of Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank; David Redditt, 20, and Dick Freestone, 21, both of Winnipeg and Philip Pratt, 19, of Portage La Prairie, Man.

FALLS INTO TUB

Joseph William Clause Jr., 9, was killed when struck by a car across seager train while walking across a level crossing at Hagersville.

Mrs. Margaret Cavo, 80, of Brantford died in hospital from severe burns suffered when her clothing caught fire as she brushed against a wood-burning stove.

FOUR WINNIPEG YOUTHS MISSING, FEARED DROWNED

Overturned Boat Found On Lake of the Woods

KENORA (CP) — Provincial police planned to probe the deep waters of the Lake of the Woods today for clues leading to the disappearance of four Winnipeg youths.

Discovery of an overturned cabin cruiser floating in the lake Sunday led police to fear the boys may have been drowned.

Missing are Michael Maybank, 20-year-old son of Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank of the Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench and formerly attorney-general; David Redditt, 20, Dick Freestone, 20 and Philip Pratt, 21.

JOINS SEARCH

Mr. Justice Maybank drove to Kenora Sunday to assist police in their search of the lake and environ rounding islands. He returned to Winnipeg Sunday night and planned to drive back to Kenora today.

Maybank and Freestone left Winnipeg Friday by car. Redditt and Pratt, students at the university, discovered the overturned boat on the lake between Brown Island and the Heap's point, seven miles south of Kenora, and a mile from the island-studded shore of the Lake of the Woods.

Police searched the Maybank camp but found no signs that any person had been there.

STRONG WINDS

Searchers dragged the 60-foot deep waters and searched neighboring islands without success.

It was known Maybank and Freestone were strong swimmers and both could reach the country well. The two youths had left university earlier last week.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP) — A wave of disappointment swept over Canadian troops here in their lonely vigil on the nuclear warfare when the seventh straight postponement was ordered for President Eisenhower's special envoy who returned by plane from Washington today. Workers Throughout World March In Traditional May Day Observance

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Workers throughout the world marched in traditional May Day celebrations Sunday. Religious and political leaders on both sides of the Iron Curtain issued their notes of East-West tensions.

Violence broke out in France, Algeria nationalists took the occasion to stage independence demonstrations and clashed with police with the police. At least 41 persons were injured, and 70 demonstrators were arrested.

In Moscow, Defence Minister Marshal Zhukov said in a May Day radio broadcast that the Soviet Union will not get ready to "come the capital of a unified Germany" as a result of German and Soviet officials.

In Buenos Aires, organized workers demonstrated against the Roman Catholic Church and voiced support for President Peron in his running battle with the Argentine church.

modern society to achieve social peace and delivered stern words against communism, though he did not mention it my name.

The Pope concluded his 25-minute speech by proclaiming the liturgical feast of "St. Joseph the Worker" to be observed henceforth May Day.

British celebrations were marred by the death of one of the nation's top labor leaders, Arthur Deakin, 68, died from a heart attack collapse while addressing a May Day rally.

Divided Berlin had its quietest May Day since the war. In West Berlin 100,000 citizens marched the traditional rally at city hall and heard Mayor Otto Suhr declare that Germans must get ready to "come the capital of a unified Germany." About 250,000 East Berliners, marched along Unter den Linden to Marx-Engels Square past a review of a stand of German and Soviet officials.

HAWAII-BOUND MINUS SKIPPER

When the raft "Kon-Tiki" set out for Hawaii from San Francisco she inadvertently left her skipper, Dovre Baker and crew behind. Plans were set for the Lehi and crew to start on their drifting voyage to Hawaii because winds a nd tides were just right. But the raft got going before the arrival of Baker at the dock. However, Captain and crew were later put aboard the raft from another boat at sea. The Lehi is shown approaching the fishing boat "Sea Bee" which was to tow her thirty miles west of the Farallones before cutting her adrift. (Central Press Canadian).

Flying Clubs Across Canada To Get Radiation Check Job

BY KEN METHERAL

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP)—Flying clubs across Canada will shortly be assigned a vital radiation monitoring role in the country's civil defence setup, Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington disclosed today.

Worthington, here as an official Canadian observer at the Atomic Energy Commission's nuclear tests, said the flying clubs plan will be inaugurated as soon as a number of technical details are worked out.

Meanwhile Lt.-Col. Robert Klaehn of Ottawa, head of the tri service radiation detection team participating in the tests, said the Canadian Army is also exploring the use of planes to speed up radiation surveys in event of no clear warfare.

Plans for use of light planes as radiation monitors are being worked out by the joint radiation detection unit at Kingston, Ont., under Major R. E. MacDonald, 36-year-old engineering expert for Sydney Mines, N. S.

INCREASE EFFICIENCY

Worthington said details have not been disclosed, the planes will be used to determine quickly the areas of heaviest radiation contamination following a nuclear attack.

"Frequent and speedy reports that it will allow us to increase our efficiency and speed of operations by 75 to 100 per cent," said Klaehn.

Worthington said that the civil defence flying club organization will be patterned after that set up by the Kingston unit. "They are the experts and we will of course be guided by their findings," he said.

Wing Cmdr. A. L. Bocking of Ottawa, RCAF ground defence coordination officer Worthington, and Klaehn are giving close study to aircraft participation in the current atomic tests here.

Oliver Calls Grants 'Bribery'

RENFREW, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver has accused the Progressive Conservative government of the province of "political bribery" in an election year.

Mr. Oliver Saturday criticized the Frost government's 10 per cent doubling of its highways "scandal" and for the powers vested in the municipal board. He predicted that the Conservative campaign in the provincial election expected this year would be larger "than it ever has been and it so good."

He told the Renfrew South Liberal Association that the Ontario taxation has increased, yet grants to municipalities have not yet kept pace with this increase.

Special grants from this year's budget were no more than "political bribery," Mr. Oliver said.

N.Y. BANS HORROR BOOKS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Averell Harriman today approved a bill designed to sweep horror and sex-filled comic books from the newsstands and to remove lurid publications from the hands of children. The measure makes it a misdemeanor to publish or distribute comic books devoted to sex or brutality or to sel or show any other literature featuring sex or crime to persons under 18. Violators will be subject to jail sentences of up to a year, fines of up to $500 or both.

LINER SCYTHIA HITS FREIGHTER IN ST. LAWRENCE

20-Foot Hole Is Torn In Norwegian Vessel

QUEBEC (CP)—Repairs to the lightly-damaged liner Scythia were to begin today while the ship she collided with, the Norwegian freighter Sunland, inched her way to Quebec City with a gaping 20-foot hole in her side.

The 8,000-ton Sunland is proceeding under her own steam but the tug Foundation Josephine is standing by her.

The 19,000-ton Scythia suffered a few lost plates, a long dent on the bow and some loosened rivets when she collided with the Sunland Saturday off Trois-Pistoles, Que., about 150 miles down the St. Lawrence river from here.

A diver looked over the Scythia Sunday and reported no damage below the waterline. He will go down again today.

WON'T DELAY SAILING

Officers of the ship, who asked not to be named, said damage was too slight to have the Scythia dry-docked and temporary repairs made here. Full repairs will be made at Montreal. The liner will leave as scheduled Wednesday, said a Canard lines spokesman in Montreal.

For the Scythia, a collision is becoming an almost-annual event, an officer recalled. He said the ship collided with another ship off Father point, some 200 miles downstream from Quebec City in 1953, rammed a pier in Summerside she smashed into the quay here while tying up. In both cases damage was negligible.

The Sunland and Scythia collided during heavy fog. The chance of the place where they struck is two miles across.

RIVER PILOTS ON DUTY

Both were being handled by river pilots, who normally take oceangoing ships down the St. Lawrence between here and Father point. Names of the pilots who handled the ships were not given.

The Scythia was bound for Quebec City with 800 passengers while the Sunland, under charter to Sigsaag Line Ltd., of Oslo, to Montreal, was heading from Port Alfred, Que., to Belgium and the United Kingdom. She was carrying general cargo and aluminum ingots.

New Series of Badges

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 175,000 Boy Scouts have a new series of proficiency badges to earn. They are aimed at encouraging conservation of natural resources.

The executive committee of the Canadian General Council of Scouts Saturday created four badges, one each for forestry, wildlife, water and soil conservation. They will be put up for competition next year.

Queen And Princess Recently Enjoyed Thrilling Horse Race at Ascot Track

LONDON (AP)—A royal race—with Queen Elizabeth riding one and Princess Margaret another—took place privately at the Royal Windsor Horse Show in nearby Windsor. Princess Margaret won.

The race of the two Royal sisters was run recently in comparatively private. The workmen and a top-hatted riding master being the only spectators of the workmen engaged in painting the stands, summed up enough courage today to tell about it.

"We saw them enter by the gate that joins Windsor Castle ground to the race course. They were in riding clothes, wearing colored head scarves. The queen had on a yellowish one and the princess a darker colored scarf. The horses were jet black. Following them on another horse was the riding master from Windsor Castle in top hat.

After walking their horses down to the starting point they circled and came back. Just as they reached the three-furlong mark they broke into a gallop and raced to the queen and said something.

Quickly the riding master was left far behind as the royal sisters galloped away and back down the course. The dazzled workmen downed tools and watched in utter astonishment.

It was a ding dong battle for the finish, the queen leading by two yards to go Princess Margaret shot her horse ahead and beat the Queen by three lengths.

One of the workmen said Princess Margaret had a far larger horse than her sister. He said they both rode beautifully.

"They were laughing as they pulled up after the race," said the workman. "I suppose they trotted out the way they had come and went back to the castle.'

Cabinet Meeting Today Will Set Definite Time

Election Announcement Made by Frost Saturday

BY STEWART ANDERSON

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is likely to learn today what date in early June has been selected for the next provincial general election.

The announcement is expected to follow a rare Monday meeting of the provincial cabinet.

Premier Frost in a speech at London Saturday confirmed a welcome speculation that the election will be held this year. He said he proposes to advise Lieutenant-Governor John G. Breithaupt that the legislature be dissolved and a general election be held early in June.

A provincial cabinet minister who declined the use of his name said Saturday the election will be called for June 9.

Today's cabinet meeting was called for about 1:30 p. m. EDT. It was learned that Mr. Frost will "see" the lieutenant-governor about 3:30 p. m. and announcement of the date would follow probably between 4 and 4:30 p. m.

The premier's announcement, at an early June election, made at the opening meeting of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association, was welcomed by Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver and Ontario CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald.

BOTH READY

Mr. Oliver and Mr. MacDonald both said their parties are prepared for an election.

Mr. Oliver, in Pembroke Saturday night for a two-day convention, said the party welcomes a test of strength and will fight the election right down to the wire. "The Liberal party will be quite confident of the outcome."

Mr. MacDonald at home in Toronto said recent popular opinion polls indicate that the solid support for the Conservatives and Liberals is down more than one-half of what it was four years ago.

"Certainly the people of Ontario are not satisfied with either the lacksdaisical government they have had or with the apathetic opposition the Liberals have been offering," said Mr. MacDonald.

The election announcement came at a time of feverish political activity in the province with nomination meetings held almost nightly. The CCF has announced candidates in about 60 of the 98 constituencies, the Liberals about 80 and the Progressive Conservatives about 40.

MUMPS—NOT POLIO

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—An eight-year-old boy who made news by becoming ill two days after being inoculated with polio vaccine turned out to be a victim of the mumps. The boy, son of a couple stationed at nearby Mather air force base, was placed in isolation at the Sacramento county hospital last week as a possible polio case.

Minister Urges More Assistance To Retailers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Justice Minister Garson Sunday night urged tobacco manufacturers to give ordinary grocers of small retailers the same opportunity as big chain stores to buy cigarets at low prices.

He made the recommendation in a recorded speech carried over Winnipeg radio station CKRC in which he reviewed a report on loss-leader selling by the restrictive trade practices commission.

The report, tabled in the Commons by Mr. Garson, recommended against any federal action to suppress the practice. Loss leading, studies offered by the report extract customers away from other stores.

Mr. Garson said tobacco manufacturers should not deny tobacco to small retailers apparently for purposes at the same price charged to chain stores or forbidding them to buy in large quantities.

Mr. Garson's statements were based on the text of a speech he made in Ottawa in advance of delivery.

Level Charges Against Federal Conservatives

VICTORIA (CP) — Federal Progressive Conservative leaders have been charged with striking the names of leading members of the B.C. Progressive Conservative Association from party records because they oppose Premier W. A. C. Bennett, National Leader George Drew.

Saanich Progressive Conservative Association officials said Saturday a meeting of the association Friday night was attended by charging followers of Mr. Drew with "imposing a complete veil of secrecy" on the Conservative headquarters."

"Conservatives with more than 40 years membership in the party, conservative candidates in the last federal election, Conservative Association officers and official B. C. delegates to Ottawa have had their names stricken from records of the party for daring to protest George Drew's lack of leadership," the resolution charged.

Saanich is a suburban municipality of Victoria.

THROWN FROM BICYCLE, BOY NOT INJURED

Charles Calnan, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy C. Calnan, 165 North John Street, was uninjured when knocked from his bicycle at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets at 1.00 p.m. today.

The driver of the car, Mr. Frank Moore of Moore's Garage, was proceeding along Front St. in his late model car and was crossing the last corners when the Calnan child turned right from East Bridge Street into the path of the oncoming car. He was thrown from the bike but appeared to be unhurt.

He insisted on going on to school while Mr. Moore took the bike to be repaired and assured the child that he would notify his parents. Charles is a grade five student at Queen Alexandra public school.

$944 Raised For Crippled By Rotary Talent Auction

Dame Rumor has it that airwaves out of Belleville Saturday night caused grounding of all CF-100 flights from Toronto to Montreal declared the eardrums of a CF-100 pilot in North Bay and killed off a heap of bats migrating to catacombs somewhere in Europe.

However, there is nothing like a dame when it comes to framing rumors and this base canard can be dismissed as a slight exaggeration or a low-down bourgeois Irish song, a gripping rendition of "The Face on the Barroom Floor" by Rotarian Art Francis and some flourishing violin solos by Barney Taylor.

However, most dominant performer of the evening was city police inspector Clair Hayes, whose deep basso betrayed an acquaintance with the bars of the music scale almost as profound as that with the bars of his city cell block.

In this show the unexpected happened every few minutes, but most off-beat feature probably was the appearance of a group of teenagers out on a party, who took over the microphone for nearly ten minutes. One was sent in a request for a song from a friend who just had had his teeth extracted. But the victim proved a poor sport and, though still awaiting his plate from the dentist, went on the air and fulfilled the request.

The show, which started promptly at 8.30 p.m. was signed off at 1.25 a.m. by Jack Devine who had toiled at the mike continuously for five hours. Backing up the announcer was pianist Jimmy Corradi, who by now probably has set up a record for piano marathon in the Belleville district.

Most unexpected touch of the evening came to light late in the proceedings when minutes of the hilarity had been set aside for a sudden appearance through the chamber windows. However, it left as fast as its antenna could find the exit.

Police Blotter

Two well dressed men, one of whom kept the clerk busy while the other got in his dirty work, were held up at gunpoint in the theft of a clock radio from a Front street jewellery store Saturday afternoon.

Both men were said to be about 40 years of age and six feet tall. One of the men kept the store clerk busy showing him some jewellery while the other secreted the clock radio under the topcoat he was wearing.

In another instance of shoplifting a mixmaster disappeared from the counter of Smith's Hardware.

A South Foster Ave. resident found that someone had damaged his 14-foot skiff by using it for target practice. Nine holes from either a .22 rifle or a high-powered B.B. rifle were found in the skiff.

All through the long night a battery of phones behind the improvised studio set up in city hall council chambers was kept busy receiving requests and pledges, while a motorized battalion of Rotarians was constantly on the move, picking up the lucky, or luckless, artist named, and the pledges.

The $944 was responsible for some unique entertainment. Volunteers to the station heard an aldermán (Ross David) sing an Irish song, a gripping rendition of "The Face on the Barroom Floor" by Rotarian Art Francis and some flourishing violin solos by Barney Taylor.

However, most dominant performer of the evening was city police inspector Clair Hayes, whose deep basso betrayed an acquaintance with the bars of the music scale almost as profound as that with the bars of his city cell block.

County Roads Prove Attractive To Motorists

Country roads proved a greater attraction for district motorists over the week-end than did the main highways as Mr. and Mrs. Public took advantage of an exceptionally fine Sunday afternoon to enjoy nature.

The Belleville branch of the city resounded to the shouts of flower hunting youngsters who returned to cars, arms laden with trilliums, snapdragons, violets and other early flowers.

Tucker's Woods, on the Belleville-Wallbridge road, was well populated during the afternoon as were other hardwoods in the district.

With motorists out pleasure driving not a serious accident was reported in the Quinte district. No speeding was reported by the provincial police, while city police reported two minor mishaps. One in the railroad yards and a second collision occurring early Sunday morning. John Hendis, 144 Church Street, was westbound along Dundas St., when, as he attempted to make a left hand turn onto Sidney Street his car was struck from behind by another vehicle driven by Don Quick of Brighton. $200 damage resulted to the Quick auto and about $150 to the other.

Y's Men's Club Told of Hospital's Development

On Thursday the Y's Men's Club heard John Bateman of the Belleville Company, Belleville, describe the new Belleville Hospital. As chairman of the property committee, Mr. Buchan was able to trace the development of the new hospital from its beginning in 1952, when tentative plans were drawn up.

He explained that the new building would provide a modern fireproof 250 bed hospital in place of the old badly overcrowded 131 bed potential fireirap.

The $1,200,000.00 structure is being financed half by public subscriptions, one half by government grants, and will provide a much improved service to the community. Construction is well underway, Mr. Buchan says and the expected date of completion is August 1956.

The speaker was introduced by Wallace Duff and thanked by Doug. Bateman.

The club received the financial statement for the year and expressed its appreciation to Carm Lowther for the excellent work he performed as treasurer.

After the meeting adjourned members prepared the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium for the annual Y. M. C. A. father and son banquet to be held the following evening.

Four-Pound 12-Ounce Brown Trout Tops District Hauls On Opening Day

Ole Man Weather and Dame Nature came up with a 100 per cent assist to hundreds of trout fishermen Saturday as the 1955 season got under way.

Generally speaking the trout were fairly cooperative in this district with adverse reports coming from some areas.

The prize beauty fell to the lure of Larry Biron, 257 Station Street, who hooked a four pound seven trout which tipped the scale at four pounds twelve and one-half ounces. Larry was fishing with Jerry Clement and Charles Ness of this city, all railroad "buddies". The trio used worms exclusively. They added eight fine ten-inch speckles to the bag before calling it a day.

"They'll do it every time" mumbled Clement and Ness. "Here we have been going back there for years ... opening day and this year we took Larry just for the ride. It was the first time he fished in the water. They'll catch caught their fish "somewhere north of Madoc."

Alderman Claude Tice and party of four tried Deer Lake and came out with four small lake trout and 10 speckles. Jack Fleming and party of four had 22 speckles in a stream near Weslemkoon while the Wanamaker party of four had the dubious count of "lakers" fishing in Little Salmon Lake.

It was different, however with Fred Croft, senior and Magistrate T. V. Wills. These veterans of the rod and reel had to be satisfied with two speckles for two days' fishing. They fished on Trout Lake where they said the angling was anything but exciting. Several boats were in evidence and none got hauls to speak of. Messrs. Croft and Bateman said he and his party came home with seven speckles each, also from an unquoted source.

A Canadian Press survey showed trout generally speaking plentiful and a host of men, boys and women hopefully dangled lines throughout the province.

First known catch went to 14-year-old Roger Saunders of Guelph who landed an eight inch trout one minute after midnight.

Shoco Mori of Toronto battled for half an hour to land a 30-inch, 8 1/2-pound rainbow in the Pine river 15 miles southeast of Barrie.

Plump rainbows, speckled, German browns and Kamloops were in season until May 15. The bag limit on speckled trout is 15 fish: one of any weight, and 14 others, not exceeding 10 pounds total. Bag limit on browns, rainbows and Kamloops is five a day, more than seven inches.

NEAR THORNBURY

A 5 1/4-pound rainbow was caught by Jack Armstrong near Thornbury.

Charles Beatty of Grafton took his quota of 15 speckleds, all around half a pound, from the Grafton Creek near Cobourg. Dennis Usher and Walter Frohlick of Beaverton caught 11 large speckleds from a stream near Oakwood.

In the Hamilton area one observer counted more fishing lines than fish. Cars were parked bumper-to-bumper for miles.

Fishing was reported excellent in the North Bay area. Many fishermen headed up the Ontario Northland Railway line north from North Bay.

Clarence Antle of Toronto caught the biggest speckled trout — 19 inches — in a Georgian bay area creek Saturday afternoon. He caught the fish at Eugenia Sunday morning.

IN MEMORIAM

GAY. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Elizabeth Gay, who passed away May 1st, 1954.
You can only have one mother,
Fullest, kind and true,
No other friend in all the world
Is half so true to you.
Sweet memories linger round her
She asked nothing in return,
If all the world deserts you
To your mother you can turn.
For all I can do for mother
Is to go and tend your grave,
And leave behind a token of love
For the best mother God ever gave.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter Evelyn, son-in-law Harold and grandchildren.

HILL — In loving memory of my dear mother, Effie Hill, who passed away May 1st, 1954.

Sadly missed by her daughter Cherish her with an endless love
For you'll never know her value
Until you've lost her, sweet mother.

Salesman Climbs TV Tower For Bet of $5

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thousands of southern Manitoba television viewers missed part of their favorite Saturday night program as the CBC's station CBWT went off the air for 45 minutes while a daredevil soft drink salesman was coaxed off the top of the station's 242 - foot television broadcasting tower in downtown Winnipeg.

Norman Fennell of suburban Fort Garry, about 35, climbed the tower on a $5 bet he said he made earlier in a bootlegger's. But once he reached the top of the spire antenna he froze with fear and refused to come down.

Finally 25-year-old George Smith of St. Paul, Minn., a former steeplejack in town for the weekend, scaled the tower and talked Fennell into leaving his lofty perch.

Police immediately took Fennell into custody. He was due to appear in police court today.

May Remove Boulevard On Dundas Street

Removal of the boulevard on the north side of Dundas street from Pinnacle to Church street is being considered by the city traffic committee, the work being recommended by police as a traffic measure.

Police Inspector J. C. Hayes noted that with the heavy traffic passing along Dundas street the sidewalk is too narrow and removal of the boulevard was suggested as a safety measure.

Cost of removing the boulevard will be in the neighborhood of $2,000 according to a report by City Engineer Charles Mott. No action was taken on the matter, it being referred to the next committee meeting.

The committee dealt with several requests regarding parking, it being recommended that three parking meters be placed in front of the Canadian Hotel.

No action was taken with respect to a request for parking on the south side of Bridge street, west.

New Bancroft Uranium Strike Reported by District Farmers

A new uranium strike in the York River valley near Bancroft has roused fresh enthusiasm for Hastings County's uranium possibilities.

The strike, made less than two weeks ago, was revealed today for the first time.

A second strike by Goldhawk Porcupine mines on property adjacent Faraday - Uranium Mines was rumored this morning to be the cause of a sharp increase in the stock's value just prior to Friday afternoon's closing of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Harry Quirk and Jesse Carr, of Bird's Creek, made the strike in the York River valley. Ore samples taken from the site are grossly stained with the light canary-yellow stainings typical of uranium.

Geiger counter readings of the radio-activity in the ore samples, described as "most encouraging", have started another uranium staking rush in North Hastings with some 40 claims already registered.

TYPICAL MIXTURE

Veteran mining men have described ore samples taken from the new strike as "a typical mixture of thorium and uranium of about the same order as Faraday Uranium Mines ore."

It is understood that large mining interests already have shown considerable interest in the property with one company official consulting on surveying whether to properly file work.

James Quirk, father of Harry Quirk, and a prospector of long standing in north Hastings, and Ron Wilkins, of Bird's Creek, are busy staking claims in the area.

Vern MacKinney, of Gilmour, is also understood to have staked claims in the immediate area and is reported to have made new finds on his claim.

Bruce Robson, Belleville geologist, who is believed to be handling the deals on the new find, looked over showings last Monday and reported that the dikes found are of good mining widths and show good radio-activity on geiger counter.

ASSAYS BRING DONE

He reported that on first appearance the dikes seemed to be very similar to dikes around Faraday and Centre Lake uranium properties.

Samples are being assayed at present to determine the proportion of thorium and uranium in the ore. Chemical analysis of the ore is the clue to the significance of the strike.

If assay results prove favorable claim holders will be in select large companies in development work on the property.

The new strike is the second in two months for Harry Quirk and Jesse Carr. Last February uranium was discovered on their farm in the third and fourth concessions of Monteagle township and options on the property were taken by Toronto mining interests calling for four cash payments of increasing amounts extending over the next 18 months, plus substantial quantities of stock.

Final payments on their options, said to extend to June, 1956, are rumored to be $10,000 each.

Canso Strait Ferry Burned

PORT HAWKESBURY, N. S. (CP)—A pre-dawn fire destroyed one of the two Canso strait car ferries early today and the Nova Scotia government-owned steamer was on the mainland causeway three months ahead of schedule, to clear ice conditions, officials said.

A hooting tangle of automobiles, produce trucks and other commercial traffic multiplied hourly both at the mainland terminal of Mulgrave and this port on Cape Breton Island where the $300,000 ferry John Cabot was burned at her pier in a service normally not due for time menaced a nest of fuel-oil tanks 150 feet away.

Highways department officials at Halifax said no decision had yet been reached on whether to divert the hundreds of stalled cars over the 14-mile-long causeway which is not scheduled to be formally opened until Aug. 13.

No one was aboard the Cabot when the fire broke out. She had been returned to the water from the refit slip at nearby Point Tupper.

No one was injured. Firemen said damage to the Cabot's pier was negligible.

The three, all from Owen Sound, are Gary Steffler and James Noble, both 17, and Vincent Donald Flood, 18.

Police said W. J. Kennedy of Kincardine, was returning home from a train ride to Owen Sound when he was attacked and his car was stolen.

Annie Tickell Dies at Home In 93rd Year

A link with the early history of Belleville was severed early this Monday morning when Miss Hannah Louisa (Annie) Tickell, died at her home, 254 Church Street, following a lengthy illness. She had lived in the same house for 85 years.

Despite her advanced age, she retained a keen mind until about a week ago. The late Miss Tickell enjoyed conversing with old friends about the early history of the city and her knowledge of early events and people in the community was notable.

She was born in Belleville, 92 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George S. Tickell and resided in this city all of her life, where she was well known and highly respected among a wide circle of friends. Miss Tickell was educated in the public and high schools of this city, later graduating from Whitby Ladies' College. She also took a course and graduated from the Ontario Business College and for many years was bookkeeper for Tickell and Sons, furniture manufacturers, retailers of furniture and undertakers.

In the life of Bridge Street United church she was best known. The late Miss Tickell was a lifelong member of the congregation and her keenest interest was in the work of the Sunday School. She was the superintendent of the Home department of the school for many years, dividing her work with the Sunday School library. When health permitted she was a regular attendant at the services at her church and her time was never so occupied that she was unable to take part in any project upon which the church set forth.

The late Miss Tickell was of a friendly nature, made many friends and her death will be sincerely regretted.

Surviving are one niece, Miss Josephine Tickell, who has lived with her aunt for many years, one nephew, Frederick G. Tickell of Palo Alto, California, and Miss Tickell was the last of her family and was predeceased by one sister and four brothers.

SALVATION ARMY WORKS WITH COURTS

The Salvation Army's annual Red Shield appeal is now under way and residents of Belleville and district are being asked to provide $34,000 to make it possible for the Army to carry on its work during the coming year.

Very few people need to be persuaded that the Salvation Army's work is worthy of support and is almost indispensable to the welfare of the community.

Veterans of two wars have warm memories of the assistance which they received from the "Sally Ann" when in uniform. The poor, who are always with us, know that charity is not cold when it is dispensed by the men and women clad in the Salvation Army's familiar uniform. Welfare workers have an intimate knowledge of the many ramifications of the Army's work, one notable phase of which is providing unmarried mothers with the loving care in which they are in such need immediately before and after childbirth.

The newspaper reporter who has had a "police beat" most frequently thinks of the Salvation Army in connection with another phase of its work, helping those who have run afoul of the law. Not all of the men and women who break the law are criminals at heart and the Salvation Army is one of our most effective institutions for hitting the gold trail and restoring to useful citizenship those who can be salvaged.

Even those with first-hand knowledge of this work may not be aware that there was a time when Salvation Army members had an intimate knowledge of prison conditions by virtue of their experience as prisoners. In England and elsewhere violent exception was taken to the Salvation Army's methods in the early years of that organization's history and many of General William Booth's followers were given prison sentences or heavily fined for preaching in the streets.

"The law will refuse them, instead of sending my officers to prison, magistrates will turn to them for advice and help," cried General Booth, founder of the Army. No truer prediction could have been made. In the seventy years since that prophecy the Salvation Army has given many officers special training, to equip them to assist in solving many of the problems which confront police court officials. Sometimes an offender can be released in the custody of the Salvation Army officer. Even when the court finds it necessary to sentence the offender to prison, the Salvation Army often plays a vital role. Inside the prison walls it endeavors to influence the prisoner so that he will emerge with a desire to make a new start, to become a useful citizen instead of being bitter, resentful and harboring a desire for revenge against society. Outside the walls, the Salvation Army tends to the needs of the prisoner's family. After the prisoner is released, the Salvation Army works to restore the family ties, often strained by the prisoner's crime. No wonder this international movement has become known as "the prisoner's friend."

MENTAL HEALTH WEEK

When Dr. Salk developed a vaccine which would safeguard children against polio a whole continent cheered.

What percentage of patient-days in hospitals are required to treat polio victims? Get ready to string a long line of figures on a statistical point.

Everybody dreads cancer. But the fear of this disease would increase a hundred-fold if half the patients in our hospitals were suffering from cancer.

Yet half the patients treated in Canadian hospitals last year were sufferers from a type of ailment which most of us disregard. They were mentally ill.

The Canadian Mental Health Association says that in 1954 nearly 63,000 Canadians were treated in mental hospitals alone and there were another 12,000 men, women and children who received treatment outside of hospitals.

Surgeons of the future may be able to put pledges of the real magnitude of this problem, for it is a generally recognized fact that many people who need the assistance of a psychiatrist never seek such aid.

To stress the need for increased research to find more effective methods of treating and preventing mental illness; to increase the importance of establishing more mental health clinics to help those with minor mental illnesses before their condition becomes serious; to stimulate the training of more persons equipped to care for the mentally ill; for all these reasons and more the Canadian Mental Health Association is this week sponsoring Mental Health Week throughout Canada.

Much has already been accomplished. Today the public knows that the person suffering from a mental illness can often be cured. But to improve the present reasons for a hopeful attitude it is imperative that past gains should be consolidated, not only by provision of the facilities suggested by past research but by continued research with respect to treatment of those already suffering from mental illness and by discovering methods of preventing such illnesses.

An overdose of sleeping pills seems to be an occupational hazard for movie actresses. If they have so much trouble getting to sleep, it might be a good idea to show them some of their own pictures.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BEST OF ALL

Sir William Mulock, at one time the Chief Justice of Ontario, was given a party on his 95th birthday. He gave a wonderfully inspiring talk but the comment one would well be concentrated into these few words: "The best of all is friends." The great Justice lived to round out the century!

Imagine yourself without a single friend. You would hardly know what to do, where to go or how to live out your life—if you could! Friends are as essential as the air we breathe for without them the mind would grow cold and the heart would lose its resilience. We need friends and we need to be a friend. It's a give and take affair.

I believe it can be proved to be a fact that the one with friends is not only the richest of creatures but the most successful. Widely travelled reporters have told me most interesting stories about the late Bob Davis, who seemed to know almost every place in this world—where travelers were wont to have been. But the glamorous Africa was the trail of friends left behind and the memories awakened whenever his name was mentioned.

Yes, "the best of all is friends." Better than fame or the thrill of applause, better than vast properties—better than gold!

We can very well know a person after having met and learned about that one's friends. We are drawn largely our other selves. Like a chain of friends, one beside we have branches of ourselves in the friend we have made.

Under the glass of my office desk are these words: "When we leave Hawaii we die a little!" Having once visited those beautiful islands I can grasp the significance attached to those words. It's the same with our friends. When one is lost to us we die a little. But when we meet one unseen for many years, or contact a new one, we live anew!

Your Life Clock

(International Science Press Service)

Fiddler crabs change colour with the changing tides. Their demand for oxygen changes with-in a 24-hour and a 15-day period. Those rhythmic patterns persist even when the crabs are kept in captivity in constant darkness. Why?

Fruit flies normally emerge from the pupa about 10 days old. When raised from an egg in darkness, they do not emerge at a specific time in the pupal stage. But, if larvae are exposed to a single flash of light, days later it about that same time they will emerge from their pupas. Why?

The grunion, a small fish, that is found along the California coast, comes swarming onto the beaches at high tide and permits itself to be stranded on the sand where eggs are deposited and fertilized between succeeding waves. Why?

Why do the sheep of Australia and temperate South America mate during what is for their anestrous and equine on the northern hemisphere the summery non-breeding season?

Why do women have a four-week periodicity? Why do identical twins, fraternal twins, or often die at the same age?

Broadly, say some scientists, there is one answer to all these questions: Living organisms behave built into it a "clock" that governs behavior that is, or has been, important for life. Among other words, life processes in all creatures seem to follow a definite rhythm. The movement of the sun, age-old rhythm of motion in the universe. Tides rise and fall as the moon seem to be particularly important as the regulators of the biological "clock" of man and animals.

Life clocks that are attuned in the case of the fruit flies, are sun clocks. Other species, but set by the year, are those of the ewes whose time of rut appears to be dependent on the ratio between hours of sunlight and darkness. Shortening hours of daylight bring on the urge to mate.

Dr. Johnson Poor Guide

(Hamilton Spectator)

There is no legal definition of obscenity which is applied to indecent publications; often when cases in which it is an issue are tried there are no "tests of art" and "truth" to counter the charge. Learned judges in Canada and England usually apply a test laid down by Chief Justice Cockburn in the case Regina v. Hicklin to decide whether matter charged as obscene should be printed. A grave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influences and into whose hands a publication of the kind which is charged as obscene may fall.

The other day, magistrates in an English city found themselves faced with the task of deciding whether or not a set of photographs were obscene or not. The magistrates, it appears, had had no legal definition of obscenity they would turn to Doctor Samuel Johnson's dictionary of the English language for assistance.

Johnson defines obscene as: "Offensive to chastity or modesty; filthy of mind, causing lewd ideas." With this the magistrates were content to rest their decision upon the photographs.

Johnson would be but anyone, least of all magistrates, should turn to Dr. Johnson's dictionary for definitions of contemporary terms. Words change their definitions, lively though most of them are, are subject to violent political opinion and personal prejudices. According to Johnson, a pensioner is "a slave of state, hired by a stipend to obey a master's will." A tory is "a friend to the horse"; and a net, "anything reticulated or decussated at equal distances, with intersticies between the intersections." There are seven meanings given to "humorist" inaccuracy. "This "greatest of Englishmen" would hardly be claimed an authority, least of all in a legal dispute.

Britain Gives Help to Cupid

(St. Catharines Standard)

It is too late for this year but next year Canada might take a leaf from Britain if it would increase the number of marriages. From across the pond comes word that Britain is going to give Cupid a big boost through the simple expedient of increasing the tax exemption for married men.

The results were far from what was expected in staid Britain. There was a tremendous response, with couples queued up at registry offices throughout the isles.

It is possible that all had not been blissful in the pre-exemption marriage, but the numbers who took advantage of the increase keep this in mind.

Stamp to Honor Col. Green?

(Montreal Gazette)

The United States is to issue a stamp in honor of stamps, or at least, in honor of stamp collecting. And from across the Atlantic a suggestion for a design comes from the Manchester Guardian. The stamp, the Manchester Guardian recommends, should bear a portrait of Col. E. H. R. Green.

Who was Col. Green? He was the son of the celebrated Hetty Green, the terrifying miser of Wall street, who though a millionairess in her own right, would snatch at pennies.

"To Col. Green, Hetty's fortune was given. At first he did not know what to do with it. Then one day he decided to take up stamp collecting. And he did it on a magnificent scale.

His house was filled with a large staff engaged in buying, selling and cataloguing his specimens. He once spent $20,000 on a magnificent Inverted Jenny, a specimen that he might enjoy his collection. When he died, the stamps were sold for $3 millions.

It would seem that Col. Green has a rather substantial claim to appear on the special stamp "to philately" which is to be issued. It may not have been the greatest of stamp collections in every respect, he was probably the greatest collector.

The stamp collector who rails at the high prices charged by dealers his find through a vest-pocket magnifier may be a far cry from Col. Green, but his problems are constants and his four-foot glass, Yet there is a small bond between under the skin. Col. Green was only the stamp collector magnified.

granted by the government to married men showed beyond dispute that the idea had been genuinely successful.

Just what may be the result next year is a matter for some thought. Perhaps in the heat of an argument in some future day one of Britain's married men may friend hubby with taking her for a price—the latter's freedom.

And there may be the wife who comes to believe that her husband married only for the exemption, in other words for the money.

The grooms—they probably feel that they received a bargain, a big gift from the government, both at once.

But humor aside, the exemption increase worked. In Canada, it is suggested, the exemption for married men might be increased from $2,000 to $2,500 or even $3,000. Here our standard of living is such that it would likely take the $3,000 exemption to really give rush to the altar.

Jawbone Wastes Away

hokum bunkem.

In the preceding piece about pyorrhea I quoted Louis T. Grossman, D.D.S., D.M.D., a recognized authority, who said:

Pyorrhea alveolaris denotes inflammations which arise primarily from a functional atrophy of the alveolar process.

Atrophy of the alveolar process means the part of the jawbone consisting the tooth socket wastes away.

The jawbone withers, shrinks in size, becomes weaker and lighter in weight.

It does not change the skeleton, the frame, the stature of a person as age advances.

So do the bones of a youth or a vigorous adult who is confined to bed or chair for many months, or who for any reason doesn't get enough general exercise, such as a daily walk of from a hundred yards to several miles.

It is the way of all—bones.

We erudite anthropologists call it physiologic emaciation.

An important contributing cause of premature jaw bone atrophy is failure to give the jaws a reasonable amount of exercise every day—masticating food.

What do we feed our young growing pups and kittens?

An equally important contributing cause of pyorrhea is malnutrition — nutritional deficiency through the years from early childhood up to and including this morning's dish of yummy-yummies.

I haven't said a word about calcium so far. But I intend to tell in a little while what calcium has to do with pyorrhea, but the next couple of articles should and will tell more about pep and pep.

STOP EVIL AT ITS SOURCE

Jesus maintained that the place to stop evil is at its source. Killing, he says, has its origin in anger which runs into murderous hate, and adultery has its conception in evil thoughts and glances. Untruthfulness stems from a tendency to exaggerate and at last to play fast and lose with facts. Our Lord declared that the old doctrine of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is alien to the Kingdom regime to be replaced by the policy of overcoming evil with good. Last of all, the true Christian does not hate his enemy while he loves his neighbor, but loves them both, so that he may be a son of that Father in heaven who "maketh his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust."

The old statement "too late with too little" has described ruin often in the field of military. We make a great mistake in waiting to go after evil in our hearts and in the world at large after it has grown to prodigious proportions. The time to stop evil is before it gets started. The great aim of medicine is to prevent disease rather than cure it.

Nostrums suggest cure; sound religion urges prevention. Stop evil while it is still in the mind. It may be too late when it becomes an overt act.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Then Do It Yourself craze may have passed its peak. On our present staff we have members of the It Yourself Club. I was delighted the other night to see an expert on the subject, Mr. Ross A. Coffee, at Table Yourself, and he got into such a tangle he finally hit himself on the forehead with the hammer and admitted a word that is definitely unprintable. Only within recent weeks, I have been presented with more Do It Yourself objects of art than in the entire preceding year. Over the back fence I got a magnificent bird house, one of my neighbors, made of plywood and painted a delightful, if slightly fuzzy, blue and green, and night or two later, another old friend called by in his station wagon and presented me with a wall bracket for hanging on the house wall to hold spare parts or other small bottled goods. He could only stay a few minutes, and when he came out front with him to say goodbye, I noticed that on the rear bumper of his car was a complete collection of his previous gifts. We went to show how I made devices of every sort, from bedside tables to ash tray stands in the shape of bellhops with their hats cap and all. I gathered from my friend that he had been given the rounds of all his friends, bearing gifts. He wanted to know if I needed to buy any tools to take to the summer cottage this season?

Our Don't Do It Yourself Club started, several years ago, with just us men in our block, but by several stages it grew to include the afternoon tea and discussed the problem that has developed. One wife complained that her husband had undertaken to apply a plastic tile surface to the floor of the entire old linoleum that had got sort of worn. It was a disaster. Not only did the tiles not stick, some of them stuck wrong, as far as figuring the tiles was concerned, so everybody had a sticky feet for weeks, and tracked goo all over the house. Another wife complained that her hubby had a door in her house that either closes or opens properly anymore. He isn't a door in her house that either closes or opens properly anymore. He isn't a door in her house that either closes or opens properly anymore. He isn't Farmers Reap Rich Harvest Catering to Oil Field Crews

By DAVID OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DRAYTON VALLEY, Alta. (CP) Flat broke, Henry T. Deby headed for Drayton Valley 20 years ago during the depression.

He's still a little amazed by it all, but now he's in the thick of the business boom that has swept a quiet agricultural community into the maelstrom that is as oil town with a promise of becoming the most important in North America.

Henry T. Deby still operates his little farm that now is part of the Pembina oil field. His more lucrative vocation is running a trailer camp that provides sleeping facilities for some of the thousands of persons who have flocked to the area.

BIG CHANGES

With about 40 other settlers, Mr. and Mrs. Deby left the Edmonton district to homestead on the Pembina river. They stayed there for more than 10 years and after the war moved 30 miles to Drayton Valley to a new farm.

For years the farmers in this marginal farming country 80 miles southwest of Edmonton earned their living by growing oats and barley, raising cattle and hogs and selling dairy products to the city folk in Edmonton. In the winter, they worked in logging camps and lumber mills.

The discovery of oil in the Pembina field and the resulting boom transformed the economy of the area. It came just in time. The farmers' incomes had been getting smaller and smaller each year as more and more trees suitable for lumber were cut. Oil was their new source of income.

NEW MARKETS

Deby says:

"Many of the settlers have gone to work for the oil companies. Others supplemented their income with oil-company payments for well location surface rights. No one owned any mineral rights so there was no income from this source."

By far the most important source of income for these farmers now is the market created for farm produce and livestock by the influx of workers in the oil field and industries inspired by oil development.

A few of the settlers, like Deby, have gone into business in Drayton Valley. Operation of trailer camps and tourist cabins is big business now in booming Drayton Valley.

They look forward to the day when Drayton Valley will have developed into a model town. They envisage modern schools, a hospital, spacious playground facilities for the children — a town where they want to continue living and to grow with it.

Weddings

NOYES—BONTER

Lovely spring flowers and ferns formed an attractive background in Holloway Street - United church, on Saturday, April 30, for a pretty evening wedding, when Lenora Moreen Bonter, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonter, became the bride of William Edward Noyes. Carrying Place, R.R. 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bray Noyes. The Rev. Sidney E. Larman, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. Clifford Templer, church organist, provided the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Harold Bonter, wore a charming bridal gown of white Chantilly lace, net, and nylon tulle. The molded bodice of Chantilly lace was accented by a jacket lined with nylon tulle, and having long sheath-like sleeves pointed over the wrists. The full-length skirt featured a peplum of Chantilly lace over tiers of nylon tulle. She wore a beaded coronet with imported French veil, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Wallace Doxtator, Miss Betty McFarlane, and Miss Dorothy Bonter, all of Belleville, the attendants, were gowned alike in turquoise taffeta with fitted bodices and scalloped peplums decorated with sequins. They wore matching stoles, gloves, and feather headdresses, and carried nosegays of yellow daffodils, white pom 'mums and peach-colored Picardy gladioli florets.

Mr. Wallace Doxtator, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Gerald McGee, and Mr. Ronald Terwilliger.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's mother, wearing a light grey gabardine suit, with pink accessories, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother (Miss Noyes) who was attired in a suit of navy gabardine, with red accessories.

The bride chose a navy two-piece ensemble in red bengaline, with navy duster coat, grey hat, shoes and purse, with corsage of white carnations for travelling to Utica, Buffalo, and Niagara Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Noyes are residing at R.R. 8, Belleville.

Guests were present from Montreal, Stirling, Havelock, Peterborough, Wooler, Trenton, Niagara Falls, Ontario and Portsmouth, Nova Scotia.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was feted with a shower given in her honor by Misses Beryl McFarlane and Mrs. Wallace Doxtator.

Collegiate Glee Club Presents Fine Program

(BY EUGENE LANG)

Friday evening the Glee Club of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School presented its first production of "Music on Parade" before a sizeable audience on hand to witness the musical talent that is contained within that institution of learning that we all know as B.C.I.

Under the very capable direction of Clifford Templer, musical supervisor of the Collegiate, a program of varied musical fare was performed by the young artists, both solo and ensemble, in the course of a two and a half hour presentation. All those taking part were members of the student body of B.C.I., ranging in age from approximately fifteen to nineteen years of age. From these teenagers emanated a series of musical numbers that clearly demonstrated the many hours of arduous practice that had unstintingly been devoted by them during the past months, at noon hours and in after-four sessions, under the careful guidance and tutelage of Mr. Templer. There was no lack of ability on the part of any who participated in the choral and solo selections, and since the entire program was given by an amateur group (but not smacking of amateurish presentation), it is the true intention of this writer to dissect each performance individually for the sake of any imperfections or flaws that might have crept in. If this is now called upon, it is only for the sake of constructive (and not destructive) criticism.

GLEE CLUB SINGS

The Glee Club as a body, consisting of thirty-five well trained voices, opened the "Parade" with a group of five varied offerings ranging from the contemporary "Old Man is an Island" to the sixteenth century phrases of "We Three Thee" ("Aforemus Te") of Palestrina. Vocal diction was clear and the curving of musical line was modelled under Templer's leaving a highway of well managed harmony. Alternating between tutti and solo numbers the students did a superlative job on each selection. Mention must also be made of the colorful contrasting lighting effects and artful stage decorations that added so greatly to the overall effect.

"Music on Parade" in its first presentation was a decided success and it is to be hoped that this is just the first in a long line of future shows of the like that the students of B.C.I. will produce in future years. A fitting reward for the many hours of work preparing for this production by all who took part in it was provided by the applause of the audience as the final curtain came down. Mr. Templer and cast are to be congratulated for their efforts. Mr. Linton Reid acted as master of ceremonies for the evening's entertainment.

PIANO SOLOS

Two piano solos were given by the Misses Adrienne Campbell and Cara Sutton, each a pianist artisting to her individual prowess as a pianist. Miss Campbell played a very commendable performance of "The Torch Dance" by Konrad Germer, and his "Henry VIII" Suite. The difficult Greenfield transcription of the waltz from "Der Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss gave Miss Sutton ample opportunity to display her remarkable keyboard artistry that never fails to please.

STRING ENSEMBLE PLAYS

Douglas Eastman put forth with a saxophone solo ("Value Vanity") and a new four-string ensemble of about a dozen students played two numbers ("Minuet" of Handel and "Waltz Waltz"). The string group, organized by Mr. Templer to show great promise in future performances. To also be the safe side both the instrumentalist and string group should have tuned up right on stage (no disgrace at all to do so) instead of having done so previously before making their respective appearances. However, well done all.

Carl Hendricks was most charming in her classic ballet routine, danced gracefully to the familiar "Waltz of the Flowers" of Tschaikowsky, and proved her ability for the second time in her soft shoe dance. A duet for piano and organ was ably projected by Peter Smith at the piano with Mr. Templer at the organ. As accompanists to the various other artists, Messrs. Smith and Templer were remarkably sensitive in their stylings, shadowing the featured performers with taste and skill.

Space forbids evaluating the Girls' Choral Ensemble and the Choristers in their numerous offerings, but suffice it to say both ensembles were excellent. The eight part Madrigal that the Choristers sang was carefully woven together with intricate smoothness. The girls were especially very adroit in their robust rendition of the rhythmic pitfalls of "Old MacDonald's Farm."

CHORALETERS A HIGHLIGHT

If any highlight in the ensemble work stood out above any other it was the combined efforts that were realized by the Choristers in their salty appraisals of the medley of sea songs that fused into the entire Club's singing of seven old Gilbert and Sullivan favorites. Alternating between tutti and solo numbers the students did a superlative job on each selection. Mention must also be made of the colorful contrasting lighting effects and artful stage decorations that added so greatly to the overall effect.

"Music on Parade" in its first presentation was a decided success and it is to be hoped that this is just the first in a long line of future shows of the like that the Flower Talk Enjoyed At Holy Rosary P.T.

On Monday evening, the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of Sacred Heart School, Bataan, was held. The president, Mr. M. Valka, called the meeting to order. Father Gaborik gave the invocation. The treasurer reported on the favorable returns from the social evening held recently and a special vote of thanks was tendered to all those who had helped to make it possible.

The program opened with a piano selection by Michael Shonikey, which was followed by two selections on the accordion by Darko Medved. Rianne Rippen told the story of the Indian chief Pontiac, after whom the Pontiac car is named. Peter Minarik related the story of the beginning and growth of the city of Kingston.

The guest speaker of the evening, Mr. William Jardine of Flower Lane, Belleville, was introduced by Mr. Farrel O'Neill. Mr. Jardine gave a most interesting and instructive demonstration of different arrangements of flowers. He proved it is not what flowers are but how effectively they are displayed that brings results.

Mr. O. Dalcar expressed the appreciation and gratitude of the audience who had so thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Jardine's talk and work.

Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed by all.

'Role of Woman in Modern World' Theme of Talk at University W.C.

The University Women's club of Belleville and district, met at the home of Mrs. Robert Pringle, Trent Road, on Thursday evening.

Mrs. D. MacKinnon, the president, called upon Miss Muriel Gibson for the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mrs. MacArthur outlined several resolutions put by the federation which were recommended to be presented at the triennial conference in Edmonton, during August.

The "Spring Fair", featuring the exhibit of pictures by Manly Macdonald at the Kiwanis Centre, in May, was discussed in detail and the conveners appointed. It was decided to have the paintings arranged downstairs, the tea and cake sale upstairs, as last year.

FASHION SHOW

An innovation of the tea room will be a fashion show with several members modelling some exclusive numbers from Carson Elliott's.

The picture by Manly Macdonald, to be raffled, will be displayed in the window of Carson Elliott and Leslie's Shoe Store, respectively. Tickets are on sale and may be bought from any of the members.

Miss Mary Doyle introduced Dr. Edith Peterkin, a popular local speaker who is well-known in this community. Dr. Peterkin graduated from the Universities of Manitoba and Pennsylvania and interned at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

Dr. Peterkin spoke on "The Role of Woman in the Modern World."

Throughout history, women have been quite prominent, to mention a few, such as Madame Currie, Joan of Arc, and Edith Cavell. Women too, have inspired poets, and artists, such as Andrea del Sarto, and Michael angelo, who strived to portray the virtues of woman. Shakespeare asked the matching question, "Who is it that can understand a woman?"

HOME LOSES STABILITY

To trace the evolution of woman's place in the world today, one must go back to the time before the Industrial Revolution. There was no competition with man, women did the homely tasks and gained deep emotional satisfaction from them. Then with the industrial upheaval, women, and even children were sent to factories, and the home lost its stability. Women became restless, and were not lost their household skills and recreation was no longer centred in the home.

The feminist movement was launched, demanding equality and liberation for women. They insisted upon the same opportunities as men and even tried to imitate them. As the home was no longer the focal point, recreation centres and hobbies outside the home were developed.

She continued in this aggressive and undignified trend in women, history reveals the dedicated lives of Florence Nightingale, and Elizabeth Fry, who elevated womanhood. Their humility and unselfishness, and service to others have been an inspiration to countless women ever since.

Wife Preservers

When you prepare fruits for canning, add ½ of a teaspoon of powdered vitamin C to the sugar, and the fruits will not turn brown.

"After the First World War, the suffragettes demanded the right to vote, which was another competitive movement.

Women have achieved much in the intellectual, political and economical spheres as the modern women have more time for pursuits outside the home. There are women of great achievement in every profession. In short they have reached the ultimate in their endeavors: they have been conceded equality with man and enjoy a freedom hitherto unknown. But all this does not fulfill women's supreme need—the security and guardianship of the home and family life. That is the role of service to others with humility, and sympathy and through it, the integrity of the home is perpetuated. In the Christian concept, the role of woman is eternal.

Mrs. MacKinnon expressed the wholehearted appreciation of the group in thanking Dr. Peterkin for her splendid address.

Refreshments were served and the social hour was enjoyed by the large turnout, not only from Belleville but Trenton, Stirling, and Wellington.

The annual "Spring Fair" will be the most important event at the Kiwanis Centre in May.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A YOUNG MAN WITH A DOMINATING MOTHER-IN-LAW

The minute I read the first sentence of the young man's letter, I knew there was trouble ahead. For this is the way he began:

"We live with my wife's parents, and have lived with them since our marriage a year ago."

From there on out, it was a safe bet that whatever the particular kind of trouble, the mother-in-law was at the bottom of it. For so far as I can recall, I have never yet received a letter from either wife or husband of a couple living with his or her in-laws" that told of anything but disagreement.

The details of the young man's letter are these:

"Somehow I feel that my mother-in-law considers her daughter as having married beneath her social position, especially since my job does not pay much and I am in the draft age can't get much in the way of raises. I can expect to go in the service before too long, and that is why I have not yet gone out and bought our own home.

"Things weren't so bad while my wife worked. But after she became pregnant and stayed home, and now that the baby is here, there are always hidden criticisms and remarks made by my mother-in-law, insinuating that we should have waited to marry until I got out of the service, which would have been two years. Most of all, she thought we specially should have waited for the baby.

"My wife's mother continually tells both of us what to do, where to go, when to go, how to go, what is best—well, just everything. It's easy to see that she has always dominated her husband. The worst of it is that since my wife has been staying at home, she is beginning to act just like her mother.

"I would like to move into just one room, but my wife's mother would never hear of letting her daughter live like that. She must have the best—or, rather better than anyone else. Of course, I want her to have the best, too, but those things take time."

My own personal opinion on this situation is that the young husband should assert himself and, as gently as possible, but still firmly, make it perfectly clear to both wife and mother-in-law that he and his wife and child are a separate family and independent of any other. It goes without saying, of course, that it would be extremely difficult to carry out such a program if the young couple remain under the mother-in-law's roof, and consequently under her thumb. So I think the very first thing that should be done by the husband to try and get his wife to see the urgency of moving out of her mother's house and into a place of their own, however modest it might be.

When he goes into service, it would be possible to arrange for wife and baby to live near any base to which he might be sent in this country. So I would suggest that he try to get his wife interested in the idea of going with him after he is drafted. Let him tell her it can be a real opportunity to see some other part of the country from where she has always lived, to make friends with wives of other men in service, and to enjoy new experiences. If he goes at it skillfully, he may get her so that she will actually look forward to the prospect of accompanying him and be quite ready to go when the time comes. If he is sent overseas, they can then make their own plans for his absence.

In the meantime, he might suggest that, in preparation for the new life that is coming, they should move into a place of their own so that she could get used to being independent of her mother.

The way to start attacking the problem is with such constructive steps as these. However, if the mother steps in with vehement objections, and appears to be influencing her daughter against his proposals, then I believe he should put his foot down, not angrily or bitterly, but in as friendly a way as he can, simply saying that he has thought everything over carefully and come to the conclusion that he and his wife must be free to work out their own life together. Unless his wife is already so completely dominated by her mother that she has no will of her own left, she should, if she is normal, and as she thinks things over, be glad she has a husband who has real initiative and the wish to take care of his family himself.

If he were to go into service leaving his wife under her mother's domination, it will certainly be even harder, perhaps wholly impossible, to make the break when he is home for good. The time to act is now.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

LITTLE DAUGHTER LOOKS INTO THE MIRROR

To a greater extent than some mothers realize, the happiness of even a very little girl depends upon her appearance. Is ever conscious of how she looks, ever fearful that she will be dressed differently from her companions. The codes and tenets of childhood are tremendously important. Not only with little girls, but with small boys as well.

The head of a children's wear department assures your reporter that the boys are even harder to please than the girls, refusing to consider any item of the wardrobe unless the "other guys" are wearing it.

That wise mother will give heed to little daughter's wishes when selecting clothes for the youngster. It just isn't fair to make kids wear clothes that they don't like and in which they are unhappy. Any mother knows how she hates to put on a dress that is "not her" best when she wears it.

A mother should create in the child's mind a desire to be fastidiously clean and dainty and to take care of her clothes instead of stepping out of them, leaving them on the floor, as some spoiled children do.

She must direct her along the right beauty path so that she will develop into a truly well-groomed woman.

Daughter should have her own toilet articles, a simple enough array, but undeniably her own. If she uses them she will learn to be quick and practical about her grooming, which is the secret of those who always look attractive.

Even little girls can brush their hair. When washing their hands they should learn to use a nail white pencil as well. Brushing the teeth at bedtime is a "must" and the child should be taught to do it properly.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GROOM'S FAMILY CAN'T MEET DEMANDS OF BRIDE'S FAMILY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I need a helping hand like yours. Our son is to be married in June to a lovely girl. It will be a formal wedding. My husband and I are faced with such a difficult problem concerning the wedding expenses, and he is so mad about the whole thing that he threatens not to attend the wedding, and says if I go, I must go alone. I am so unhappy about my husband's decision not to attend our son's wedding. Our son does not want to be unhappy and says we have been good parents.

My husband says we are not supposed to pay for any of the wedding expenses, that we are guests of honor. However, the bride's mother insists we must pay for the dinners and beverages (champagne, and so forth) for members of our family, relatives, friends, about 38. Also that I must pay for the invitations for these 38 guests; and must also pay half of the expense for the church flowers (flowers for the altar and for the pews), bridal table flowers, flowers for the parents' table; for the soloist; for the music at the reception and dinner; for the wedding cakes (bride's and groom's) and for the boxes of wedding cake.

We just can't afford to pay for all this. The bride's family have a large income, but we have to depend on my husband's small salary. I don't know how I am going to pay these expenses the bride's mother insists on, for my husband won't give me any money toward the expenses. Don't you think I should have something to say about the dinner menu, if I have to pay for our guests? And don't you think I should have receipted bills to show I've paid these bills? The bride's mother says she will get only one bill, but will show it to me. Please help me, for I am in very unhappy about my husband's not attending our son's wedding.

What a tremendous problem you have on your hands, dear lady! The bride's family are the hosts of the wedding, they make all plans and they should, of course, pay all the expenses of the wedding. They should pay all the expenses connected with the church (flowers, music, fee to organist) and all expenses connected with the reception and dinner (food, flowers, music, champagne or other beverages, service, fees). Since you have, apparently, talked with the bride's mother about these expenses and plans, I wonder why you did not at that time make your straightforwardly to her that you just couldn't afford to pay the expenses she "demands" you pay. I wonder too why your son can't do something about explaining to his fiancee's family your financial situation, and your inability to assume the expenses which aren't at all your responsibility.

If the bride's mother won't listen to reason and absolutely refuses to back down on her demands, and if you and your husband simply cannot meet her demands, then the only thing is for you not to invite any guests whose dinners you would have to pay for, since this would be the largest item of expense. Then you could explain that you will pay for the invitations-to-the-church-ceremony for your 38 guests (this won't be very much), and don't even mention the expenses for church flowers and music. I'm hoping that if your husband doesn't have to assume the responsibility of paying for the dinners and other reception-expenses for 38 guests (which would indeed be a very considerable sum), he will be willing to make the effort to cooperate as best he can, for the sake of your son. After all, the marriage ceremony is the important element . . . and if you invite your relatives and friends to the ceremony only, not to the reception-and-dinner, I'm sure they will understand you are doing the very best you can under the difficult circumstances. As a matter of fact, if you don't invite any guests the dinner, you will probably avoid many trying and embarrassing situations.

Stream-Lined Company Dinner

By Mary Moore

A letter from Kae B. begins with a charming personal note and goes on to give a "super company dinner" that may be prepared the night before without the added help of an automatic oven. This we want to hear don't we? It is certainly on my agenda for the next dinner guests to arrive.

". . .I was wondering whether any of your readers who are, perhaps, working gals and haven't an automatic oven, would be interested in a menu I have worked out that is a super company dinner, but can be prepared the night before, and assembled in 15 or 20 minutes while husband and guests are in the living-room. I'll enclose recipe for dessert and will gladly send you the meat and salad recipe if you want them.

"Menu—Frenched Pork Tenderloin done in the oven with mushrooms and mushroom soup, minute rice, frozen mixed vegetables (carrots, peas, corn, green beans, lima beans) cooked of course, rolls. Jellied Salad (cranberry, pineapple, apple, walnuts, celery molded in cherry jello and lemon jules), and the German Cream Pie Cake (see below) and coffee."

"The meat casserole can be cooked the night before and refrigerated and ready to re-heat in oven (rolls can be heated there too). The cakes can be made then also (night before) and chocolate syrup for whipped cream and the salad to which I make in individual molds.

"While meat is heating in oven cook rice and vegetables, unmold salads on flat plate, garnish with lettuce hearts or endive; whip cream, fold in chocolate syrup and assemble cake, butter rolls, and start the coffee.

"I serve this menu buffet style as we have no dining-room. Guests serve themselves from table in breakfast nook and eat it at card tables in living-room. This way I can accommodate eight guests at the two card tables and may say the compliments almost turned my foolish old head!"

GERMAN CREAM PIE

Two level tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 1-3 cup sifted flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-3 cup milk. Bake in two layers in moderate oven.

TOPPING AND FILLING:

Whip 1 cup cream and fold in desired amount of following syrup—2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 5 tablespoons boiling water. Cook those last three ingredients over low heat until thick. Cool; add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add this when cold to whipped cream and spread between layers and cover top and sides of cakes. Decorate with chocolate shot. "This recipe was brought back from Berlin at the outbreak of World War I."

Do please send the meat and salad recipes too Kae. They are a "must" with me and I am sure you have whetted the appetites of plenty of readers. I will give it priority over everything and print them as soon as I receive them. Thanks for such sound and practical help.

The Experts Say —

Salads Can Be Exciting And Appetizing Dishes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Home economist Marjorie Dahnke has spent her life converting salads from the "limp-lettuce-leaf" stage into exciting, appetizing dishes.

Now she has written a book called "Marjorie Dahnke's Salad Book" outlining steps in successful salad making.

The consumer service director of the Kraft Foods Company says salads were used before Caesar's time although the word originated with the Romans. They used to sprinkle greens with salt.

Long before the Romans the ancient Egyptians were skilled in mixing oils, vinegar and Oriental spices, which they poured over greens. Greeks used salads as a final course—a fresh, crisp ending after sweets.

THREE RULES

Miss Dahnke's three rules for salad making are: Choose crisp, fresh and dry ingredients and don't use leftovers. Be imaginative. There are nuts, eggs, cheese, seafoods, poultry, meats and macaroni products to buttress any salad. Salds are a casual dish, they should not look worked over.

To Miss Dahnke dressing is the backbone of a salad. The two main onesare French dressing which is basically a combination of oil and vinegar or lemon juice, and mayonnaise, a rich mixture of oil and eggs.

Among Miss Dahnke's favorites are two meat-based salads, one with spinach and bacon and the other with chicken liver.

TWO SALADS

Spinach and bacon salad: 2 qts. raw spinach, 3 hard-boiled eggs chopped, 8 slices cooked bacon crumbled. Break the spinach in bite-sized pieces into a salad bowl. Sprinkle with chopped eggs and bacon, toss lightly with yogurt dressing.

Yogurt dressing: 1 cup yogurt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon finely minced chives, ½ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt. Combine the ingredients and mix until blended. Chill.

Chicken liver salad: ½ lb. chicken livers, ¼ cup margarine or butter, 1 head lettuce, 4 heads bibb lettuce, ½ bunch endive, 4 green onions sliced, ½ cup crumbled Roquefort or blue cheese, 2 hard boiled eggs chopped, salt and pepper. Saute the chicken livers in margarine or butter until browned. Chill. Drain and cut into small pieces. Tear the lettuce and endive into bite-sized pieces. Add chicken livers, onions, cheese and eggs. Season to taste and toss with caper French dressing.

Caper French dressing: To one cup of basic french dressing add 1-3 cup finely minced capers. Basic dressing is made with ¾ cup salad oil, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon each of salt and sugar, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard and dash of pepper. Shake up.

List First Female Indian Chief Among Women in Public Life

WINNIPEG (CP)—Gwen O'Soup of the Key Indian reserve at Yorkton, Sask., runs the affairs of her people as the first woman Indian chief in Canada.

Shirley Mackay of Fredericton, N.B., runs that city's weigh scales.

Four women represent Ontario ridings in the House of Commons, and three Alberta women sit in the legislature.

There are among the list of 500 women named in an unique report released today by Mrs. G. R. D. Laycock, national president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

IN MANY FIELDS

The report, compiled by the federation's survey and research committee under Elsie Gregory MacGill of Toronto, lists women currently holding, elected to, or appointed to responsible public office.

The committee is continuing its survey work with a view to making list the all-inclusive one for Canada.

It shows the number of women in public life is not impressive for a group representing 51 per cent of the population over 21 years of age, the report reveals that women are penetrating into every phase of the country's economic, political and cultural life," said Mrs Laycock.

A province-by - province breakdown shows Canadian women are holding their own. For instance, Huguette Plamondon of Montreal heads the 25,000-member Montreal Labor Council.

Margaret Jean Gee of Vancouver is British Columbia's first Chinese woman lawyer. Commander Isabel Lamont Macneill of Galt, Ont., was appointed to the staff of the chief of naval personnel.

Paulette Anevoduik of Copper-mine, N.W.T., became the first Eskimo civil servant on her recent appointment to the welfare division of the department of northern affairs.

The report showed that in B.C. last year there were a total of 74 women school trustees. Fifty of the 80 organized school districts had at least one woman trustee on the board.

Five Ontario women are mayors and eight are reeves or deputy reeves. Ontario also has a large number of women aldermen; councillors and school trustees.

There's only one woman representative in the Saskatchewan legislature. Mrs. Edythe Brown is the only mayoralty incumbent in Manitoba but this province has Mrs. Jean Whiteford of Virden as a member of a liquor inquiry commission.

Quebec has two women mayors, Charlottetown has two women trustees and St. John's, Nfld., has two council members.

Junior Farmers, Junior Institute Hold Meeting

Thurlow Junior Farmers enjoyed a talk at Canniton Orange Hall, Wednesday, on Chemical Weed control given by Mr. Ken Falils, fieldman for Ontario Department of Agriculture, Field Crops Branch, Toronto, for the counties of York on the west to Lennox and Addington on the east.

Mr. Falils stated what is intended for sowing should be examined since weeds rob the soil of two to four times the amount of food that crops use, then he explained by means of a chart the maximum weed seeds that are allowed in their survey in a pound of oats, a bushel and an acre.

SEED GRADES

Mr. Falils said, seed grades are based on freedom from weed seeds, freedom from other crop seeds, and germination, in addition to these requirements registered seed must be true to variety and carry only a minimum of disease. These additional safeguards in registered seeds are maintained by field crop inspection as well as field inspection.

The seed drill survey reports grades on the basis of freedom from weed seeds and germination. All seed better than minimum requirements for No. 1 seed reported as No. 1. All seed lower than minimum for No. 3 seed is rejected and cannot legally be sold as seed.

WEEDS

Mr. Falils named some weeds that were found in 1954 seed drill survey such as: prohibited dodder; primary, couchgrass, bladder campion mustard and daisy; secondary, wild oats, ragweed, dock, yellow rocket, wild carrot, chicory; other weed seeds, wild buckwheat, foxtail, chess, pigweed and Jamb's quarters.

Mr. Falils stated that 2-4-D is the main chemical as yet for killing these weeds, but to not depend upon it alone. Putting crops in early from ten days to two weeks with lots of cultivation helps to control the weed seeds, also a finger weeder after the grain comes up, even a light drag harrow will lower weeds from 60 to 70 per cent at this time.

An early cultivation after harvest but not too much summer fallow as it lowers the vitality of the soil. In hay fields use a tiller on plow shallow to get rid of switch grass. Do not leave hillsides open to erosion, use a cover crop such as oats or rye.

In closing Mr. Falils advised cleaning of the grain be done with a government mill, raising mills are a thing of the past. 3-4-D is great for cleaning fence lines, lanes, around the barnyard and roadsides.

Jack Vermilyea thanked Mr. Falils for his very educational talk.

Robert Boyd and Douglas Rollins were appointed delegates to the Guelph conference on May 2-and 3.

The girls' session consisted of a smocking demonstration under the guidance of two of the members Muriel Swan and Doreen Lett.

During the joint session, a discussion on the heating system and caretaking of the hall was held also considerable discussion on plans for starting a community centre at Plainfield.

The Thurlow Newsy Times was read by Gellia Joslin, while the song leader for the evening was Ruth Cole, after which refreshments were served with Muriel Swan as hostess.

CABINET MEETING

The Progressive Conservative ber, 1951, for a five-year term. It captured 79 of the 90 legislature seats then at stake. Liberals won seven, CCF two, Liberal-Labor one and Communist Labor-Progressive one.

The government now holds 78 seats, two are vacant and Liberal strength is down to six. The others are unchanged. Redistribution, effective for the next election, will raise the number of seats to 98.

Premier Frost's announcement, made near the end of his speech at the association's golden anniversary dinner, removed the spotlight from afternoon addresses by Highways Minister Allan, Hon. W. E. Hamilton, minister without portfolio in the provincial cabinet, and George Hees, president of the party's national association.

The premier recalled that in 1951 he made one promise, that the Progressive Conservative party would give good government. "I come here tonight to say that we have."

CAMPAIGN PREVIEW

Following the election announcement, greeted by cheers from about 500 delegates at the banquet, the premier launched on a campaign preview.

He asked that all persons interested in progress and prosperity join with the party and it will face the coming months "with every confidence of victory."

He said any suggestion that the Liberal and CCF parties band together is an insult to supporters of both. He suggested that Liberals who want good government join the Progressive Conservatives.

Extending another welcome to CCF members, he said "in the CCF there are those who are interested in the same things we are: Prosperity for our province."

The premier led up to his election proposal by saying there has been almost constant talk of an election during the last year. He referred to previous statements that he is so engaged in doing the business of the province that he has been able to give little consideration to the matter of a vote.

IN FOURTH YEAR

"However, we are in the fourth year of the life of this Parliament, and it is my belief that the people should have their opportunity of passing upon what has been done and what is projected."

He reviewed 14 major projects which he said the provincial government has accomplished or started during the last 3½ years.

Among those mentioned were the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, atomic-generated power, unconditional grants to municipal-ities, supplementary grants for education, highways construction, a $70,000,000 public investment program by the province and its subsidiaries, legislation affecting agriculture and rural areas, old age pensions for persons 70 and over and for the needy at 65.

Thousands of hospital beds have been provided, anti-discrimination laws have been introduced and there has been no increase in taxes while sums have been reduced, he said.

LIBERAL REFERENCE

In reference to a statement by Mr. Oliver that the federal Liberal party will support Ontario Liberals, Premier Frost said his party apparently is going to be faced with a giant "as fearsome as the great giant David met."

He said he is prepared to meet the challenge with the support of his helpers throughout the province and without other reinforcements.

"Our reinforcements will come from the people on the concession lines, on the city streets and the pioneer outposts—the people we have never forgotten.

"They will be the people we will look to for support in that day in June," the premier said.

OTHER SPEECHES

Mr. Hees and Mr. Hamilton brought up the election subject in their speeches at the afternoon meeting.

The Progressive Conservatives in Ontario have given good government which has faced issues squarely, Mr. Hees said. Its performance contrasted sharply with the federal Liberal government which "consistently refuses to face the issues."

Mr. Hamilton said the provincial government is proud to give an accounting of its accomplishments.

Mr. Allan told delegates that controlled access or non-access highways are the only solution to safe and speedy transportation in the province. "We can no longer provide highways which give both access along the way and provide safe and speedy transportation."

He referred especially to No. 6 highway, a key link between Guelph and Owen Sound, which is to be a 30-mile-an-hour route soon.

ANTI-FRENCH

Diem's office said the premier's cabinet and the national army had approved th casseml by call.

The split between French hostility to Diem and continued American backing for him was underlined by the absence from the airport of Gen. Paul Ely, France's commissioner - general for Viet-Nam. Collins was greeted by Foreign Minister Tran Van Do and Vietnamese and American officials.

Collins hastened back from conferences in Washington when a brief civil war broke out last week.

An uneasy quiet prevailed in Saigon but Diem's most recent opponent, Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, stuck to Dalat, 240 miles northeast of the capital.

Vy, acting on orders from chief of state Bao Dai, had proclaimed himself in "supreme power" Sunday. However, the Vietnamese army took orders from Vy for only a few hours and then switched its loyalty back to Diem.

Diem's government announced today that Bao Dai, who had tried to clip the premier's power by regular control from his villa on the French Riviera, had annulled his decree naming Vy army commander.

Apparently backing down in the face of Diem's successful against both Vy and the Binh Xuyen private army, the former emperor hurriedly cabled assurance he was not hostile to Diem. Bao Dai said he had not been fully informed of the real situation in South Viet Nam.

This was in sharp contrast with Bao Dai's earlier messages, accusing the premier of stirring up turmoil and summoning him to France at once.

Bao Dai sent word to Diem Sunday that he was interested only in avoiding civil war and getting a government with wider popular backing.

A Diem spokesman had warned Sunday that if Bao Dai "doesn't come to his senses," the Premier would seriously consider demands that Bao Dai be ousted as chief of state.

The committee, a congress of 18 political parties and 35 Vietnamese leaders, bitterly denounced Bao Dai Saturday as a French puppet and said he would be deposed. The group apparently has only advisory powers, however, and it was not known whether Diem would join in the movement to get rid of the ex-emperor.

After weathering Sunday's attempted coup, Diem fired off a message to Bao Dai demanding that he approve formation of a national assembly with full power to decide the fate of the chief of state.

After fighting broke out in Saigon last week between the national army and the Binh Xuyen forces, French Premier Edgar Faure told a press conference Diem appeared unequal to the task of governing. U.S. Senate Starts Debate On Eisenhower's Trade Bill After Committee Revises It

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate opens debate today on one of the hardest-fought issues of the 1955 Session—President Eisenhower's foreign trade bill.

Advance indications, however, were that the Senate finance committee's reworking of the measure had taken much of the fire out of the fight.

Leaders on both sides predicted that it will be passed by the Senate in about the same form as it came out of the committee. No votes are expected before mid-week.

However, majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem. Tex.) said there was a good chance of finishing with the bill next week and getting it into conference with the House of Representatives.

Before the finance committee did its retouching job, it had been expected, the floor debate might drag on for two weeks with dozens of amendments offered.

RETAINS KEY CLAUSE

The committee retained the key authority sought by Eisenhower and contained in the bill which the House passed Feb. 18. This would extend the 21-year-old reciprocal trade agreements law for three years to June 30, 1958, and give the president additional power to cut tariffs by five per cent in each of the three years.

The president has described the measure as vital to the economies of the free world nations. Freer exchange of products between these nations is one of the best ways to combat Soviet trade, he contends.

However, many industries flooded Congress with claims of damage already suffered because of imports and of harm which might result from lower duties.

To counter this opposition, the finance committee wrote into the bill the new discretionary powers for the president to curb imports, and took away some of the lesser new authority he asked. Eisenhower hailed the committee's 13-to-2 vote to approve his bill as a "tremendous victory."

Two Railways Sharply Reduce Over-All Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's railways reduced their overall deficit to $826,488 in January compared with $5,644,000 a year ago as freight haulage increased and expenses were snipped.

Operating revenues for the CNR, CPR and 15 other smaller railways totalled $82,833,000 in January, a rise of six per cent from $78,283,000 last year, the bureau of statistics reported Friday. Operating expenses dropped by two per cent to $80,247,000 from $81,877,800.

This left a net operating revenue of $2,585,900, compared with a net operating loss of $3,594,500 last year, but a pile up of taxes reduced the accounts to an overall deficit of $826,488.

Expenses were snipped partly by a reduction in rail workers to 177,049 from 185,386 which reduced the payroll to $47,118,800 from $48,201,000.

Court Annuls Sale of Insane Mare to Farmer

QUEBEC (CP)—If you buy a crazy horse, you may not have to keep it.

Quebec Appeals Court during the weekend annulled the sale of an insane mare by farmer Edgar Laplante of Beauceville, Que., and ordered veterinarian Alberta Roy to return Laplante's $207.

Laplante said he bought the mare on Roy's assurance that she was "sound in wind and body." Later when the mare consistently lost her bearings, couldn't control her movements and refused to back up, he found she wasn't sound of head.

A veterinarian examined her and said a brain tumor was driving the animal crazy.

Superior Court held the sale valid because Roy hadn't guaranteed the mare's sanity, but Saturday Appeals Court ruled insanity "a hidden defect" and annulled the sale.

Insanity, the court said, is not an obvious defect like swayback or lameness.

Scouts of World Meet in Canada For First Time

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 8,400 scouts from 34 countries have registered for the 8th world jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, next August.

Scouting officials said yesterday they expect a total of 10,000 to attend the amboree, first world scouting meet to be held in Canada.

The jamboree committee told a meeting of provincial executive commissioners at scout headquarters Thursday night that present registrations include 1,500 Canadians, 1,500 from the United States, and 3,400 from Europe. South America and Asia, including seven from Formosa.

Bi t is hoped 300,000 and 400,000 meals will be served during the 10-day jamboree which starts Aug. 18, officials said.

A three-day meeting of scout officials concluded Friday with the annual meeting of the Canadian general council.

Labor Minister Milton Gregg was the guest speaker at the annual dinner last night, replacing Citizenship Minister Pickersgill who was unable to attend.

Ross Thatcher Will Not Be Asked to Resign

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Ross Thatcher will not be asked by his constituency's CCF executive to resign his seat in Parliament.

The decision was reached Saturday by the executive of the Moose Jaw - Lake Centre Federal CCF Association in a four-hour closed meeting called to debate possible executive action on Mr. Thatcher's resignation from the party.

The 37-year-old rancher-business man, who has trampled frequently on CCF doctrines, surprised the Commons at the April 22 sitting by announcing his break from the Socialist party.

In a prepared statement, the association executive said following the meeting that Mr. Thatcher's resignation will not be demanded because there is no way the constituency executive can force him to resign.

Evict Housemaid From Favorite Room in Palace

LONDON (Reuters)—Housemaid Polly Stuart Friday lost her fight to keep her tiny bedroom overlooking the prim lawns of Buckingham Palace and walked sadly out the palace gates.

To back her claims, Polly, 40, called in the 23,000-member civil Service Union to which 100 palace servants belong. They couldn't help.

Her troubles began when she protested against moving from the room she had occupied for six years. She liked it because of the view of the lawns. Officials wanted her to move to another room.

When she was threatened with being fired, Polly took her case to the union and three days ago the union's leader became the subject of consultation between the officials of the royal household and the ministry of labor and the union.

When the talks ended Friday, the palace officials had won. Polly was fired.

Homing Pigeons Bill And Coo With Commoners

COLCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Aristocratic homing pigeons here are being seduced in alarming numbers by a vulgar crowd of common pigeons, so the local council is to consider all-out war on the commoners.

Colchester councillors will consider a large scale trapping campaign against the low-born intruders.

The common pigeons—who live, ironically, in a castle here—are thought to be the descendants of the "cockney" pigeons who deserted London's Trafalgar square during wartime years by homing.

Frank Hann, spokesman for Colchester racing pigeon owners, said today: "A single racing bird may be worth up to £100 and even a homer making its first flight may be worth £5.

"The castle pigeons fly around, enticing them away.

"It is heartbreaking for a man who has spent years in breeding champion homers to lose them like this."

Other pigeon fanciers complained that once enticed away, the "aristocratic" pigeons mate with the commoners and settle down to a life of idleness, instead of training for racing.

Walkerton Man Heads O.R.A.

SUDBURY (CP)—C. A. Kaye of Walkerton was elected president of the Ontario Recreation Association at the close of its annual conference Sunday.

Elected to the board were W. Brewster, Oshawa, Mrs. E. Hawley, Atherly, R. McKnight, New Liskeard, W. C. Garrett, Sudbury, E. R. Higgins, Oshawa, Miss L. Colley, Simcoe.

The association was invited to hold its 1956 conference in Stratford. It adopted a resolution that defence department recreational groups be assimilated into the association.

Five Cars Derailed

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Five cars of an Erie Railroad freight train jumped the tracks not far from the downtown area Saturday, and a railroad official said evidence pointed to "tampering" with a switching mechanism.

Two of the cars flipped over on their sides. The other three remained upright but were smashed.

Rail spokesmen said the 27-car freight was moving slowly and there were no injuries.

COURAGE CONQUERS FEAR, FLAMES

This picture, symbolizing the courageous work of firefighters everywhere, shows a fireman carrying a frightened man to safety from a Chicago apartment hotel where one woman was killed and twenty other persons, including six firemen, were injured. Flames spread rapidly up the hotel stairwell and soon engulfed all four floors. Firemen rescued some 30 residents. It was one of two spectacular fires on Chicago's north side in which at least seven were killed. (Central Press Canadian).

Storm-Battered Yacht Lost For 33 Days Makes Aussie Port

By LOUIS LECK
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY (CP)—Three bearded man and a woman, all half starved, turned up in a storm-battered yacht off Coff's Harbor, a new South Wales coastal town, after having been given up for lost.

They had not seen land for 33 days. They left Lord Howe island in a 33-foot cutter, the Bounty, in March, bound for New Zealand. Lord Howe island is roughly midway between Australia and New Zealand.

The woman, Miss Joan Kilpatrick, said that what was to have been a steady 10 or 12-day voyage of about 500 miles turned out to be a nightmare, 1,200-mile fight for survival.

"Eight days out from Lord Howe a freak wave hit us at night," she said. "We seemed to go right over with the sea. The mast snapped and the huge seas swept right through the boat. The lights fused and we all thought the end had come.

"Hardly daring to hope that we could do any good, we bailed frantically with our hands and with anything we could lay our hands on, and slowly the Bounty righted herself."

Miss Kilpatrick said the broken mast was retrieved but it was so heavy that the crew could not set it in place, after drifting for six days they decided to cut the mast into lengths and rigged short masts and booms big enough to carry sail.

"We headed for Norfolk Island," said Miss Kilpatrick, "but we were only about 20 miles from Norfolk when we ran into another tropical storm.

"Our jury rig was carried away again and it almost broke our hearts. "For six days we were tossed about helplessly in a cyclone. I'll never forget it.

"When the weather cleared, we took a bearing and found we were about 80 miles west of Lord Howe island. A strong northeasterly was blowing and we decided to make for Australia.

"All but our rationed tinned food was destroyed when we were hit by the wave earlier.

"We struggled with the jury rig and got it up again, and set a course for Coff's Harbor. "We got weaker as the days went by. You have no idea how we felt when we saw Solitary island (just off Coff's Harbour) and realized we had made it."

Teachers Attack Camps Run By Racing Stables

By NORMAN WILLIAMS

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) — New Zealand schoolmasters have been attacking the "slave labor camps" of boy jockeys run by some of the big horse racing stables.

They have carried their attack to the minister of education, Ronald Algie, who has promised to make an investigation.

New Zealand law keeps children at school until the age of 15. Teachers say the stables employ boys as young as 12, working them from 4 a.m. until 8:30 a.m. and again after school hours. They claim hundreds of children are failing to benefit from their education as a result of the practice.

HAS 15 APPRENTICES

The headmaster of Takanini school in Auckland, P.M. Garner, says that he has 15 jockey apprentices in his charge. One of them recently went to sleep in class three times in one week. "I just let him sleep it off," he said. "No headmaster can help a boy who is tired out before school."

Some of these boys walk around in summer in heavy overcoats and rubber boots to keep their weight down, Garner told reporters.

L. E. Titheridge, principal of Avondale College, Auckland, says boys ask for time off to go to country race meetings. Their homework is not satisfactory. Many refuse to go to high school and stay around the primary schools until they are 15, making a nuisance of themselves.

CANNOT GET EDUCATION

The president of the New Zealand racing conference, H. R. Cleary, said no boy is allowed to start a racing career until he is 14 and he must get a licence to ride until he is 15.

These restrictions had been imposed following discussions with the government, he added. Since the agreement was reached, ended between the ages of 17 and 18 because of increased weight. He maintained that many of apprenticeship until the age of 15 would be impracticable.

U.S. Labor Leaders Start Drafting New Constitution For Amalgamated Federation

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top AFL and CIO leaders today tackled the biggest problem still in the way of merging their union organizations—a constitution for the proposed combined federation.

A joint unity committee of AFL and CIO chiefs planned to act on a draft carefully worked out beforehand. It was not made public but was said to follow closely the general merger principles agreed upon last February.

Approval of the constitution by separate AFL and CIO conventions and then a joint AFL-CIO convention will be required later, but this was considered a formality once leaders of the two organizations agree.

It was learned the AFL and CIO may move their separate conventions so as to meet simultaneously in the same city. Under a plan advanced today by AFL president George Meany and CIO president Walter P. Reuther, the principal architects of merger, the AFL and CIO would hold separate but simultaneous conventions in New York City in December and then go right into the joint convention.

HOPE FOR FRIENDSHIP

One reason for holding all the conventions in one place was said to be that it would give many AFL and CIO union leaders—some of them bitter rivals for two decades —a chance to get together and start the new 15,000,000-member federation off in a spirit of friendship.

Beginning Tuesday, the AFL executive council will meet all week to consider, among other things, a code of ethics proposed by Meany to safeguard union health-welfare funds.

Dave Beck, president of the Teamsters, the largest union in the AFL with more than 1,000,000 members, served notice he will ask the AFL labor jurisdiction over the longshoremen's industry. Beck would like to take over the longshoremen's union ousted from the AFL in 1953 but Meany has indicated strong opposition.

FIND SERUM FAULTY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Sweden abruptly called off the anti-polio vaccination of 120,000 school children today. The board of health announced live virus had been found in some of the Swedish-made vaccine. The board also confiscated a third of the whole store of the Swedish serum. The announcement made no mention of plans for resuming the vaccination program.

Policy Criticized By Delegates

TORONTO (CP)—The policy of the federal government and of the Queen's Printer, Edmond Cloutier —toward printing employees was criticized Sunday by delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Printing Trades Unions.

Bert Groves of the Toronto Bookbinders Union said the government has refused to meet with them regaining agreements with its printers.

The federation passed a resolution asking the parent Trades and Labor Congress to obtain for the Council of Union Employees the right to certification as the exclusive bargaining agent for printing bureau employees.

Mr. Groves was elected president of the federation. Other executive members include Frank Ball of Oshawa.

Stratford-on-Avon Festival Expected to Be Huge Success

By JACQUES FOUTEAU

STRATFORD - ON - AVON, Eng. (Reuters) — This year's Shakespearean Festival, with Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh, is expected to be one of the most successful.

Before the festival opened at the Memorial Theatre here on April 12, 125,000 tickets worth £30,000 had been sold. This means that, except for a small number of unreserved seats, the theatre is booked to capacity for the first 14 weeks of the 35-week season.

About 10 per cent of seats have been bought up abroad, so that soon this Warwickshire town where Shakespeare was born 391 years ago will be teeming with overseas visitors.

Last year, when the theatre gave a chance to young actors by inaugurating a no-star season, 350,000 tickets were sold. This year, with the "draw" of the Oliviers, that total is expected to be topped by several thousand.

OPENING NIGHT GLITTERED

The season opened with a glittering first night April 12, when Olivier and Leigh played the parts of Malvolio and Viola in Sir John Gielgud's new production of "Twelfth Night."

Miss Leigh, in her page's costume of pink doublet and black breeches, looked as elegant and delicate as a dresden figure. As Malvolio, Olivier gave a new and subtle reading of the part of the pompous steward brought low by the merry members of his mistress' household. His performance was deeply thoughtful and brilliantly humorous.

The Oliviers will be seen again together as Macbeth and Lady Macbeth in a new production of "Macbeth" by Glen Byam Shaw, co-director of the theatre with Anthony Quayle, opening June 7.

The last of the plays in which they will appear is "Titus Andronicus," a gruesome Roman tragedy in which many scholars have refused to see the hand of Shakespeare. This play has never been acted at Stratford before and has only had three major productions in Britain during the last 200 years.

Olivier is to play the title role and much curiosity is aroused by the fact that Miss Leigh will act the horror part of his daughter, Lavinia, a heroine who is not only ravished but has her tongue cut out and her hands cut off. The play, to open Aug. 16, will be directed by Peter Brook.

Three Negro Porters Are Promoted by CPR

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway has promoted three Negro porters to sleeping car conductors for the first time in Canada's railway history, it was reported Friday.

The men are George Garraway, Roy Hall and William Lowe, 29, all of Toronto.

Sydney Blum, secretary of the human rights committee sponsored by the Toronto councils of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said Friday the appointments were a result of the Canada Fair Employment Practices Act passed in 1953.

CPR officials at Montreal said there is nothing new in the promotions as Negroes often held "supervisory positions."

Grizzled Veteran, Fuzz-Faced Rookie Put Indians Top Of Heap Big Heap

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"THEY'LL DO IT . . ."

The trout-hungry members of that great fraternity, the Knights of the Rod and Reel, were out in full force over a perfect fishing week-end, and what few garbled reports this corner managed to garner revealed the fish were plentiful, the anglers more so—with some good hauls in the bag.

The speckles were biting well, we are informed, and the beautiful dinners were hungry.. So hungry, one fishing party informed us, they were going for the common or garden worm with all the abandon of a hungry fox for a juicy fat rabbit. The ordinary speckle or brooker usually flips a delicate snout in disgust at the worm offering, preferring a wet fly and later a dry one.

But worms or no worms it remained for a pure tyro, novice, or in plainer English, a guy who never flaked in his life, to come home with one of the best piscatorial prizes—if not the best.

He is Larry Biron, 547 Station Street, a member of the CNR fraternity, and vice-president of the CNRAA. Larry, who admits that he thought a "speckle" was something that appears in clusters on the faces of the small red-haired mop-pete, had the thrill of a lifetime when he hooked a handsome brown trout which tipped the scales at four pounds twelve ounces. Where did he get it? Somewhere north of Madoc —between that thriving village and its Hastings counterpart, Bancroft.

But that was not all. Along with two veteran fishing pals, Jerry Clement and Charlie Hess, Larry brought home eight fine speckled trout, some of which was under ten inches. These, like their big brown brother, fell victims to the worm diet offered them by the hooks of the trio.

The big brownie gave Larry quite a battle before saying "uncle." The pair duelled for nearly eight minutes and then Biron had to clobber the fish three times over the head with some sort of a weapon before he could boat him. The hook was almost straight when extracted from the fish.

Larry had the fish officially weighed in Madoc in the presence of witnesses. Later he had it photographed and will enter it in a fishing contest.

The brookies were handsome specimens and according to the fishermen were hungry as all get out. They went for the worm bait avidly. In fact this corner saw some of them, which had the remnants of their "death-feast" hanging from their mouths.

In the particular spot where they caught the big brownie, they said other fine specimens were to be had. They saw a lady in a nearby boat, who was fishing with her husband, and operating a hand line, hook a big one which rolled off the hook after a fight. This occurred on another occasion. Whether any more were caught in that spot was not ascertained.

Charlie and Jerry shook their heads in well-feigned disappointment. "They'll do it every time," Jerry said, looking longingly at the brown beauty. "Here, Charlie and I have been going after the big trout for years—and this guy Larry comes along for the ride—and what happens? It ain't fair."

But big-hearted Larry just smiled. "If that's the way you feel about it," he said, joining in the fun. "Here," and he tossed the near-five pounder to his fishing buddies. It was an of the best one-handed catches we have ever seen.

Brilliant Pitching Chores By Bob Feller, Herbie Score Hang Losses on Red Sox

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American League champion Cleveland Indians were, back in first place today and who do you think put them there?

Bob Lemon, Early Wynn? Mike Garcia: No, none of the fabulous Big Three had anything to do with it.

The two pitchers responsible were 36-year-old Bob Feller, who wasn't even trusted to pitch in the world series last fall, and 21-year-old Herbie Score, who didn't join the Indians until spring.

The grizzled veteran and the fuzz-faced rookie put two brilliant pitching exhibitions back to back as the Indians twice conquered the Boston Red Sox 4-3 and 3-2 to force into a half-game lead over the rest of the field.

WITHIN 2 PUTOUTS

Feller, only pitcher since 1900 to turn in three no-hitters, came within eight outputs of becoming the only pitcher to get his fourth as he won his first game of the season and third of his career on the opener. The former fireballer permitted only one hit—a one-bit seventh inning single by Sammy White—to mark the first time in his 16-year career that he went up with a one-hitter.

Score, who won only four years old when Feller set the American League strikeout record of 15 batters within two of Bob's mark, striking out 16 in the second game. Last season with the Cleveland farm club at Indianapolis, Score set an American Association record of 330 strikeouts, won 22 games, lost only five. Feller set the major league record with 348 K's.

The young southpaw fanned nine men in the first three innings and had 14 after seven frames. With Feller an interested radio listener in the dugout, Score added one more in each of the eighth and ninth to tie Bob's.

SECOND PLACE TIE

Three teams—New York, Detroit and Chicago — found themselves locked in a second-place tie, a half game behind Cleveland. The Yankees romped Detroit's six-game winning streak with a 6-1 triumph and Baltimore held the While Sox even in a doubleheader. The Orioles took the opener 9-3 in 11 innings and the White Sox won the second game 6-3.

Kansas City's surprising Athletics moved into fifth place, past the Red Sox, taking a 16-10 slugfest from Washington with a ninth-run seventh inning. Jim Finigan paced a 16-hit attack with a double and triple, scored four times and drove in three runs.

Brooklyn's jet-propelled Dodgers made it 15 victories in 17 starts, defeating the Milwaukee Braves 5-4 on pinch-hitter George Shuba's run-scoring single in the eighth. The St. Louis Cardinals were held to a split in their doubleheader with Pittsburgh but gave second place by percentage points from Milwaukee. The Cards won the opener 4-3 but lost the second 7-0 as Ronnie Kline made his first major league victory a shutout.

PLAY 18 INNINGS

The New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds picked the 35th anniversary of the longest game in major league history to play 18 innings today. Johnny Antonelli beat the Redlegs 2-1 with a dazzling six-hitter.

Pinch-hitter Bill Taylor's long single scored Whitey Lockman from third with the winning run. Lockman had singled, moved to second on a sacrifice and to third when Dave Hoskins singled in Don Hoopar was trying to give him an intentional pass. It was on May 1, 1920, that Brooklyn went 26 innings in a 1-1 tie at Boston.

Chicago's Cubs edged Philadelphia 5-7 on Ransom Jackson's two-run single in the ninth inning of the opener and led 4-2 with the Phillies at bat in the ninth when the game was halted because of the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew law. The game was to be completed tonight. Gene Baker's seventh-inning homer broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh.

FIGURED IN BOTH

Larry Doby figured in both Cleveland victories. He singled in the second inning of the opener and scored what turned out to be deciding run on Jim Hegan's infield out. Hegan tripled home Ralph Kiner for the other run. In the second game, Doby's first-inning double scored Bobby Avila and Wes Wertz.

Score, whose 40 strikeouts in 32 innings leads both majors, said he "wasn't conscious of any record although I knew I'd gotten those first nine and had a pretty good total."

Feller, whose record of 12 one-hitters probably never will be equalled, said he felt no pressure more than any of the other times that I had no-hitters going. In the old days, I was confident that I could rare back and throw it past 'em. Now I have to be careful with every pitch."

Another strikeout specialist, the Yankees' Bob Turley, fanned six Tigers, yielded four hits and registered his fourth victory without a defeat. Joe Collins, rubbing it in at first base for the ailing Mr. Skowron, drove in three runs with a home run and double.

A bases-loaded single by pinch hitter Jim Pyburn, a bogus rookie, scored Lou Ortiz from first in the 11th in their first game victory. Billy Pierce scattered 12 hits to win his second game of the season for the Sox in the nightcap.

Havana Gains Virtual Tie With Top Leafs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A full slate of Sunday doubleheaders latened the International league standings from stem to stern, with Toronto's Maple Leafs managing to hold on to first place by the grace of a curfew suspension.

The Columbus Jets, making their first trip to Toronto, thumped the Leafs with six runs in the fourth for a 6-4 victory in the opener and were leading 4-3 when the Sunday law cut off the nightcap after 6½ innings. The game will be completed Tuesday night.

In the other games, Havana closed to within 1½ percentage points of the Maple Leafs by splitting with Montreal while Buffalo swept a pair from Richmond and Rochester whakked Syracuse twice, dumping the Chiefs from sixth place into the cellar.

VIRTUAL TIE

Havana gained a virtual first-place tie with the Leafs with a 15-hit attack in the nightcap, scoring eight runs in the fourth for a 10-3 triumph. Rocky Nelson's bases-loaded shot in the sixth inning broke up a 5-5 tie and sent Montreal slumping to a 10-5 decision in the opener.

Buffalo skipped from last to sixth place with the Bisons taking 7-5 and 6-5 as the veteran Charlie Fox fired a six-hitter in the opener.

Rochester battered a pair of starting lefthanders to beat Syracuse 7-4 and 9-2.

The Jets, who could have claimed first place with a sweep, had to settle for a one-notch jump in the standings to third. Columbus got its big boost in the fourth from Hector Lopez' grand-slammer.

ONE AT A TIME

Jim Pisarcik fell one at a time. Ed Stevens drove in two of the Leafs' runs with a second-inning triple and a home run in the sixth.

Jack Fazekish gave up 11 hits, but didn't need help until the ninth when reliefer Tony Jacobs came on to save the opening game victory. Rookie Bill Smith fog-hit the Chiefs in the second game while Jay Van Moy drove in four Rochester runs with a home run and single.

Cataracts Defeat Edmonton Flyers Take 3-2 Lead In Edmburgh Series

By GERRY LA FONTAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) —Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, who seem to have taken a postseason liking to the Forum have won their third Edinburgh Trophy game on Montreal ice to compensate for their inability to win before a Shawinigan Falls crowd.

The Quebec Hockey League entry scored single goals in the first and third periods to edge Edmonton Flyers 2-1 Sunday and take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-three series. Edmonton copped both games played in Shawinigan Falls. The clubs square off again in Montreal Tuesday.

A crowd of 9,004 shirt-sleeved fans deserted balmy temperatures in Montreal to watch a rather ragged game. Play was spotty as the heavy ice slowed both offense.

GOOD PERFORMANCE

The most pleasing performance was turned in by Shawinigan, netminder Bob Perreault, who kicked out 30 shots. Glen Hall, Edmonton goalie, turned aside 27 Cataract drives but few of them appeared dangerous.

Erwin Grosse scored an unassisted goal in the opening period after stickhandling around both Edmonton defencemen and hitting the far corner of the net with a five-foot backhander after taking Hall out of position.

The Flyers took advantage of a Shawinigan penalty to tie the score 1-1 near the halfway mark in the game. With defenceman Bob Turner watching from the penalty box, Gerry Mainyk drove home a 30-foot screened shot.

Gilles Dube won the game at the four-minute mark of the third period when he picked off a perfect pass from Jean-Paul Denis and fired a backhand shot in from a difficult angle near the crease.

BRED SHOW HORSES

TORONTO (CP) — Funeral services will be held today for Charlie Henry Stanyon, 67, Toronto horseman, who died at his home Friday. Mr. Stanyon was well known as a horse breeder in and around Toronto. He bred show horses and race horses for more than 20 years.

Hamilton Has Frank Dempsey But Bears Get Ti-Cat Boodle

MIAMI (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats still have Frank Dempsey and Chicago Bears have a bundle of cash following the Canadian football clubs have arguments claiming victory in the settlement that ended their legal dispute over the status of the roving University of Florida grid star.

A decree signed by Judge John W. Holland in circuit court here today said the Bears had won a $150,000 judgment against the Tiger-Cats for signing Dempsey, who ran out on his Chicago contract two years ago and signed with Hamilton a year later.

Both clubs said the actual sum agreed upon by the two parties in an out-of-court settlement was the short of $100,000. Carl Voyles of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union club said the Tiger-Cats allowed inclusion of the $150,000 figure in the judgment "in order to get the cases settled and other teams would not be prejudiced as to the amount of judgment sought."

STILL IN HAMILTON

Voyles also said Dempsey still is in Hamilton and will play for the Tiger-Cats against the Bears.

But there was marked difference of opinion as to what also was contained in the federal court judgment which Chicago officials hailed as a landmark in settling long-standing player disputes between the National Football League and Canadian professional clubs.

Charles F. Short, Jr., counsel for the Bears, said it included a "permanent injunction" restraining the Tiger-Cats from trying to sign up players under contract to the Bears and from inducing such players to jump a contract.

Short also said the decision was "the first time I know of that a federal court had decided on the validity of an NFL contract or of the option reserve clause, which binds a player to his club beyond the expiration date of his contract."

DIFFERENT VIEW

Voyles took a different view. He said that under the settlement "both teams agreed to respect each other's contracts" and that the judgment made no ruling on the option clause.

Max Swarm, counsel for Dempsey who originally was a party to the suit, said the court did not rule on the validity of Dempsey's contract but "merely recognized the settlement of the dispute."

None of the parties gave the actual amount of the out-of-court settlement, described by Voyles as "a very nominal sum," under which the Bears agreed to drop the suit. In Hamilton it was reported that the Tiger-Cats paid $2,500 and a portion of the Bears' legal fees.

In Chicago, Bears owner George Halas said the agreement included a promise by the Tiger-Cats not to sign a United States college player until his class graduates from college, conforming with the NFL's standing rule. There was no confirmation of this from Hamilton sources.

New Ruling May End North-South Softball Finals

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — The Northland Fastball Association said Sunday abolishment of a replacement clause by the annual amateur Softball Association would spell an end to north-south final playoffs from juvenile ranks up.

It said there was an attempt by the Ontario Amateur Softball Association annual meeting recently in Peterborough to ban replacements.

The NFA said at its annual meeting Sunday the majority of northern teams can't continue unless they're granted replacements because of boys leaving for university, hockey and other sports in the fall.

An amendment to the NFA constitution said the association will take a percentage of the gate at all games between teams belonging to the NFA and outside teams, starting this season. Previously only the southern group took a percentage.

Delegates from Cochrane, Kapuskasing, Timmins, Schumacher, Iroquois, Kirkland Lake, North Bay, New Liskeard and Matachewan attended the meeting.

The NFA awarded a suspension handed out to Gus Gustafson of the Timmins Mercantile loop. Gustafson will it out the 1955 season for striking an umpire during the Timmins playoffs last year.

Solmar Notes

Exterior Decorators

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables)

Why is it, I wonder, that so many people seem to find pleasure in the decrement of the outdoors? The most folks, a road sign is a useful thing, giving needed information. To some, however, it is merely a handy target for rifle or shotgun.

While the defacement of road signs is not, under any conditions, to be condoned, it being destruction of property and, as such, illegal, road signs can be replaced and are in no sense permanent parts of our outdoors. But what about the bark of a tree or the broad face of an unusual rock? These, once spoiled by the inscription of initials or names, stay spoiled for many years.

In June, 1952, a friend and I spent six days or so on the trout waters of the northwest corner of Laurentide Park, Quebec. While there, we left the base camp, portaged over six miles of mountains and then journeyed several miles by canoe to the little camp at the head of Lake Matagamasac.

SPECTACULAR VIEW

The first day at that camp, a guide and I paddled an additional six miles down to the outlet of the lake. This is a spectacular affair, a jumble of ledges and waterfalls, flanked by two enormous rocks which command a view of the lake.

On one of these huge rocks we found the large letters the name of a man and the date of his visit. Why the fellow should carry paint that far into the wilderness I'm sure I can't say, but there it was and to see who came that way.

I had gone to considerable trouble, expense and effort to flat the falls pool. Somehow that crude lettering marred not only the rock but also the pleasure of fishing. We put our tackle back in the canoe and sought other waters.

So many people consider outstanding scenic locations to be places on which to inscribe permanent records of their visits. Certainly, I have no objection in the fact that Joe Doaks had been there at some previous time. Yet there it his name, carved in wood or painted on rock, until such time as natural erosion can eradicate the desecration.

Many states now have laws that can and frequently do make things most unpleasant for those who litter camp sites and roadsides with trash. But for some reason defacement of the outdoors has not been given too much attention by the lawmakers.

In the North Branch of the Susquehanna River there is a natural rock called Standing Stone. This is a huge, flat piece of ledge rock which stands upright, its smaller end embedded in the river bottom. The rock is about 40 feet high, 20 feet wide and not more than three feet thick. It looks as though it could be upset by a gentle push, but it has withstood the onslaughts of the river and the ice packs down through the ages.

Standing Stone, I'm sorry to say, is completely covered with names, dates, initials, fraternity insignia, etc., until there is room for no more; all painted there by thoughtless people.

There is a couplet, much older than I am, whose first line is this: "A man's ambition is mighty small." I'm sure you must know it. Why not widen it to go something like this:

"A man should think it a disgrace
To leave his name on a public place."

Public sentiment is a powerful weapon. Perhaps if enough people are reminded in terms quite this disfigurement of the outdoors; if boy scouts and children in the grade schools are taught in early youth that the beauties of nature must not be marred; if statistics are shown that disfigurement of nature is as serious a fault as personal uncleanness or untidy housekeeping; then, possibly, at long last the exterior decorators may be discouraged.

However, so long as people continue to be people, the eventual remedy will of necessity be reached only through punitive legislation.

TAKES GOLF CROWN

LONDON (AP)—Alan Thirlwell, who failed to get a place on Britain's Walker Cup team, Saturday gave his own reply to the selectors—by winning the English amateur golf championship for the second straight year. Thirlwell, a 26-year-old Newcastle accountant, defeated Michael Burgess, 26-year-old Sussex farmer, 7 and 6 in the 36-hole final.

Archie Moore Nino Valdes Clash Tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Cuba's Nino Valdes, each yearning for a crack at heavyweight ruler Rocky Marciano, clash here tonight in a non-title 15-round bout.

Both put up a loud holler when Marciano bypassed Britain's Prince of England's Don Cockell. The two Cubans agreed to battle it out so that the winner could put the pressure on the heavyweight champion for a September title bout.

The 38-year-old Moore, winner of 19 straight fights over a three-year span, is a 2-1 favorite to beat the 30-year-old Cuban, now the No. 1 heavyweight contender, for the second time. Archie, a 6-footer outweighs the 6-2 Cuban giant in St. Louis 10-rounder, March 11, 1953.

Valdes has won 11 consecutive fights himself, including a 10-round decision over Ernest Charles, the former heavyweight boss.

Tonight's bout will not be broadcast or telecast.

1. Well, the score card says that on the green you and I get only two tries to sup that ball. How shall we go about it? First, study the path the ball must take to the cup. Next take a long look at the grass and estimate the resistance it will make to the rolling ball. I believe in having both toes on the line parallel t the path the ball is to travel to the hole. Place the side of your putter flat on the ground behind the ball at right angles to the path you want the ball to follow. Now see to it that you can stroke the ball firmly, using it in the middle of the putter blade. You should be bending over the ball as pictured so that your eyes are looking perpendicularly down at the ball. Keep your hands in close to your body as pictured and let your wrists and a bit of general arm movement — swing the blade back close to the ground. Keep the blade at right angles to the direction line as long as you can with comfort. That'll do most of the

1. give you more mileage

3. cut down engine deposits that rob your car of power

HERE'S PROOF FROM IMPERIAL OIL'S RESEARCH LABORATORIES

Engine deposits handicap your car's performance. Improved Esso and Esso Extra are specially formulated to burn cleaner in your engine, leaving less deposit. Here is one of the many stages of research on these improved gasolines at Imperial Oil's laboratories.

New Marvelube has special qualities that keep engine deposits to a minimum. Three years of laboratory tests prove that when this new motor oil is used with improved Esso or Esso Extra Gasoline there is an even greater reduction in engine deposits.

In addition to the laboratory tests, almost two years of road tests prove conclusively that when the "matched pair" of Marvelube Motor Oil and Esso Gasoline is used the reduction in engine deposits is so great the result is best economy, more mileage, and Hitters' balance themselves by taking a short stride when swinging at a pitch. The shorter the stride the longer they can follow the ball before committing themselves.

Joe DiMaggio seldom moved his front foot forward more than an inch or two as he pivoted his hips to put power into his swing. DiMaggio's foot-speed was so wide that it might not be considerable to some hitters, but a batter is on the safe side if he starts his swing with the widest stance he can take and still remain balanced and comfortable at the plate.

Alvin Dark, Larry Doby, Frank Thomas and Monte Irvin are among the successful hitters who have an unusually wide stance, while Ted Kluszewski, Duke Snider, Irv Noren, Al Rosen, Bobby Avila, Ted Williams and many other leading batsmen have an average stance.

Keeping the feet apart cuts down on the length of the stride and prevents one of the most serious weaknesses a batter can develop—the tendency to

Life With 'Bogey' Is Grand Except When He Is Jobless

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I don't think you can beat the life out here — most of the time," said Lauren Bacall, sitting down to a tray on the dining room table and looking at a bacon and tomato sandwich without enthusiasm.

"When both Bogey and I are working, it's great. It's fine when he's working and I'm not. It gets a little grim, though, when I'm working and Bogey isn't. He gets restless, hanging around."

Times, however, when Humphrey Bogart isn't working have become increasingly rare in recent years.

Success, professional and private, was late in arriving. Bogey was 35 and had been an actor for 15 years before he caught popular fancy as killer Duke Mantee in "The Petrified Forest" on Broadway. He hadn't made much of a dent in Hollywood until he played Duke in the movie version later on.

He was 45 (maybe 46—there's little confusion about his birth year) when he married his fourth and, from the look of things, final wife. Miss Bacall, rather pointedly called Betty, never Baby. He was close to 50 when his first child, Stephen, was born. He was 52 when he won his first Oscar, for his liquor-loving vagabond in "African Queen."

Today Bogey, around 55 and Betty, 29, are among Hollywood's first film families, with two handsome children, a beautiful home, and—in low lands start—a bountiful selection of roles among which to pick and choose.

Bogart, lest this homy scene appears too saccharine, sometimes roughly cultivates his reputation for four-letter Anglo-Saxon words and brutal frankness in the course of intelligent conversation. Otherwise he confesses pretty rigidly to Hollywood success code: A fashionable address, backyard swimming pool and guest house, twin Jaguars, a yacht.

"WE WORK HARD"

"If you're living in Hollywood," said Betty, "you're got to live in a house. You haven't got to have a swimming pool, but if you can afford one, get it. Once you've made the initial investment, it only costs $30 a month to keep it clean."

Bogart still shouldn't actor make a lot of money?" growled Bogart suddenly. "I don't know why we should be defensive about it. We work hard, we've acquired a lot of skills, we put up with a lot."

"I wish," mused Betty, "that these people who are critics would spend some time watching the making of a picture, could realize all the effort and thought and guts that go into making every one. Maybe they wouldn't be so quick to condemn. When I'm working I'm up at six, and I'm ready in makeup, to start shooting at nine."

AT THE McCARTHY

He Left Hollywood for Fame!

The accepted principle that you have to go to Hollywood for screen fame and fortune, has been blown sky-high by American actor David Niven. Paramount Studios discovered this young actor and tested him for the leading role opposite Audrey Hepburn in "Sabrina Fair", tied him to a seven-year contract, then left him to idle on the film fence. His role was handed to William Holden who previously had been chosen, but was unsuitable. When he became free to make the film, David Knight was out. The disappointed actor walked around the studio for months. When his option came up after six months, he asked for a release. Before his first week of freedom was up, a cable reached him from England, offering him a starring role in "Chance Meeting", starring Today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. David Knight's fate now hangs with picturegoers the world over. He has put everything into this demanding role and can now only hope for a favorable verdict of the movie-going millions. There is every chance in the world that this talented newcomer will be favored.

Some bridge players expect too much of their partners. Without disclosing what they have they want partner to know their holding. As in the letter that shows this deal:

	♠ 9 8 4
	♥ K 7
	♦ A 6 4 2
	♣ Q 8 6 5
WEST		EAST
♠ 8		♠ Q 7 6 3 2
♥ 9 8 4 3		♥ 9
♦ Q 9 5 3		♦ J 10 7
♣ A J 7 4		♣ K 10 9 2
	SOUTH
	♠ A K J 10
	♥ A Q J 10 6 5
	♦ K 8
	♣ 5

The bidding, as reported by north, went like this:

South	North
1 Heart	1 No-trump
2 Spades	Pass

There was blood all over the place, they tell me. South did not even wait to play the hand out. He started cutting up every before north had a chance to spread the dummy hand.

What made south go berserk was the north pass of his two spade bid. He kept yelling that a reverse bid showed so much power that only a partner with water in his veins would pass it.

Showing his temper did not make south any richer. The fault was all his in more than one way. The least he could have done is make a second round jump bid of some kind.

South can see game in something the moment north responds with any kind of a bid. This he can reveal with a jump bid that signals partner not to let the bidding stop short of game, at least.

Furthermore, his jump should be in hearts, a rebid of three hearts. Because when one suit is at least two cards longer than the other a player should rebid it before naming the other.

He should then bid spades on the third round, if necessary. This is how a player shows his partner six cards and four cards in two suits. How else could partner know this if not told?

Did south expect north to guess the kind of hand he held? Or read it in the stars on a stormy night?

A bridge player may be good. But he is seldom that good.

Scrambled Pictures Coming If Board OK's Subscription TV

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—A great debate is on in the United States over whether a coin box should be attached to television sets.

The Federal Communications Commission in early June begins formal consideration of whether it should authorize occasional exclusive use of present free TV channels for subscription television.

If so, in brief, is how subscription TV would work:

Each station authorized to use it would be able, for certain hours a week, to scramble its signals while presenting subscription programs. With an ordinary set you'd get unusable signals from that station.

DECODING DEVICE

But if you were a subscriber, you'd have a decoding attachment on your set that would clear up the signals and give you normal reception. There are two principal types of decoders proposed. One would operate upon insertion of the proper coins. The other would function upon insertion of a punched code card you'd either subscribe to through the mail or buy at the counter of a nearby store.

Most vocal active opponent is an organization of movie theatre owners and operators. They regard subscription TV, possibly offering the same films they'd be showing at the same time, as a much greater threat than free TV with its variety shows, situation comedies, dramas and ancient movies.

Those favoring subscription TV include sports promoters, some stage actors and producers.

PROHIBITED NOW

Joining the movie theatres in opposition have been the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, a number of individual broadcasters and some advertising interests.

All arguments as to the potential good or evil of subscription TV remain academic until the FCC makes a decision. Toll TV is prohibited under its present regulations.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You may have to pay for previous neglectfulness, work harder to get over rough spots. Be calm, don't rush, keep a steady gait and you will eliminate mistakes and increase gains.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Strong influences for fine progress if you follow your better impulses. Small perplexities should not be difficult to handle if you are true to the better you.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't expect too much for little effort. Screen each situation thoroughly, avoid foolish tangles with friends, associates, superiors. Then proceed with confidence.

(ADV.)

LUMBAGO (Lame Back)

When your back is stiff and very painful and it's an effort for you to stoop or bend, take the remedy that has brought swift, safe relief to thousands—Templeton's T-R-C's. Don't suffer from the nagging misery of backache a day longer than you have to. Get T-R-C's today. 72¢, $1.50 at drug counters. T-32

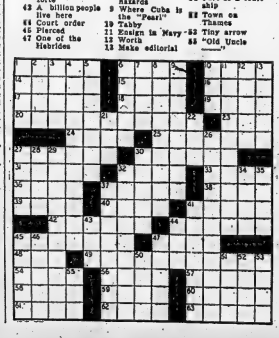
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Benefits possible today. You may encounter some personal disappointments at unexpected times. Handle them calmly, diplomatically. Romance, social interests can be improved.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Don't act too suddenly, or simply. Aspects moderately good but they call for astuteness, forethought. The basis for making gains is in inner power and the grit to win.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — To register real progress on this planetarily negative day you must chart your course wisely, be efficient, revamp where needed, and avoid waste.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Configurations in good line-up for general activities. Keep on the beam; seek worthwhile goals, and you should advance.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Fair-to-middling outlook. But with proper discrimination, forthright action and wise strategy you can make top grades. Recognize true qualities, true figures.



YOU BORN TODAY: The planetary outlook is very favorable to your earnest, intelligent endeavors for the balance of '55. You have inner power, strong characteristics, and are capable in all-round manner. You are respected highly when you act and think reasonably and are not domineering. Properly educated, you can go far. You grasp opportunities but should always recheck their worth. You are innately generous, friendly; fond of comfort, pleasure. Control temper; sacrificing personal enjoyment occasionally will further your many talents.

Birthdate of: Eugene Delacroix, French historical painter.

Ten Years Ago Nazi Germany Gasped its Last Official Breath

By TOM REDDY

BERLIN (AP)—A wooden fence, painted muddy brown, runs down Wilhelmstrasse in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

It's just high enough to discourage climbers; low enough to be more a symbol than a safeguard.

Behind the fence lies the tomb of Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun Hitler Reich. Here, a wasteland in the heart of the city, are the ruins of the Reich chancellory and the empty underground bunker where 10 years ago Nazi Germany gasped its last official breath.

The existence of this vacant ground is no accident. The Russians levelled the Reichschancellory April 30, 1945, but they left its rubble as a durable reminder.

The roof of the bunker where Hitler and Eva Braun, his mistress of years and bride of two days, ate pressing their suicide pistols is ripped off. Bared are the 30 little cells where the fuehrer's entourage awaited doom.

The rubble on Wilhelmstrasse is only one symbol of the ruin which the former paper hanger who started a war with a loss of 3,000,000 dead and 34,000,000 wounded. Hitler's legacy to his own land included 1,500,000 dead, 3,000,000 wounded and missing among military personnel and 7,500,000 civilians.

Our activity does not find a German who believes Hitler survived Berlin's end. Besides, there are a dozen survivors of the bizarre finish in the bunker who testify that the fuehrer was already dying; wracked by drugs, and with his nervous system shot by the 20-day bomb blast of July 20, 1944, an attempt by his own officers to end his life.

His valet, his personal guard and Hitler Youth leader Artur Axmann all have testified that Eva Braun swallowed cyanide, that Hitler shot himself through the mouth, and that though the head was covered by a blanket, the grey-trousered, black-booted, body that had been a small, barbaric ceremony in the garden was that of the fuehrer.

They contend that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels never would have killed his wife, six children and himself unless Hitler himself were dead.

The Russians have never said one word about what they found at the bunker.

To the German today Hitler was a loser, so he is to be forgotten. Today there isn't a single Hitler listed in the telephone book. The fuehrer's step-brother, Alois, lives in Hamburg—now in his 70s—under the name of Hiller. Eva Braun's family is stationed in Bavaria, grateful for obscurity.

The German looking back 10 years has a gruesome view of his former fuehrer than ever before. Many generals that still live, the middle - bracket officialdom that survived, appear in agreement on a few things.

These include.

He possessed a fantastic memory for anything he had ever read or seen. Thus, he constantly bewildered military experts with unexpected knowledge, convincing many that he was a genius.

Blissfully unafraid of consequences, he rushed pell mell into dangerous moves in the early days of the war. Success convinced him that everyone else was too cautious or too ignorant to make decisions, however small.

The victim of theological rages, he vented such cruel punishment that many Germans still pity him.

Hence he was still moving mythical armies over maps as Stalin's tanks battered his Berlin fortress.

For years, Germans argued whether it was proper or necessary to consume the bodies of Hitler and Eva Braun, as alleged, in the white air of the chancellory garden, using several hundred gallons of gasoline to fuel the funeral pyre.

If the Russians salvaged even Hitler's teeth from the bunker, they're not saying.

Building to House New NRU At Chalk River Nearly Ready

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—A huge brick and steel structure as complex as an industrial plant is near completion on the banks of the Ottawa river here.

The building will house the new NRU atomic energy reactor at this sprawling research centre, 120 miles atomic energy plant 125 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The 5,000-sq.ft research centre will dwarf most of the other 150 buildings on the project operated by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., a crown company. However, the building and reactor—$40,000,000 undertaking — are being put together with the necessary laboratories into the construction of a naval vessel.

AMONG WORLD'S BEST

Essentially a research tool, NRU will be more powerful and modern than Canada's famed NRX reactor which has been in operation here since 1947. When it goes into operation in June, 1956, Canada's facilities for atomic energy research will be among the finest in the world.

NRU will enable scientists to conduct new research into methods to use atomic energy for peaceful purposes, especially in the field of industrial power. Production of plutonium—energy source of atomic bombs and a future fuel for electricity - producing atomic power plants—will be boosted along with output of isotopes, including cobalt-60 for beam-therapy units for cancer treatment.

The building is designed so accurately that a precise level equipment is being used to ensure construction to tolerances of a few thousandths of an inch. The temperature within the building will be kept constant by sensitive equipment in instrument readings.

The 125- by 100-foot building has three cavernous basements under the main box-like room where the reactor will be located. The basements are divided into a number of cells with three- to four-foot concrete walls for storage of uranium.

COMPLICATED LAYOUT

The main-floor room which will house the reactor towers 90 feet and is surrounded by offices and laboratories for research. The layout is so complicated that a special tube system is being installed to transport communications and even materials being tested from office to office and from laboratory to laboratory.

Many of the construction details of the reactor are secret.

NRU will be cooled with heavy water. Cooling is necessary because temperatures in the reactor might melt the uranium rods or the aluminum walls. Heavy water is denser than ordinary water, used to cool the NRX reactor, and will not absorb as many neutrons, released by the uranium fission. As a result, NRU will be more efficient than NRX.

However, the heavy water itself will be cooled by river water in special heat-exchangers after it has been through the reactor.

SPECIAL CONCRETE SHIELD

Project scientists disclosed that a special type of concrete has been developed to shield the reactor. The reactor must be surrounded with a six-foot wall of concrete to deadly gamma rays.

The new-type concrete is about twice as heavy as the ordinary concrete. Slate grey in color, it consists of powdered concrete, steel, iron oxide and iron-titanium oxide.

Thick concrete walls are one of the most notable features of the building. Under the reactor, one concrete wall will enable equipment to monitor the activity of the pile has a ceiling five feet thick. The walls of laboratories adjacent to the reactor are four feet thick to prevent experiments from being affected by radioactivity from the reactor.

Six laboratories, including the two adjacent to the reactor, are being built to enable scientists to conduct research within easy reach of the reactor. The building is being equipped with 12 cranes and six monorails to facilitate the handling of heavy equipment.

The largest crane is in the reactor room and has a capacity of lifting 75 tons.

Scientists said control equipment being installed will make it almost impossible for the reactor to break down. The design of much of the equipment has benefitted from the project's experience arising out of the NRX breakdown.

NEWSPAPER MAN DIES

WINDSOR MILLS, Que. (CP)—Hector Dufour, 93-year-old chief of country correspondents for the Sherbrooke Daily Newspaper La Tribune, died here in hospital Sunday shortly after a motorcycle accident. Police said he was returning from Montreal with two companions, also on motorcycles, when he struck a hole in the road and was pitched to the ground.

CAMPBELLFORD

Bruce Wallace Heads Lions Club

CAMPBELLFORD. — Lion Donald Ferguson, Campbellford was guest, speaker this week at the Lions Club meeting. He spoke on schools for the blind, and said there are five such schools, in Canada, but the only one in Ontario is located in Brantford, and was founded in 1873. The school is operated by the Dominion government and contains 160 acres of ground.

One hundred and eight pupils in grades one to twelve are taught in Braille as well as handicrafts. The blind persons at the school, comprising all religions, are particularly adept at weaving and other forms of manual training. Piano tuning is taught as a trade and jobs are found for the graduates. The singing groups in the school annually win winners at music festivals.

The speaker was thanked by the president Bruce Wallace.

The club decided that they would offer a free membership of Ward 3 in the town for the Salvation Army Red Shield campaign on May 4th.

It was decided, too, that the club will sponsor a Tractor club and in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, will teach a class of boys from Seymour township how to properly operate tractors.

Officers for the coming term were announced as follows—president, Bruce Wallace; 1st vice-president, Pete Wilson; 2nd vice-president, Norman Conger; 3rd vice-president, Harold Peters; secretary, Jim Virker; treasurer, Arnold Wolfe; tail twister, Les Baker; lion tamer, Don Pollock; 1 year directors: William Jones, and Art Wallace; 2-year directors: Bob Bennett and Harry Hitchcock.

The club plans to hold a carnival in the town on July 1 and 2, and the Belleville Lions will be the first day will be the Peterborough Ornamental Swimmers.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were in the living room waiting for the kids after we got done and I said to me, Hey me, if you could sit down somewheres and relax for a minute or two, what would it be, exactly?

That's easy, I've got my ideal menu all redy, me said. If I could have all the big fresh asparagus I wanted, and all the big fresh mushrooms, and especially if I could end up with a couple helpings of imported caviar, if I felt like having that many, I could die happy. I dont mean permanently, touch wood, she said.

Just give me a whole week's diet of cellyflower and parsnips, pop said, and me said, Why then I would know they are your 2 pet abominations.

That's only the preparation, pop said, and me said, Stop turning up nose up and my thumbs down at cellyflower and parsnips. I'd be redy for a giant size platter of liver and onions and a 2nd giant size platter of fried potatoes, nice fluffy and lite that I'd have to keep pushing them down out of the pot. Not that I'd get really ruff with anything so delicately delicious, he said.

Well oh boy, I wouldn't need any week for preparation, or even any 5 minutes, I said. I'd order a big tray with 15 hot dog sanwitches leaking with mustard, separated by 15 chocklit ice cream cones, I day.

Cypriots Look Like Britons But Want Them Driven Out

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — An elegantly tailored gentleman with a brilliant British-type moustache waved his cane and shouted a cheery greeting.

"What was that" I asked the British officer with whom I was riding.

"That chap is a Cypriot," he replied, "but he speaks like a Briton, dresses like one and acts like one. He loves the British.

"And he is also one of the leaders of the campaign to throw the British out ok Cyprus."

It was a good demonstration of the split personality of this sunny island in the eastern Mediterranean.

Cyprus, now a crown colony, is not only caught up in the currents of nationalism and violence, but the British withdrawal from Suez is making it the strategic nerve centre in the Western defence line.

Emotionally the Isle of Its 500,000 people—80 per cent of them are Greek—want to be tied to Greece. Practically, many of them realize the disadvantages that would go with enosis (union with Greece).

Privately, but never publicly, some will even express fear of what might happen if the British eventually were forced to leave. Cypriots now are doing fairly well. They have a literacy rate close to 52 per cent, and the literates are found only among the aged. Business is fattening on British money brought in for the construction of military installations.

The Communists are the best-organized political group. When an earthquake hit Cyprus in 1953, the Communist who runs most of the island's trade unions ordered hundreds of workers to go to the area and put in a day of labor without pay. The order was obeyed without question.

The only force in Cyprus which might successfully contend with The Communists is the Greek Orthodox Church, which could wield the powerful threat of excommunication.

Archbishop Makarios, the most vocal and ardent supporter of enosis, publicly has frowned Communist support. But he told me he believes Communists should be won over by "enlightenment and persuasion," and not by the use of any stronger medicine.

Cyprus never was governed by Greece, but from ancient times Greeks settled here. Turkey's hold the island from 1571 until the latter part of the 19th century. Then, in return for a British promise to help slave off Russian encroachment in eastern Turkish provinces, Turkey gave over its administration to Great Britain. Turkey joined the Germans in the First World War, Britain annexed Cyprus.

Littler Takes Top Money In Rich Tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Shooting steadily through wind and a shower of rain, Gene Littler of California ran off with the $10,000 top money Sunday in the $37,500 golf Tournament of Champions with a total score of 280.

Touring the Desert Inn Country Club course in a safe 72, the 25-year-old former national Amateur champion finished the 72 holes eight strokes under par and 13 whopping shots ahead of his nearest rivals.

There was a three-way tie for second place between Bob Toski, Jerry Barber and Pete Cooper.

Likeable Littler, a professional for little more than a year but now the winner of three major 1955 events, had the tournament in his pocket before he started out this chilly afternoon.

His previous rounds of 69-71-68 sent him out in front by 10 strokes going into the final 18 holes. Scores generally were high and Littler was the only one in the select field of 20 finishers to finish under par.

Jockey Gets Murder Threat

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—A threat to kill millionaire jockey Johnny Longden was received by Golden Gate Fields officials Thursday, they revealed Sunday.

Chief steward George Schilling said he received an anonymous telephone call at 10 a.m. Thursday: "We're going to shoot Longden." The caller hung up before he could be traced.

Longden, 45, who grew up in Tabor, Alta., and has a record of more than 4,500 wins, rode his three assigned mounts Thursday while armed patrols employed by the Thoroughbred Racing Assn. guarded the jockeys' dressing room and the paddock and roamed through the grandstand and clubhouse.

Track official believe the call was a hoax or perhaps the threat of a disgruntled bettor who alert guided off.

OHA Moves To Protect Referees Coaches Will Have To Watch Step

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association will not go too hard on coaches the first time they break a rule but the penalty will get harsher for additional offences.

The association ruled at its Annual meeting here Saturday that a suspended coach can direct his team, although not from the bench. Officials said it would be too harsh to banish a coach from active duty during his suspension over a rule infraction. However, he would be relieved of bench duties.

At the same time, the association announced its intention to crack down on players who molest referees. Incoming president Frank Buckland of Peterborough said such "nonsense cannot and will not be tolerated by the OHA and we have to take drastic steps to stop it."

WILL BE SUSPENDED

A player who molests referees or linesmen will be suspended and remain so until his case has been dealt with by the OHA's executive committee, the usual penalty to be a suspension of not less than a year.

Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers in the Junior A League, said that suspending a coach "in a way which would almost forbid him to enter the rink," was too severe a penalty for a first offence.

"There is no reason to penalize the entire team and community by taking away the team's chances of winning because the coach got a little excited and disobeyed a rule," Emms said. "However, if a coach disobeys a rule for the second time, he should be more severely penalized and then throw the book at him for a third infraction."

AUTOMATIC PENALTY

Any player who touches or holds a referee or any minor official with his hand or stick or intentionally trips or bodychecks any such official will be given an automatic match penalty and will be suspended until his case goes before the league president or executive committee. The team will be allowed a replacement for the penalized player.

Seven rule changes were proposed and three amendments will go before the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its annual meeting this summer. The most important one proposes to eliminate unnecessary delay of offs. A system whereby the two players facing off would not be raised behind a line or in a box drawn on the ice surface was approved. Four new members were named to the executive committee: They are T. A. M. Hunter of Aurora, Herb Parker of Stratford, C. G. Patterson of Brampton and Lloyd Pollock of Windsor.

Babe Zaharias Wins Another

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Babe Zaharias was $1,000 richer today thanks to a comeback victory in the third annual Peach Blossom-Betsy Rawls women's golf tournament.

Mrs. Zaharias, who either led or shared the lead during the 72 holes of play, went into Sunday's final 18-hole round over the Spartanburg country club course tied at 217 with Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kan.

At the end of the front nine, Miss Smith had a two-stroke lead over Mrs. Zaharias, but the Babe settled down, collecting a birdie on No. 13 to draw even. The Babe parred the last two holes while Miss Smith bogied both.

Mrs. Zaharias, of Tampa, Fla., shot 78 Sunday, her poorest round, for a 293 total and $1,000 first prize of the $3,000 prize money. Miss Smith collected $700 for her second place 295, Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., had 297 to win third-place money of $600.

Phils, Redlegs Swing Big 3-Player Deal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Redlegs swung a three - for - three straight player deal Saturday and general manager Roy Hamey said happily that in Jim Greengrass, the Phils got "the long-hitting outfielder we had to have."

Hamey called the 27-year-old Greengrass the key man in the deal. Along with him came veteran catcher Andy Seminick and 24-year-old Glen Gorbous, also an outfielder, who hails from Vulcan, Alta.

To get these three, the Phillies gave up pitcher Steve Ridzik, catcher Smoky Burgess, and young outfielder Stan Palys. Any one of them could turn out to be just the medicine the lagging Redlegs need.

Ridzik, for instance, has been in the "promising youngster" class for several seasons since coming up from Toronto.

He's a grand kid, with good stuff, but never turned out to be quite what we hoped," Hamey said. "The new man may help him." A righthander, Ridzik has pitched 11 innings, has an 0-1 record.

Girl Swimmer Smashes Three Canadian Marks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Helen Stewart, the 16-year-old darling of Vancouver swim fans, Saturday boosted her chances for a spot on Canada's 1956 Olympic team by smashing Canadian records in three events.

She stroked her way to new-by Helen two months ago.

times in the 220 - yard junior women's breaststroke, the 100-yard junior girls' freestyle and the 100-yard junior girls' butterfly.

Helen actually broke five records Saturday night, all of which must be approved by the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association. Her times in the 100-yard free style and 220-yard breaststroke were also new marks for senior women's competition.

The marks were chalked up during the B.A. swimming championships.

Time for the 220-yard breaststroke was 3:12.1 compared with the previous record of 3:14.4 set

She raced over the 100-yard butterfly event in 1:11.6 to topple the time of 1:17.1 set by Norma Stewart in 1949.

In churning freestyle through 100 yards in 59.6 seconds, she shaved the mark of 1:00.5 chalked up in June by Virginia Grant of Toronto and became the first woman in Canadian swimming history to cover the distance in less than 60 seconds.

Only other Canadian record set during the evening was by Reg Griffin of Vancouver. He raced over the 440-yard junior freestyle course in 5:5.3. The old mark of 5:06.6 was set by Jim Baine of Vancouver in May, 1952.

VIET-NAM PREMIER APPEARS WINNER

Taken shortly before the outbreak of the bloodiest battle in Free Viet-Nam's growing civil war, these scenes show government and insurgent forces preparing for the bitter Saigon clash. At top, one of hundreds of alerted government soldiers guards a strategic point in the Indo-Chinese city as American-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem clamped down on movements of the rebellious Binh Xuyen sect's commando troops. At bottom, rebel army members camp on a Saigon bridge as a lookout keeps watch while they rest. The latest outbreak, in which hundreds were killed, was touched off when a Binh Xuyen police chief was ousted. Premier Diem appears to have consolidated his control over the district even though perhaps temporary, of the rebels and the removal of Bao Dai as chief of state. (Central Press Canadian.)

Gang Attacks Toronto Boy, Beating Him Until Insensible

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they are trying to break up a gang of youths believed responsible for a series of attacks on boys in the west-end Parkdale district.

Monday night, Morris Penny, 14, was dragged into a lane and kicked and beaten unconscious, police said. He lay in the rain for an hour before a man found him and called police.

Doctors said the boy suffered concussion and abdominal injuries.

Police said there may be a link between the attack on Penny and an injury to a girl with whom he keeps company. She was struck in the face with a stone in a school yard Sunday.

Allan Announces Roads Research Project Planned

HAMILTON (CP) — Highways Minister Allan of Ontario today announced the launching of a research project aimed at improving highways and increasing traffic safety.

Addressing the spring consistory of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masons, he said Queen's University in Kingston and the University of Toronto are providing personnel and facilities for participation in the project, which is to be continuous and which will cover both long-term and short-term problems.

Mr. Allan's remarks were included in a text released to the press prior to delivery.

"I may say that whatever our Ontario department of highways and university research may bring to light will be published for use of road authorities throughout the world," he said.

Objectives would be the study of soils and materials, location and design, construction and maintenance, traffic control and safety, and economics, finance and administration.

MAY BE FELLOWSHIPS

It was expected fellowships would be established at both universities and that the project might make good use of outstanding undergraduates for summer work or other duty.

Mr. Allan said fields of inquiry outlined for consideration included widening of investigation of traffic volumes, speed and its relation to vehicle weight along with the effect of traffic upon the road and its replacement; spacing of speed control signs; design of asphalt paving mixtures; study of year-round frost action on subgrade soils.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The showers and thunderstowers which occurred over southern Ontario during the night had ended in most regions by early this morning and skies are now be-gloming to clear. Mainly sunny and very warm weather will prevail across the lower lakes region today and Wednesday, but in northern regions considerable cloud will persist with fog forming again in many areas tonight.

COMMONS HEARS DEMAND FOR AUTO TAX REBATES

Government Asked To Reverse Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — The government hears growing demands from the Commons floor that it give rebates to auto dealers caught with new cars in stock when the April 5 budget sliced the automobile excise tax.

Five members, representing all parties in Monday's budget debate, asked the government to reverse the decision against rebating the tax reduction from 15 to 10 per cent.

Their common point of view was expressed by Henry Hosking (L—Wellington South). He said it is unfair that car dealers, forced by competition to cut prices after the tax change, should take a loss on taxes paid at the former rate on cars in stock.

Mr. Hosking, a former auto dealer, said many dealers will go broke if they don't get a rebate. Those who stayed in business would hold off their factory orders before the next budget so they wouldn't be caught again. Factory shutdowns and unemployment would result.

OTHERS SUPPORT REBATE

Support for the rebate also came from Dr. Gordon L. Trainor (PC—Winnipeg South), G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton), A. B. Patterson (Reform—Simcoe East) and George Villeneuve (L—Robervai).

Finance minister Harris has been made on both sides of the House in earlier budget debate, though Revenue Minister Nowlan has said the rebates will be given. It would lead to other demands for rebates whenever an excise tax was reduced, he said.

Mr. Hosking argued that when the auto excise tax was increased in 1949 government inspectors were sent out to collect the extra tax from dealers on cars purchased at the lower rate. The same principle should apply now that conditions are reversed, he said.

Mr. Hosking said the government should receive the whole auto industry and try to work out some method to stop layoffs. Reports from Windsor the industry was going to produce to 122 per cent of the previous consumer capacity this year. That would mean factories would have to stop production in the fall and there would be a big unemployment in the industry.

Policeman Shot With Own Gun During Scuffle

TORONTO (CP) — A suburban Toronto police constable yesterday was shot in the leg with his own revolver early today during a scuffle with two men he had just arrested.

Det. Melvin Simmons was taken to hospital where his condition was later described as satisfactory. He also suffered a gash over one eye during the fight.

Police said Simmons and Det. Bernard Greenfield stopped a truck driven by Clarence Smith, 45, and his son John, 17, prior to the flight. The officers said they have been watching the truck since a warrant was issued against the father on a charge of threatening following a report Saturday that a man had threatened him.

The two Smiths were taken into custody. No charges were laid immediately.

Frost Reveals How He Picked Election Date

BRAMPTON (CP) — Premier Frost Monday night disclosed his choice of a shooting star decided the date.

He said that Monday, especially in his own riding, is wash day and even politicians cannot interfere in such things. The trend for Canadians, especially city dwellers, to be away weekends ruled out Friday and Saturday.

Thursday, in this case June 9, would bring out the greatest number of persons to vote, Mr. Frost did not mention he received his greatest majority in Ontario's election history on Thursday, Nov. 21, 1951.

U.S. to Train Selected British Bomber Crews to Use American A-Weapons

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says the United States has agreed to train selected British bomber crews to use American atomic weapons.

"This agreement clearly envisages the delivery—in a war emergency—of United States atomic weapons to units of the Royal Air Force," The Times, dispatch from London says. It adds that the actual weapons would only be turned over to Britain from U. S. stocks in Europe on the order of the president, as required by U. S. law.

The Times says a "qualified source" in London gave this explanation of the U. S.-British atomic co-operation.

"There are two important offensive air forces in the Western world—the USAF and the RAF. Until now the United States has not needed to exchange nuclear information with Britain. That has changed. Britain now has her own atomic capability and an increasing delivery capability. Such a change of nuclear knowledge will strengthen both countries as part of NATO defence."

Former CCF Member Accuses Party of Comforting Reds

OTTAWA (CP)—A former Socialist has accused the Commons' 23-man CCF group of giving comfort to Communist causes by voicing a foreign affairs policy instigated by left-wing elements in the party.

Ross Thatcher, 37-year-old Independent member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, told the Commons Monday in the budget debate that the CCF party's views on foreign policy are fraught with danger for all Canadians. They failed to recognize the necessity for survival.

Mr. Thatcher, who resigned from the CCF party April 22 because he disagreed with his former colleagues on major public policy, made the charge as he explained his reasons for resigning.

A member of the Commons since 1945, he said he will sit in the House for the remainder of the present Parliament as an Independent. He would run again only if there was a genuine and widespread belief among his constituents that he is needed to serve their interests.

"For some time, I have been fearful of, and in disagreement with what appeared to me to be a growing left-wing tendency within the [illegible] party," he said.

"The leader of the CCF (M. J. Coldwell) and most of his colleagues have no more use for communism and its vicious methods than I have. They have publicly emphasized this fact on many occasions.

"Nevertheless, despite the well-meaning sincerity of most CCF adherents, I personally feel that left-wing elements have gained dangerous and unwarranted recognition within the counsels of the party.

"Here in Parliament with increasing frequency the CCF party has taken a line on foreign affairs that, in my opinion, no matter how honestly it has been taken, can only give comfort to Communist nations."

CCF members followed Mr. Thatcher in the debate but made no reference to his speech. Present indications are that CCF members do not plan any comment in the House on the charges.

Mr. Thatcher also said he opposes CCF demands for higher social welfare benefits regardless of the country's ability to pay, the "unrealistic" policy of the CCF for material increases in corporation income taxes and proposals by the party for socialization of key industries and nationalization of the banks. He said he found that efforts to obtain government economy were "brushed aside" and accused sometimes hostility by CCF members here.

There is very real danger to the country, he said, "when any political party, through its policies, platforms, money, reckless endeavors to buy votes, threatens by outbidding the other parties in the social benefits field."

Toss Bombing Poses New Threat to Canadian Air Bases

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A new threat to Canada's defences, a bombing, a new low-level bombing technique, may render obsolete many continental defence measures costing Canada's air bases in Europe.

The technique was developed by the United States Air Force and still in the experimental stage, makes use of the well-known wireless and radar warning systems to detect surprise planes. It is called "toss bombing" the hush-hush project were disclosed at a recent meeting of U.S. reader civil defence officials in Washington.

The new method allows a high-speed plane literally to throw an atomic bomb over another radar or an enemy target from a distance of more than four miles with little or no advance warning. The technique calls for the attacking aircraft to approach the target at a height of less than 500 feet and speed in excess of 500 miles an hour.

While still almost five miles from the target, the pilot puts his plane into a 45-degree climb and releases the bomb. The aircraft's speed will carry it in a parabolic curve onto the target.

No details of the construction of the system have been disclosed, but results have been entirely satisfactory to cause the U.S. Air Force to continue development. In any event, use of an atomic bomb would make pinpoint accuracy unnecessary.

Canadian defence officials, who feel RCAF air bases in Germany and France would be particularly vulnerable to such an attack, are keeping a close watch on the experiments now under way. They point out that some of Canada's fighter bases in Germany are only a few minutes flying time from Soviet-controlled territory. And with the Soviet fighter wing rated NATO's most potent air arm in Europe, the Canadian bases would be primary targets in the event of war.

Not only would the new technique make it extremely hazardous for fighter planes to break in below the radar detection net until almost on top of the base, but the planes could release their bombs from the fighter wing rated NATO's most potent air arm in Europe, the Canadian bases would be primary targets in the event of war.

Not only would the new technique make it extremely hazardous for fighter planes to break in below the radar detection net until almost on top of the base, but the planes could release their bombs from the fighter wing rated NATO's most potent air arm in Europe, the Canadian bases would be primary targets in the event of war.

Toss bombing could be used with equal success against Canadian cities, they point out. They are situated so far from any possible enemy that a surprise attack is not considered likely. And for centres like Montreal, Ottawa or Toronto, the enemy pilots would have to fly over such tremendous defences that they would be spotted in advance by ground observer posts.

Shot as 'Witch', London Woman's Condition 'Fair'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Victoria Hospital authorities reported little change in the condition of Mrs. Elsie Haldane, 32-year-old housewife who was shot in the leg by a calibre bullet Monday morning during a scuffle in the washing at the rear of her home.

The woman's condition was described as only "fair" following an emergency operation. The bullet penetrated the left leg and shattered arm, ripped through her left lung and emerged out the back.

Police, meanwhile, are holding in custody 75-year-old Angelo Pinto, a retired Italian-born shoe repairman who has been charged with wounding. Pinto appeared before magistrate Harold B. Salvatory and was remanded to May 1.

Pinto, a candidate for mayor, was arrested shortly after the shooting while asking about the victim.

The woman's husband, James, told police he was awakened early on the telephone in his restaurant, half a block from his home and told there was trouble at home.

He said he raced home and found his wife lying on the ground, apparently from the wound. She was beside the phone.

Mr. Haldane said his wife was conscious and told him a neighbor had shot her. She was locked in the door to Pinto's house and seized a .22-calibre rifle.

LIVES ALONE

Mr. Haldane told police Pinto had lived by himself for the last few years, and added:

"Yesterday afternoon Pinto told a neighbor that my wife was a witch and haunting him at night and that he was going to sell his house because of it."

GERMAN PROBLEM GIVES CANADA GRAVE CONCERN

Russia's Offer May Change Whole Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada, plagued by the German question ever since the government has had an external affairs department, is worried about it again.

There is "grave concern" here, informants said Monday, about ramifications of Russia's offer to end the occupation of Austria provided Austria remains neutral.

The possibility that West Germany might favor a Russian proposal of German reunification in exchange for German neutrality in the Cold War is foreseen by officials.

This may be the dominant subject for discussion when foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meet at Paris May 9. External Affairs Minister Pearson will leave here Friday by air for Paris.

WESTERN EFFORTS

For the last few years, the West has worked to build a rearmed West Germany into NATO and on May 9, the day after the 10th anniversary of Germany's surrender, the republic is scheduled to be admitted formally to the Western community.

Although West Germany has been given the right to limited rearmament—12 army divisions and a small air force—Chancellor Adenauer has not yet considered the laws necessary to raise these forces.

Informants said the talks among the foreign ministers are likely to be broad in scope and will carry over into discussions by the North Atlantic Council.

Mr. Pearson, accompanied by John A. Hosmer, assistant undersecretary for Far Eastern affairs and disarmament, will return to Ottawa about May 18 after a brief stop-over in London.

HAMILTON (CP)—Donald MacLean, 73, father of Mrs. Evelyn Dick and a figure in one of Canada's most sensational murder trials, died today.

Mrs. Dick was sentenced in March, 1947 to a life term in Kingston penitentiary for manslaughter in the shotgun slaying of her estranged husband, Dr. Bruce Dick, Nov. 25, she still is in penitentiary.

MacLean was found guilty of rape in April, 1947, to a charge of stealing streetcar tickets and cash from the Hamilton Street Railway Company, for which he worked, and was sentenced to five years in Kingston penitentiary.

He also was given a concurrent sentence for the charge of accessory after the fact in the slaying of John Dick, his son-in-law.

SERIES OF TRIALS

The sentencing of MacLean brought to a close the series of trials resulting from discovery of the torso of Dick on the lower reaches of Hamilton mountain March 16, 1946, and of the finding later of the head of a baby.

CCF Cannot Hope to Form Govt. Says Nickle

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial Secretary W. M. Nickle said Monday night the CF cannot hope to form a government in the June 9 general election because its leaders would have to raise taxes to carry out their promises.

With Mines Minister Kelly, Mr. Nickle spoke at a Toronto Progressive-Conservative constituency meeting which nominated Earl Kerr as PC candidate in the next election. Mr. Kerr represented the constituency in the Legislature.

Predict Mercury Will Reach 85 On Wednesday

TORONTO (CP) — The word "hot" appeared today for the first time in the weather forecast for this week. The forecast. With a high of 80 degrees expected today in most parts of Ontario, forecasters called for a rise to 85 degrees Wednesday in Windsor and Hamilton, 80 at London and 75 at Toronto.

Vaccine From Living Polio Virus Seen Eventual Answer To Disease

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A vaccine made from living polio virus, as distinguished from the "killed" virus of the Salk vaccine, probably will be the eventual answer to the infantile paralysis problem, a group of experts says.

A live virus vaccine should be the ultimate goal, they say, because it offers the best chance of conferring long-lasting immunity.

The Salk vaccine, these experts say, is the only one meanwhile is the best available now and should be used widely.

The Salk vaccine, these experts have told the California Medical Association, contains only a carefully-drawn balance between its ability to cause the disease and its ability to produce immunity.

Rapidity with which the virus is killed during the vaccine-making process is an important factor, it is said. Sometimes there may not be enough of its power to produce immunity in the injected person. Or sometimes the killing process may destroy some individual viruses in a it may remain lively enough to cause the disease in its recipients.

A vaccine made from a live virus would not have the potential for such a weak protective power, but unless carefully handled it might involve the risk of causing polio, the experts say. Research in the living state to make it is going on, but it will be some years before being used as vaccine material.

Two kinds of vaccine made from living virus now are under trial in the United States on a small scale in a few years, said Dr. Edwin H. Lennette, who headed the panel discussion.

Dr. Lennette, of the California health department, was one of a group which in Washington last week described the Salk vaccine produced by five drug houses is safe. The vaccine made by a sixth manufacturer, Cutter laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., was withdrawn after several cases of polio appeared among children vaccinated with its product.

House Dissolved With Election Date Set For June 9

Hon. G.H. Challies Retires, W.E. Hamilton To Reply

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario residents, who returned the Progressive Conservative government of Premier Frost with a sweeping majority four years ago, vote in another general election June 9.

Mr. Frost, seeking to lead his party to its fifth straight election victory, Monday announced dissolution of the 24th legislature and set the date when more than 2,000,000 persons may go to the polls.

The date—Thursday, June 9—was not surprising. It had been rumored for weeks. The announcement was made at Queen's Park after the premier had met with Lieutenant-Governor Louis S. Breithaupt for 15 minutes. Nominations will be held Thursday, May 26.

Mr. Frost also announced the retirement of Hon. George H. Challies as a cabinet minister and vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The 71-year-old Mr. Challies, second oldest member of the cabinet, was appointed chairman of the Ontario St. Lawrence Parks commission.

WILL CONTEST SEATS

Hon. William E. Hamilton succeeds Mr. Challies as vice-chairman of Hydro. Mr. Challies, member for Grenville-Dundas, and Mr. Hamilton, member for Prince Edward-Lennox-Addington will not contest their seats in the coming provincial election.

The Liberals will be led by Farquhar Oliver, Grey county lawyer and veteran of 23 years in provincial politics. Donald C. MacDonald, former newspaper man and school teacher, will be entering his first election as CCF provincial leader. He was chosen leader in 1953.

Although the 24th legislature could have run until 1956, announcement that a general election would be held this summer was expected for some time.

In the 1951 general election, the Progressive Conservatives were elected with the greatest legislature majority in the province's history. They captured 79 of the 90 seats in the house. Liberals won seven, CCF two, Liberal-Labor one and Communist Labor-Progressive one. Five by-elections have been held since then with Conservatives winning all of them.

HOUSE STANDING

At Monday's dissolution, the government had 78 seats, Liberals six and two were vacant. Others were the late A. E. Reid—Conservative—who raise the number of seats to 98 in the June election.

Viet Nam Premier Receives Backing From U.S., France

BY JOHN RODERICK

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's triumphant Free Viet Nam nationalist forces today pushed their mop-up of battered remnants of the rebel Binh Xuyen army. On the political front, Diem announced he had won his advantage over the absentee chief of this Indochina state, Bao Dai.

The premier formally convoked a "states-general"—an assembly of political party representatives and municipal and provincial officials —to pass judgment on the national revolutionary committee's weekend recommendation to depose Bao Dai. The assembly was called to meet in Saigon Wednesday.

In a broadcast, Diem said the national army also will have a voice in the decision on the committee's recommendations. Both the states-general and the army are expected to agree on the ousting of Bao Dai, the playboy ex-emperor who has lived in exile on the French Riviera for the last 13 months.

FOREIGN ORDER

The demands for Bao Dai's deposition followed his cabled order last week for Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, a supporter of his, to supplant Diem. The army refused to follow Vy, who then scurried back to the hill resort of Dalat.

Diem has the French support and renewed United States backing. Ambassador Donald R. Heath of the French officials in Paris Monday night said that their government and the U.S. had refused to "sacrifice" Bao Dai if his removal would promote stability.

In Washington, Henry Suydam, chief state department press officer, announced that the U.S. "continues to support the legal government of Free Viet Nam" headed by Diem. He refused to say whether Vy-aligned still regards Bao Dai as chief of state.

Band Members Entertain At Kinsmen Club

Playing with the Kinsmen Boys' band must be the ideal of most youthful band players in the city.

The local service club band now has a membership of 40 players and there is a waiting list of 40 anxious young players clamoring for their turn to play with the band.

This was the happy state of affairs described by Kinsmen Orlif "Bollet" Lloyd, Kinsmen band committee chairman as he had five band members along with bandleader Alf Cooper as guests at the regular club dinner meeting at the Shrine Club.

Band members Dave Branscombe, Paul Watson, Kenneth Adams, Randall Evans and Russ Soule played a medley of tunes to the piano accompaniment of Kinsman Jim Conradi with such snappy and fine favorites as "Sleepy Time Gal", "Five Foot Two, Eyes of Blue" and "I'm Sitting on Top of the World" rolling from their instruments with professional air.

The group also turned up a vocalist in the person of bandsman Russ Soule, who demonstrated a very fine voice in his rendition of "Serenade of the Bells."

Details of the forthcoming mass X-ray survey to be conducted in the city by the Tuberculosis Association were outlined by Mc-Kinley Rankin. Survey dates for Belleville will be May 30 to June 10th at the Belleville arena. Hours will be 10-12 in the morning, 2-5 in the afternoon and from 7-10 in the evening.

Business discussion at the meeting included plans for initiation night and ladies' night. President Don Thomas noted that club officers for the new year also would be elected at the next meeting.

Holloway Street United Church Opens Campaign for $150,000

Holloway Street United Church, centre of Christian worship for 82 years in the city's West Hill district, today commences canvassing its congregation in a fund-raising campaign, which, it is hoped, will raise for the church $150,000 in three years.

The campaign goal, which will be subscribed to by voluntary pledges from the congregation of over 900, is providing its committee members with a new adventure in church work. For, they stress, availability of the needed funds will provide for proper space and facilities for the development of the young people's physical, mental and spiritual values. They also feel that the campaign will stimulate interest in the church, not only financially but spiritually.

As a curtain-raiser to the canvass, some 800 members of the congregation last night learned of a loyalty banquet in Tobe's Coun-try Kitchen, that night before $35,-000 had been pledged by some of the campaign workers and well-wishers of the church.

The canvass has been organized by the worldwide Wells fund raising organization and personally supervised and managed on the local level by William Harding.

EXPLAINED IN DETAIL

At last night's banquet the campaign was explained in detail to the congregation by key workers in the campaign. Among the speakers were J. D. Robertson, clerk of the sessions; J. Fred Wilson, general chairman of the campaign; Dr. Harold Craig and Mrs. Digby, teams' chairmen.

Special messages also were offered to the assembly through a booklet on the campaign.

Explaining the plan of the campaign, Mr. Wilson said that $150,-000 was "a lot of money" but the work of raising that goal was greatly reduced when spread over three years among 900 parishioners.

"With the help and support of the entire congregation it can be accomplished without any great hardship in anyone," he said.

"We will have obligations to meet just so long as we have a church," he said the assembly. The funds would help the church itself expand and also its attendant organizations.

"There are so many things that could be accomplished in the church if we had the finances to do them," he said.

The canvass is being carried out "not altogether for the finances of the church. We feel it is going to stimulate interest in the church both spiritually and financially."

Coming together is a beginning; keeping together is progress; thinking together is unity and working together is success," he concluded.

ONLY ONE-THIRD USED

In his address Ted Poste, monitoring chairman, noted that of some 440 sets of duplex envelopes now in circulation in the parish, only one-third are being used consistently.

"We need the contribution the whole year round, not of the year."

There will be no extra donations to the church from parishioners, outside of the pledged amount for the next three years. Mr. Poste wondered if salary increases in the past several years had also meant an increase in church offerings.

Speaking for the church's missionary and maintenance committee, Les Digby outlined details of that committee's use of Sunday offerings.

"We are not asking for another pledge. The pledge you are being asked to make during this canvass is a combined funds pledge."

He hoped the congregation would seriously consider contributing some of the weekly pledge to Missionary and Maintenance.

Dr. Harold Craig, special gifts chairman, called on the congregation to treat the church more as a community service.

"It is my sincere belief that we have drifted away from the church as a community service," he said, adding it was "high time" that time spent on service clubs and such organizations was diverted more into making the church such a centre.

A primary need to this end was more facilities and it was desirable to have those facilities and community activities within the church group.

Scott Denton explained that the pledge made to the fund was not binding, nor a promissory note.

"It is up to you what you would like to pledge."

"Ten years ago," he said, "the dollar was worth more than at present, and if we have not revised our contribution to the church in those 10 years then we are not giving as much as we did ten years ago."

In reading the pledge "one thing we are doing is giving back what was given to us." It also was an investment for future generations.

PASTOR IS HEARD

Pastor of the church, Rev. Sidney Lanman was the last speaker on the lengthy schedule. He compared the Wells fund raising with Well's organization for its work and said that wherever the Wells organization operated, not only were church finances raised but there was also a "tremendous surge of interest" in the church.

The pledge was not going to be a rod that will be punished by, but rather something that will refresh the church", he said.

Other speakers were Mrs. G. Dobbs, W.A. president, who reported the pledges operated from the church and said like the pioneers "we must think of the men and women of the future."

J. D. Robertson, who said that the greatest need today is "to be a Christian in deed as well as in word" and " . . . bury our selfishness in service to others."

Leonard Reid reminded the audience that "we also have a moral obligation to the continuity of the church."

Head table guests at the banquet were: Mr. and Mrs. Scott Denton; Mrs. Grant Coulter, WMS president; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Dobbs; Mr. Robertson; Rev. and Mrs. Sidney Larman; Ted Poste and Les Digby.

The Women's Auxiliary of Centenary United Church catered for the dinner.

April Warmer But Less Rain Than Last Year

Rural weather prognosticators claim signs point to a warm dry spell ahead and if weather statistics for the past month can be taken as a sample, they are only too right.

The mean temperature for April was four points above that of a year ago while only 1.91 inches of rain fell as compared with 3.44 inches a year ago.

A high of 74 degrees was registered at the city pump house west of the city while the lowest the thermometer sank was 25 degrees. A year ago the highest was 72 degrees with a chilly seven degrees.

The mean temperature for the month was 48 degrees as compared with 44 a year ago.

Young Methodist Minister Started Salvation Army

"All of this work started under a hat—and I wore that hat!"

William Booth, founder of The Salvation Army, made this statement many times during his life, in referring to the world wide movement that he started, and which today operates in 85 countries of the globe.

Ninety years ago, in 1865, young William Booth was a Methodist minister preaching near London. His church disapproved of the evangelical methods that young Booth wished to use, to take the Gospel to the "man in the street." In protest against his church's restraint and criticism, William Booth gave up his pulpit and went out into London's East End to take the benefits of religion to those without a church.

William preached on street corners, anywhere he could find one—in a tent. Rocks and mud were thrown at him, and his tents were cut down. Still he persisted, wishing to be able to help those who were the poor, the thousands of destitute around him in whom no man but himself seemed interested.

William Booth's high spiritual resolve and courage quickly won him friends and followers; and financial support came from quarters where it was least expected: from royalty and from the nobility. Greatest support of the Salvation Army came from the start, however, from those whose plight Booth determined to relieve: the people.

With Booth an interest in men's spiritual welfare was coupled with an interest in their physical well-being, and William Booth was the first to establish food kitchens for the hungry, and to provide shelter for those who were then sleeping on the bridges and streets of London.

William Booth's wife, Catherine, was perhaps the first social worker as modern society understands the term. She pioneered in visiting the poor, and in administering to them.

After their fourteen years of existence, the Salvation Army began to spread to other countries. Once committed to a policy of expansion beyond Great Britain, General Booth lost no time in sending pioneer parties to other lands. The work was established in 1881 in Australia and France; in 1882 in Switzerland, Sweden, Holland, Canada and in 1883, in South Africa, Ceylon and New Zealand. In every succeeding year, the Salvation Army entered other countries. Work in Canada was begun by two youthful Salvationist emigrants from England—Jack Addie and Joe Ludgate. They met accidentally in London, Ont., and together decided to establish the Army's work.

Today, 108 languages and dialects are needed by the almost 18,000 Salvation Army corps and outposts around the world for their work of evangelism, relief and education. There is no corner of the globe in civilized or primitive society, where the Salvation Army does not operate, catering to peace-time needs as well as to those resulting from war, disasters and emergencies.

The Salvation Army's annual Red Shield appeal is now underway, with $8,000 being sought in the Belleville district.

COMMONS HEARS

The government should study means "to stop this rat race in summer months." His solution would be to have manufacturers change to new models in August instead of the present so that there would be full production during winter months.

Mr. Hosking suggested the Ontario government could help reduce motoring costs in the province by reviewing the "huge" licence, gasoline and oil taxes it charges motorists.

"Who's going to reduce high-ways?" interjected G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough).

Monday's debate also brought forward a variety of suggestions on development of natural resources.

Frank Hamilton (L — York-Scarborough) said tax policies should recognize the importance of encouraging those who take risks to develop Canada's natural wealth.

UNEQUAL TERMS

Carl Nickle (PC—Calgary South) said income tax provisions on depletion allowances for Canadian gas and oil companies put them on unequal terms with United States firms operating in Canada. The result was a decrease in Canadian oil investment and an increased flow of U.S. capital.

Dr. Trainor charged the government with following a "vacillating, unrealistic policy" on natural resources. Eastern cities like Montreal and Toronto were getting natural gas before Windsor because of a policy apparently designed to keep natural resources in the ground if they can't be sold.

Arts And Crafts Club Enjoys Colored Films

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club was held Monday evening in their club rooms in King George School. Mrs. Dolly Cain, president, Mrs. Dolly Cain, presiding.

In the bulletin, the members had been asked to bring a cup and saucer, for an occasional coffee party, and the response was wonderful, so that all enjoyed the refreshments served by the hostesses of the evening, the Art group, convened by Mrs. Whalen.

Mr. Tindale's class in ceramics was in progress in the south room, while the business meeting was conducted, a showing of a weaving film, "Warp and Weft," procured through the Belleville and District Film Council, and also some beautiful colored slides of scenic views across Canada, shown by Mr. R. Williamson, were the pursuits of the balance of the members present. Altogether a most enjoyable and profitable evening.

UNIVERSITIES MUST BE EXPANDED

"No student attending Queen's ever paid more than half of what his or her education cost."

That statement, contained in a letter from the Queen's Alumni Association, could apply to almost every Canadian university.

The greater percentage of university costs is met through endowment and gifts from alumni. In 1954 the major proportion of alumni gifts ranged from $5 to $25.

University financing has never met more than immediate needs. Major construction is usually financed by special alumni fund-raising drives, bequests or donations from philanthropists. Building programs are rarely launched or sustained by operating revenue because, as the Queen's alumni association points out, less than half of the cost of educating students is met by fees.

High personal income taxes are bound to reduce the average size of alumni gifts. Because alumni gifts represent a very real source of revenue, and because the university can never be sure to what extent gifts will be forthcoming, year-to-year financing is precarious.

Canada's population, growing rapidly because of immigration and a high birthrate, will place an increasingly heavy burden on existing university facilities in the very near future. Hence mushrooming problems of providing accommodation for elementary and secondary school students throughout the country will, in a few years, become a problem for universities as well.

It is not sufficient for the welfare of this country to maintain universities at their present levels. They must be expanded and their facilities increased. The tidal wave of children moving towards universities from the elementary and high schools must find the universities able to train them. Their training will require more teachers and more money than are available at present.

The training of university professors is a long and costly process but without them the universities will be unable to fulfill their task of training tomorrow's leaders. It is in the public interest to insure that today's universities will be prepared for tomorrow's student population.

Government support of universities is part of the answer. But industry and individuals must come to the universities' rescue. It will be only half a rescue if public and industrial support is channelled into the provincial physical sciences. Students must be encouraged to remain teaching and the temptation of higher incomes in business and the professions thwarted by higher salaries.

The Ford Foundation in the United States, recognizing that the crisis in education is primarily the imbalance between the number of students and the number of teachers, has announced a gift of $30,000 to be used to raise university professors' salaries. This is far-sighted generosity that should be matched, on an appropriate scale, in Canada.

Canadian universities need help now. If they do not get it Canada will need help in the future.

OUR STANDARD OF LIVING IMPROVES

Has the standard of living improved in the past decade? For an urban resident, the chances are that it has immensely.

This conclusion appears inescapable when we study figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

For instance, in 1945 the average hourly wage rate for those employed in manufacturing establishments was less than 69½ cents. Last year this rate was over $1.40.

Of course that does not mean that the average factory worker's standard of living had doubled in ten years. There were two factors preventing such a result. One was higher prices. The other was a decrease in the average number of hours worked, from 44.3 hours a week to 40.6 hours. This decline, however, was less than ten per cent.

Moreover, it is interesting to note that, while the average wage rates in the construction industry also doubled, the work week actually increased in length, from 38.9 hours to 39.4 hours. In manufacturing, however, rates increased from 85 cents to over $1.50, the work week was cut little more than an hour, from 43.8 hours to 42.6 hours. So that Canadians did not offset much of the increase in hourly rates by working for a shorter period.

This is clearly shown by the fact that average weekly earnings for those employed in manufacturing plants rose from $32.46 in 1945 to $65.34 in 1954. What prevented these workers from almost doubling their standard of living was higher prices. The consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was only 75 in 1945 and rose to over 116 in 1954. In other words a Canadian needed $116 a week in 1954 to enjoy the same standard of living he could have maintained on $75 a week in 1945.

Of course the figures are averages. There will be individual cases including persons who have suffered unemployment or higher prices without commensurate increases in wages have resulted in sharply decreased standards of living.

Most of us, though, are better off today than we were in 1945.

It may perhaps surprise many to learn that most of this improvement has occurred during the past three years, a third of it in 1954. Figuring the purchasing power of average weekly wages in manufacturing at 100 in 1949, the worker in 1954 was only slightly better off than he was in 1945, when the index would have been 98.3. It had dipped to 92.4 in 1946, risen to 98.5 in 1947 and dropped again to 95.2 in 1948. Since 1949 the index has climbed steadily, but was only 102.9 by 1951. In 1952 it jumped to 110.4, registered another gain to 116.4 in 1953 and then leaped to 125.7 in 1954.

Yes, the car is built for speed.
Horse-power I can boast of—
More than I shall ever need
Or employ the most of.
Come on, stranger! Pass me by
If you're in a hurry.
Race it out with you? Not I.
Also I won't worry.

I could beat you, mile for mile.
But we both are knowing.
But I'd rather sit and smile
As by—me you're going.

Get along and pass me by,
But I should remind you
Safer I will be if I
Drive a bit behind you.

I will clear the way for you.
Willingly and gladly.
That I'm quite content to do
Than start driving madly.
Unembarrassed I will let
You become the winner,
And I'll even hope you get Safely home for dinner.

Fixing Date Of Crucifixion

(Milwaukee Journal)

Is it possible to determine the date of Jesus' crucifixion? Some astronomers and theologians think it is.

Countless inquiries into this problem have led to the conclusion that the crucifixion occurred sometime during or between the years 29 and 33. Astronomically only these five years need be taken into further consideration.

It is known from the Scriptures that Jesus died on a Friday that was followed by the Jewish feast of the Passover. But the Passover was celebrated annually on the first full moon of the spring.

Astronomers have calculated that only two of the five years mentioned had the Passover on Saturday. They were 30 and 33 A.D. The crucifixion, therefore, could have taken place either on Friday, April 3, 33 A.D. No other dates are possible.

Which is the right one?

There are at least two good reasons in support of the year 33.

It is generally agreed that Jesus was baptized in the spring of 26. If this is correct, it is hard to believe that the numerous trips and the tremendous work He did thereafter could be accomplished during the short period from the spring of 26 to April 7, 30 A.D.

The second reason is astronomical. In the description of Jesus' crucifixion, the Gospel of Matthew says:

"Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour."

A similar statement can also be found in the Gospel of Mark and Luke.

Was it an eclipse of the sun?

The answer is no, unless it was a supernatural phenomenon. To cover the bright disk of the sun, the moon must be new. But on the evening before the Passover the phase is exactly full.

It is also hard to imagine that the darkness was caused by a sandstorm, as some theologians have suggested. Sandstorms were too common an occurrence in Palestine to attract particular attention.

A more plausible explanation can be found in a passage of the "Gospel of Jerusalem" — a book not accepted as part of the Bible. It reads:

"And the moon hid its light, and the stars fell."

Astronomical calculations confirm that a partial eclipse of the moon occurred on the evening of April 3, 33 A.D. The moon rose, already eclipsed, at 6.03 p.m., and regained its full light 34 minutes later.

Whether this eclipse was the phenomenon that caused the "darkness over all the land," nobody knows. One can well imagine, however the terrific effect upon Jesus' disciples and followers when, toward the conclusion of the gloomy day of the crucifixion, a darkened moon appeared above the horizon of Calvary.

Whitton on Democracy

(Extracts from an Address by Charlotte Whitton, Mayor of Ottawa, at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, P.E.I., on "The Decay of Democracy.")

What has come about has been too largely and widely just a triumph of apathy to an increasingly diffuse and indifferent and uninformed body—the people. And ignorance and error have been rampant, since, as John Morley says, it is an idea that that error somehow in certain stages, where there is enough of it, ceases ally does good, like vaccination."

So we have come full circle. This "democracy" is not the thing that we have so glorified (these we not held "vox populi, vox dei"—the voice of the people is the voice of God) — and which was designed to secure the exercise of their direct power over their own lives by the people themselves), has become so diffused over great masses with anything but common interests, so blurred in outline, so much a form of speech indeed rather than a way of life, that it threatens "in bogs and sands" to perish, and its evil and its good be lost forever."

The first and greatest corroding force in this internal decay of democracy is the inertia of the mass of any deep sense of responsibility to be part of government and elected alike. There is little thought of serious study, of honest searching to know and espouse what is the cause of the common good, of service to that end. Less and less for freedom in and of itself, with all that such a precious right implies.

Related and allied to the lack of much sense of responsibility for their government is the sheer indifference and inertia of the great mass of the electors. It is not an age of interest or concern (except in the abstraction of a concept of the mind) but with material things.

Such civil preference is bred in part in our educational tenets. Our whole system of education specialists argues that the pupil should be taught "not to learn facts but to think."

"O thinking" exclaims my old professor, "what loose and intellectual crimes are committed in thy name! How can a man think who has nothing to think about, not think with hopes and fears and ignorance, but only with well-trained and a well-filled mind."

It is so easy to swim with the tide and delude is afloat. Like many swimming the same way of living as millions, number of sameness, tastes, conclusions, such sport shirts, fishing tackle, or what have you—even to the slippers and baby formulas—of changing mass dictates.

In a material discontent we are off with the old just because it is the old, not because it is worn or useless, and on with the new, whether it be new garments, or gadgets, or manners, or morals, a new wife, a new husband, or a new faith—change merely for change's sake, as published and propaganda call the tune, and never with rest to body, mind or spirit.

Leisure, so long sought for the recreation of mind and body, has become "boredom" for the great number of the people, to be used in commercial entertainment, in passive exposure to amusements, organized and marketed for which, far away from capitalizing the love of risk in the affairs of life, the gambling spirit in this blend make legitimate an otherwise illegitimate undertaking.

Though to be just these is too widely diffused a tendency to be of value and service in their day to the unprecedented extent of fraternal societies, charitable service and general community activities in which so much of humane, individual endeavor is generously outpoured.

But by organized and greater degree mass organization, routine regulations, mass treatment, mass publicity tend to obscure and to obsorb much of the original human impulse to the detriment service of the citizen in the public elected "cause."

Death Is Not A Sideshow

(Hamilton Spectator)

We are not particularly squeamish, but we cannot accept death as the last gasp of life as a sideshow.

Two days of watching the bellyhoo preliminary to the atomic explosion in Nevada have left us with a feeling that we are slightly and any moment be physically sick.

The broadcasts, the flights and the shills moved in with their excitation markers, the hoopla, the "countdown" were right up, folks, and see the most spectacular show on earth.

The admen moved in with their clinging, commercial unctuousness. Tom Town, they cutely christened the community that was to be the "target" area.

The television men moved in with their cameras, microphones and their high-pressure commentaries, sucking out the last drop of dramatics.

And all this to promote what? Only to whoop up sales of Nagasaki Ales?

No; death is not a sideshow. The flesh's power of instant slaughter; the subtler horror of slow death, the gnawing fear of the latter, are implicit in the cloud.

It is only a bigger bomb, as bombs are these days—only the equivalent in destructive power of 20,000 tons of TNT instead of ten gem bomb can match 4,000,000 tons. The most powerful a bomb as wiped the heart of Hiroshima off the map and snuffed out nearly 100,000 lives.

It may be right that the public should thus be given a taste of the ultimate fact of this generation.

But it should have been done quietly; reverently, almost.

And with a deep humility.

Reason For Gobbledegook

(Christian Science Monitor)

The General Services Administration has set out to educate government offices out of "gobbledegook" and into the native English". We wish it well. It will be quite a job—not because government administrators are stupid, but because the habit has caused the causes of "gobbledegook" run deep into the nature of all government activities. Most of many other big and longestablished organizations.

"Gobbledegook" comes into being first because governments—and all of us—find it impossible to carry on strictly in accordance with the letter of the law as well as the intent. A "bureaucrat" who in his correspondence departs too far from the letter of the law to suit himself in more trouble than he can get out of. Consequently the "finsilizing" of this editorial. law" is framed by legislators, and "finsilized" again by lawyers. The legal language, although it has precision and a long tradition of policy, has still quite a way to go.

Another reason for mouthfilling prose is the tendency to "play it safe" and "cover all bases." Safer not to get into trouble, but also not to say anything thought, too. That's why business offices kept on saying, "Enclosed please find the invoice and contents noted. . ." and why Congress has had long after no one spoke that way.

It takes courage to break away from these habits of effort. So we have thoughtful simplicity. So, in order to "facilitate" printing of this page and to "ameliorate" the labor of the reader we shall "proceed to housewife imagines. And "the

At Last A Faint Yap

For years I have been harping. What else? Harping on a number of things pertaining to health and happiness—happiness being contingent upon health. One of these things is drinking. . .

I have incessantly urged parents, guardians, uncles, aunts, grandparents, big brothers or sisters, teachers, coaches, doctors, even nurses to pledge growing children under their care or influence to total abstinence.

My mother, an active member of the Canandaigua W.C.T.U., and, if I recollect, an officer or a delegate or something, pledged her four sons to total abstinence, and no conceivable temptation or circumstance could have made any of us break such a pledge. Yes, we promised not to use alcohol or tobacco before we were 21.

The temptations or circumstances growing children knew in our time were indeed immense when compared with what growing children must cope with today. Therefore it seems to me that the temperance of the total abstinence pledge is a greater boon to health and happiness than ever before.

In this, I am sorry to say, John is out of step. Aside from occasional applause notes from W.C.T.U. members who offer faint praise and then chide me for my smoking. I have never heard from a parent, grandparent, guardian or anyone else who admits he or she shares my belief in total temperance pledge. Especially not from a pastor, a doctor—I tell you unwillingly, it hurts.

But I'm not giving up. I still believe the Lord is my Shepherd. I have come a postal card from a New England reader who says:

Dear Doctor:

I like your stand on alcoholism. Keep it up. Today the attitude of young people towards drinking is shocking. They think it is "real good" to get what we used to call "soused." They actually work at getting tied to the taste and the habit. I know. I have a teen-age granddaughter.

Mrs. . . .

No doubt about doctors, pastors, teachers or guardians would write and wish me well if they were not afraid that (1) I'll reveal their identity and/or (2) their "parishioners, students, employers or business associates wouldn't like it.

I'd be the last to blame 'em for that—I learned by bitter experience how not to conduct myself during the truth. Ours is not an ideal world to live in. But by now they should know that I have never revealed the identity of a correspondent without his or her written permission.

THE GREATEST HOBBY

I have always been a booster for hobbies, despite one's failure at occupations, but I got a new viewpoint listening to an address by Irving Salk, the man who appears to be one of the immortals because of his invention of the vaccine against cine for polio. They asked him what his hobbies were and I say, his reply was that he had only one hobby—his work!

That hobby was Edison's, Ford's and an endless number of great men's and women's who have enriched mankind through some special contribution. Work—the greatest hobby of all—if it is devoted to a useful purpose.

To make work one's greatest hobby, that work must be interesting and with an ever-increasing purpose behind it. It's not interesting to note that Dr. Salk put no limit to his day's hours on the job. He just saved a few hours for sleep and rest. His enthusiasm, however, never grew cold—I have an idea that as this great benefactor worked he dreamed of the millions of children whose lives would be saved through his will, courage and faith in the power of God to heal.

I have never known of anyone who devoted himself to research who did not do so with enthusiasm who wasn't a success. Work is the key that unlocks thousands of doors to inner treasures. It's over-worry that kills, not work. Work is a tonic and a stimulant. It's normal and happy life itself. We must all have one hobby at least—work.

What a glory it is to be devoted to some work-hobby that has to do with the health and happiness of humanity. Work and such a work-hobby, though he was spurned and repudiated, held on to his faith and learned the heart-warmth of final triumph. This has been the story down the ages. Work solves so many things, too. It solves loneliness, drives out many advantaged disease, and plants gardens in the heart!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For some reason we sticks-swinging hikers, a fraternity of sorts, we be a general indifference or perhaps aversion to walking sticks. No doubt the motor age is much responsible, but so much has pretty well killed the umbrella and the walking stick, as far as we are concerned. The ladies still carry umbrellas, and a great many elderly ladies carrying sticks as you can men. Yet the day is not far past when a walking stick was part of a gentleman's costume. To distinguish between town and small shopkeepers, the gents who described themselves as merchants carried walking sticks on week-days as well as Sundays. And on golf links the shopkeeper was conscious of the democracy that the Sabbath inspired, but he still used to add a walking stick to their Sunday best when going to church. Most professional men also used the stick as a mark of their superiority to the common run of men: lawyers, judges, and to some extent doctors and clergymen. A reporter never carried the rank of editor, he asserted his right to walk without it. Certain old reporters who, failing to achieve editorial dignity, none the less acquired some distinction as press gallery reporters or longtime covers of the waterfront, took to walking sticks and such a work-hobby, though he was spurned and repudiated, held on to his faith and learned the heart-warmth of final triumph. This has been the story down the ages. Work solves so many things, too. It solves loneliness, drives out many advantaged disease, and plants gardens in the heart!

CALL TO RELIGIOUS WORK

Our Lord on one occasion made an interesting reference to the matter of sending forth laborers into the harvest. He said, "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send laborers into his harvest." (Matt. 9:38).

It would seem at first thought that the Lord would send forth the laborers into the harvest in our own time, and we are necessary for this plan work and, since the Lord has appointed us to be his witnesses, it would seem natural that we would pick out people adapted to that kind of endeavor and send them forth. But Jesus made it plain that it is not done that way. He picks the laborers, He is the one to send harvest and sends them forth.

This is just another way of saying that Christian work is never done according to the Lord's will until it is done by people whom the Lord sends to do it. If we believe in the providence of God we must believe that everyone is called to some kind of religious work. Perhaps this becomes particularly true in the case of religious work. The kinds of men known as "called to the ministry" may appear old-fashioned to some people today, but the Lord is the authority of the Bible.

The "call" to Christian work undoubtedly occurs in any number of different ways, but the Lord always leads those whom he calls to do it.

Young people often worry as to whether or not they are "called" to religious work. They will find out if they wait long enough and pray hard enough.

Prince Edward Bowling League Holds Annual Banquet, Cups Presentations

WELLINGTON — (Special) — The Prince Edward Industrial Bowling League may not win any legling championships, but they will take a back seat from none when similar "get togethers" on Ole Man Torkey.

The league composed of four teams from Picton and the same number from Wellington, gorged its collective self over a banquet royal at the Canadian Legion hall here last night. It was the sixth annual get-together and a full membership was on hand.

The turkey dinner served by the ladies auxiliary of the Legion branch here under the supervision of president Mrs. Dorothy Preston was a masterpiece of culinary art, and the boys did full justice to it.

President Ron Sayers, of Wellington, presided over the meeting while George H. Carver, sports editor of the Ontario Intelligencer was the guest speaker.

PICTON CHAMPIONS

The Quinte Milk Products Trophy emblematic of the league championship, was won by the CNR team of Picton. The handsome bauble was presented to Clint Stonebridge by Mr. Don Chun of the Quinte Milk Company. Members of the CNR team members Stonebridge, Bill Leonard, E. Thompson, John Harrison and Ron Harrison and William Pottle.

The "Nalaco" Trophy donated by the North American Life Assurance Association was won by the Wellington team. Wellington's entry team and was presented to team captain Chun by Mr. Carver, as the representative. Mr. Carver also presented individual prizes to R. Moore, high single, 398; S. Hawley, high average, 316 and William Potts, high triple.

Tributes were paid to Johnny Booth and Jimmy Burton for their outstanding work for the league during the season. Joe Scott voiced the appreciation of the league to gue. the ladies auxiliary for the excellence of the dinner.

Lengthy discussion took place regarding the "upping" of alleys dues in Picton, with some members demanding better service if the dues were to be increased.

Mr. Carver in his address outlined the origin and history of bowling. He stated it began with the ancient Germans who always carried a stick for general purposes which was called a "Kegel." Hence the modern term "kegler" for bowler.

He said bowling originated from an early religious ceremony in which the priests of that day forbade the male of the species to stand his kegel on end and roll a pebble at it. If he struck the kegel he was living a chaste life.

Later, Mr. Carver pointed out, the priests placed their kegels in rows and rolled pebbles at them. The one knocking over the most pebbles won the game. This was the earliest game of bowls on record.

In later years the game became popular all over Germany and continental Europe. Wealthy men, barons and knights built private "alleys" on their properties.

The first introduction of the game to the United States in 1812 when nine pins were used. It immediately caught on and some of the eastern states. Then the gangsters of the day took over and huge bets were made. The situation grew so bad that legislation was passed outlawing the game.

However some clean-minded bowlers seeking an "out", reorganized and formed a "duck-pin" game. As the "nine-pin" law did not affect the new game it was allowed to carry on. Several organizations pooled their resources and this was the origin of the present American Bowling Congress.

Mr. Carver was thanked by president Sayers for the address.

No election of officers was held as this business will be conducted at an autumn meeting of the league.

Six Team Loop For CNR Morning Bowlers

Renewed efforts will be made to form the CNR Morning Bowling league up to its former status of six teams next year. This was decided at the annual banquet and presentation ceremonies held in the Army, Navy, and Air Force club auditorium yesterday at 1.30 p.m.

In addition to the Engineers, Trainmen, Bats and Firemen it is expected two new teams the Pensioners and Shops will be added to the league roster next season.

Chairman George Clapper and various members urged for the addition of the new teams and it was the general consensus that a six-team loop will start operations next year. Team captains named were, Trainmen, Frank Sunderland; Bats, Harold Batesman; Engineers, M. Petty; Firemen, J. Lazenby; Pensioners, C. Henley and Shops, Fred Parry.

Ron Hebden of the Bellevue Finance Company, presented that organization's new trophy "in memoria". He said the trophy and miniatures were not yet ready and would be presented at a later date. He said the former trophy for the ceremony.

Prizes were awarded to Frank Bateman, of the Bats, the new champions of the league. Members include Doug Wenamaker, Larry Meagher, Henry Maracle, Lorne Bunnett and Johnny Knott.

The Modern Cleaners' Challenge Cup was presented to the runner-up Trainmen by Geo. H. Carver of the Ontario Intelligencer. It was accepted by team captain Frank Sunderland.

Special prizes were presented to individual winners by Mr. Wilfred (Wicky) Ross, terminal yardmaster. These went to Larry Meagher, high average, 234; D. McLean, high triple, 819; high single D. Wenamaker, 332; hidden scores, George Clapper, Andy Wilson, A. Fullman, Al Bateman, D. Fairborn. The special prizes donated by Mr. Walter Allore of the Belleview Hotel were won by Johnny Knott and E. McQuaid. A number of doubles prizes were also presented.

"Appreciation" prizes were given president. Fred Parry and secretary Ron Batcheller.

President Parry was re-elected for another term at the election of officers with Mr. Batcheller being returned as secretary-treasurer and Frank Bateman was the unanimous choice for vice-president.

Ron Ross in a brief address urged the league to keep up its good work. "It is good to see wise thing to keep schedules. This league has always been a going concern. Let's keep it that way," he said.

Brief addresses were also given by Messrs. Parry, Carver, Jack Clarke and Mr. Bateman. Appreciation of the fine meals served by the ANAF Ladies' Auxiliary was voiced to president, Ilrii deeM .yiYLA oeay

Young Mother Leaves Wheel Chair After Being Imprisoned 4 Years

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—A deeply religious young woman said to have been imprisoned in a wheel chair four years says "something told me to get up and walk," and she did.

She and her husband call it a miracle.

Mrs. Anna Williams, 22, said she was strangely compelled to rise from her wheel chair while watching a TV evangelist service Sunday.

"We were all praying, and something told me to get up and walk. I had a strange feeling from the bottom of my feet right to the top of my head."

She said she stood up, shoved her wheel chair aside, took a few steps and fell crying into her husband's arms. "I just walked and walked," she added. "Then I danced. I didn't get weak at all. I was surprised how my legs seemed strong and didn't get tired."

Mrs. Williams, an attractive brunette, said she had been confined to a wheel chair since June 19, 1951, when she suffered a broken leg as a car she was in collided with a train at Houston. Twenty months later, she added, she got polio, and in 1953 was paralyzed from the waist down by myelitis—an inflamma'i'n of the spinal cord which is known as follows polio.

Mrs. Williams, who attended her Baptist church Sunday morning in a wheel chair, came for services again Sunday night. Everybody there saw her walk down the aisle to her seat.

CCF Announces 12-Point Platform For Coming Election

TORONTO (CP)—Text of the 12-point election platform announced Monday night by M. J. Coldwell, CCF president, and Ken Bryden, secretary, of the Ontario CCF party:

"1. Jobs for all: democratic planning will keep everybody at work making the things we need—houses, schools, hospitals and the materials used in building them.

"2. Hospital and health insurance: the CCF proposes the immediate introduction of a province-wide hospital insurance program as the first step towards complete health insurance. There is no need for the great industrial province of Ontario to wait for Ottawa to take action on this vital need of our people.

"3. Sickness benefits: we propose a plan under which those who lose income because of sickness will receive compensation in the same manner as workmen's compensation is now paid.

MORE HOUSES

"4. Good houses: a public housing program will provide decent homes for all families at prices or rents they can afford, regardless of their means. Specifically, the CCF proposes the construction of 40,000 low cost, low rent houses over the next four years (as compared with slightly more than 1,000 such homes constructed by the present government over the last five years).

"5. Protection of home owners: we propose legislation to protect families from losing their homes or farms in cases where they are unable to keep up their mortgage payments because of sickness, unemployment or other similar misfortun

"6. Grants for education: the CCF will relieve the tax burden on homes and farms, and at the same time provide the means for meeting the increasing demands of our educational system, by increasing provincial grants for education to 50 per cent of the overall cost (from the present level of about 30 per cent).

"7. Farm security: the CCF proposes adequate marketing legislation to establish stable farm prices. The effect of this will be not only that the farmers will enjoy a secure standard of living, but in addition they will be able to keep industrial products and thus help to maintain employment.

RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT

"8. Natural resources: official government documents reveal that our forest and mineral resources are being brutally depleted, and only a pittance is being paid in royalties. The CCF will undertake a planned program of development of our natural resources, in which our great heritage will be used for the benefit of all our citizens and the interests of future generations will be protected.

"9. Protection of consumers: we advocate the establishment of a consumers' bureau as a public service, to give consumers independent expert information on the quality of goods placed on the market in Ontario, to control misleading advertising and to recommend appropriate action for reducing unreasonable price spreads.

"10. Human rights: the CCF will strengthen the present laws on discrimination which have proved to be ineffective in practice, through comprehensive legislation dealing with discriminatory practices in all fields. This legislation will be administered by the Ontario commission for human rights, which will be provided with the means for public educational work, will rely mainly on persuasion and negotiation but will have authority to prosecute as a last resort.

PUBLIC AUTO INSURANCE

"11. Auto insurance: a CCF public auto insurance program will cut premiums by at least one third and give better protection to the public.

"12. Honest government: the CCF proposes a complete review by independent experts of the methods of government spending, to eliminate corruption and inefficiency. Being the only political party in Ontario that does not receive contributions from government contractors, the CCF is the only party that is in a position to clean up the mess revealed by the highways scandal."

PICTON

Odd Fellows And Rebekahs Attend Service

PICTON.—Marking one hundred years of Odd Fellowship in Ontario and 136 years in America the annual church parade by Bay of Quinte lodge and Sir John Beverley Rebekah lodge on Sunday was marked by a turnout of 350 members and visitors from district lodges. Bright warm sunshine favored the parade from the Odd Fellows hall to the United church.

Canton members were present from Kingston Frontenac and Hastings, Belleville and Picton. Sixteen members of the Ladies' Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant added a note of color in white and mauve uniforms. Representatives of subordinate lodges were present from Picton district, Trenton, Belleville, Stirling, Cananoque, Napanee, Brighton, Tweed, Kingston and other points.

Participating in the parade was the Picton Odd Fellows band, which with flags, added further color to the parade.

The service was conducted by the Rev. F. J. Whiteley, pastor of the church, who delivered a timely sermon on the subject, "Revolution". The Scripture was read by Russell Gardiner, DDGM. The choir, under the direction of A. A. Service, organist, gave the anthem and John Kerr contributed a fine tenor solo, "Bless This House."

Parade route from the church to the hall was via Ferguson, Mary and Main streets.

Cheese Industry in Canada Must Depend on Home Market

GUELPH (CP)—C. F. Perkins, Ontario Marketing Commissioner, said Monday he thinks the cheese industry in Canada is on the way out, as far as exporting is concerned.

"But there will always be a cheese market in Canada," he told the Ontario Junior Farmers' convention here.

"The yearly cheese consumption per capita has gone up a quarter of a pound," he said.

Mr. Perkins led a discussion before a panel which raised several issues on farming. On the board were Donald McKellar of Lambton county, Joe Whitty of Lincoln county and Ross Moorcroft of Hastings county.

CHEESE REJUDGED

Mr. Perkins expressed regret that unanimously matured cheeses were snubbed in favor of the "variety that spreads like butter" by competitors.

"But our quality has always been high," he said. "Canada is the only place left in the world where you can get naturally-cured cheddar cheese."

In answer to a question why there is a spread from 76 cents to 82 cents in fees for each hog for marketing services by the United Farmers' Co-operative Sales, Mr. Perkins said:

"The basic fee per hog was 20 cents. After that two cents was paid for the support of the hog marketing board, another two cents went for stock-yard space and six to eight cents was for condemnation insurance.

CLERICAL WORK

"After these fees are met another 20-cent fee is levelled to cover the cost of invoicing and clerical work involved. This last fee is the same for one animal as it is for a carload.

"Other fees such as transit insurance vary, depending on the distance to market."

Mr. Perkins said he knew no reason for continuing the Ontario Hog Producers Association as an organized group. It had served a purpose in organizing the producers, but its value had diminished.

The regular monthly meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association was held recently. Mrs. Stratton conducted a brief business session.

A room count of parents was taken and Mr. Carswell's room received the attendance shield.

The first part of the program was presented by the boys of Christ church, under the leadership of Mr. J. C. Withers. The choir sang "Brother James' Air"; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring"; "Drop Down Ye Heavens From Above"; "Sing Hallelujah Forth in Duteous Praise", and "Flocks in Pastures Green".

"OUR HERITAGE"

Mr. W. G. Anderson introduced the Rev. L. A. Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, and religious instructor at the Queen Elizabeth school. Mr. Page's topic was "Our Heritage" which he discussed under three headings.

Under the heading of "Our Country" Mr. Page said "that perhaps John Fisher is right when he says that we do not talk enough of our country's potential wealth and greatness. Your children are taught about their country as they progress through the halls of this school, and now with modern transportation facilities, radio and television, Canada becomes smaller. Encourage your children to see as much of Canada as possible. Reading is important, but, seeing the country with one's own eyes is also important. The two complement each other.

"OUR PEOPLE"

"Secondly, Canada's greatest wealth is "Our People", said Mr. Page. "We are creating today what I would call a distinctly Canadian pattern. We have peoples of many races and creeds. Each nationality or ethnic group has its distinctive contribution to make to our national pattern. There has always been a number of central Europeans in the larger industrial areas of Ontario, but now we find them in the smaller centres and in agricultural life. It is our Christian duty to teach our children the spirit of tolerance. No one race has the monopoly on goodness or badness. Snobbery is close to intolerance. Teachers, parents and persons have a tremendous task before them—they do their best teaching by example.

"Lastly, "Our People". It is the people who give the country its character. No parent can give a guarantee that his child be either a success or a failure. It was John Henry Newman who wrote, "Fear not that life shall come to an end but rather fear that it shall not have a beginning."

CHARACTER BEGINNING

"The beginning of your child's character depends on those who come in contact with him. What sort of picture of God are you presenting to him? Have you ever stopped to think of this world without God? Take the name of the Fatherhood of God out of the world, and the brotherhood of man is reduced to a state of inhumanness. Your child's belief in God depends upon how you act. You have a great deal to say about your child's character by your actions, and never forget that children are the world's best imitators."

Mr. F. E. Moore thanked the speaker for his interesting talk. The parents visited the classrooms of Grades 4 to 7 and then returned to the main hall for light refreshments.

Quinte Girls' Garden Club Elects Officers

On a recent evening, the Quinte Girls' Garden club held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix.

The retiring Mrs. Clifford Reid, took charge of the election of officers, which are as follows: president, Elizabeth Craig; secretary, Lois Emerson; press reporter, June Reid.

Plans were made for the second meeting which will be on May 27.

A general outline of the work and requirements of members was given by the leader and her assistant.

Pamphlets and instructions were given on why, where and how to plant the flower and vegetable seeds.

The home assignments were read.

Mrs. Greatrix then served refreshments.

Holy Rosary C.W.L. Holds Membership Tea

The first annual membership tea of the Holy Rosary Catholic Women's League was held on Sunday afternoon in the hall.

Mrs. A. Eves, president, was on hand at the door and graciously welcomed the old and prospective members.

Mrs. E. Schrieder and Mrs. P. Brennan were busily engaged taking fees and marking registration.

GAY TEA ROOM

The tea room was gay with its guest tables covered by snowy white cloths and each centred with a daffodil in a crystal vase.

The tea table was daintily appointed with its white linen cloth and centrepiece of yellow daffodils in a silver basket flanked by silver candelabra holding two tall yellow candles, centred by a shorter white one, at either end were the silver services.

Those presiding were Mrs. L. Connell, Mrs. L. Laflan, Mrs. J. Bradden, Mrs. H. Glenn, Mrs. M. Walsh, Mrs. V. O'Neill, Mrs. M. Hogan and Mrs. F. Bedard.

The new executive of the league convened the tea and served. Appreciative thanks are tendered all who assisted in any way to make the event such a success.

Queen Victoria School Displays Colorful Art at McCarthy

Another attractive display of school art by the pupils of Queen Victoria school has been on exhibition for the past week at the McCarthy Theatre, and will continue on view until Saturday of this week.

The display as a whole, is colorful and nicely arranged, and portrays the careful handiwork of the students in spatter-work design, crayon and pencil. The spatter- work is a medium which needs extreme care to provide an attractive result. Those shown were of ponies and children on a soft green background, which was most pleasing.

FLORAL STUDIES

The floral studies in vases done in crayon on black backgrounds were also carefully drawn, and the shapes showing trees bare of leaves, and a tree-bordered river, reflecting the primaile beams of the setting sun, depicted a sense of perspective, especially the latter. The studies of colored birds were interesting, and showed a love of nature.

Abstract designs done from pieces of colored paper in geometrical designs, like little, woolly lambs with green, blue and red collars were cute and realistic; the masks of which there were several, showed a versatility of design and most careful workmanship.

There were three or four framed silhouettes with metallic backgrounds in silver and green, depicting a bucking bronco, prancing horses, and Peter Rabbit in an attentive mood; these were full of action and carefully done.

COLORFUL MEXICAN HATS

The collection of Mexican hats in varying designs; the Mexican jugs, all in cutout work, were colorful and attractive. There were also cute little white rabbits showing their white pompon tails; Humpty-Dumpty sat rakishly on a brickwall, and a robin atop a green mound was literally bursting his throat with praise to the spring; all showing imagination.

Grade 2 had a quick wash scene with plenty of color showing an indigo sky, a blazing sun, and a maroon suio travelling along the country side. "A Aunt Betty's", imagination was evident in the red brick house, a green-topped tree, and a smiling little girl enjoying a holiday.

Pussy willows, again blossomed forth in bits of down on stems; most realistic and nicely arranged.

More handwork was shown in the display of bonnets and hats made from tinfoil plates and crepe paper. There were blue hats with long streamers, others in yellow and mauve, and one with a cluster of lilac flowers on a yellow bonnet with green ties.

WHAT I WANT TO BE

Other drawings showed "What I Want to Be"; a teacher in the classroom; a driver of a large yellow bus, and another a transport driver.

Some decorative plaques were made from plain plates and coloured with color; some had rose centres; others flowers and scrolls, and geometric designs.

Windy March had its quota of Dutch windmills; two umbrellas; a sailing vessel, and a prettily designed kite with colorful tail, all denoting March's windy gusts and rain, as well as playfulness.

The Indian pots were nicely drawn, and pleasingly colored with their conventional designs in blue and red on black. An Easter card or book cover was attractively executed in mauve and yellow lettice work, with white cross and Easter lilies superimposed.

CLOCK DESIGNS

Various clock designs were also shown in blue and red, these were in cut-out mediums, Indian scenes of teepees; a reindeer in the frozen north; the hunter, and "Hiawatha", "The Lumber Camp" with its forest, men sawing trees, and logs floating down the river was also full of detail, and showed much observation. This was executed by means of cutout work.

As a whole the collection was praiseworthy, showing a great deal of imagination, and love of color.

Bridge St. W.A. Enjoys Slides, Talk on Yukon

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United church was held in the S.S. room, Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Arthur Clare, vice-president, in the chair.

Mrs. Clare welcomed all strangers and members who had been away. Monthly reports were received and announcements made of coming events.

The 23rd annual presbyterial meeting of Women's Auxiliaries will be held in Madoc Trinity United church, on May 26. The group, under the leadership of Mrs J. Marsh is providing a 20-minute skit.

Mrs. W. Burgoyne announced that the church choir was bringing the Schneider Orpheus Male choir here for a concert on May 12. This choir comes well recommended and proceeds will go to the 'new organ fund'.

Miss Sulman's and Mrs. Eastion's group were in charge of the program for the meeting.

Mrs. Easton led in the devotional, reading from St. John 10.

Mrs. Morden told of how John revealed the relationship between Jesus and His followers, as that of the loving Shepherd and His sheep.

Mrs Massey led in prayer.

Mrs. William Burgoyne sang touching the solo "The Stranger of Galilee". She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Guthridge.

Miss Helen Gordon Brown, convener of the group, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Fred Adsett, whose subject was "The Land of the Midnight Sun".

THE YUKON

Mrs. Adsett in speaking of this 'Land of the Yukon' said that few but prospectors and geologists had gone there, but these few have found gold and other metals and some have studied the Eskimo and the travels of the reindeer, and have gone through the difficult mountain passes and down the turbulent Yukon river.

The winters are severe, the summers short, but intense with vines growing a foot a day, pansies as big as saucers, wonderful lupins growing wild, and dahlias really huge.

Mrs. Adsett also told of the three main cities White Horse, Dawson City and Circle City, with hot springs inside its main hotel.

This district has received publicity of late in that the Frobisher and Ventures Mining Companies have stated that they are planning on spending three quarters of a billion dollars in the next few years on harnessing the riches here in the Arctic for smelting minerals on the spot.

Mrs. Adsett showed beautiful colored slides which she and Mr. Adsett had taken last June when they flew by air into this part of the country and made the trip by plane down the picturesque Yukon river.

MIDNIGHT SCENE

One view, shown, was taken at midnight, proving that this was truly the Land of the Midnight Sun.

Mrs. Adsett also showed slides taken earlier on the trip as they motored through the States of Colorado, California and others.

Mrs. E. Denyes expressed the thanks of all the ladies for Mrs. Adsett's most interesting talk on her trip and the wonderful slides shown.

Mrs. Fairman, president, invited all to stay for a cup for tea and a social half-hour.

RE ARE TWO KINDS OF QUARRELS

y way through life, the n which we human beings become involved, fall two general, but distinct,

re are the quarrels which from trifling causes, and are those which arise out of ing attitudes toward fundaal principles.

re, for example, are two let-an.

first of the two is typical of former sort of quarrel. It

But because we each got on a horse and our pride wouldn't get off, neither of us would n.

am very upset about it all,
use—something else I now
e—I am really in love with irl and want to marry her. I d like to try and straighten s out, but I don't quite know to go about it. Maybe you can me."

d typical of the quarrels over mentals are those described young man who finds him-and his wife so inharmonious only a year of marriage separation or divorce seems around the corner.

y wife and I have been mar-only a year and have already ourselves in constant dis-sement," he begins. Then he on to enumerate:

over wants to spend an at home and nags at me single night of my life no er how tired I come home work, to take her some —the movies, dancing, some that's loud and noisy—just here at all as long as it isn't around home. If I refuse to go with her because we've been out five nights that week already and gone alone.

"She won't visit any of my relatives, or even her own, and she's mad if I do. She doesn't like any of my friends and is actually rude to them, but I must be ready to go to hers if that's what she happens to feel like doing. She doesn't make any effort to interest herself in anything I like to do, although she made a big point of it before we were married.

"How we're going to end up, I don't know, but I don't see how we can go on that way much longer."

Well, there they are—those two kinds of quarrels. And the trouble is people find in dealing with them usually arises from their inability to distinguish between the two varieties—those over trifles and those over principles.

In the case of the first young man, he sees clearly that he and his girl quarreled over nothing. His problem might lie in whether or not she can also realize this, for all too many quarrels can start over a trifle and then, because one or the other does not see it that way, grow into permanent bitterness. But if both are basically intelligent and reasonable young people, it should be easy to make up this type of quarrel. All the young man n question should need to do is to send his girl some flowers and a note of apology. He might also add—what he has told me—that the quarrel opened his eyes to how much he really loved her. If the girl, on her side, really loves him, the outcome is obvious.

When it comes to quarrels over principles and standards, however, it's not so simple. There is far too much involved for such differences to be settled by mere apology from either side. Unless the two concerned can get down to the basic reasons for their quarrels, and in some way reach a mutual understanding, there is little or no hope for their future relationship.

And that, I am afraid, is how things stand with the young married couple. What they quarrel about is not, actually, the specific thing that immediately precipitates the battle, but deep, underlying differences of attitude, of philosophy of life. Whether or not they can ever adjust these differences depends on two things—how much they really care about each other, and what sort of people they are. And I think the sooner they have a definite showdown that will reveal the truth on these two points, the better.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARE OF THE SCALP

Baldness is an affliction that is confined mostly to men. Specialists explain this fact by saying it is because women take better care of their hair than men do. A man will rub a bar of soap over his head, stand under the shower and that's that. No doubt soapy deposits cling to the shafts and coat the scalp. It is then that dandruff formed and dandruff is a perfect tenement for bacteria.

Hair does not continue to grow indefinitely. A new shaft will grow rapidly during its first two years, after which growth is perceptibly slower; its term of life varies from two to seven years, then it is gone with the wind and a new one takes its place.

Since the hair, like every cell of the body is receives its sustenance from the blood, its vitality is dependent upon nutrition and the general condition of the physical system. It selects lime, manganese, sulphur and iron from the blood streams. So, if you would have an abundant growth of hair, be sure to eat a varied diet.

Every day there will be some of the hair in your comb and brush but don't let that worry you. It is nature's way of dispensing of dead shafts. New hair will appear within a few weeks to take the place of every silky thread that has fallen.

If the shedding is excessive, however, you will give your hair extra attention to keep how to skin or scalp and what shape to leave it in.

Brushing helps. Do not economize when buying a brush. If the bristles bend and are weak, the grooming is ineffective. Slap the bristles on the scalp, pass them through the hair, strand by strand in a rolling motion. And don't forget that a rousing shampoo with plenty of friction is in itself a scalp treatment of sorts.

QUESTION:

Sometime ago you printed a recipe for Pineapple Bavarian Pie . . . would you print it again?—Mrs. R.

ANSWER:

This recipe appeared November 24, 1954.

PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN PIE

Have ready and baked a 9-inch pie shell. Bring to a boil 1 1-4 cups crushed pineapple, canned, stir into it until dissolved 1 package lemon jelly dessert and 1-2 cup sugar. Cool this until it is very slightly set. Have ready 1 cup thoroughly chilled evaporated milk and to it add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and beat them together until stiff. Fold into partially congealed pineapple mixture. Pour into pie shell. Chill until set and very cold. This is a prize-winning pie.

QUESTION:

Would you be kind enough to give me a recipe for pickled (grayling). As you know this is a type of fish like lake trout only it has scales. . . must say I have had success with all of your recipes I have tried—Mrs. A. F. F.

ANSWER:

I am not familiar with grayling, but will give you the recipe for pickling fish, and you will doubtless know how to skin or scale preferable to leave the fish as whole as possible.) Cook together for 15 minutes 4 cups of the fish stock (in which fish was cooked), 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon allspice, 2 bay leaves, 1 sprig thyme. Let this cool. Strain it over the cooked fish and cover. Let stand overnight, or preferably longer, in cold place before using. This will keep for several days in kept cold. If desired 1 tablespoon grated horseradish may be added, or of course, fish may be cut into one or two-inch lengths crosswise before pickle is poured over.

LETTER:

A while ago you were translating English measurements into Canadian for a reader but you did not mention spoon measurements . . . in today's you write of European spoons . . . do you know that English spoons are different from Canadian . . . English recipes always mean silver spoons which are two silver teaspoons to what you call a tablespoon. A tablespoon in Canada is dessertspoon in England and two dessertspoons (tabs. here) equal 1 tablespoon (Eng.). Does that read sensible? and help at all? In Saskatchewan, where my husband comes from, I had a Boston Cream Pie, but no recipe I have seen matches it . . . sponge cake with middle scooped out like a thick pie shell, and filled with cream, no top or anything else. Have you heard of it? Would you like my recipe for

PICKLED (SOUSED) FISH

One and one-half lbs. fish, weighed after cleaning, skinning or scaling and poaching in simmering water until cooked. (If is

SPAGHETTI SAUCE

(Courtesy Alexandra B.)

One lb. ground meat (beef), one tin condensed tomato soup, 1 large tin tomatoes, 1 cup chili sauce, 1 cup tomato sauce, 1 tablespoon chili powder, 1 clove garlic (place garlic clove in large spoon with 1-3 teaspoon salt and crush with smaller spoon), 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce, 1 medium onion chopped, 2 tablespoons fat. Fry onion and meat together until meat is brown. Add everything else and simmer 1 1-3 hours, or better still pressure-cook 20 minutes at 15 lbs. pressure. This is enough for 8 persons, except in this house only enough for four. (Ener's note: The amount of spaghetti to serve this over or in will vary with the appetites of families—anywhere from 1-3 to 1 lb.)

ANSWER:

Thank you Alexandra. I went to the kitchen and followed your directions for measuring equivalents and they made exact sense.

For the Boston Cream Pie make a 3-egg hot water sponge cake. Scoop out centre and fill with,

RICH CREAM FILLING:

In top of double boiler mix 1-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup rich milk or cream. Stir over boiling water until thick. Pour a little, over four slightly beaten egg yolks, then return to hot mixture and stir two minutes. Remove from heat and add 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Usually chilled until very cold. When added to sponge cake, this is often sprinkled with icing sugar or could be spread with chocolate icing.

GRANDMOTHER AND AUNT TO GIVE SHOWER!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman!

My niece is to be married in May. My mother (her grandmother) and I would like to give her a shower. (There would be mostly family invited.) We've been told that it is not proper for members of the family to give a shower; that only the bride's girl friends should give showers for her. —Aunt.

What you were told is right—that it is not considered correct for a member of the bride's (or groom's) family to give a shower.

PLACE CARDS FOR ALL GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am being married shortly, and had planned on putting place cards for each of the guests, as well as at the head table. Now I have been told that this is not correct, that place cards should be put only at the head table. Please advise, J.M.

It is customary, really necessary, to have place cards on the bride's table. (Also they are so charmingly decorative.) And if there is also a parents' table (or if the bride's table and the parents' table are combined), place cards are used on this table also. And although place cards are generally not used at the other tables, there is no reason whatever why they shouldn't be. Using them would not be at all incorrect . . . and indeed, in many circumstances, it might be a very good idea.

POPULAR PUGS

Winifred Steggall of Montreal has bred six generations of international champion pugs, a world dog-breeding record. Miss Steggall president of the Ladies' Kennel Club of Canada, says pugs are becoming increasingly popular because of their small size. The two pugs she is holding are Wins Sweet Clover and Wins Lady Juliet named after Juliet, Canada's singing star of television and radio. (CP Photo).

Montreal Woman Sets Record In Breeding Champion Pugs

MONTREAL (CP) — Winifred Steggall, president of the Ladies' Kennel Club of Canada set a world dog-breeding record with six generations of international champion pugs.

Miss Steggall, who has lost count of the number of pugs she has raised in the last quarter century, has cupboards full of ribbons and trophies.

Her dogs have been sold as far away as Europe and Hawaii but she had to turn down a purchase offer from the Duchess of Windsor.

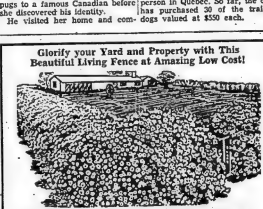
The two met at a dog show in New York where the duchess had her heart set on buying one of Miss Steggall's champion pugs named, strangely enough, "Wins Prince Charmer."

FORCED TO REFUSE

"I had to refuse," Miss Steggall said. "It took me seven years to produce the dog and I wanted to enter him in more shows."

Miss Steggall sold one of her pugs to a famous Canadian before she discovered his identity.

He visited her home and completed the deal without disclosing his name. Then he handed her his business card which showed he was J. L. Ilsley, at that time Canada's minister of finance and now Chief justice of Nova Scotia.



The 50-year-old woman said that pugs have reached their first peak in popularity since their heyday in the Victoria era. They are easy to keep in apartments and the small homes of today because of their size—they weigh only 14 to 18 pounds and measure 11 inches from the shoulder—and because of their short coats which shed no hair.

"Besides, a pug's not a rapper like most small dogs and he loves to be cuddled," Miss Steggall said.

Lady Juliet is one of three pugs Miss Steggall will present at the annual dog show sponsored by the Ladies Kennel Club of Canada April 24.

Proceeds of the show are used to buy a seeing-eye dog for a blind person in Quebec. So far, the club has purchased 20 of the trained dogs valued at $550 each.

Women's Activities

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST W.M.C.

The April meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist church was held in the church on Tuesday evening, with 25 members present.

The president, Miss E. Nurse, presided.

Mrs. H. Hales read a portion of Scripture, and Mrs. A. G. Fox sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. T. Hetherington.

A lovely meditation was given by Mrs. H. Welbanks, continuing on the topics of "Windows"—the windows of spiritual hope. These thoughts were made more impressive by the worship centre which had been prepared by Mrs. F. Daniel, showing the windows of "faith" and "hope", with Christ—the Light of the World—as the larger central window.

Mrs. Welbanks finished by quoting "Our hope is built on nothing less than Jesus' blood and righteousness." That hymn was then sung and a season of directed prayer followed.

Mrs. C. Campbell gave the "Watch Tower" with brief items from several fields of missionary endeavor.

Mrs. C. Hay presented the topic "The Christian Contribution to the New India," chapter two of the study book, "The Church in India", by R. M. Bennett. Mrs. Hay told of the earliest missionaries to India, and lighted candles to represent the light which they brought into the darkness of ignorance and superstition, each candle receiving its light from the large central candle, which symbolized Christ—the Light of the World.

She was assisted by Mrs. H. Thompson, who told of the Christian contribution to social reform: Mrs. A. Wells, Christian contribution to education; and Mrs. A. Orr, Christian contribution to medicine.

The president thanked Mrs. Hay for her interesting topic, which was so carefully prepared and presented.

A brief business period followed.

The treasurer, Mrs. Wells, reported that the allotment for the year had already been raised.

Mrs. Daniel, "Link and Visitor" representative, reported 85 subscriptions sent in, an increase of five over last year.

Mrs. A. E. Berry, on behalf of the Circle members, presented Mrs. R. L. Orr with a Life membership certificate, in appreciation of her contribution to the various phases of Mission Circle activities. Mrs. Orr, though surprised, graciously expressed her thanks.

Mrs. A. Orr was appointed C.G.I.T. sponsor for the M.C. and representative on the Girls' Work Board.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Post. Moirs, for many years a valued member of the Circle.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. A. Palce, after which refreshments were served by the social committee.

Severely Injured

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP)—Police said Clarence Nashkawa, 26, of the Saugeen Indian reserve was severely injured Saturday when knocked from the running board of a car driven by Albert Webber of Owen Sound. Webber was charged with criminal negligence and leaving the scene of an accident.

Police said Nashkawa was talking to Webber and two female companions. When Webber started to drive away, Nashkawa leaped on to the running board. The car went about 100 yards then swerved into a shallow ditch brushing off the rider against a fence.

HOUSE DISSOLVED

No estimate can yet be made of the number of persons likely to be eligible to vote. There were 2,130,928 names on the 1953 voting lists and of these 1,716,516 cast ballots.

There will be three days allowed for advance polls. Members of the Canadian armed services will vote by mail.

Candidates lost no time starting their campaigns. Mr. Frost, who took over the party leadership in 1949 when George Drew resigned to become national leader of the party, started his campaign in nearby Brampton Monday night.

He said the matter of employment and unemployment is one on which the federal-provincial conference "might have been held at an earlier date."

The premier spoke at a Peel county nomination meeting which chose Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, a former premier and minister of agriculture, as candidate. It will be Mr. Kennedy's 20th election campaign.

Warning his audience against candidates who come bearing bundles of promises, the premier gave assurance he will not attempt to compete with glittering promises. Pursuing the theme in London, Ont., Saturday when he first announced the election, Mr. Frost said that bundles of promises, if carried out, cost money.

Indicating once again that he will campaign on the government's record, the premier said his government has accomplished things "that in other days would have been headline events." He spoke at length on employment and education, two of the "musts" in the provincs.

BY DEVELOPMENT

He suggested the way to meet the unemployment problem was by providing jobs through development.

Meanwhile, in Brantford, Mr. MacDonald launched the CCF campaign with a declaration that the party is out to win.

"The Liberal leader has been reported a number of times recently as claiming that the CCF is content to aim for the official Opposition in the Ontario legislature," he told a Brantford riding nomination convention.

"It is very kind of Mr. Oliver to be setting our objectives for us but lest there be any mistaken notions abroad, let me make this unequivocal statement at the outset of the campaign. The CCF is fighting this campaign to win the government of Ontario. . . .

The CCF election program includes a plan to provide jobs for all, a hospital and health insurance scheme and low-cost housing.

He said his party's program has been available in printed form for nearly a year. The CCF has 60 candidates already in the field, he added.

D NEWS?

There is a pessimistic note out of Peterborough—and let's hope for Pete' sake—and for senior "B" hockey's sake, or whatever kind they will play in this neck of the woods next winter, that it is just pessimism—and based on rumor.

It seems that Dame Rumor insists that the long-awaited Memorial Centre which was reported to have been ready for next season's operations may not come into being for another year. Scribe Cec Perdue, of the Lindsay City, said the bad news was mentioned at hockey dinners he attended by officials of city clubs. He adds that rumors of a similar nature have been circulated lately "here and there."

He learned, he said, that orders for steel should be in for five months if any quantity may be expected. Another hitch to early action for the Centre is that the promised federal grant has not yet been forthcoming. Until it and the Ontario grant are received, the Municipal Board cannot approve the project—and no start can be made.

C. F. goes on: "While some people will feel that we've waited this long so we can wait another winter or part there of, still it's rather grim for the hockey clubs here. If the new auditorium isn't ready this winter. They need to at least break even financially to carry on, and the past season saw both clubs go in the red in Civic Arena. Evidently, no one can point to the building committee nor the contractor for a probable postponement, but mayhap more pressure on the government, and strings pulled re steel supply, could help. It would be sad to be just pessimistic talk and such rumors are without foundation."

RESTLING OPENS FRIDAY

Don't look now, but two members of "rassledom's" famous "Pilot Squad" will be on hand at Memorial Arena Friday night when professional wrestling opens another season in the city.

Two members of the famous, or infamous—it depends on how you like your wrestling garnished—brothers will fourscore to see that it is an appearance—and that means the 1955 mat season will be ushered in with at least two displays of fireworks.

The popular Whipper Billy Watson headlines the card and his opponent is Kenji Dumpe, one of the heavier of the quartet of beef on the hoof, while towering Tex McKenzie, the skyscraper that walks like a man, will battle Krnlo's little brother, Emil, himself a hunk of wrestling dynamite who was never a matinee idol nor a swoon-causer of the distaff side.

Opening the affair will be the perennial Pat Flanagan, who will match his flying tackles, dropkicks and other ring bellery against the equally well-known Jan Gotch.

NT' BLAME 'EM

Point Anners are still agog over the first OHA championship to come their way since they entered organized hockey apart from the Trent Valley League. And it seems the Ox Point crew established some sort of a record in district hockey circles, especially the Trent Valley loop, for they are the proud possessors of three handsome trophies won in the same season. That should go down in the archives as a record achievement for any team in the district.

First they captured the Frank Follwell trophy, emblematic of the championship of the southern division of the Trent Valley League. They went on to defeat Marmora for the TVL title which gained them the Thomas Bata trophy and last Friday they climaxed a brilliant OHA playdown drive by defeating the Eldorado Hurricanes to win the intermediate "C" championship. For this feat they were awarded the Ken McMillan trophy, the third of the hauble trio which was presented to them following the game by Mr. Frank Mabey, manager of the Wallaceburg arena.

KESE AND DUCKS

Trout fishermen seeking the elusive speckles and whatnot over the week-end report large flocks of wild geese on their way to their northern haunts where they will take up summer residence.

One party, who was fishing in Monk Lake, said the big birds were in such large flocks than most, bunking a stiff north wind on their way to their summer feeding grounds. "There were literally hundreds of them," said one fisherman. "The noise of their honking must have scared the trout for the speckles refused to bite after the goose parade had disappeared into the 'wild blue yonder'."

Which reminds us of the story that came out of Enterprise a few years ago. It seems a hunter visited his favorite lake for ducks when to his surprise where the lake was supposed to be was nothing but a dark mass. No water was visible. He noted strange movements, and just for fun emptied both barrels into the centre of the mass.

Then he stared in amazement as the entire mass rose a straight up from the waters of the lake. As it drifted in the air, four objects were seen to fall into the water. What had happened was the ducks were so thick they covered the entire surface of the lake. The hunter's chance shots had killed four ducks, but they were clustered so thickly they were taken aloft with the main body, only to fall when the flock separated. Chiefs (Stratford Beacon Herald) Appel won't believe that story—but that's the way it was told.

Dodgers Set New Record

BROOKLYN (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers, still playing as if it were a crime to lose, own another record today and it is doubtful if they are aware of it.

In defeating Milwaukee 2-0 in a rain-shortened, nine-inning thriller Monday night for their 10th victory in 18 starts this season, the Dodgers accomplished a feat never attained by any other club in modern times.

The record books do not carry such statistics—only the consecutive victories from the start. The Dodgers already had topped that mark when they captured their first 10.

A thorough check of the box scores since 1900 disclosed the best previous getaway gait through the first 18 games belonged to the 1907 New York Giants and the 1946 Boston Red Sox. Each team posted a 15-3 early season record.

Nobody connected with either the Dodgers or Braves could recall any club getting off to anything even approaching this dizzy start.

Colorful Habitants' Mentor Back After Quarter Century; New York Coach Former Blue

By Ed Simon
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—An expert at needlework and a bilingual rhubarb-maestro were hired Monday to try to do something for a couple of also-ran National Hockey League clubs.

Chicago Black Hawks, who signed Dick Irvin, and New York Rangers, the new employers of Phil Watson, also have reason to hope that the two men will know how to coach a hockey team. But Irvin's ability as a needler and Watson's penchant for stirring up trouble are expected to be a strong factor in attracting the customers.

The 63-year-old Irvin has missed the playoffs only once in his 25 years as an NHL coach. He moves to the Hawks, who have finished in the cellar for the last two years, from Montreal Canadiens, whom he has led to seven Stanley Cup finals for the last five seasons.

TARGET SET

Irvin returns to the Hawks, whom he last coached 25 years ago, vowing "to shoot for no worse than third place." He has been sacked and they will not appoint his successor before next month.

Watson, who has coached Ranger junior farm clubs to the Memorial Cup finals in four of the four tries at Quebec, takes over a fifth-place club that hasn't made the playoffs in five years. More conservative than Irvin, he says he hopes to produce a winner with "hard work, a little luck and lots of praying."

In or out of the playoffs, Irvin's Hawks and Watson's Rangers are likely to provide the first taste of atmosphere than their predecessors.

Irvin, who retired from NHL scoring championship by a single point in the twilight of his playing career in 1932-33, has been a highly successful 35 goals for Portland Rosebuds of the old Pacific Coast League in years earlier, runs his clubs without noticeable fanfare.

STRONG SUPPORT

But ever since he and Canadien general manager Frank Selke left the Toronto Maple Leafs for Montreal in 1940, Irvin has treated sports writers to a series of tantalizing quotes that have brought his NHL rivals to the fore—or apoplexy—out of his best shafts have been aimed at the sensitive spirit of his old Toronto manager Conn Smythe.

The outcry used by Irvin's targets invariably timed to coincide with a Canadien tilt with the rival club, have resulted in some of the best-attended games in NHL history. Irvin has led the former to be brought in three Stanley Cup winners, eight first-place clubs and eight more second-place.

The silver-baired pigeon-fancier, who owned the Chicago entry and his stable of racing birds from Regina to Montreal some years ago, plans to live in Chicago during the off-season.

At Chicago he succeeds Frank Eddolls, who has been offered the coaching job with Buffalo Bisons, the Hawks' American Hockey League farm club.

WAS BETTER LATER

Watson, whose 12-year record as a Ranger centre includes 547 games in a New York uniform, moved up only to defenceman Ott Heller's 647, to become the NHL's all-time iron man.

Watson, a native of Winnipeg, is a Ranger centre includes 547 games in a New York uniform, moved up only to defenceman Ott Heller's 647, to become the NHL's all-time iron man.

Canadian Olympic Association Has $10,000 of $206,504 Estimated Cost

TORONTO (CP) — Canada will send 155 athletes and officials to the winter and summer Olympics in 1956 at a total estimated cost of $206,504, president Ken Farmer of the Canadian Olympic Association said in an interview Monday night. To date the COA has collected $10,000

"We are budgeting for $212,900 and I have every reason to believe we will reach our objective," the Montreal sportsman said. The COA has fixed the week of June 6-11 for a general campaign for funds.

The drive will start with radio and television appeals for money with top government officials, athletes and sports writers on the programs. In addition, the COA will send letters to sports personalities and donors across the country.

The association has set its sights on collecting $50,000 from governments, including $40,000 from the federal government; $22,500 from cities and personal donations and $23,400 from sports governing bodies.

The province of Ontario will be asked for $10,000; Quebec $5,000; British Columbia $4,000; Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia $3,000 each; New Brunswick $2,500; Newfoundland $500 and Prince Edward Island $250.

Farmer said it is planned to send 87 competitors and 21 officials to the summer games at Melbourne, Australia, and 35 competitors and 12 officials to the Winter Games at Cortina, Italy. Travelling expenses are estimated at $142,164; board and lodging, $27,180; clothing and equipment, $13,500

Freight, general contingency and administration will consume the remaining $22,700.

Resignation Of Suspended Coach Is Refused

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—The resignation of Frank Hollingsworth, Newmarket's recreation director, was refused Monday night by the community's recreation commission.

The Newmarket public school teacher Sunday received a five-year suspension by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. Hollingsworth used over-age players on the Newmarket peewee team in the recent Young Canada Week at Goderich, Ont.

Commission members refused to accept Mr. Hollingsworth's formal resignation but left the matter of action in the hockey tournament. He was asked to reconsider his resignation.

Toronto Wants To "Dominate" Grey Cup Show

TORONTO (CP)—Eastern fans, familiar with Grey Cup madness, will go to Vancouver for Canada's football classic this fall and display their style of whoop-de-doo to the spectacle.

The Toronto Junior Board of Trade, which sponsored the colorful Grey Cup parade here for the last four years has arranged for at east a translaod of Torontonians to make the trip west for the Nov. 26 game. This would be about 250 persons. It won't matter whether the city has a team in the final or not.

The pilgrims, to cost each person anywhere from $150 to $250, is open to anybody and will be a feature of East-West goodwill. The price includes a $7.50 ticket to the game, through the courtesy of the Canadian Rugby Union.

FLOATS FOR PARADE

We hope to have 10 or 12 floats for the Grey "Cup parade," said Jack Chipman, chairman—of the eastern division of the Junior Board of Trade Grey Cup committee. "We simply don't want to be a part of it; our objective is to dominate the show."

The special train is scheduled to leave Saturday, Nov. 19, and return to Toronto via the U.S. with stop at all western interprovincial football Union cities — Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton.

Fans will live on the train during the trip and while in Vancouver.

"The primary idea is to sell eastern enthusiasm and to further East-West goodwill," Chipman said. "We intend to also gain various points along the route and put on a show."

Moore Earns Shot at Rocky's Title Whips Valdes In Action-Packed Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore may well have earned a shot at Rocky Marciano and his world heavyweight title.

Ageless Archie Monday night met and whipped the No. 1 contender, Nino Valdes of Cuba, in a 15-round fight that was action-packed from start to finish.

Sitting at ringside was Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, who said "the 32-year-old Moore deserved a chance to meet Marciano.

Gibson said the match would probably be scheduled for September in New York, provided, of course, that Rocky Gilbeaux of England's Don Cockell in San Francisco May 16.

It was a repeat victory for Moore over Valdes.

Moore weighed 196½, the heaviest in a career in the ring that stretches back 24 years. Valdes weighed 209½.

The added poundage didn't handicap Moore. When the going was toughest, Archie was the faster, his punches the harder.

Referee Jimmy Braddock, the old-time former champion of the heavies, gave Archie eight rounds, Valdes five and he called two even. One round was taken away from each fighter for hitting low.

Valdes fought the last two rounds with his left eye closed tight. Archie puffed it in the sixth and just before the 12th ended it went completely shut.

Moore was furious at the decision. He faked a faint in his corner, sprawled out on the canvas, his manager, Bobby Gleason, yelled "burglary."

Brooks Maintain Fantastic Pace In National; Indians Cling To Lead

Stretch Lead To Six Games As Furillo Homers In 12th; Wynn Wins First Over Boston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Ted Williams were casting base hits around the American League instead of reeling in the big ones off the Florida Keys, Boston Red Sox might be a lot better off.

You remember Williams. He's the guy with the .346 lifetime batting average who some bobs flatly claimed was due to show up at Boston's training camp this spring. But Williams spent the training season fishing.

Without Williams, the Sox are in sixth place. After a fast start, they have lost 10 of their last 12, including five in a row.

Faye Throneberry, who walloped the ball into left field early try to make up for Williams' absence in the outfield, is batting .319, but he's had just one hit in his last 18 attempts.

The other two regular outfielders are way down at the plate, too. Jackie Jensen is .229, Jim Piersall .197.

Jensen homered Monday with none on while the Red Sox ran afoul of a healthy Early Wynn as Cleveland blanked Boston, 7-0, winning 4-2.

Wynn grabbed his first victory of the season, having recovered from an attack of bronchial pneumonia.

Detroit stayed a half game back by whipping New York Yankees 7-1. The Yanks, who were tied for second with the Tigers and Chicago White Sox at the day's start, fell off to fourth. The White Sox, idle, traveled out at third.

Washington blasted Kansas City 13-1 in the other American League game. Jim Busby and Roy Sievers each homered twice and Johnny Schmitz won his third straight.

In the National, Brooklyn kept up its fantastic pace, widening its lead to six games as Carl Furillo rammed out his eighth home run to beat Milwaukee Braves 4-3 in 12 innings. That pushed the Braves into fourth. Chicago Cubs leaped into second on a 2-1 victory at Philadelphia after wrapping up a 4-3 decision by completing a suspended Sunday game.

Pittsburgh's Bob Purkey had no trouble with St. Louis, beating the Cardinals 5-1 in the other National League game.

Detroit knocked off the Yanks with the pitching of veteran Steve Gromek, now 4-1 for the season. The Tigers' eight hits included Jim Delsing's home run and a two-run double by Ferris Fain.

Until Furillo whacked his shot, Gene Conley looked as invincible as ever against the Brooks. He had allowed but three hits in a duel with Carl Erskine. The Dodger ace won a six-hit decision but defeat, leaving five men stranded in the last two innings.

Sam Snead's Golf School

2. Look at the picture. Why follow through so carefully? Well, of course, nothing you do after you have hit the ball has any effect on its flight. But if you have done everything necessary to produce a good shot before clubhead meets ball, then you'll finish in the position shown. Your hands will be high, club shaft between your left shoulder and your head. You'll have finished with your weight mainly on your left leg but you still have support from your right foot. Here's golfing form to strive for. If you look at this picture in a mirror you'll see that the finish of the swing is a good deal like the start of the downswing. The lesson seems to be that the last half of a golf swing duplicates the first half.

Bob Feller Faster Than Turley, Score

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—After watching Bullet Bob Turley spin his fourth straight victory at the expense of Detroit Tigers, the Yankees are confident they now have the "stopper" who will keep them in the American League race all the way.

In addition to the blinding speed he exhibited for Baltimore last year, the powerful young righthander has developed a curve and change-up under the patient coaching of Bobby Feller in the plowboy's pastoral days.

Also, while his control has improved markedly over last season, Turley has retained just enough of his "wildness" to keep the batters loose up there and prevent their taking a toehold. That always has been one of the secrets of Feller's success. There never was a time that Bobby couldn't throw a ball through a knothole when he wanted to.

JOHNSON TOO PERFECT

Players who bit against Walter Johnson say there is no limit in the records the Big Train might have left behind if he had been willing to let a ball "get away" now and then. The batters knew that Johnson's control was almost perfect, and that he was deathly afraid he might hit a man and kill him, so they were able to take their cuts with some assurance.

Turley, the club's gifted ball coach, devoted the spring to teaching Turley two things, to snap a curve across the plate and to conceal his pitches. He also emphasized to the young man that he would not need to try to pitch a no-hitter every game as he did at Baltimore, where he had a 14-15 record.

Already the argument has begun over the relative speed of Turley and Herb Score, Cleveland's great rookie southpaw who fanned 16 Boston Sunday. Most of the players and managers who have been quoted in the debate give Turley a slight edge in the smoke department. All who faced Feller when he really had it before the war agree that Bobby's fast one had them both beat by a good margin.

Pitching: Bob Purkey, Pirates, gave up seven hits and an unearned run as Pittsburgh clubbed three St. Louis pitchers for 14 hits and defeated the Cardinals 5-1.

Batting: Carl Furillo, Dodgers, slammed his eighth home run of the season with a shot on base in the 12th inning to break up a brilliant scoreless pitching duel between Brooklyn's Carl Erskine and Milwaukee's Gene Conley and give the Dodgers a 4-3 triumph.

Quebec Member of Parliament Wants Hockey Controlled by Commissioner

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada should put hockey under control of a commissioner or judge, similar to the way baseball is handled in the United States, a Quebec member proposed in the Commons Monday.

Gilbert Gauthier (L—Portneuf), a medical doctor, expressed concern that "the almighty dollar" is being considered before the health of young hockey players.

"I would propose that our national game be handled in the way baseball is handled in the United States," he said. "A commissioner or judge should be appointed by the federal government, or the provincial governments working in unison, in order that our national game may be protected."

Dr. Gauthier's suggestion brought applause from all sides of the House.

HAS "GONE TOO FAR"

He said he would likely be told that it is none of his business "but I think this thing has gone too far." Seventy-game schedules, followed by playoff games, were just too much.

"I think this is too much to ask of the hearts of our athletes," he said. "I am afraid that in the long run hockey will be killed because it is too apparent that the almighty dollar has taken first position while the health of our young athletes is being ignored."

He suggested that the managers and the "big men" of professional hockey look into this carefully.

"They should not ask the athletes of our country to do too much," he said. "I know there are fat cheques involved and large amounts of money; I know that with possibly few exceptions we all like to have lots of money on which to live, but when a player is exhausted to the extent that some of these players are, the inevitable result is that he will lose control and not be responsible for what happens."

Dr. Gauthier said he is sure that "if these players were not so completely exhausted many of the incidents that have occurred during the hockey season would not have occurred."

Selke Won't Carry Load For Other Clubs

MONTREAL (CP)—The relationship between junior hockey development and the famous Maurice (Rocket) Richard suspension may seem far fetched but it's there, Frank Selke made plain Monday.

The managing director of Montreal Canadiens said he thought Richard's suspension was too severe, that there was no support from other National Hockey League clubs in the unfortunate and troublesome situation and that he therefore feel he should not carry the load for the other clubs in the planned new deal in junior hockey.

As a move toward rebuilding junior hockey in Quebec provinces and at the same time providing fertile farm for young players, Selke announced early last season that all NHL clubs had agreed to sponsor and enter teams in one season in the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

How it's going to work out now is another question.

"The others seem to have taken the stand that 'It's Selke's baby so let him go ahead and look after everything,'" he said. "Well, since the Richard case I can't say I'd feel like doing all that."

Claims Hockey Big Business Not Sport

QUEBEC (CP). — A member of Quebec's upper house and former owner of a Quebec City hockey club said Monday night professional hockey has become more of a business than a sport.

The managing director of Montreal Canadiens said he thought Richard's suspension was too severe, that there was no support from other National Hockey League clubs in the unfortunate and troublesome situation and that he therefore feel he should not carry the load for the other clubs in the planned new deal in junior hockey.

As a move toward rebuilding junior hockey in Quebec provinces and at the same time providing fertile farm for young players, Selke announced early last season that all NHL clubs had agreed to sponsor and enter teams in one season in the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

Doug Harvey Awarded Norris Memorial Cup

MONTREAL (CP) — Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens' all-star defenceman, is the winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League announced today. Harvey also received $1,000 from the NHL.

The trophy goes to the defenceman who showed greatest all-round ability in that position throughout the season.

Harvey had 147 points of a possible 180 in the voting by hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters in the six NHL cities. He was far ahead of Red Kelly of Detroit Red Wings, winner last year, who had 95 points in the runner-up place.

Fern Flaman of Boston Bruins, placed third with 32 points. Twelve other defencemen received points on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third choices.

—promoting nearly all sports in Quebec City, said he told the Quebec Provincess because he could not afford to keep a junior team.

"It must have cost the Canadian-Arena Company—owners of Montreal Canadiens—at least $100,000 to keep up the QJHL last year," he said. "That is not sport."

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

Pitchers must learn to cover first base on balls hit to the first baseman. They should break for the bag any time the ball is hit to the first-base side of the infield.

With no one on base, the diagram above illustrates what various players should do when the ball is hit toward the first baseman. The pitcher races to cover the base, running so that he will be parallel to the base line and out of the path of the base runner as he reaches the base. When the first baseman fields the ball, he steps forward first and tosses the ball (if he is fairly close to the base) or throws it overhand (if he has to make a longer throw) so that the pitcher can catch it chest high about two steps before he reaches the base. When the pitcher catches the ball, it is advisable for him to try to step on the base with his right foot so he will stay out of the path of the base-runner and to circle toward second base. It is good to get into the habit of making a quick turn in case there are runners on other bases as these runners might try to advance if the pitcher isn't in position to throw quickly.

If the first baseman can't get off his throw before the pitcher reaches first base, the pitcher must stop at the bag and stretch for the throw.

Note where the other players should be heading in case someone makes an error. Backing up plays properly often keeps a runner from advancing another base.

SOX SIGN STEPHENS

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago White Sox announced Monday the signing of Vernon Stephens as a utility infielder and right handed pinch hitter. Stephens, a free agent, was released about a week ago by Baltimore.

The Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

It is axiomatic that no player, however brilliant, can be greater than the game. The volcanic Rocket Richard has become embroiled with the swinging mace of Mr. Boston. When linesman Thompson interfered in the course of his duty, the enraged Richard, cut and bleeding, dealt the linesman what is technically known as a sock in the eye.

N.H.L. President Campbell felt it was high time a firm stand was taken in the matter of protecting officials, and maintaining dignity in the ranks. He suspended Richard, created in Montreal a furore that reached civic heights and depths, and even got the floor of Federal Parliament.

In the final analysis, the question wasn't entirely whether President Clarence Campbell was right or wrong in having the great Rocket Richard from the last three league games and the entire Stanley Cup Series. The much more important question was whether he should have attended the Detroit-Montreal game in Montreal a few hours after he had issued the Richard ukase.

This was the most extraordinary situation to develop in all the stormy history of hockey, that game which inflames its adherents, lifts normal people temporarily into maniacs.

Campbell, veteran of World War II, who had faced shells and shrapnel, was caught between two extremes. If he avoided the game, played the day after he ruled out Richard, he would be listed as a coward by his detractors. If he went, he might be inviting trouble. He went. He took his chances and he came through in a fashion you couldn't help but admire.

Perhaps his judgment in attending could be questioned. He was attacked physically, and his presence brought about a bombing in the Montreal Forum, pelting with hundreds of the 14,000 crowd into panic, forced cancellation of the game after the period of play and, forfeiture to the visiting team. And that wasn't all. The incident produced Montreal's worst riot, as a crowd went on destruction rampage, looting and business thoroughfare, smashing windows and looting to the extent of $100,000. There were 41 arrests.

To the credit of Richard it must be said that he played an important part in quelling the dangerous anti-Campbell hostility that had blossomed overnight. He went on the air, urged with obvious sincerity in two languages that no further trouble be created, and this undoubtedly aided in toning down the bitter feeling.

Nelson Eddy Given Lead Role In Spectacular "Desert Song"

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Casting of Nelson Eddy in the lead role of "The Desert Song" for NBC's color spectacular next Saturday night (8 p.m. EDT) is natural, in view of his starring performances in nearly two score light opera movies and his long career in opera and concerts. But the tall singer and actor, still handsome at 53, is as nervous as a novice.

"I have never done a major show on stage or television, and motion pictures are entirely different in technique," he explained. "And on the concert stage I was out there all alone this is something for which my background hasn't prepared me."

"I always wanted to start small in television, on some local station or with a 15-minute program, until I learned the ropes," he added, with fees in mind no doubt. They said it had to be in an important spot. Now here I am in the biggest spot of all."

"I have a feeling now that it might open up a whole new field for me. But first I have to see

The Khibitzer

Where nature is deficient, man aspires to invent aids. So it is with good bridge players. It is founded on natural meanings of bids. These are supplemented with special signals by the architect.

The language of bids is confined to a mere 15 words. Seldom at work is some of this limited vocabulary. Because of this they are known to bridge players as lazy bids.

System welders like to put a lazy bid to work; to turn it into a busy bid. They abandon its natural meaning and, as a substitute, give it a meaning for which it is not particularly suitable.

This substitute meaning is arbitrarily artificial. When it is well known or in common usage it becomes a convention; a bid with a popular acceptance of its unnatural interpretation.

The original purpose of the word double is to tell partner you can defeat the opponent bid and reap extra points. Now the double is for penalty is because known as a penalty double.

In one particular neighborhood, however, too seldom can you see it as originally intended. Or, if you do, it would be futile to announce it because they would change it to something safer.

This situation is when opponent has opened the bidding and your side has not yet spoken. A lazy bid is there in its natural state. So, nearly all systems have switched it to a convention.

Its convention (or commonly accepted unnatural meaning) is that it bolsters partner to show what he has. As when south opens with a diamond and west doubles in the deal shown here:

	NORTH
	♠J 8
	♥J 10 4
	♦Q 9 8 2
	♣J 10 9 5
WEST		EAST
♠A Q 7 5		♠K 9 6 4 2
♥8		♥9 6 5 2
♦A K 8 5		♦10 7
♣K 6 4 3		♣8 7
	SOUTH
	♥A K Q 7 3
	♦J 6 4
	♣A Q 2

Ordinarily, the double would say: "Partner, we can defeat this bid." It does, however, it has this unnatural meaning: "Show me your best suit, still, preferably a major."

A double can be brutal with a partner who is futile.

Donald O'Connor, Bing Crosby Will Do Musical Together

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donald O'Connor and Bing Crosby are teamed in a musical after 20 years of going separate ways.

In the 1937 film, "Sing You Sinners," Donald was 12, with an Irish face and a soprano singing voice. In 1955's "Anything Goes," he is starring 50, handsomer and a baritone.

Donald remembers "Sing You Sinners" vividly. He also remembers his salary: $350 a week. He's now earning $200,000 for "Anything Goes."

"I did a lot of pictures at Paramount," he said. "I was Gary Cooper as a boy in 'Beau Geste' and Fred MacMurray as a boy in 'Men with Wings.' But 'Sing You Sinners' was the only musical I ever did in those days."

Although his personal life is still unsettled, Donald's professional career is in high gear. For the first time within his memory, he is free of all commitments and can call his own shots. Plans on the agenda is a leadstay tour through Europe.

He plans to leave in September and may be gone six months. It's the first real vacation he has ever had. But he'll combine it with business. He'll make movie, TV shows and he'll scout possibilities of releasing them. In Europe.

What else is in his future? He wants to direct movies. He got a lot of experience by directing his TV shows.

"We had some duds in the series," he said, "but I think we hit a pretty high average. Next time we tried to do a lot of different things. Now I think I'm ready to tackle a full length movie. I've got several properties in mind."

Bing Crosby, who has had three chances with the parent Brooklyn Dodgers, acquired his part-interest Monday without a defeat as the Royals nipped the Havana Sugar Kings 5-4 and moved into second place.

In games at night, Toronto Maple Leafs remained on top of the league by defeating Columbus Jets 3-1, Richmond Virginians broke a five-game losing streak by blanking Buffalo Bisons 5-0 and Rochester Red Wings, behind the effective pitching of Ellis (Cot) Deal and Eddie Yost, slaughtered Chiefs 9-1.

Lehman, who had an 18-10 record last year for the second-place Royals, gave up 11 hits and had to be relieved in the ninth inning by Glenn Mickens. Claude Parris hit a three-run homer and Bob Addis a two-run homer to account for the Montreal runs.

Three-hit pitching by Milo Candini and five-hit pitching by Red Fahr kept Toronto in last-place ahead of Royals, Goliat, who had two hits, knocked in all the Leaf runs. Hal Jeffcoat, the ex-Yankee Lou Limmer's homer.

Pete Wojtanowicz his first pitching appearance of the season, walked only two and struck out the same number while driving in Clemente. Mike Kume, first pitcher to go the distance against Leafs this year, took the loss.

Mario Picone, former New York Giants, hit a pair of Blues, teammates to four hits while his batterymate, Bruno St. Pierre, and Rocky Ippolii hit home runs for the two Richmond runs.

Deal and Wright combined to stop Syracuse on five hits as the Red Wings won their second straight from the Chiefs. Jackie Brandt scored two of Rochester's runs while Yost and Wright drove in. cracked two singles and a double, accounted for three. Ned Wing run.

PARNELL CAN PLAY

Trophy Will Honor Memory Of "Big Train"

TORONTO (CP)—A trophy in memory of the late Lionel Conacher, Canada's greatest athlete of the half-century, is to be given annually to the Ontario Senior Lacrosse Association champions.

The trophy honoring the former lacrosse great is to be donated by his brother, Charlie, former Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star and one of the family of Conachers who carved a name in Canadian sport.

Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner and chairman of the OLA's senior series, made the announcement Monday.

Lionel died May 26, 1954, while playing in the annual softball game between members of Parliament and the parliamentary press gallery in Ottawa.

In 1950 he was selected Canada's greatest athlete in a poll conducted by The Canadian Press.

ODILE VERSOIS — DELIGHT-FULLY FRENCH!

She is young, she is lovely. She is enchantingly French. She is exciting Odile Versois. It was to star in "Into the Blue" that this honey blonde actress first left the French film studios. The critics hailed her, but somewhere along the way, the producers forgot their bubbling new personality—forgot that is, until Terence Young was on for an actress to portray Donald Sinden's girl friend in "A Day to Remember". Then casting directors began to remember Odile. Later so did the critics, and producers began to sit up and take notice. When Agnboy Havelock-Allan started his pre-duction planning on "Chance Meeting," now at the Odeon Mc-Carthy Theatre, it seemed to him that the part of the tragic Anna could fit no one but Odile. The script was written with her in mind. As director Anthony Asquith said: "Of course we tested Odile, but it wasn't necessary—I knew!"

SLASH DERBY ODDS

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top bookies slashed the odds on favored Acropolis from 11-to-2 to 7-to-2 at a betting call-over on the classic Epsom Derby Monday.

It now looks as though the handsome chestnut colt will start as one of the best backed and short-priced Derby favorites in the 176th running of the mile and a half classic May 25—eve of Britain's general election.

The colt is owned by 35-year-old Lady Alice Derby.

Lehman Starring For Montreal; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veteran Ken Lehman of the Montreal Royals is one of the main reasons the rookie manager, Greg Mullevey's hopes for the International League pennant.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself peaceful and ma said, William, I happened to drop into the suction rooms while I was downtown.

That's enough, I've heard more than I want to know, pop said, and ma said, Now William, dont jump before you're dunned. Anyway, to make a long story short, the man auctioned off the most beautiful red and gold set of Le Fontaine's fables in the original French, she said.

Yes gods, the story is still too long, pop said. Can anybody around here read original Frenich, or even 2nd hand French? And what are we going to do with another row of volumes, and our book shelves overcrowded already? I wonder if the set contains the fable about the mouse at the auction sale who had a stuffed lion knocked down to her for 6 pieces of cheese, and it was knocked down to her and it fell on her and cured her of auction sales as long as she lived, which was about 5 minutes, pop said.

If you didn't interrupt every minute, you'd save time, ma said. Furthermore, ma said. What I'm trying to tell you is, those books were knocked down to an overdressed woman with brite red dyed hair. Now why would such a swiger parlor want such a culturgl set of books? she said, and pop said, Per Diem Grey sake do you meen you didn't buy them after all?

Of course not, you would of found that out long ago if you had only listened, ma said. What I really bought was a genuine anteek, all the way from Colonial days. I learn more, ma said. What I'm trying to tell you is, those books were knocked down to an overdressed woman with brite red dyed hair. Now why would such a swiger parlor want such a culturgl set of books? she said, and pop said, Per Diem Grey sake do you meen you didn't buy them after all?

Youth for Christ Holds First Rally

MARMORA — The first Marmora Youth for Christ rally was held in the town hall on Saturday evening with over 100 in attendance, chiefly from outside points.

The Rev. Robert Jones of the local Pentecostal Assembly, made introductory remarks after which Archie Campbell of the Oshawa Youth for Christ, took over as song leader.

A young ladies' trio from Bloomfield, made two appearances on the program and Mrs. Wannamaker also sang a solo at two different parts.

Kenneth Edwards offered prayer, followed by more remarks by Rev. R. Jones.

Archie Campbell next sang "What Think Ye of Christ?" to his own accompaniment.

The special speaker was Jim Brackwood, director of the Bowmanville Youth for Christ, who closed his remarks on "What Shall I Do Then With Jesus, Which is Called Christ?"

A collection was taken in furtherance of the movement.

A second rally is being arranged for Saturday evening, May 18.

Stirling

ANNUAL SERVICE

STIRLING — St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was the scene of the annual church service, of Scouts, Guides, Brownies and Cubs. The various leaders with the executive committee, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irish, marched to the church from the public school, headed by the color party of Cubs, Scouts and Guides.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker delivered an address on the theme "St. George's Day", and gave the young people some helpful advice.

John Ray and Douglas McIntosh received "Religion and Life" awards.

The choir rendered an anthem, and Mr. William Reynolds sang "O Wonderful Love".

Mrs. Grant Stapley was hostess to a pantry shower in honor of Miss Joan Green, a May bride, and several friends were in attendance. The evening was spent playing Court Whist.

The local Red Cross collected $579.15 in their recent canvass for funds.

Mrs. M. Palmer spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. M. Sutton, at Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conley attended the funeral of the late Mrs. M. Pigden, at Madoc, on Tuesday.

Now Living in Bright, Hopeful Dawn of Radioactive Age

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—We are living in the bright and hopeful dawn of the radioactive revolution.

It is springing up from radioactive atoms. It can affect your life powerfully, for the good. For it is bringing: a new source of electric power, power to build up fuel-starved countries, perhaps lessen tensions for war.

Controls over some kinds of cancer, perhaps in time a big hand in conquest of cancer and other diseases, in lengthening the span of healthy human life.

Revolutionary new crops that resist disease, give higher yields.

Some foodstuffs that won't spoil, and dozens of hundreds of new jobs to aid industry and improve the products you use.

DISCONTENTED ATOMS

A radioactive eye to discover some of nature's tightest secrets.

Just what are these radioactive atoms? They are essentially, atoms which are discontented, restless. They break down, emitting rays or atomic particles.

Some, like Uranium-235 and plutonium, shoot out neutrons, atomic particles which can hit other atoms and explode them to carry on a chain reaction. An instantaneous chain reaction produces bombs.

A controlled chain reaction generates heat to turn water into steam to produce electricity.

Other atoms emit x-rays, or electrons, or alpha particles (cores of helium atoms). When they give off their rays they change into something else. Radioactive carbon becomes nitrogen; familiar radium turns eventually into lead.

The key to the radioactive revolution is in putting this energy or radiation to work, in useful but often fantastic ways.

REACTORS NEW SOURCE

But, first, where do these atoms come from? Some have always existed in nature. There is radioactive uranium, radium, carbon, potassium, in the ground, in the air, in the foods we eat. Our bodies have always been slightly radioactive.

The great new source of atoms for the constructive revolution comes from atomic reactors, or power plants. The controlled chain reaction makes some as by-products. Others are intentionally created by exposing natural elements to neutrons whipping around within the reactor.

Atomic power is already here to a slight degree and developing speedily. The United States submarine Nautilus runs on atomic power; atomic-powered planes are coming. So are power plants to produce electricity for homes and industry.

Britain is launched on a 10-year program to substitute radioactive power for dwindling coal. Russia has an announced head start with a working pilot plant.

The country which can first offer practical power plants to have-not countries scores a triumph, wins gratitude. Radioactive power can lift living standards in hard-pressed areas. Some authorities declare North America must have it, too, in coming years, to offset diminishing supplies of coal and oil as power needs expand.

Costs are tremendous, and mean the radioactive revolution cannot arrive overnight. The general scientific and business belief is that costs can be made competitive in time, that a good first start is in areas where normal fuels are available only at high cost.

DISPOSAL PROBLEM

There's a remote chance, says the experts, that an atomic power plant could get out of hand and flare up to spray dangerous radioactivity over the neighborhood. Special safeguards are needed. These have been provided successfully with all research reactors built in the past.

Radioactive wastes forming in the power plant can poison or slow down the chain reaction. They must be removed periodically, or automatically. They consist of highly radioactive atoms, some of which stay potent or dangerous for 30 years or more.

They can't just be dumped into a river or buried nakedly underground for fear they would be carried to areas to do harm to humans. At present, most such waste is stored in tanks until most of it decays, or is enclosed in concrete "coffins" and buried at sea.

The more power plants there are, the bigger the disposal problem.

ADVANCE FOR SUNDAY, MAY 1.

PILOT KILLED

Impurities in Booze Cause Of Hangover

NEW YORK (AP)—Fill 'em up again bartender, and don't bruise the alcohol. The purer the alcohol, the lighter the hangover.

That's the latest word from medical science, released today in a report published in the American Journal of Proctology.

Four New England doctors found that the main cause of hangover is not alcohol, but pwerful, microscopic impurities in bodze. The higher the pure alcoholic content, they contend, the less danger of a hanover or permanent bodily harm.

Also, they say, the purer the alcohol the slower it intoxicates.

MADOC

Lodges Attend Church Service

MADOC — A fine turnout of Odd Fellows of Madoc Lodge, 179, and the Oakdale Rebekahs, along with many visiting brethren and sisters, attended the annual church service at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning.

The minister, Rev. M. W. Hep-lip, was in charge of the service and chose as his subject, "Friendship."

Special music was rendered by the choir, who sang an anthem, "Anywhere With Jesus." The junior choir sang a chorus, "Child of Nazareth."

Brethren from Havelock, Stirling, Campbellford and Peterborough, and the D.D.G.M., Mr. Poulton, Jr., of Campbellford, were in attendance.

Dispute Over Oil May Block Accord On Austrian Treaty

West Objects To Provision Against Foreign Control

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

VIENNA (AP)—A possible Western-Russian split over oil properties lost its unanimity and Dutch companies 17 years ago loomed as the Big Four ambassadors turned today to reparations clauses of the Austrian independence treaty.

Negotiations between the United States, British, French and Soviet ambassadors and Austria's Foreign Minister Leopold Figl went into their third day with about half the 30,000-word treaty draft still to be reviewed.

The five representatives are trying to agree on a revised treaty for the Big Four foreign ministers to sign. Three months after it is signed all foreign troops must be withdrawn from Austria.

The Western Allies this morning were reported planning to resist a Russian demand that Austria guarantee to keep her oil industry—operated by U. S. Standard Vacuum Oil Co. and Royal Dutch Shell group—out of foreign hands. The industry now produces an estimated 3,000,000 tons of crude oil a year, and has extensive refining and marketing agencies.

WAIVE PROVISIONS

In exchange for the Austrian ban on foreign ownership, the Russians offered to waive provisions of the treaty draft which gave them drilling and extraction rights in area fields for 25 years and for 26 years in others.

The Austrians were reported ready to agree to the Soviet condition, which also includes Austrian delivery of 10,000,000 tons of crude oil to Russia in the next 10 years. Socialist members of Austria's coalition government want to nationalize the oil industry.

Conference of the 4 s reported Tuesday night that the Russians had come up with a surprise proposal that all occupation troops be pulled out of Austria by Dec. 31, even if the new treaty still had been signed by then. There was no official confirmation of the report, but diplomatic sources said the western envoys gave no immediate reply to the Russian move.

Toronto Arson Squad Probing $150,000 Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Officers of city police arson squad and the Ontario fire marshal's department today began investigation of an early-morning blaze which caused damage estimated at $150,000 to the west-end Essex street public school.

The top floor of the three-storey senior-grade building was gutted by the fire which started in the roof and spread rapidly as blazing embers fell into the classrooms below. Water, heat and smoke caused heavy damage to the lower two floors of the building.

A school official said 500 pupils of Grades 7 and 8 today were on an enforced holiday and temporary buildings may have to be constructed to accommodate them as other district schools already are overcrowded.

Every available fireman and piece of equipment was called to answer a second alarm. Firemen extinguished the blaze after more than four hours, during which the roof collapsed sending flames 40 feet into the air. Six firemen were treated for cuts.

Lt.-Col. L. Brown To Face General Court Martial

KINGSTON (CP)—Relieved from duty a week ago Monday, Lt.-Col. Lindsay H. Brown, eastern Ontario army area engineer in Kingston, will face a general court martial here Friday.

The Kingston Whig-Standard learned today that the court martial will be held at the Royal Canadian Signals' school in Vimy barracks.

Brig. J. V. Allard, commanding officer of the 3rd Infantry Brigade, Valcartier, Que., will be president of the court.

In military courts, as in civil courts, there is a prosecuting officer and a defending officer. A Friday's court martial the prosecutor will be Capt. A. M. Bell, legal officer at central command, and the defence officer will be Col. R. S. Malone, director of organization, army headquarters, Ottawa.

Col. Brown is charged with "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline" under Section 118, National Defence Act, which relates to improper possession of publicly-owned goods.

Few details other than those have been made public, either at defence headquarters in Ottawa or at eastern Ontario area headquarters in Kingston, since first word of the investigation was published April 26.

The lessee, if any, are believed to have taken place in Kingston's military camp area seven or eight years ago, while Col. Brown, then a major, was commanding an engineer company here.

Tear Gas Ends Vermont Man's Fight To Keep Wife Out of Mental Hospital

BETHEL, Vt. (AP)—A barrage of tear gas has ended the hectic days of justice of the peace Manuel Miller, 47, who stood off federal and Vermont authorities at gunpoint for 12 hours Tuesday in a futile attempt to keep his wife out of a mental hospital.

Miller and his wife, Lucille, 44, parents of three children, surrendered Tuesday night in their gas-filled home after a tense confinement in a mental hospital, he to face a court-ordered commitment charge.

The mild-mannered Miller, a former town councillor, began the siege at 10 a. m. when he refused admittance to a federal marshal and two deputies who had a court commitment.

Mrs. Miller, publisher of a minor Communist and anti-Communist leaflet called the Green Mountain Rifleman, was ordered committed to federal court at Burlington, Vt., April 18 as the outgrowth of a mental disorder which Dr. Miller said was influencing young men to evade the draft.

Throughout the day Miller, armed with a rifle, defied all efforts to remove his wife from their two-storey frame home.

Some 12 hours after the siege began and after threats, pleas and cajoling failed, authorities fired tear gas shells through downstairs windows of the Miller home. Ten minutes later the couple appeared at an upstairs window. Miller tossed through his window onto a porch roof and three his wife to the ground. State troopers swarmed on the roof and handcuffed him.

Mrs. Miller started through the window. She collapsed across the sill, overcome by gas. She was carried unconscious from the roof in a wicker basket-type stretcher.

Miller, handcuffed, husband stood by silently, doctors revived her on the lawn. She smiled at her husband. He smiled back.

Although no shots were fired during the 12-hour siege, Miller repeatedly told besiegers:

"I'll shoot every last intruder from crossing my threshold."

Two days before the siege began the Miller children, David, 11, and the twins, Helen and Josephine, 10, were taken from their home by police and sent back.

The siege would was through for the day, however, authorities sent the youngsters to nearby homes, where they remained for the night.

Miller, a justice of the peace for 20 years, defied efforts to talk him into surrender, saying:

"We are upholding the Constitution. We're not going to give ourselves up. If a man comes into my house and says 'I'm going to take you' I won't let him."

DRENCHING RAIN POSING SERIOUS THREAT TO CROPS

Saskatchewan Heavily Hit By Raging Storm

REGINA (CP)—Torrential rains and sleet continued to drench Saskatchewan's rich crop land early today, posing a serious threat to the year's grain crops.

An accurate estimate of damage caused by the raging storm which slashed telegraph and power lines, flooded roads and hundreds of basements and isolated several communities may not be made until today.

Regina, a city of more than 53,000, was reported isolated. Communications to the city were cut off and a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train bound for Saskatoon from Edmonton was halted at Wilkie, Sask. Because telegraph lines were down, train orders could not be relayed instructing the train to continue on its trip.

Twelve amateur radio operators worked through the night to maintain communication with areas cut off by severed power lines and flooded highways.

The storm, which swept up from the United States Tuesday, hinted this grain-growing province with high winds, rain and snow. The Saskatchewan River was the worst in the city's history.

Hundreds of head of cattle were reported at Meadow Lake in the northwest.

UNDECIDED ON EFFECT

Although hundreds of acres of valuable crop land were soaked, agricultural experts had varied opinions as to the storm's effect on grain crops.

Sunny weather could help get fields back in shape for planting, one spokesman said, and the province's grain economy rests with weather in the immediate future.

Farmers normally have 25 per cent of their wheat planted by May 1 had only about three per cent sown to date because of a series of cold, wet days this spring.

Hard hit today the storm, described by weather office officials as "tremendous," was headed into Manitoba with almost equal force.

Winnipeg's unfavorable weather resulted in 75 per cent of Saskatchewan farmers receiving more than $20,000,000 in federal aid for crop losses.

DUST IN WINNIPEG

The storm left about an inch of rain in southern Alberta before moving east. There was also a half-mile in Winnipeg Tuesday as clouds of dust blown up from North Dakota by winds up to 60 miles an hour.

Consumer Price Index Up One-Tenth of Point in March

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose in March for the first time in eight months, pushing up the consumer price index by one-tenth of a point to 116.1 from 116.

Higher prices for some foods and rents as well as higher home-ownership costs caused the small rise, the bureau of statistics reported today. They outweighed minor declines in clothing and household operations.

Prices rose during March for flour, tea, eggs, fresh fruits, potatoes and chicken, gasoline, shelter, and doctors' and dentists' fees. These offset declines for coffee, margarine, most fruits and vegetables, pork, men's suits, electrical appliances, household supplies, some street-car and bus fares, bicycles and spectacles.

The March increase is the first rise in the consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equal-ling 100, since August, 1954, when the index rose by four-fifths of a point to 117 from 116.2.

It dropped slightly in the following month, remained unchanged in the next three, and then began a steady decline that continued for four consecutive months, broken by the March rise. The March standing of 116.1 is 2.1 points below the record high of 118.2 reached in December, 1951. The lowest point of the index in recent years has been 114.8 in April, 1953.

Changing food prices have been the main power behind changes in the over-all index. In March the food sub-group increased by three-tenths of a point to 111, breaking a continuous five-month drop.

The shelter column, covering both rents and home-ownership costs, increased by one-tenth of a point to a new high of 128.7.

Canada Has No Intention Of Leaving Viet Nam Body

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has no present intention of withdrawing from the international truce supervisory commission in Viet Nam because this might create new Far East tensions and endanger remaining refugee movement from Communist North Viet Nam to non-Communist South Viet Nam.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, in making this policy statement in the commons Tuesday, said "terrible things" are being done in North Viet Nam. The Communists were hampering work of the commission, especially in southward movement of refugees.

Viet Nam was split into Communist and non-Communist states under the July, 1954, Geneva armistice terms until elections for the reunification of the state in July, 1956.

Under the armistice civilians were given until May 18 this year to move from one side of the demarcation line to the other. To date, about 900,000 persons moved out of North Viet Nam and only a few thousand out of South Viet Nam.

A three-nation commission — Canada, India and Poland—is supervising the truce and has set up posts to enforce its recommendations.

Mr. Pearson, replying to John Diefenbaker, foreign affairs spokesman for the Progressive Conservatives, said a "substantial number" of persons in the north will be prevented from moving south unless the May 18 cut-off date is extended. This would require concurrence of both the Communist and non-Communist sides.

There had been suggestions that Canada might withdraw from the commission as a gesture of protest about the way the commission's work on movement of refugees has been hampered by the Communists.

Canada's representatives on the commission and U government are not satisfied that the freedom of movement provisions of the armistice are being carried out, Mr. Pearson said.

However, Canada's withdrawal would prejudice fulfilment of the main military provisions of the agreement. This would create new tensions and possibly jeopardize peace in Viet Nam and also in neighboring Laos and Cambodia.

"Nor would our withdrawal be of any assistance whatsoever to those in Viet Nam who want to leave," he said. "Indeed, it might eliminate any remaining hope that their lot might be alleviated."

No Policy Adopted

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided against adopting an equal pay for equal work for women, Labor Minister Gregg said Tuesday in the commons.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West) had drawn his attention to a recent speech on equal pay for women made by Marion V. Royce, head of the women's branch of the labor department.

Mrs. Fairclough asked whether this indicated a change in government policy. Mr. Gregg said Miss Royce was simply expressing her own opinion.

GOVT. SUPPORTED BY INDEPENDENTS ON TWO VOTES

Lack of Confidence Motions Are Lost

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has received unexpected support from the Commons' four independent members on two opposition motions of non-confidence in budget policies.

The independents sided with the Liberal majority Tuesday night as the House voted 131 to 65 against a CCF motion condemning the government for not easing the "crushing load" of municipal taxation.

Raoul Poulin (Ind—Beauce) said the independents also will support the government in the vote on a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members supported the CCF motion. It said the government had "failed to provide assistance to the provincial governments to enable them to plan their financing to relieve municipalities of the crushing load of municipal taxation."

THATCHER VOTE

Ross Thatcher, member for Moose Jaw, criticized the method of the CCF party April 22, voted with the other independents against the stand of his former party. The other independents, Mr. Poulin, Paul Gagnon (Chicoutimi) and Fernand Girard (Lapointe), in the past usually have voted against the government on non-confidence motions.

Mr. Poulin, following the vote, said that although the budget did not go far enough to solve many problems, the Progressive Conservative motion "forgot to acknowledge the partial effort accomplished in some fields by the present government."

He said he will support the government in the vote on the PC motion and added: "May I say that I am entitled to declare that my opinion is also shared by my independent colleagues."

The vote on the opposition motion was delayed Thursday, bringing the budget debate to a close on the 10th day.

CHARGES FAILURE

The four-point motion charges the government has "failed" to give effective relief to Canadian enterprise for creation of employment, to remove discriminatory sales taxes on low incomes and allowances, to curb government extravagance and inefficiency, and to recognize the serious position of farmers and fishermen.

Opposition Leader Drew will enter the closing stages of the debate.

Tuesday some of the opposition party chief critics attacked the government's budget policy.

Donald Fleming of the Toronto suburban area for the government has "observed a conspiracy of silence on unemployment and is running away from the problem, hoping to ignore it."

Daring Thieves Obtain Big Haul Of Payroll Cash

Post Office Is Next Door To Police Headquarters

WELLAND (CP)—Daring thieves striking next door to the police station at dawn today stole a steel company's payroll funds from a locked cabinet in the Welland post office.

Police chief Orval Rounds, directing the investigation of the biggest robbery in Welland's history, said the loot amounted to between $75,000 and $80,000. It was the weekly pay for the 1,250 employees of the Atlas Steel Company, due to be paid Friday.

The chief said $3,000 of the money was in United States currency.

The payroll cash, in denominations of $10, $10 and $20, ordinarily reaches Welland every Tuesday evening, is kept in the post office overnight, and is transferred to the bank the next morning.

USED FOR SAFETY

The scene of the robbery is the ground-floor Welland post office and customs building opened four years ago on a downtown business street.

Two years ago thieves carried away the post office safe containing several thousand dollars. Since then, the safe, a heavy steel cabinet, has been used for overnight storage of large amounts of money.

Constable George Dooly discovered the robbery. He made his rounds two hours after the last post office employee left the building. He saw a nail keg below a window, found the window broken and discovered the inside catch forced.

Four storage cabinets had been pried open before the large amount of cash was found.

A narrow laneway separates the post office building from the police station. The window was forced on the side of the building farthest from the police office.

Police said the thieves took the nail keg from a nearby hardware store.

NO PRECAUTIONS

Standing on the keg, the burglars had no difficulty reaching in and releasing the window catch and crawling in.

Investigators said no precautions had been taken to guard the payroll cash.

The post office staff worked until 4:45 a. m.

Police said the robbery was evidently the work of a "well-organized gang of housebreakers."

They expressed belief the gang hid near the post office and watched the movements of the routine check.

No attempt was made to open the safe, police said. This indicated to them that the thieves knew the money was in the cash box. The safe was going to be locked in the steel cabinet, instead of being placed in the safe.

F. J. Shipton, treasurer of Atlas Steel, said the money was on the way to the Toronto - Dominion Bank branch here.

Viet Nam Rebel Resistance Ends As Parley Opens

SAIGON (Reuters) — The South Viet Nam national army announced at a press conference today that all organized resistance of the Binh Xuyen rebel private army has ceased.

Local and provincial leaders flocked to this capital today for a special congress called by South Viet Nams Premier Ngo Dinh Diem to act on a revolutionary committee's demand for the ouster of Bao Dai, nominal chief of state.

The United States—which exerts great influence here because of its indochina aid program—meanwhile was reported recommending that a constitutional monarchy be established in this strife-torn state.

From his luxurious villa on the French Riviera, Bao Dai announced the congress—or "states-general"—as illegal. (There seemed no ground to regard Tuesday night that he planned to fly to Saigon.)

Think U.S. Waits For Mediation In Formosa Issue

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may have decided to give mediation efforts a chance before taking further steps toward direct talks with Communist China on the Formosa problem.

It was a week ago today that President Eisenhower backed up State Secretary Dulles' announcement of willingness to hold U.S.-Red China talks on a Formosa cease-fire.

In the meantime, three countries have stepped in with mediation offers. And Washington, while not publicly encouraging such offers, is understood to be showing interest in them privately.

25 Japanese Girls Scarred by Atomic Blast Fly to New York For Surgery

By GENE KRAMER

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—"The night before the choice was announced I cried and cried." A New York physician said.

"We were told they prayed not that they would be the ones picked but that we doctors would not feel anguish at having to leave some of them home."

That is the little story behind the story of 25 Japanese girls, disfigured by the atomic bomb 10 years ago, who arrived in New York from plastic surgery in the United States.

Dr. William M. Hitzig, a New York physician who helped to make the selections, told the story as the 25 excited girls prepared for the first and most important airplane trip of their lives. The girls, all in their 20s, leave Thursday.

"It is hard to believe how gentle and happily they acted during the long selection process," Hitzig said.

"We explained to all the girls we examined that we could pick only a certain number—those who could best stand the long trip and who would benefit most from the surgery—and that we would do our best to make a wise selection."

The girls were told they may be gone a year. They may face up to a dozen operations. Yet all are happy to go and are in unbelievably good spirits.

The scars left after the atomic bomb burst out of the skies in 1945 have shut them off from normal society. One wore a veil over a mask.

The trip to Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, is being financed by private contributions. Families in New York have agreed to lodge the girls.

The project was organized by Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, Mount Sinai Hospital and Andkiyoshi Tugasaki, president of Nippon Times of Tokyo.

Telephone Rates In City May Be Increased

In conformity with the regulations of The Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, The Bell Telephone Company has reported that the Belleville local calling area has outgrown its present rate group. Accordingly, the company has recommended that it be reclassified into the next higher group.

If approved by the board, the regrouping would mean small increases in Belleville telephone rates for business and the same as those now paid in other centres with a similar number of telephones in their local calling areas, G. W. Proctor, Bell manager for Belleville, explained. For residence, the monthly charge for two-party residence service would be increased by 20 cents and individual residence service by 25 cents.

GOVERNED BY NUMBER

Telephone rates for any exchange are governed by the number of telephones in its local calling area, as established by the board on the principle that the service increases in value as the number of telephones within the local calling area increases. The company is required to report to the board, twice yearly, the status of exchanges whose total telephones have increased — or decreased — more than five per cent beyond the limits of their group. The last increase was in July, 1950.

The Belleville area has expanded steadily in recent years and its progress has been accompanied by a parallel growth in the number of telephones. Telephone customers served by the Belleville exchange now have 10,986 telephones in their local calling area.

The following table provides examples of the rates for typical classes of service in Belleville's present and proposed rate group.

J.C.R. Punchard Tells of Visit To Carolina Club

J. C. R. (Bud) Punchard, of the local Kiwanis Club, this week returned to Belleville following a visit to Burlington, North Carolina Kiwanis Club on his visit was a feature of both clubs' observance of U.S. — Canada Goodwill week.

Last week the Belleville club had addresses from representatives of its fellow-organization in the U.S. at approximately the same time as Mr. Punchard was being entertained by the Burlington organization.

Reporting back to his club yesterday Mr. Punchard outlined for members his experiences and also delivered part of the address he gave to the Burlington club during his visit.

Mr. Punchard's text made special commentary on the fact that the unarmed border exists between both nations.

"Too many of us tend to take for granted the peaceful way we made boundary stretching thousands of miles, between our two countries.

"For two hundred years our people have lived in peace continuous wars or attrition, yet during that period neither one was strong enough to overcome the other.

"As citizens of our respective countries, should we not be grateful that the 3,000 miles of border between us was built by the wisdom of man, rather than by armed forces. I refer to commemorating the Rush-Bagot treaty, which established the peace agreement.

"With our modern world erupting around us, no one can deny that the lines we have drawn in the seas are inextricably bound together in the defence of our continent. It is, therefore, our fondest hope that the wisdom of our statesmen which built the peace between us will continue as our fundamental policy forever.

"Such a successful peace as now exists can only be maintained by mutual understanding, understanding and co-operation, he said.

Mr. Punchard concluded by detailing Canada's present-day political and historical background to the U.S. club.

At yesterday's meeting he was thanked by Bob Irvine.

Fire Brigade Holds First Annual Ball

MARMORA—The first annual Firemen's Ball put on by the social and entertainment committee of the Marmora Fire Brigade, in the town hall, last Friday evening, was an outstanding success from the attendance and financial points of view. The full program was much enjoyed by the large crowd patronizing it.

A number of fancy prizes were to the following: electric toaster, Russell Jarvis; large electric lamp, Milton Campbell; men's shirt, Deryl McMillen; milk tickets (1) Everett Barnes; (2) Dr. G. H. Hammond; table lamp, Harold Wilson; ten gallons gas, Wendell McCoy; $5 merchandise, Bert Gray; 45 gallons oil or cash, Mrs. Edward Jan.

Several prizes were also given for spot dances.

'Red' Townsend New President Of Bridge Club

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Bridge club, held at the Shrine club on Tuesday evening, Homer "Red" Townsend was the unanimous choice of the members as president for the ensuing year. Practically all the members and several prospective members were in attendance and a most enjoyable evening resulted.

Other officers to be elected were James A. Ward, vice-president, W. A. "Skit" Vandervoort, secretary-treasurer and an executive of William Coulby, James Durant and Claude D. Tice. A ladies' committee of Edward Lock and James Durant was appointed, who will look after the arrangements for the entertainment of the wives of the members at a party to be held in the near future. Don Stirling was chairman of the nominating committee.

Following the meeting was James Trusisch, who thanked the members for a successful season just closed and for the cooperation that had been given him, during his term of office. His last official act was the presentation to Skit Vandervoort for his excellent work as secretary-treasurer of the club since its inception. Mr. Vandervoort made a suitable reply and hoped that in the near future someone else would take over the duties of this office but his suggestion only drew a hearty laugh from the assembly.

MEMBERS THANKED

In taking office, "Red" Townsend thanked the members for the honor conferred on him and he was sure that the club would go on to greater efforts. His proposal to increase the number of teams in the club met with approval by the members and it was decided to have at least 12 teams for the next season. Only eighteen were registered last year. The winners of the seasonal prizes were announced and awards given. Frank Domenico and Joseph Wims had the high score during the season and were followed by James Durant and Edward Lewis, James Ward and Robert Murphy, Earl Shilling and Jack Lawrence, William Coulby and Frank Cornjean, Homer Townsend and Harold Mott, and Sam Calles and Wes Wilson.

The sectional prize winners were, Sam Calles and Web Wilson, Don Sinclair by Mrs. Lawrence, Gordon Vince and W. A. "Skit" Vandervoort and Don Bacon and H. Glaspool. Following the distribution of prizes a bridge tournament was played with Gerald B. Hyde and Morley Ward winning the first prize with John Hibbard and Edward Lewis in second place. A buffet lunch was enjoyed, supplied by Mrs. Edgar Woodhouse, stewardess of the Shrine club and the thanks of the members was expressed by Harold Mott.

This brought to a close another enjoyable event in the history of this club.

Workers Enjoy Lunches in Parks

The city today happily languished in a temperature of over 75 degrees, the warm sunshine bringing, besides tulips, out on the lawns of city parks, office and factory workers with

The sun-washed atmosphere put dance into the life on city streets, many people discarding jackets for the first time out-of-doors, with feminine sounds.

Workers from offices and factories to eat their lunches in the coolness of trees either already green or showing with leaves unfurled in a green mist of young shoots and bursting buds.

Spring came early on the way to becoming summer, although the season officially does not begin for over a month.

Police Claim 'Stop Signs' Being Ignored

City motorists using MacDonald Ave. as a throughway with complete disregard of "stop" signs are going to get a big surprise in the main line of Sleep days.

The big surprise will be an official appearing envelope containing a summons requesting them to appear in magistrate's court for failure to bring their vehicles to a complete stop before entering Victoria Ave.

Police note the stop signs on MacDonald are plainly visible but motorists persist in "grossly ignoring" the signs. Residents in the area are complaining and a check by police has shown complaints were justified.

In one day no less than 18 motorists were checked for continuing across Victoria Ave. before coming to a full stop.

GM Produces 66,282 Cars In Four Months

OSHAWA (CP)—A record 66,282 passenger cars were produced by General Motors of Canada in the first four months of this year, president W. A. Wecker said Tuesday.

Mr. Wecker said passenger car output during the period was 15 per cent above the same period last year and 4,316 units ahead of the previous record set in 1933.

The high level of demand indicated that 1935 could be "the biggest passenger car year in the history of the Canadian automobile industry," with production and sales exceeding 1933 by between 15 and 20 per cent," Mr. Wecker said.

He said that in the first quarter of this year, 85 per cent of all new passenger cars registered in Canada were General Motors products, "but despite our record rate of production, stocks of cars in the hands of GM dealers continue to be abnormally low in relation to the rate of sales.

"Provided we continue to enjoy labor peace," Mr. Wecker said, "unit sales of General Motors passenger cars will be the highest in history this year."

Oshawa Boy Missing

OSHAWA (CP)—An 11-year-old boy who "acted school like potato" was the object of a search by police here Tuesday night. He has been missing since Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Alexander Clements said her son, Anthony, attended school Monday morning. In the afternoon he ran out of the schoolyard. She said he disliked school.

The family moved to Oshawa from Peterborough two weeks ago, that it is a pelican.

Russell Scott, president of the Progressive Conservative Association for the riding, has made no definite announcement but it is expected the Conservative nomination will be held in Stirling.

The Liberals are also expected to hold their nomination in the near future and a number of persons are being mentioned as possible candidates. DRENCHING RAIN

Mayor D. H. Lewry of Moose Jaw broadcast a warning to residents of the western area. One family refused to move and the mayor considered declaring martial law in the town.

Reports from Saskatoon said transportation in and out of the city was at a standstill.

In Weyburn, in southeastern Saskatchewan, flood waters 12 inches deep raced through one street and many basements were flooded Tuesday.

The Assiniboine river rose eight inches at Kamsack and continue to rise at the rate of an inch an hour. Up to four feet of water covered land in the area.

Federal government officials said the Qu'Appelle valley 25 miles northwest of Regina was completely flooded. The Canadian National Railways line at Fort Qu'Appelle was blocked by a mud slide.

GOVT. SUPPORTED

He referred to Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement last week that the government does not consider itself bound by its 1943 promise to the provinces, including one for assumption of full responsibility for able-bodied unemployed. Those provinces, those undertakings were most indecently interfered here last Friday," Mr. Fleming said.

The budget was a product of muddled thinking, indecision, confusion and fear of admitting the existence of major problems.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the statement that income tax cuts ranged as high as 13.3 per cent was "factual but deceptive."

A married man with two children earning $2,500 a year got that percentage reduction — but it amounted to only $4 a year. The father of two children who earned $4000 a year would save $7.524.

Mr. Knowles said the reduction in the tax take should have been spread more widely by increasing basic income tax exemptions and reducing or eliminating the sales tax.

BIRD IS PELICAN

BRANDON, Man. (AP)—An ornithologist has apparently ended a mild controversy in the farming area west of here over a "mystery bird" believed by farmers to be the rare white pelican. Dr. R. D. Bird, head of the Dominion entomological office here, said Monday that it is a pelican.

Canadian, U.S. Papers More Blunt Says Executive

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian and American newspapers are more forthright and blunt in their language than their British counterparts, says a British newspaper executive.

James Chambers, production manager for Tilloston's newspapers of Bolton, England, Monday told reporters here in an interview that:

"You're more inclined to 'let them have it' than we are. Not that we don't say just as nasty things, mind you, but we sugar-coat them more"

Mr. Chambers is accompanying Marcus Tilloston on a tour of Canadian and American newspapers seeking ideas on production for a new plant.

"We are getting plenty of ideas," he said. "Your production methods are much faster than ours, for one thing. Your printing isn't up to our quality, but then we take more time about it."

OPP Contracts Will Continue In 45 Villages

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police will continue in 1936 policing 45 villages with populations over 2,000.

Commissioner E. W. McNeill said Tuesday that 'Attorney - General Dana Porter has reversed his decision to terminate OPP contracts with the 45 municipalities this year.

Commissioner McNeill said that on the advice of the town solicitor general, he forwarded letters last weekend to the municipalities stating they would be sent 1936 OPP contracts.

Barrie is expected to form its own force and do its own policing in 1936, but the town will be offered a 1936 contract.

Seventy-four Ontario municipalities are policed by the OPP.

Woman Seeks To Upset Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal Tuesday reserved judgment on the appeal of Mrs. Dorothy Mc. Crawford, who seeks to upset a ruling of an Owen Sound court in a damages action.

Mrs. Crawford sought $50,000 damages from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission in connection with the death of her husband, Frederick H. Crawford, 32, who was electrocuted April 23, 1933, while assisting in the removal of a pump from the well on his Arran township farm.

A rod on the pump touched high voltage wires above the pump, killing Crawford, father of two infant girls.

Mrs. Crawford claimed the Hydro inspector was negligent in allowing current to be passed through the wires, located 23 feet above the pump. Mr. Crawford's father had the wires put in by a private contractor and the Hydro inspector passed them in 1918.

Mrs. Crawford brought her action under the Fatal Accidents Act and appealed the judgment of Mr. Justice John L. Wilson, who dismissed the action at Owen Sound, Nov. 2, 1934.

Three Red Boats Are Damaged

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China today produced fresh reports of a Red bulldup near the off-shore islands and said its planes had sunk three Communist gunboats in the Quemoy area.

The air force reported two gunboats damaged and four armed junks sunk in the same area Saturday.

The Communist buildup threatening the islands continues both near Quemoy and in the area opposite the Matsu group 175 miles up the coast, the Tatao news agency reports.

'Blossom Sunday' This Week-End

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — It's blossom time in this southern Ontario fruit belt area, the time when apple and peach trees bloom in a 60,000-acre pattern of pretty whites and pinks.

Come the weekend it will be traffic headache time for police, and big business for gasoline station operators. It's Blossom Sunday.

An estimated 500,000 cars are expected to crowd the highways of the province's biggest free show.

DETAINED AS SPY

BERLIN (Reuters)—West Berlin police Tuesday detained an unidentified East German suspected of spying on the staff members of the local bureau of the British Broadcasting Corporation. Two Arrested After Long Chase For Car Theft

SUDBURY (CP) A police chase at speeds up to 90 miles an hour over country roads ended near here early today with the arrest of two youths on charges of car theft. A third youth eluded police in the dense bush.

Arrested were Alan Cole, 20, of Coniela and Gilbert Poukkula, 21, of Capreol.

Provincial police accused the youths of stealing the car from T. Sorel, while he was at work at the CNR station in Capreol. The trio headed for Ortilla, police learned, but was forced to return when unable to remove a locking gas tank cap to refuel. About 15 miles from Capreol two constables in a patrol ling cruiser recognized the stolen car and gave chase.

He was accompanied today by Mrs. Canadian Ambassador Thomas Stone and Mrs. Stone.

Saturday he returns to Wageningen for a liberation celebration to which dozens of seven countries will take part.

Clergyman, Wife Killed in Crash

ST. THOMAS (CP)—A clergyman and his wife were killed Tuesday when their car collided with a truck on the main intersection of the tiny community of Shedden, 10 miles west of here. The truck driver was taken to hospital.

Rev. M. W. Goodrich, 69, of the United Church of Canada and his wife, 57, died when their car drove into the path of the truck, carrying 12 tons of feed. The truck carried the car 400 feet after caving in one end of Shedden's Odd Fellows' Hall, which fronts on the highway.

Their deaths were among six fatalities reported in Ontario Tuesday. Two were believed drowned, a child was killed by a truck and another child was smothered to death.

DROWNED IN RIVER

Drowned was Aaron Hessel, 8, in the Maitland river at Seaforth and police started dragging operations today in the District river at Windsor for Harold Summerville, 66, believed drowned while fishing. His abandoned car was found by the river bank.

Two-year-old Terry Gridzak was crushed by a truck near his home at Kippen, 30 miles northwest of Stratford. At Ketleby, 14 miles west of Aurora, three-year-old Harry Jansna was found smothered in a feed bin on his parents' chicken farm.

BELLEVILLE'S GOOD ACCIDENT RECORD

During 1954 Belleville had one of the best motor accident records of any city in Ontario.

Figures issued by the Statistics Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways show that there was only one traffic death in this city last year and only 44 persons were injured. In the death column there was no change since 1953, when there was also one death. The number of persons injured declined by almost 20 per cent. from 54 to 44.

Four cities, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Sudbury and Woodstock, finished the year with no deaths to mar their records. Six other cities, Chatham, Galt, Fort William, St. Thomas, Stratford and Welland, had one fatality apiece.

In the number injured, Belleville's record was bettered by only one city, Owen Sound, with 33 hurt.

At the other end of the scale Toronto had 67 deaths and 4,504 persons injured. High though this toll may appear, it does not seem to compare unfavorably with the record of some smaller centres when Toronto's population and traffic is considered.

Kingston had eight traffic deaths and 195 persons were injured. This compared with two deaths, but 243 injured, in Kingston and three deaths and only 90 injured in Peterborough.

SCOUTS AND THEIR BADGES

Boy Scouts will certainly never be seen slouching around with shirts dragging outside their pants. Think there will be no easy solution for a problem which will be facing them in the near future. Where will they wear all their badges? Not, we may rest assured, on some newly-created portion of their present shirts.

The Canadian General Council of Boy Scouts last Saturday created four new badges, for forestry, wildlife, water and safe conservation. They will be built up for competition next year and it will not be long after that before numerous young Canadians will be entitled to wear these badges as proof of their knowledge of these subjects.

Not many weeks ago one of the Boy Scout organizations in Belleville held a "Father and Son" banquet and there were Scouts, Cubs whose uniforms were literally plastered with badges.

Finding room for four more is going to be quite a chore.

Of course a solution could be reached by ripping off insignia which are not official badges, but merely record the fact that the Scout has attended this camp and that, jamboree or what have you. But this would be a solution to thus delete from their shirts the reminders of the highlights of their activity in the organization.

Seriously, though, these badge-dotted shirts amaze many citizens. Scout badges are not awarded lightly. They have to be earned. Each badge has behind it a story of considerable work and study. A desire to work and study is widely believed to be lacking among the members of the young generation, but the Scout badges give the lie to this assertion.

What is the secret? How do Scout leaders persuade their charges to devote so much time and energy to increasing their knowledge about some particular subject? Is it the product of the competitive spirit, the desire to surpass the school friend or rival? Or is it the boy himself the key to the secret, does the right to publicly display evidence of one's achievement explain why Scouts, of their own free will, study hard? Or is the lack in this case, perhaps our Department of Education ought to issue badges for achievement in Grade 7 arithmetic, Grade 9 algebra, Grade 11 Latin and Grade 13 Greek.

A DECADE PASSES

Have you a good memory? Are you old enough to recall life in 1928?

If you can you have an excellent opportunity to judge today's world with that of yesterday.

In November of 1928 ten years had elapsed since the end of the First Great War.

This is May, 1955, and ten years have now passed since Nazi Germany was defeated.

How does 1955 compare with 1928?

A reference to history books will suggest several similarities and many differences. Individual judgments, however, are likely to vary greatly. Some of us were too young in 1928 to gain an accurate picture of the world of that day. Others of us have vivid memories of the world a quarter of a century ago, but are not at first grasp with the spirit of today's world, regarding its life more from the standpoint of bystanders than participants. Perhaps that is why it is so difficult to learn from history—or perhaps it is because, contrary to the popular saying, history does not repeat itself but only appears to do so. Perhaps there is no more reason to compare 1955 to 1928 than there is to liken it to 1925, or 1935.

Still, it is true that the end of the Second Great War is now ten years in the past. On one point most of us who can remember the celebration of the November 11 armistice will agree. There seemed to be more time between 1918 and 1928 than has elapsed since May of 1945 and May of 1955. Yet, checking our history books, we should probably discover that the last decade has been crammed with more events of importance than was that immediately following the First Great War. The world seems to be moving forward to meet its fate. For this is really 1928 again we are just five years away from the rise of a new Hitler, eleven years from another Poland.

MAN'S GARB NO PROBLEM

'Twixt man's and woman's vast
There is a difference of opinion,
A lady frets when this occurs:
Another in a dress like hers.

She'll frown (you can depend upon it)
Should some one buy the self-same bonnet.
But at the man she wouldn't care
Should hats like mine a million wear.

Life has grave problems to perplex us
And trials various that vex us.
But I don't worry or repine
When some-friend buys a suit like mine.

When men appear black-tied and coated,
They're dressed alike, as can be noted.
But women suffer real distress
When two select the self-same dress.

Mushrooms Grown in Forts

(Montreal Gazette)

A story from The Canadian Press tells that mushrooms are now being grown in the old fortifications built beath the forts at Levis. The cellars have been rented at $25 a month each, by those who supply mushrooms to a restaurant in Quebec City. Workers wearing miners' helmets, equipped with electric lamps, move about in the vast darkness, growing and plucking the mushrooms.

This use made of the cellars is a peaceful one, indeed, for the purpose for which these forts at Levis were built has passed away. They were built to protect the city of Quebec from the possibility of invasion from the United States. They were soundly located. For even the siege of Quebec by General Wolfe's army in 1759 had shown that Quebec itself could be defended from the land side. These forts, erected by the British authorities about a century ago, were aimed to prevent the Levis shore from being used by the American army of invasion for sending shells over the river.

Today the purpose is almost forgotten and the massive cellars have been put to the most peaceful of uses. But there are many old fortifications that today are the very picture of peace and tranquility and which were once built anxiously.

St. Helen's Island has many fortifications left standing. It was supposed to be an ideal spot for the defence of Montreal. Not only could it protect the river, but it could be made practically effective against any ships trying to mount the St. Mary's Current.

Even Montreal itself was to be fortified for the defence of the city against the Americans. Forts were drawn up, and about 125 years ago work was actually begun to clear away trees.

But this work was never carried to completion. And today, in clear weather, the green mountains of Vermont may be seen without fearing the coming of an enemy.

Perhaps the use now made of the old cellars at Levis is perfectly symbolic. It marks the transition from cannonballs to mushrooms.

Nightly Exile Keeps Us Sane

(Winnipeg Tribune)

A psychologist named Peter Siegel has been investigating people's sleeping habits. He finds that most of them are pretty sluggish about getting out of bed in the morning.

His chief explanation is that in this land of trouble we're reluctant to face all the unfriendliness ahead on any particular day.

In other words, no matter what transparent tricks we may use to delay it, the night is no longer, what we're actually doing is retreating from civilization.

It's understandable. From that warm, soft haven of warm blankets and pillows we can't see the wicked Kremlin (though admittedly a few do imagine that Khrushchev and his ilk under the box springs).

The turbulent Formosa straits don't flow nearby. The only Bilford we know about is made up of dust and feathers.

The pressures of the market place don't exist. Even the tones of angry men debating public issues seem remarkably faraway. The tax collector is a fuzzy only faintly disturbing image lost in a sea of oblivion and peace.

Is it any wonder we smart at the alarm clock which angrily summons us away from this trouble-free island we call our bed?

This nightly exile from reality preserves sanity as well as our physical being. And the way it's going these days it probably be grabbing more time between the covers than ever before.

Printed Page Has Its Perils

(Ottawa Citizen)

Few craftsmen suffer from as grave an occupational hazard as printers. Journalists who must always face the danger that their words contain a typographical error that will alter the whole meaning, at best, the public will make sport of it, at worst, bring on action-able in law. Down in Los Angeles where Mr. Sam Schulman, a distinguished lawyer, is consulting the Wilshire Press, the editor has a different problem. He must recognize with special sharpness the perils that lurk behind the printed word.

Mr. Schulman has placed an advertisement in the newspaper which was supposed to have read, "You need a friend in the city council. It could be you could be a friend in the city council." Mr. Schulman's problem is understandable. However, the editors like to be helpful.

Misspellings are, of course, the more common among newspaper errors, and sometimes bring legitimate consequences. But an unhappy typo can sometimes be attained by switching the captions on pictures or on articles. A New York newspaper once had a report on a speech by Congressman Dondero, and, with an article on floral tributes, on the same page. Unfortunately, the headlines were wrongly placed. The night editor was deluged with telephone calls during the night, to the error, which had of course been corrected when Mr. Hamilton Fish had first telephone, somewhat testily. Finally, the phone rang again, and a voice introduced itself to the weary night editor as Fish. The editor sputtered that he was fed up, that the mistake had been rectified, and that Fish was presumably Mr. Hamilton Fish, but please go away.

The voice at the other end answered with dignity, "Sir, this is Mr. Tropical Fish calling, and I demand the same courteous apology that you have extended to Mr. Hamilton Fish." He then hung up.

When a newspaper makes a mistake the public has fun, but somewhere an editor is suffering. It is to be hoped that this error goes through without mishap.

Lippman On Politics

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Walter Lippman is not always right in his predictions, but there can be no doubt whatever about his genius for writing. He tackles the subject of success in politics in his latest book.

He says, "Successful democratic politicians are insecure and intimidated men. They manipulate politically only as they placate, appease, bribe, seduce, bamboozle, or otherwise manipulate the demanding and threatening elements in their constituencies.

"The decisive consideration is not whether the proposition is good, but whether it is advantageous; not whether it will work well and prove itself but whether the active talking constituents like it immediately."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOST PEOPLE

How many times I have seen an advertisement saying, with all ideas prompting it to a safe place to be put it may know as home. We human beings have a similar experience every now and then. It is the feeling of being lost.

Many years ago I visited the fam ous Edward Rook Tower and wandered at Lake Wales, Florida. It is a beautiful memorial to the highminded man who was one of the most notable of magazines, The Ladies' Home Journal. But what I can't forget is seeing a sign in the sanctuary among the flowers, which said: "Lost, a child." I can find myself. It is so easy to get lost in the world." The one who wrote this beautiful sentiment was John Burroughs, the naturalist. A reader sent this to me, neatly painted on a leather design. It hangs over the log fireplace at my Nova Scotia island retreat.

I found a striking comment on the Billy Graham meetings by Ernie Hill. He said: "Thousands of the people who come to hear him are lonely, disillusioned and in need of something around which to build their lives." They are lost people trying to find a way to a happier life." Billy Graham has been giving them something real and map with Faith pointing out the way to life. We travel hopefully when we are convinced that we are not lost!

Indeed we have some sort of guidance we can be in a very bad way when we are confused. They worry. They do not always think of the obvious thing to do, which under normal circumstances. Lots of people get lost inside themselves. If they would get out in the open and look about them, they might immediately wake up to find that they were really in the midst of their friends! Not lost at all. Sure and now and we send our way through life, we need the guidance of our Heavenly Father "It is so easy to get lost in the world."

Preposition Proposition

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

We may be old-fashioned, and all that, but we can't agree with English teachers who don't mind if a sentence is left dangling at the end of sentence with with.

Teachers of freshman English may indeed have given up trying to ban a preposition at the end of a sentence—but they still don't have hood a long, tiring row—but wish they hadn't given up so easily.

Such usage of words is simply ungrammatical. Sentence can be rejiggered so that it will not end in a preposition, which is not shocking to the ear but hard on the eyes.

We are aware of the existence of the "usage makes it proper" school, but we don't believe this either. There are some people who use double negatives, but no one would attempt to defend such practice on the basis that usage makes it proper. Some people say: "I have gone" instead of "I went" but if everyone in the country followed suit, that wouldn't make it right.

True, some pretty good boys have been guilty of prepositional endings to sentences. Sir Winston Churchill is known to have written a marginal note on a manuscript which had been corrected by a secretary who didn't like a preposition ending the sentence, as well as Henry Fowler, author of a famous pedantry up with which I shall not put."

Then there is the story of the small boy who said: "I want to be read to."

"What do want to be read to from?" his mother asked, starting out on "Little Black Sambo" when he didn't like it, and said:

"What did you want that for me to be read from for?"

You can see how complicated it gets!

It may be stuffy to stick pretty close to the rules of grammar, but unless we do our language will get sloppier and sloppier. Which is what we are coming to as long as we live we shall never end another sentence with with!

Lampreys May Help Doctors

(Washington Post Times-Herald)

Kels, the bane of Great Lakes' fisheries and now a threat to West Coast salmon fishing, may be useful to man after all. An Ohio State University scientist has found that lampreys are enormously powerful anticoagulant material which prevents blood-clotting that can be fatal.

The eels, of course, use this substance to keep their victims' blood from clotting after they latch on to the side of a fish and proceed to suck it dry.

Dr. George Y. Shinowara of the University's Medical School research has isolated the substance and found that by its powers for beneficial ends. He has found, also, to see if it has any uses in treating the many illnesses caused by blood clotted or thickened blood.

These include strokes, blood clots in heart arteries, and thrombosis or red blood cells called polycythemia vera and the rodent growth of immature white cells called leukemia.

Dr. Shinowara reported his findings to the American Cancer Society. Dr. Charles F. Kettering's foundation has financed the research. The substance, found only in the South glands of blood-sucking lampreys is not like a concentrated heparin, the drug that prevents dangerous blood clotting.

Heparin, he reported, the active ingredient has not been purified or isolated from the gland secretions. The Shinowara group is also studying what factors make the lamprey's blood clot. They have isolated several substances from natural sources which seem to check broken blood-vessels and healing, according to their latest report to the American Cancer Society.

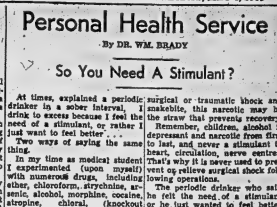
So You Need A Stimulant?



At times, explained a periodic drinker in a moment of confidence, a drink to excess because I feel the need of a stimulant, or rather I just want to feel better.

Two ways of saying the same thing.

In my time as medical student I experimented (upon myself) with numerous drugs, including ether, chloroform, strychnine, arsenic, alcohol, morphine, cocaine, strophine, chloral, (knockout-or-be drops) and cannabis indica (hasheesh). Fortunately for me, unfortunately for you poor souls, I experienced only unpleasant effects from all of these drugs, particularly from cannabis indica. I remember my interest in hasheesh was aroused by a statement in Hare that in hasheesh poisoning the two hemispheres of the brain seem to think differently than on the same subject." All I have to say about that is rubbish.

There may be a stimulant that makes one feel better, but if so has eluded me to date.

In nineteenth century novels and even in some twentieth century sickrooms and doctors' offices hard liquor has been mistakenly used by relatives and by Laura Jean Libby's day. In the days that separate the commercials on TV the injured or dying character is revived with brandy. In real life, in the doctor's office, the operating room or in emergencies, such as shock from injury, exposure to cold, severe fainting, heart failure or snakebite, alcohol is not only useless but in serious depression, such as to

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

INNER RELIGION AND OUTER

From the time he was born until he died, St. Paul's life appeared always to have been characterized by intense confidence. When he became an apostle, he was confident of the truth of the gospel he preached and of his own ability to be a flaming evangelist. When he was a prisoner, he was confident of his own faith, good conscience and ultimate victory. Before that he had been a confident Pharisee. Paul had never been a dissolute, evil-living man who experienced conversion and thereby became chaste and upright. Paul's behavior appears always to have been exemplary. He was the pride of a faithful and pious Jewish home. But Paul's confidence in the days of his youth had to be built upward things. He was filled with impressionable pride regarding race, religion, birth, breeding, and religious belief.

His conversion on the road to Damascus resulted in temporary blindness and in a period of wholesome straining to him that he had been spiritually blind to that moment. After three years, Paul's life was to be surrendered to a new kind of religious devotion. Emphasis on the outer can easily kill the inner—and often does.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Up until now, no real lunatic has been discovered who can use the highest scientific concerned with the fission of the atom and the production of the hydrogen bombs. Printers to their country have been found, and some others have been viewed with suspicion and even fear by their fellow countrymen. Sometimes I have thought a little distorted view of the pictures in the papers and magazines of eminent scientists of the various countries, but no lunatic certainly look a little daft to me. But they all seem to be clearly sane at arithmetic, let alone mathematics, so I may be prejudiced.

But we should be wary of madness in the satisfaction that we must be excused if we sometimes feel a little creepy at the thought that we have among us lunatics? amongst those thousands of men, in the several countries, employed in atomic fission. If we can find traitors to their country among them, then why not a few of the human race? I imagine you find as many crooks in the ranks of the intelligentsia as anywhere else. A man who is highly and intensively educated in one narrow sphere of knowledge is often not only ignorant but extraordinarily prejudiced and misinformed in other fields of knowledge.

Power corrupts, is the old saying. Absolute power corrupts absolutely. Can we imagine any greater power than in the hands of a scientist who makes the next great step in the realm of atomic fission? What scientist is to be cleared of such a man not be subject to?

The serious public of the public is beginning to demand that it be more closely informed about the state of the world as regards hydrogen bombs and other novelties. One point that ought to be cleared is—who is keeping an eye on the scientists? Who is vetting their lunch? Who is calling around in the evenings on them to see how they're getting on with their tools? Do any of them wear their hats crossways, stick their hands in the bosom of their coats and cock one knee out, like Napoleon?

The politicians and chiefs of staff are probably a safe bet. But one can't, away up there in pale blue yonder of the mind, could play a dirty trick.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly.

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen led the sing-song with Mrs. Carleton Potts as accompanist.

Piano solos were given by Misses Ina Scott and Betty McConnell, and humorous selections were read by Messrs. Herbert Smith, Harry McAdam and Miss Doris Sine. Sally McAdam and Nancy David gave a tap dance number.

PRESENTATIONS

The boys' Sunday School class also rendered a chorus and at the close of this Raeburn Scott read an address to the teacher, Ed. Richardson and David Potts made the presentation of a religious book, "The Living Faith, by Lloyd Douglas.

Gail Jeffs and Raye David sang, with Mrs. Will Jeffs playing the guitar accompaniment. The program closed with a solo by Miss Ruth Linn, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

The Richardson family were given seats of honor and Mrs. Stanley Williams read an appropriate address on behalf of Mt. Pleasant community, eulogizing their work in the church and they were presented with a green upholstered platform chair with a crokinole board for the children.

Ed. and Merle voiced thanks for the lovely gifts and invited their friends to visit them in their new home at Norwood.

Refreshments were served at the close.

CAMPBELLFORD

Choralians Present Fine Musical Concert

CAMPBELLFORD—The new auditorium of St. John's United church was filled on Friday evening by music lovers eager to hear the annual concert of the Campbellford Choralians and their guest artists, Paul and Terry Helmer of Toronto. Paul is 13 and plays the piano extremely well for his age, and Terry, 14, plays the violin equally well.

The two boys were introduced by Mrs. George Vice at the opening of the program and after many selections they were called back for encore numbers.

Much deserved credit was given to Mrs. A. G. Watson, who directs the group of Choralians, and to Mrs. George Nicholls for her capable accompaniment on the piano.

The concert was sponsored by the Woman's Association of the church and the program was as follows:

"My Love Dwelt in a Northern Land (Elgar); "His Away" (Dunhill); "I'll Bid My Heart Be Still" (Robertson)—The Choralians.

Characters in D Minor (Bach Busoni)—Paul Helmer, pianist.

NOVELTY COAT LINE

By VERA WINSTON

Here's a coat that offers a welcome change from the usual run of coat silhouettes. It is smartly fitted but has definitely curved hips which are further emphasized by the banding that outlines the hip pockets and that continues down to the hemline. A fold through the midriff, either side of the front, is released near the shoulders. A silk scarf is drawn through the little stand-up collar.

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ben Carlson (Mother of 3)

Although every baby's book is baby wise so far as you mothers are concerned, this is the time when all sweet pair and precious ones are being catered to with special emphasis. Why not check your favorite grocer and see the many, many special baby products featured now and the year around?

Good planning. The "Basic 7" Plan was developed by nutritionists to provide a nutritionally-sound diet for adults. To adapt this simple plan for infants, calls for the daily use of foods listed in the following groups:

1. Milk
2. Special baby cereals
3. Orange Juice
4. Green and yellow vegetables
5. Other fruits and vegetables
6. Meats and egg yolks
7. Vitamin A & D drops

Interesting to note that Gerber offers foods for your baby from 5 out of the 7 groups listed.

For strength and growth...Gerber's 3 Baby Cereals are enriched with iron, calcium and important B-vitamins; provide the energy-giving calories infant need shortly after birth.

For sound gums and body tissues, Gerber Strained Orange Juice has a uniformly high vitamin-C content.

For normal growth and the development of healthy skin, body tissues and for maintaining general good health, Gerber Strained Green and Yellow Vegetables provide concentrated vitamin-A value.

For energy, Gerber Strained Fruits and Vegetables offer a combination source of vitamins and minerals.

For the development of muscles and all body structures, Gerber Strained Meats (made of choice cuts) and Strained Egg Yolks offer excellent sources of protein. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Limited, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Women's Institute

MELROSE W.I.

The April meeting of Melrose W.I. took the form of a quilting and sewing bee which was held in the township hall with a large attendance.

A delicious pot-luck dinner was served at noon, and a quilt was completed and several infants' garments were cut out and sewn during the day. The president called the meeting to order early in the afternoon and conducted a lengthy business session. It was decided to hold a "Lilac Tea" on May 26th, in the evening with several neighboring Institutes as guests. Renewal of the insurance on the folding chairs owned by the Institute was approved. The roll-call "New Ideas for Next Year's Program" was well answered and various methods of raising funds were suggested and discussed in detail.

An executive meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Weese was planned to make out the schedule for next year. Slips, plants and candy were on sale and netted a goodly sum to boost finances.

Favourable reports of the past year's work were given by all conveners, namely, Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. E. Pascoe; Citizenship and Education, Mrs. G. Stratton; Historical Research and Current Events, Mrs. T. Leslie; Public Relations and Community Activities, Mrs. C. Hagerman; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. N. Denniff.

The "Extension Services for the Homemaker", were explained and a vote among the members revealed the first choice as "Sandwiches for all Occasions", with "Program Planning" as second choice.

Many paid their membership fees.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DAUGHTER SHOULDN'T WRITE THIS LETTER

Mrs. Beeckman:

Next month my parents will celebrate their Twenty-fifth Wedding anniversary. I have brothers in college and in preparatory school, but because I am the only one earning money, the celebration will be an intimate celebration with only the members of the family present. My father is a dealer for several big companies. Since he is one of their best dealers, do you think I might write them a letter informing them about this event without inviting them to a reception? I know they would send my parents nice gifts, if you approve, how would I tell them about the occasion? — M.L.

I doubt very much that your parents (particularly your father), if they knew about your idea, would approve of your plan to inform the companies of this occasion, with the obvious hint of the giving of a gift. And I can well imagine that your father would be deeply embarrassed, both socially and professionally, by this letter. I am sure, however well-intentioned. If the companies happen to hear about it . . . and they very well may . . . it will, of course, be quite all right for them to make any gift-gesture they wish to make, but you should not step over the threshold of your father's business life, without his knowledge a n d consent.

WIDOW'S SECOND MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, with children, and I plan to be married in June. Since my prospective groom and I are of different faiths, it will be just a small wedding, in the Rectory.

(1) I have one married daughter. Would it be proper to have her as my attendant?

(2) I also have a son in his twenties. Would it be proper to have him as the groom's best man?

(3) How should the wedding invitations be worded? My husband-to-be has no near relatives. My parents are dead, but I do have sisters and a brother. Could I have one of my sisters send the invitations in her name, or could my daughter do this? C.C.

(1) Yes . . . it would be entirely correct for you to have your married daughter as your one attendant.

(2) I wouldn't approve of the groom's having your young son as his best man. It would be best form, dignified and more suitable, for him to choose as his best man a man nearer his own age; "most naturally, his best friend since he hasn't any close relatives.

(3) The most simple, informal wedding in the Rectory it would be correct and appropriate for you to ask the guests verbally or by telephone, or, when necessary, by notes.

"HORRIFIED" BY TYPE-WRITTEN LETTERS OF CONDOLENCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother passed on recently, and I've received many wonderful and comforting letters of sympathy. But I was really horrified to receive three typewritten letters of condolence. I had always thought it was absolutely incorrect to send a typewritten letter of condolence. Has this rule changed. The typewritten words seemed so impersonal and cold that, although I've answered all the other letters of sympathy I received, I just can't bring myself to answering these three. Am I wrong about the etiquette of agree with you.

these typewritten notes, and am I being silly about not answering.

I understand perfectly what your reaction must have been to these typewritten letters of sympathy . . . and I agree with you that a very large part of the power of the words of sympathy and warm understanding is because they come to us in the familiar and loved handwriting of a friend. The etiquette is the same now as always . . . that it is never correct to send a typewritten letter of sympathy. However, I'm sure these three friends aren't aware of this rule, and certainly didn't mean to do anything that would hurt you, particularly at this sorrowful time. So please do overlook it, and write your gracious notes of appreciation for the thought, disregarding the graceless "packaging" of the letter.

COLON OR SEMI-COLON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"A" says it is never correct to use a semi-colon after the salutation. For example: Dear Miss Dawson; "B" says a semi-colon is just as correct as a colon or a comma. Who is right — A or B?

"A" is right . . . never a semi-colon after the salutation. You may use a colon after the salutation (somewhat formal, or, more informally, a comma.

GLOVE ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Don't you agree with me (my sister doesn't) that a woman should take off her gloves before she starts smoking, or eating, or drinking (For example when she is a guest at a wedding reception — Patricia R.

Yes . . . I "most definitely do agree with you.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

REST AND RELAXATION

With life as delirious as it is, and everybody constantly on the gallop, women seem to have forgotten how to relax. Glimpse the passing throng, notice the tense faces and the shadows of fatigue on faces everywhere. Then you will understand why rest is what the beauty doctor orders in many cases of wrinkles, drawn-down mouth corners, dull eyes and drooping figures.

Many women are suffering from nervous tension. They are imbued with a feeling of restlessness; at times can't even read because they are so tired they can't concentrate. Their minds are full of jarring thoughts, planning, thinking of tasks that await them. Such women may be, in fact, just about three jumps ahead of a nervous breakdown.

One must find out what it is that makes one jittery. Is it overwork, loss of sleep or wrong eating habits? Is it over-sensitiveness to small irritations? Reconstructing one's plan of living may be necessary. Sometimes one must overcome imaginary and intagible worries.

If a woman would only take one hour a day for complete physical relaxation it would help her nerves immeasurably. If you are suffering from fatigue due to nervous tension, the following routine of periods of daily rest may be helpful:

Stand before an open window and take long deep breaths, inhaling through the nostrils, exhaling through the mouth. Do this for seven minutes. Then lie flat on your back in bed, hands at your sides, every muscle limp. Continue to breathe deeply and slowly. Rhythmic breathing has a wonderful soothing effect. Try to make your body feel "heavy." Close the doors of your mind against every thing that is troublesome or exciting. If you can't relax, don't get cross and dandy. But, even if you can't, the rest and relaxation will prove extremely efficacious.

Striving for the Impossible

By Mary Moore

Last week the second instalment of my long-winded reply to Shirley M. was cut off after the recipe for Golden Fruit Jam, which were suggested for Menu No. 2.

I will give you the other inexpensive main-dish recipes suggested in Menus Nos. 3 and 4 and hope too to have room for a Bread Pudding recipe Shirley asked for specifically.

ESCALLOPED SALMON AND TOMATO

One 1-lb. can pink salmon, 1 chopped onion, 3 1-2 cups canned or stewed or fresh tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 3 cups breadcrumbs, 2 tablespoons fat, Flake salmon. Simmer onion, tomatoes, salt, sugar and pepper until onion is tender. Add 2 cups crumbs and salmon to the mixture. Turn into greased baking dish. Top with remaining crumbs. Dot with fat. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes. Serves six.

MAIN COURSE MEAT AND VEGETABLE SOUP

Gently melt 2 tablespoons margarine or shortening in frying pan, add 3-4 lb. ground beef and stir and break up with a fork as it browns slightly. Add 5-6 cup chopped onion, 1-2 cup thinly sliced celery, and fry until onion is limp. Stir in 1 20-oz. can tomato juice, 2 cups water, 1 cup finely chopped raw potato, 1-2 cup finely chopped raw carrot, 1-2 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper and cover tightly and simmer 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Mix to a smooth paste 4 tablespoons flour and 1-2 cup milk (or 1-4 cup each evaporated milk and water) and stir this into soup until thick, then also stir in 2 cups milk (or equal parts evaporated milk and water). Heat through. Delicious with crusty French Bread and an epicure's dish if sprinkled with grated old cheese.

OXTAIL STEW

For 6 servings buy 2 averages-sized oxtails chopped into 1 or 2-inch pieces. Other ingredients are flour for dredging, fat for browning, salt and pepper, 1-4 sliced onions, 1 cup diced turnips, 1 20-oz. tin tomatoes, 1 green pepper sliced (optional), 1 cup diced celery, 1 bay leaf, 2 whole cloves, 1-4 teaspoon peppercorns, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 cup parsley, 3 potatoes cut in halves. Dredge tail pieces in flour and gently brown in about 2 tablespoons fat. Season well with salt and pepper. Cook the onions in the hot fat with the meat if desired. Add all other ingredients except potatoes, and cover with water. Bring to boiling, reduce heat, cover and simmer 3 hours or until meat is tender. (If this is cooked in pressure cooker 50 minutes at 10 lbs. pressure is time required.) Add potatoes and cook about 20 minutes longer or until potatoes are tender. Season to taste if necessary. This is good with small dumplings, when potatoes could be omitted.

BREAD PUDDING

One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs, 3 cups hot milk, 2 beaten eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon margarine, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup chocolate chips or dates or nuts. Combine crumbs, milk, eggs, sugar, salt and fat melted. Mix well. Add vanilla and fruit or nuts. Turn into buttered baking dish. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. 60 minutes or until firm.

VARIATIONS:

Toast crumbs. (2) Use brown sugar and 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg.

P.S. TO SHIRLEY M.:

This is my last instalment to you. If, after you have tried out these ideas, you still feel you want more help, write again.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THESE TWO SHOULD GUARD AGAINST IMPULSIVE ACTION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 21, I have just become engaged to a young man of 22, but my parents refuse to take our engagement seriously. The reason they take this attitude is because I have been brought up in a faith different from my fiancé's, and they tell me they will not permit me to marry him.

We are very much in love and want to marry soon, so we are thinking of getting married secretly and not telling our parents for awhile. Do you think this would be wrong? — Helen R.

Dear Helen:

While a secret marriage between you and this young man might perhaps not be "wrong," it would certainly be very unwise for a great many reasons. If you were to take any such step, I feel certain that you would quickly find yourself with far more difficult problems on your hands than you have now.

For one thing, I cannot help wondering if you fully realize and have taken into detailed account the many complicated factors that must be worked out in any marriage between two people who have been brought up in different faiths. Unless young people in your situation thoroughly discuss these matters together, and with the head of what-ever church each belongs to, and arrive, well in advance of marriage, at some workable understanding on the points on which you differ, there is serious risk of marital disaster.

If you will be sensible enough, and mature enough, to refrain from impulsive action and wait awhile, things will undoubtedly work out to your own best interests. In the meantime, talk things over from all angles between yourselves, and try as tactfully as you can to win your parents over. If you are diplomatic, loving and reasonable in any discussions between yourself and your parents, they may, in time, take a different attitude.

Carmel-Foxboro Y.P.U. Makes Presentations

Twenty-two members of Carmel-Foxboro Young People's Union held an enjoyable social evening at the home of Reta Christie, Foxboro. The young people played progressive crokinole for two hours and then joined in a sing-song led by Joan McCurdy accompanied by Carol Stewart.

A pleasant surprise was in store for three of the members. Marilyn Parks and Jim Reid . presented gifts on behalf of the union to Joan and Don McCurdy who are moving to Belleville. Joan and Don will be greatly missed in the Union.

A gift was then presented by Kay Homan to Marilyn Parks, president of the Union. Marilyn is one of four young people who will tour England and Scotland this summer representing the Junior Farmers and Junior Institute members of Ontario.

Members of the Union wish Marilyn all the best on her trip and look forward to her return here in the fall.

The Rev. R. F. Darke added his best wishes to those already tendered to the guests of honor.

Refreshments were served.

Pink Hair Looks Orange But Still Eye-Popping

OTTAWA (CP)—There's a girl here with pink hair. At least, she and her hairdresser say its pink. But seasoned observers in this chic capital, which glories in the beauty and numerical superiority of its women, eyed what happened to 21-year-old Jean Martell's hair last weekend and pronounced it a glossy orange.

Orange or pink, the effect was eye-popping.

A store secretary trying to break into the modeling field, Jean was a brunette beauty who fell for this spring's outburst of pink fashions in a big way. She changed her hair to match.

Leo, an Ottawa beauty expert who learned his tricks in Vienna 20 years ago, took 10½ hours to do the job last Friday. The brown was bleached out, then the new "pastel pink" dyed in. Customers would pay $65 to $75 for the transformation, Jean said, and need the roots retouched every three weeks.

AN IMPORTED IDEA

She got the idea late last month in New York, where she modelled for Leo at a beauty convention, saw the pastel pinks being introduced and decided to take the plunge.

"I thought they would be becoming for summer styles, and for year-round evening wear, and I thought I'd introduce them to Canada.

"We're trying to break the style into Ottawa initially," she said, explaining that "we" meant she and Leo.

While reporters pondered Ottawa's latest advance over the rest of Canada, Helen Feeney, a director of the Ottawa model agency for which Jean works, declared herself emphatically in favor of it—for Jean.

"It's certainly effective," she said, "startling and very different."

DEPENDS ON THE LIGHT

Insisting the color really is pink, Jean said:

"That's what it is in daylight—under artificial light it changes from pink to a light orange color, and might be several different tints in the space of 20 feet, depending on the light and the angle."

LOCOMOTIVE OVERTURNED

MONTREAL (CP)—The locomotive of a Canadian National Railways passenger train was overturned Saturday when the train smashed into the rear of a stationary freight train at Preville Station, five miles south of here. The line to Boston was closed to traffic for about eight hours. Two railway employees were brought to hospital here and released after treatment.

CAMPBELLFORD

Tennis Courts Thoroughly Renovated

CAMPBELLFORD — Thursday was a red-letter day at the tennis courts here, when a maximum of work was accomplished in a short time. Mr. Hill Rothwell, principal of the Public School, undertook the supervising and arranging the re-painting of the court lines on the club's three courts beside the bank of the canal.

At noon a squad of from 20 to 25 public school children were taken to the courts and within half an hour they had the lines swept clean before returning to school for the afternoon. After four the children returned to the courts and, arming themselves with paint brushes, they had the lines all re-painted. Mr. Rothwell said later that the children thoroughly enjoyed their part in the venture on behalf of assisting the local tennis club.

Mr. Rothwell was praised for his work in arranging to have the children there and planning everything so the work rolled along with maximum efficiency.

Later in the day club members cut the grass inside the fences and they noted with satisfaction that the town had done a lot toward improving the grounds surrounding the courts.

The spring work is now completed, with the exception of the club house which is reported to be in poor condition. Membership is at $4 per person and $1 for children, are due in May. Rules and regulations were posted on the club house beside the light switches and members were urged to read them thoroughly and make every effort to abide by them.

Freight Derailed In Nova Scotia

TRURO (CP) — A Canadian National Railways fast freight threw a wheel carriage while speeding toward Truro at 45 miles an hour on Tuesday and 15 of the 46 cars bounded off the rails into a 30-foot pile of splinters and twisted steel.

The six crew members escaped injury.

The 15 cars in the centre section left the tracks as the westbound train moved past the station at Brookfield, nine miles east of here. The platform was crushed and the cars upended in a jumble of wreckage.

CAMPBELLFORD

Approximately 300 Y.P. Attend Annual Rally

CAMPBELLFORD — A capacity crowd of nearly 300 Free Methodist Young People of Eastern Ontario gathered for a weekend rally at Campbellford over Saturday and Sunday.

The new Free Methodist Church here provided splendid accommodation for the event, and guest speaker was the Rev. H. W. Hobbs of Oshawa. Special singing was provided by the Verona Ladies trio and Mr. Dwight Jones of Kingston. The latter, an accomplished chalk artist, drew several illustrations of Bible truths.

Visitors were present from eastward points such as Perth and Kingston, north to Orillia and as far west as Fort Credit.

The week-end was planned by Youth president, Francis Casement, and entertainment supplied by the Rev. N. A. Bosko and his congregation.

The entire rally was characterized by a spiritual atmosphere and everyone enjoyed the fellowship with other Young People of their church.

First Time Since Confederation Woman Ever Presided From Speaker's Chair in Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—For the second time in 25 years Senator Cairine Wilson, 70-year-old mother of eight has made parliamentary history.

She did it in 1930 when she became the first woman ever appointed to Canada's 102-seat Senate, and again Tuesday night when she became the first woman ever to take the Speaker's chair in the ornate red chamber.

Called on to deputize for Speaker Vibhart Robertson, home with a slight illness, the slim, quiet-spoken senator took on the task of presiding over the Senate's first sitting following a month-long Easter holiday.

Then she went home and relirred as if nothing had happened.

SIGNIFICANT OCCASION

But parliamentary historians said it was an occasion of significance in Canada's parliamentary record —the first time since Confederation that a woman ever presided from the Speaker's chair of the Senate.

Senators convening for their first sitting since taking an Easter holiday April 8 found themselves without a speaker. With no standing deputy the rules called for the government leader, Solicitor-General Roz Macdonald, to nominate someone to deputize.

He chose Liberal woman senator from suburban Rockcliffe who was summoned to the Senate by the late prime minister Mackenzie King on St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, 1930. Acting Opposition Leader Senator Walter Aseltine seconded the motion and the senators passed it unanimously.

LED IN PRAYERS

Ceremoniously escorted to the chair, Senator Wilson—who at 70 was to lead the House in prayers, it happened to be an evening when the prayers were said in French—the Senate alternates between English and French—delighted her accent was flawless.

She went on to call the business of the House. And she had much to do in putting on the record all the numerous bills of legislation passed by the Commons during the Senate's holiday and now reaching the upper chamber for ratification.

Senator Wilson, who believes women don't take their politics seriously enough, still gets mail addressed "Dear Sir" after 25 years in the upper house. She had a major hand in the organization of the National Federation of Liberal Women in 1923, two years after women were granted the franchise in Canada.

HONORED BY FRANCE

A prominent social worker in a number of fields, she has been Canada's delegate to the United Nations and in 1950 was honored by the French government with the decoration of Knight of the Legion of Honor.

Montreal-born, she is the daughter of the late Senator Robert Mackay and is one of five women members of the Senate.

Only one other woman can claim the honor of ever presiding over a parliamentary chamber. She is one of Senator Wilson's female colleagues, Senator Nancy Hodges, a British Columbia Liberal, who formerly was Speaker of the B.C. legislature, the only woman in Commonwealth history ever to hold such a post.

Stormy Weather Again Postpones Atomic Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP) — An approaching Pacific storm Tuesday night forced a ninth postponement in the ill-fated United States atomic test in which Canadian troops are participating.

And the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission warned bluntly that a 10th postponement will probably be necessary for the shot now tentatively scheduled for dawn Thursday.

Within minutes of the announcement, transportation companies were flooded with calls as an estimated 200 of the remaining 700 American civil defence observers decided to pull stakes and head for home.

The 700 observers and some 150 press representatives are all that remain of the original official observer corps of 1,700 civil defence and 500 press who were here April 26 when the open test shot was originally scheduled.

WIND CONDITIONS BAD

AEC officials said today's dawn shot was called off because wind conditions would have carried radiation fall-out more than 330 miles outside the 415,000-acre Nevada desert test site and into inhabited areas.

Canadian troops and others participating in or witnessing the test had assembled for the two-hour ride to the test site when the postponement was announced.

The long postponement still is far from a record for the current spring test series. The first delonation of the 14-shot series scheduled for early February was postponed 29 days before weather conditions allowed it to be fired.

Eager Sportsmen Getting Ready For Salmon Fishing in Maritimes

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Hundreds of anglers from all parts of the Atlantic provinces will soon be dotted with eager sportsmen enjoying one of the oldest of fishing activities.

Salmon and sea trout streams in rivers or lakes and grow slowly there from two to seven years. They weigh only a few ounces and measure less than seven inches when the silver salmon first start to salt water. In the sea they grow fast and as they feed on smaller fish. After five years they may weigh 20 pounds.

Then they return to their birth places, leaping waterfalls and rapids in their struggle upstream. Spawning will weaken or even kill them but they will escape fishermen. Unlike their cousins on the Pacific coast they return to the sea to renew the cycle of life and growth.

In the Atlantic provinces the season's limit is five or six salmon a day and about 20 a week by rod and line. Length of the season varies according to the river.

A few Nova Scotia rivers opened April 15. In New Brunswick the usual opening day is June 5 and most Newfoundland rivers open May 15. Prince Edward Island has a few fast rivers and little salmon fishing. Seasons last until September.

Man Is Charged After Officer Shot in Leg

TORONTO (CP). — An unemployed painter who says he always carries three loaded rifles to protect himself was charged Tuesday with attempted murder in the shooting of a suburban Toronto township detective during a wild melee in the suburb of Long Branch.

Clarence Smith, 48, was remanded a week after he appeared one week was his 17-year-old son, John charged with resisting arrest when police tried to serve a warrant on the father.

Taken to hospital was Det. Melvin Simmons, 26. Police said he was wounded in the left leg by a bullet from his own gun. He was released from hospital after treatment.

Police said a fight broke out when they tried to serve a warrant on the elder Smith on a charge of pointing a firearm at neighbors. A man had reported to police Saturday he was shot at while walking near Smith's trailer home.

Officers forced Smith's truck to the side of the road. They said the father and the man rushed to get out. Then the son stepped out, they said, and as he did so the father reached into the back of the truck and snatched up a loaded rifle.

Det. Simmons tussled with the older Smith and during the struggle the officer's revolver was discharged, police said. Later, in police cells, Clarence Smith said he thought the three rifles on hand because people had "bothered" him in all the trailer camps where he and his two sons, John, and 13-year-old Gene, had lived since his wife left him four years ago.

Fennell, 25-year-old soft drink salesman, who climbed to the top of a 242-foot television broadcasting tower Saturday night, Tuesday was fined $100 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of obstructing or interfering with lawful use, enjoyment, or operation of property.

Traffic Accidents Studied By International Doctors

MONTREAL (CP)—Traffic accidents, blight of the motor age, came under the microscope at a session here today.

Doctors from three countries met to study what medical scientists can do to help curb the carnage of traffic accidents, increasing at a frightening manner from year to year.

Canadian, American and British delegates will exchange ideas on whether some persons are naturally "accident prone- and also on the factor of alcohol in road mishaps. The conference could lead in the future to tests aimed at weeding out persons who might be shown to be a constant menace behind the wheel.

Much of the two-day conference was to be panel discussion, following addresses today by Dr. Wilder G. Penfield, head of the Montreal Neurological Institute, and Dr. Dean Wilson Bonin of University of Montreal's faculty of medicine.

Replying to the welcome was Dr. Fletcher Woodward of the University of Virginia. Included in the list of opening-day speakers were Dr. Arnold M. Small University, Dr. (Mrs.) M. Rowbotham, Newcastle, England, and Dr. George Crichton, Philadelphia, U.S. Academy of Paediatrics.

Dr. Allan Canty of Detroit will outline the experience gained during operation of a psychopathic ward in Detroit.

Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, president a luncheon when Dr. G. P. Strong of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Medical Association, will be special speaker.

Other conference chairmen are Dr. Jules Gilbert, Montreal, Canadian Medical Association, Quebec; Dr. L'Association des Medecins de Langue Francaise du Canada, the Montreal Medico - Chirugical Society, Societe Medicale de Montreal and the Royal Automobile Club of Canada.

Among the aims is "to indicate clearly where the responsibility of the medical profession lies" regarding traffic accidents.

Two Ontario Soldiers Have Watched Four Atomic Explosions in Nevada

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP DESERT ROCK, Nev. (CP)—Atomic explosions are becoming "old hat" for two Ontario army soldiers.

Dubbed the "atomic twins" by their comrades in the Canadian troop of soldiers assigned to observe four atomic explosions at the nearby Nevada desert proving grounds.

"They certainly lived up to my expectations," said Gunner Ken Coughlin...described the shot made in March and April.

Coughlin on the shot on the No. 1 radiation detection unit at Kingston they arrived here early in March to prepare for the mid-April arrival of the Korean ist-service enlistment, first Canadians to participate in a nuclear test.

They witnessed two from this American Army camp some 35 miles from the blast site, the others from an official observation point only 17 miles from the blasts.

Coughlin said it was difficult to brought its own thrill," said Coughlin, 34-year-old father of three children.

"A sudden flash of light lit up the whole countryside," he said, describing the first shot observed from the camp here. "The flash was followed by a huge ball of violet light around the mushroom cloud."

The second shot, which he witnessed Easter Saturday from the observation point, was made at mid-day. The flash was so intense, "it blotted out the sun."

The first shot was followed "was like a sunburn on the back of my neck and I could feel my neck tingling hours later."

The third shot, seen from the camp at an all-night party, exploded high above ground and "left a perfect mushroom cloud in the sky just as though a smoker had blown it."

Gilbert, a veteran of 14 years in the army and former general contractor at Kingston, also said the fourth shot April 15 formed "a perfect mushroom cloud that was a really terrific sight."

Following the shot, test officials allowed the two Canadians to move within 1,000 yards of ground zero to examine blast damage.

Both had high praise for the cooperation and thoughtfulness of United States army and civil officials.

"Never in my life have I been used better anywhere," said Coughlin.

Will Develop Canada's Finest Park System

TORONTO (CP) — George Challies, chairman of the St. Lawrence Development Commission, Tuesday disclosed part of a plan expected to give Canada's Seaway Valley one of Canada's finest park systems.

Offices of the commission, to be established soon in Cornwall, Ont., will be a clearing house for information on the rehabilitation program. Later, when the need for their services ends, the development commission will become the Ontario St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Mr. Challies said the Seaway park term will extend from Iroquois on the west to Barnhart island. The program will not be completed until some years after the engineering development is completed, and even then will only provide a framework for more parks in each area.

He said finances for the parks will come from water rentals paid by the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power commission.

The development commission is preparing a folder which will show the parks planned in each area. They include plans for two stretches of scenic highway to link these major parks. In addition, islands on the river also will be parks.

Killed by Guard

KOMATIPOORT, S.A. (Reuters) — Joseph Tembisile, 20, a Portuguese boy seaman from the 7,026-ton Liberian ship General Rivers, was shot dead by South African from a tiger guards Tuesday, attempting to cross into South African territory from Portuguese Mozambique.

He did not stop when challenged by the guard.

Tembisay came from Kapuskasing, Ont. He had shipped out of Vancouver.

Supreme Court Reserves Verdict On Holy Day Law

OTTAWA (CP)—The case of a Montreal by-law that forces stores to close on six Roman Catholic holy days rests with the Supreme Court of Canada.

The nine-member court Tuesday reserved judgment on an appeal by seven Montreal stores from a decision of the Quebec Court of Appeals. That court ruled the by law and the enabling provincial legislation constitutional.

Montreal Superior Court earlier called the by-law unconstitutional, but the Quebec court of appeal said legislative jurisdiction and powers should come under the Criminal Code, as does the Lord's Day Act governing Sundays.

ARGUING CASE

Counsel for the stores has argued that the by-law is a mask to enforce religious observance of the church feasts. Lawyers for the city of Montreal and the Quebec government contended the by-laws are the provincial statute that allows cities designate holy days stores clerks a holiday. They said more Quebec trade- unions have those days off.

Some 20,000 Montreal stores are affected by the by-law which provides a $50 fine or two months in jail for the store owner who fails to close. The holy days are New Year's, Epiphany, Ascension Day, All Saints' Day, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception and Christmas.

THEORY FOR CONTINENTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A theory that continents resulted from a collision between the earth and a giant meteor was advanced Tuesday by Dr. B. F. Howell of Pennsylvania State University. He told the American Geophysical Union at a meteor about 1-100th the size of the earth, a group of meteors may have struck near the North Pole a couple of billion years ago, and splattered southward.

Finance Minister Critical of Frost Govt. in Talk

TORONTO (CP)—Finance Minister Harris in a June 9 provincial general election campaign speech Tuesday accused Premier Frost of "rewriting history."

Addressing the Tuesday Luncheon Club, a women's group considered mainly Liberal, he said Mr. Frost in a speech in London Saturday claimed credit for providing old-age security for persons past 70.

"I wonder if he thinks he can rewrite history. I was under the impression that it was the federal government that had granted this."

Mr. Harris said the Ontario Liberal party has not yet released its platform for the June 9 provincial general election, "but when it does you will find that it will prove acceptable to very many people even in Tory Ontario."

He predicted that in the election the Liberals, who at dissolution Monday held six of the legislature's 90 seats, would win "not just the seats we normally have claims to—but many more."

Liberal Leader Attacks Policy On Roads, Hydro

WINGHAM, Ont. (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal party leader, Tuesday night challenged Mr. Frost government with trying to make up for lack of accomplishments in the past four years "to the people of Ontario.

On the eve of his promised unveiling of the provincial Liberal party's policy, he addressed some 200 people, including about 60 women, in this community of 2,700.

Mr. Oliver, MP for 1935-45 and 1951 and Quebec in 1949, the only congress so far held in Canada.

CONGRESS ATTENDANCE

Commenting after the Quebec meeting The Times of London said:

"International congresses of medical bodies dealing with a host of financial, commercial and economic subjects proliferate freely throughout the world. But there is really still only one in the commanding voices the views of commerce in most international gatherings."

and that is, as it has been for many years, the International Chamber of Commerce."

The chamber's headquarters are in Paris. Jean Coulborn, British financier, is current president, having been elected in Vienna. In ordinary course a new president will be elected in Tokyo. Pierre Vasseur is secretary-general of the headquarters.

R. Ian Strathshaw, Toronto industrialist, is president of the Canadian council of the international chamber, and Gordon Wilson, general manager with headquarters in Montreal.

PLAN BIG DELEGATION

Canadian delegation to Tokyo, headed by Mr. Strathshaw, will be the largest to attend any congress to date.

Delegates will start arriving in Vancouver this week and will leave September by Canadian Pacific Air Lines May 11.

Theme of the congress will be "Asian Problems and World Progress" and some of the delegates have been invited to participate in a pre-congress meeting of the chamber's commission for Asia and the Far East.

Commenting on the conference here, Mr. Strathshaw said Canada, as a trading nation, is vitally concerned in Asia's development and must take cognizance of Asia's problems in the expansion of that continent's world trade and intra-Asian trade.

FOR FREER TRADE

Canadian delegates would keep in mind Canada's belief in the establishment of freer trade as a basis of world prosperity.

"We are keenly interested," he added, "in ensuring that the basic principles of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade are followed by the countries within its scope, and generally in the adoption of policies throughout the world which will not unduly restrict the flow of goods among nations."

Mr. Berkinshaw will be chairman of the congress meeting on "Free trade for world prosperity." Other Canadian activities will include:

Robert H. Lank, Montreal, chairman of a meeting on "International Protection of Industrial Property;" G. C. Hammond, Montreal, chairman of a meeting on "Fair Competition;" Frank Mosley, Toronto, co-chairman of one on "Distribution Statistics;" and Ian Hopkins, of Montreal and New York, co-chairman of one on "Air Transport."

Paul Bienvenu and Rene Perrault from Montreal will speak on "Productivity in Distribution."

STUDY MANY TOPICS

There is an opening plenary session May 16 the congress will break up into a number of separate meetings in an attempt to study Canadian delegates will spread themselves as one delegate put it, "to study and report to the full Canadian delegation at morning get-together."

T. C. Davis, Canadian ambassador to Japan, will speak to the Canadian delegates May 18 at an embassy gathering which will also be attended by representatives of Canadian interests in Japan and by Japanese business men. There will be entertained again at the embassy the night by Mrs. Davis.

Following the congress, Canadian delegates will go on a six-day tour of Japan, visiting Nara, Kyoto, Osaka, Hakone National Park and Kamakura.

They will leave Tokyo by Canadian Pacific Air Lines May 27 and, after a stop at Honolulu, are scheduled to arrive back in Vancouver May 31.

A union spokesman said the councils will meet to hear a report on more than a month of negotiations with both companies over the question of a guaranteed annual wage.

Churchill's Opponent Thinks 'Old Man' Should Move Up

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—A. I. M. Milner, who is opposing Sir Winston Churchill in the May 26 general election, admits he hasn't got a chance of getting Churchill's seat in the House of Commons.

But I feel very sure that I'm going to cut down the majority, and that may make him think," Milner said.

"Make him think what?" the reporter asked.

"That he ought to give up his seat in the House of Commons, accept a peerage and move into the House of Lords.

"If I get enough votes it may convince Sir Winston that he should move up. Actually, I don't think I'll really mind if I very much."

Churchill is 80, Milner 44. Milner is the son of the principal of a technical college and a graduate of London University. He considers himself on the left wing of the Labor party.

He is an engineer, and during the war worked on some secret projects, including radar. He belonged to a volunteer fire department and helped fight fires during the Blitz on London and Coventry and Birmingham.

In 1943 he founded a trade union that would take in electrical engineers. Milner is a branch secretary of the union. He decided to run against Churchill?

"A few days ago a union asked me to be candidate in their constituency, urged me to stand and I finally agreed," he explained, "I'll admit it was a big decision.

He decided that there were Labor party people on Woodford who would make Sir Winston's war leadership, and disagree with his views on other matters. If they haven't got a candidate to vote for, they're virtually disfranchised."

Churchill got 40,000 votes in the last general election and his Labor opponent 22,000.

What did Milner's wife say when he came home and told her he was going to run against Churchill?

"She thought I was a bloody fool," he said with a smile.

Fifty Canadians to Attend International C of C Congress To Be Convened in Tokyo

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 50 Canadians leave for Tokyo next Thursday to attend the world's premier business gathering—the congress of the International Chamber of Commerce.

They will be part of a gathering of some 1,000 business people from more than 30 countries who in a week of sessions—May 16-20—will try to establish policies and practices which will smooth the operations of international commerce.

What they do may have a faraway sound and be couched in technical business language but its effects may reach ultimately into everybody's pocket book and household.

It will have this far-reaching effect, if as is generally believed, an increasing and friendly exchange of goods and services among the world's peoples is needed only to speed the trend in saving world prosperity.

HAVE INFLUENCE

The congress has no power of legislation but its delegates, as responsible members of their various world communities, have the right to recommend and to be listened to. And among them will be men who have the power, if they have the will, to iron out many disrupting practices in day-to-day international dealings.

No country is banned from membership but in practice membership is from non-Communist countries.

The International Chamber was formed in 1919 and has met every two years since, except for war periods. The Tokyo meeting will be its 15th. Recent congresses were held in Vienna in 1953, Lisbon in 1951 and Quebec in 1949, the only

Commenting after the Quebec meeting The Times of London said:

"International congresses of medical bodies dealing with a host of financial, commercial and economic subjects proliferate freely throughout the world. But there is really still only one in the commanding voices the views of commerce in most international gatherings."

and that is, as it has been for many years, the International Chamber of Commerce."

The chamber's headquarters are in Paris. Jean Coulborn, British financier, is current president, having been elected in Vienna. In ordinary course a new president will be elected in Tokyo. Pierre Vasseur is secretary-general of the headquarters.

R. Ian Strathshaw, Toronto industrialist, is president of the Canadian council of the international chamber, and Gordon Wilson, general manager with headquarters in Montreal.

PLAN BIG DELEGATION

Canadian delegation to Tokyo, headed by Mr. Strathshaw, will be the largest to attend any congress to date.

Delegates will start arriving in Vancouver this week and will leave September by Canadian Pacific Air Lines May 11.

Theme of the congress will be "Asian Problems and World Progress" and some of the delegates have been invited to participate in a pre-congress meeting of the chamber's commission for Asia and the Far East.

Commenting on the conference here, Mr. Strathshaw said Canada, as a trading nation, is vitally concerned in Asia's development

Perjury Counts Against German Woman Dismissed

BUFFALO (AP)—Four counts of perjury against a 28-year-old German woman who tried to enter the United States illegally with an American army major were dismissed in federal court Tuesday when the government moved for a misdemeanor charge.

Judge Harold P. Burke set sentencing for Thursday.

The woman and Major Dennis W. Hamilton, 37, were arrested Feb. 23 as they tried to cross the border between Canada at the Peace Bridge. The couple was married in suburban Kenmore April 18.

The misdemeanor charge carries a maximum sentence of six months imprisonment and a $500 fine.

Wildcat Strike Halts Half Of London Buses

LONDON (CP) — Thousands of Londoners stood with thumbs up this morning, hitch-hiking their way to work after a wildcat strike starting last midnight had halted half of the capital's 6,000 buses.

An estimated 14,000 drivers and conductors walked out to protest against the London transport executive's plans to cut down the number of crews.

The strike against the state-operated bus system caught most commuters by surprise. Many waited in line at bus stops for some time before learning of the walkout. There was a mass rush for already crowded subways. Thousands were late to work.

Another unofficial work stoppage by London fitters around Gatwick has halted the flow of coal from that Yorkshire region, Britain's largest coal-producing area. More than 60,000 miners are off their jobs in a piecework pay dispute which mushroomed from a small beginning more than two weeks ago.

Civil Defence Planners Working On Radiation Fall-Out Patterns

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's civil defence planners are working on a radiation fall-out pattern for every major Canadian city or possible target area.

When a hydrogen bomb is burst near the ground, vast quantities of radioactive debris are sucked up into the mushroom cloud. These particles begin to fall out—rapidly—exposing unprotected persons beneath to a serious-to-lethal dose of radioactivity within an area of thousands of square miles.

The bomb cloud can soar to a height of 15 miles where stratosphere winds begin to push it along. The upper winds of 100 miles an hour or so are fairly steady. So it is possible to predict fairly accurately the area of fall-out.

WIND PATTERN KNOWN

Thus the weather bureau becomes a key factor in civil defence.

From weather data compiled through the years it is possible to predict wind directions at all levels for any given area in the country and for any given season.

Let's take an example:

Winnipeg is the target of an impending H-bomb attack and the population is warned to evacuate immediately. In what direction should it evacuate?

The meteorologist makes a forecast for the next 36 hours, the most deadly period of time for radioactive fall-out. He fits the day's information into the wind pattern already drawn up for Winnipeg for that time of year. He sees, perhaps, that the stratosphere winds are blowing from west.

Therefore, the population would be told to move west, north or south to avoid the fall-out area. People living in a belt some 20 miles wide and some 200 miles long immediately east of Winnipeg would be warned.

ACCURACY IMPERATIVE

But wait. The weather forecaster also sees that after the radioactive debris falls through the stratosphere it will be driven by strong lower-level winds from the north. Therefore, the fall-out area will be to the south or southeast of the city and the population is so warned.

The results of a mistake in wind forecasting could be disastrous. It is conceivable that everyone could be told to head in a certain direction to avoid fall-out only to find that through a sudden wind change they were moving into the actual fall-out zone.

Fortunately, there is a generally constant wind pattern in Canada. Thus it is possible to chart the probable fall-out area for any locality at any time of year. That is being done now for every major city and target area.

Interest of civil defence planners in fall-out danger is bringing into fairly common use the word "roentgen"—meaning a unit of radiation.

At Canada's atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., workers are not subjected normally to more than 15 roentgens a year.

It has been estimated that a human can survive a total dose of about 700 roentgens delivered in the space of one or two days.

DEADLY RADIATION

It has also been estimated that radiation from a medium-sized hydrogen bomb one hour after the explosion and covering an area of some 230 square miles is 2,500 roentgens per hour.

It follows that every exposed person within this area would be dead in about a day unless he were so violently ill he could not survive.

This represents one of the awesome and terrifying factors in civil defence planning.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has issued estimates of fall-out and roentgen dosage from the March 1, 1954, blast at Bikini of a bomb believed to have yielded 20 megatons, the equivalent of 20,000,000 tons of TNT.

Ten miles downwind from the explosion, the radiation dosage was about 1,000 roentgens for the first 36 hours after the fall-out. Some 100 miles from the point of detonation, the dosage was 2,300 roentgens for 36 hours; at 110 miles, 2,000 roentgens; at 125 miles, 1,000 roentgens; at 160 miles, about 500 roentgens; at 190 miles, 300 roentgens.

The AEC added:

"There is about 7,000 square miles of territory downwind from the point of burst in which it is calculated that survival might have depended on prompt evacuation of the area or upon adequate shelter and other protective measures."

BASEMENT PROTECTION

If a person were exposed to 130 roentgens an hour, it is estimated that this could be reduced to 12 roentgens by taking shelter in a basement. It is the day's information into the wind pattern already drawn up for Winnipeg for that time of year. He sees, perhaps, that the stratosphere winds are blowing from west.

Therefore, the population would be told to move west, north or south to avoid the fall-out area. People living in a belt some 20 miles wide and some 200 miles long immediately east of Winnipeg would be warned.

ACCURACY IMPERATIVE

But wait. The weather forecaster also sees that after the radioactive debris falls through the stratosphere it will be driven by strong lower-level winds from the north. Therefore, the fall-out area will be to the south or southeast of the city and the population is so warned.

Maritime Farmer First Man to See Meteorite Land

HALIFAX (CP) — A university professor says John Gaudio, a Maritime farmer, may have been the first man ever to see a meteorite land on earth.

Rev. M. W. Burke-Gaffney, astronomer at St. Mary's University, said that Mr. Gaudio visited him during the weekend and brought along three fragments of an object that crashed beside Mr. Gaudio on his Little river farm April 2.

Mr. Gaudio said he had been burning some grass when he heard "something like a shell passing overhead and turned around in time to see the object smash into a rock about 30 feet away."

Father Burke-Gaffney verified Mr. Gaudio's suspicions that he had nearly been hit by a meteorite.

"The most extraordinary thing about it," he said, "is that Mr. Gaudio apparently saw the meteorite land. I think he is probably the first person ever to see one actually land."

On behalf of the pupils of the Allan school, Kenneth Smith presented Brock and Teddy Richardson each with a story book and Karen Richardson with a cup and saucer for which the recipients voiced their thanks.

The mothers provided refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and homemade candy.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific Institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Pulitzer Prizes Are Awarded

NEW YORK (AP)—Novelist William Faulkner has been awarded the 1955 Pulitzer prize for fiction for "A Fable," an allegorical novel of a First World War mutiny.

The year's drama award went to Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," a play dealing with the dissolution of a Mississippi delta family. Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire" won him his first Pulitzer prize in 1948.

Gian-Carlo Menotti, Italian-born composer and lyricist, received the music award for "The Saint of Bleecker Street," an opera based on religion and Greenwich Village life in New York. Menotti was the winner of the 1950 music prize for another opera, "The Consul."

Major Credit Given Premier For Health Plan

WINGHAM, Ont. (CP)—Agricultural Minister Thomas Monday night gave Premier Frost major credit for having the question of health insurance placed on the agenda of the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa next October.

Mr. Frost insisted at the recent preliminary conference that health insurance proposals be given a thorough examination and that the whole question be placed before all of Canada's legislatures, Mr. Thomas said.

The provincial cabinet minister addressed a Progressive Conservative nomination convention for Huron-Bruce at which John W. Hanna, present sitting member, was chosen again to contest the riding in the provincial general election June 9.

CCF Leader Says Wartime Boom Is Over

COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, Tuesday night accused the Ontario government of being content to drift on the record of the last 12 prosperous years.

Addressing a CCF nominating convention for Northumberland riding, he said in a June 9 provincial election campaign speech:

"Admittedly they have been years of great prosperity, but a little more humility would help this government to recognize that this prosperity is not the result of their policies but rather of the great war and post-war needs. The government has been carried along on a wave of prosperity.

"But the wartime boom is over. We now are FACE to so-called normal times—which means growing unemployment and falling farm incomes. This is a time, therefore, not for contented gloating over the past but for policies which will cope with the problems of the present and future. It is precisely on this score that the government's record during the past year or so has been a growing failure."

He said the Progressive Conservative administration at Queen's Park and the Liberal government in Ottawa are not maintaining "adequate expenditures to help keep our growing population at work."

On the farm front, the old problem of stabilizing farm security through orderly marketing and minimum prices which would at least cover costs of production, he reappeared.

Mr. MacDonald's remarks were included in a text released to the press prior to delivery.

Lord Tweedsmuir, now 44, went to the Canadian Arctic in 1934 when British doctors despaired of his health. He recovered and in the Second World War commanded Ontario's Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He was wounded in Sicily in 1943.

He comes from a writing family. His father, governor-general of Canada from 1935 until his death in 1940, was better known as John Buchan the writer. His mother, Lady Susan Tweedsmuir, has just completed a book of reminiscences called "A Winter Bouquet." She is in her early 70s.

Fined 10 Pounds For Cruelty To Live Bird

BROMLEY, England (Reuters)—A bank clerk who fed a live robin to a hawk, which pecked it to pieces, was accused of "cold-blooded cruelty" and fined £10 in court here.

The clerk, John Parsons, was seen by a neighbor feeding a fluttering, screaming little bird in his right hand to the hawk on his left arm, an officer of the Royal Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals told the court.

Parsons said he loved animals and that he practised the medieval sport of falconry as a hobby. He denied that he fed the hawk with a live bird. He was found guilty of causing the small bird unnecessary suffering.

May Theatre Diary

By Robert Tanner.

By ROBERT TANNER

Probably the most interesting theatrical event in the neighborhood at present is the eighth annual edition of the Canadian Revue "Spring Thaw", which this year moves from the little Royal Museum Theatre in Toronto to the Avenue Theatre, a converted movie house at the corner of Avenue Road and Eglinton Avenue.

This spring frolic, which is put on by the New Play Society, has become one of the most eagerly awaited events of the theatrical calendar, because here we have something we seldom have a chance of seeing. Canadians making fun of Canadian life and finding lots of uproariously funny things to laugh at.

Everything from culture to politics to big business, comes under the satirical examination of the writers of this show and not even Stratford nor the Canadian Players escape. To judge from the packed and enthusiastic audience on the third night, the proposed two and a half weeks' run will have to be considerably extended.

Directors Robert Christie and Mavor Moore handle their lively and talented cast with great expertness and make the most of quite limited stage resources. Altogether, this is a show well worth a trip to Toronto.

WORLD PREMIERE

Meanwhile the Crest is presenting yet another world premiere, "The Gift of the Serpent" by Stanley Mann, successful Canadian TV and radio playwright. Canadian authors seem to be quite in the news at the moment, after the successful opening on Broadway of Patricia Joudrey's first play "Teach Me How to Cry". The Crest production will run for this week and next; its successor has not yet been announced.

The Royal Alexandra appears to have got over its pajama complex, for the moment at least, and is now presenting that popular French songstress, Edith Piaf, together with her Continental Revue. A show of similar construction but very different accent comes to Maple Leaf Gardens on May 11, for one night only, when George Formby brings his International Varieties of '55. This program is also to be presented in Kingston.

Between May 23 and 28, Maple Leaf Gardens will resound to music of a different calibre from George's ukelele, during the visit of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The operas chosen for this fourth annual season are Madame Butterfly, Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci, La Traviata, Tosca, Andrea Chenier and Carmen.

DRAMA WEEK

This might really be called Toronto drama week, because in addition to all the attractions already mentioned, the Central Ontario Drama League is organizing a province-wide festival of one-act plays. From places as far afield as Sault Ste. Marie, Newmarket and Gore Bay, as well as from others nearer in, a total of 16 entries will be played in the Hart House Theatre before adjudicator Robert Gill.

A recent bulletin from the Stratford Festival box office reports business to be so brisk that the mail order department cannot keep up with the demand. During the first three weeks of ticket sales, business never fell below $3,000 a day, with a peak of $7,000.

Interest from the U.S. is as high as ever and may well exceed the 20 per cent proportion established last year, though a large number of Canadian excursions, by universities, women's clubs and similar organizations, have been announced. Most of those buying tickets for the plays are buying as well for the musical programs, many wedging in up to six cultural events in quick succession.

The programs are so arranged that one can see all three plays and hear three different concerts on any Tuesday to Thursday stretch, provided one can last that long.

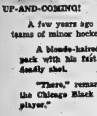
UP-AND-COMING!

A few years ago we stood in Memorial Arena watching two teams of minor hockey moppets flit up and down the ice.



A blonde-haired youngster seemed to be the pick of the pack with his fast skating and good stickhandling, plus a deadly shot.

"There," remarked Bob Wilson, chief eastern scout of the Chicago Black Hawks, who was with us, "is a hockey player."

A few minutes later Bob added, "and furthermore there is a kid that should go places."

Just in case his summing up should be right, Bob immediately grabbed the youngster for the Hawks—and at the moment is looks that the Chicago "prophet" was correct in his early prediction.

The youngster—he is 16 years of age now—is Bobby Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hull of Point Anne. Right now Bobby tips the scales in the neighborhood of 165 pounds and stands some five feet ten inches, with at least three years to grow.

BOBBY HULL

Bobby was not out of the minors when somebody foolishly allowed him to play on the Point Anne team of the Trent Valley League, and somebody wisely put an end to it.

However, Wilson saw to it that he attended the Hawks' hockey training session in Calgary and he immediately made good. He was assigned to the Hespeler Black Hawks, a Chicago farm junior "B" squad, where he got some fine experience. At the end of the season, or after the Hespeler Hawks were put out of existence, Bobby was moved up to the Galt junior "A" Black Hawks and performed in a couple of games for them at Galt and in Maple Leaf Gardens.

However, the ones-in-the-know figured that Bobby was not yet ready for the rugged, boisterous junior "A" brand of hockey and last season Marse Robert was sent to the Woodstock Warriors for further seasoning.

He developed into one of the most-feared forwards in the Central Ontario Junior "A" loop and also added size. It was deadly and always on the net. His speed and trickiness around the net had opposing defencemen in a tizzy. But he had his bumps—plenty of them—and proved that he had lots of intestinal fortitude.

Which made chief Hawk scout Wilson beam with joy when he saw him perform—and come up with another prediction, "My boy, Bobby, will make the National League," was the second Wilsonian prophecy.

Backing up this piece of crystal-ball gazing is the statement of Jim McKay, sports editor of the Woodstock Sentinel Review. "Bobby," said the genial Jim, "is the finest hockey prospect I have ever seen."

Young Hull compiled an enviable record in his second full season with the Junior "B" Club. He scorched the Warriors, or helped spark them to the OHA junior "B" championship, defeating the powerful Woodbridge Dodgers after a rugged seven-game series. The Warriors won four, lost two and tied one in sending the favored Dodgers into hockey oblivion.

The Warriors defeated Owen Sound and Burlington to win their group playoffs, then went on to wallop Seaforth before meeting the Dodgers for the title.

In the oneiral junior "B" schedule, Bobby scored 24 goals and 26 assists for 50 points, 18 behind Heidman of Waterloo, who topped the league. He finished in seventh spot.

In 24 games of the playoffs, he was the team top scorer with 22 goals and 24 assists. In nine games with Seaforth, he scored 13 goals and assisted on eight others, including two hat tricks. Some fireworks and the opposition watched him like a hawk (no pun intended.)

Bobby has been selected with six other players of the Black Hawk junior "B" system for elevation to junior "A" ranks next year. He will likely be seen in a St. Catharines Teepees uniform.

Bobby has developed a physique like a young Apollo. He is a softball player of more than passing ability, wielding a powerful hickory. He will remain in Woodstock until the school closes then return to his home in Point Anne, where likely his softball services will be utilized. It is reported he was made an offer to remain in Woodstock to play softball, but Marse Robert apparently wants to spend the summer down around ole Ox Point with the family.

GOOD SHOW

Whipper Billy Watson, one of the top men in wrestling, will collide with Ernie Dusek, whose rugged ring methods have earned him the nickname of—The Nebraska Bearcat, in the feature mat event at the Memorial Arena on Friday night, the first grappling show of the season here. Those Dusek rarely travel singly—they go about in anything from pairs up. This occasion will be no exception, with brother Emil facing six-foot-nine, 270-pound Tex McKenzie in the semi-final. Those Duseks are a hardy crew, but neither one of them got any bargain in these parts, for in the Whipper one has a towering Texan, the bruising brothers are-in against a couple of front-rank, hard-hitting ring operators. Pat Flanagan will meet Jan Gotch in the first bout, which won't have a Dusek in it.

Cataracts Trim Edmonton 4-2 One Game Away

MONTREAL (CP) — The high flying Lachine Falls Cataracts, with a stranglehold on the Edmonton Trophy, square off against Edmonton Flyers on their own ice Thursday in an attempt to break a home-town jinx.

They defeated the Flyers 4-2 in Montreal Tuesday night to take a 4-2 lead in the best-of-nine series by virtue of four wins on Forum ice. Edmonton has won both games played in Shawinigan Falls.

The bustling Quebec Hockey League club came from behind twice to down the heavier western team. The two squads traded goals in the first and second periods before the Cataracts took the decision by outscoring Edmonton 2-1 in the final frame.

WERE SHORTHANDED

Shawinigan's second and fourth markers came with the Western Hockey League champions shorthanded.

Norm Ullman and Gilles Dube of the Cataracts traded first-period tallies while Lorne Davis of Edmonton and Shawinigan rookie Claude Larose scored in the second.

A partisan crowd of 6,406 saw Fern Perrault nudge the Cataracts into the lead for the first time early in the first frame. Perrault-Paul Lamirande notched the winning goal minutes later.

British Soccer Fans Pay More, Minimum Admission 'Two Bob'

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—British football, and some other sports, may increase admission prices.

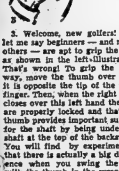
The latest British budget, which confined concessions to income tax and the income landlord, ignored sport for the first time in three years. The 1953 budget left amusement and cricket tax free, and last year half a penny per seat was knocked off the entertainment tax on sports events.

The annual meeting of the 92-team Football League June 5 is expected to go ahead with a tabled decision to boost prices three-pence all along the line, making the minimum admission price two shillings. Professional rugby and speedway racing, among oldest spectator sports, may follow suit.

TOUGH DECISION

The move would be a gamble in the eyes of most observers. And whatever the increase, the treasury would gain, reasoning as it does an estimated one-fifth of all soccer gate receipts and a third of the gross takings at boxing promotions.

But soccer, whose second and third division teams are in the heaviest financial weather of the post-war period and which had counted on some tax relief, may figure that drooping attendance will not be speeded by an increase.



Speaking for the boxing profession Barnett Jasner, Labor member of Parliament for Leicester Northwest, asked the government after the budget April 19 whether it intended to fill the sport with its tax policies.

He claimed there were only 300 fight cards in 1954, compared with 948 in 1952. The returns for boxing for the year ending last Sept. 30 had totalled £118,000, he said, but nearly £100,000 of this sum was supplied by only two fight cards.

A newspaper-controlled radio and the new commercial TV network bidding for the league fixture list, others may hold it back to salvage something for the pot.

The June 5 meeting may also face up to the question of whether it should finally allow TV to cover Saturday afternoon games. Most clubs have held out, but with both the government-controlled BBC and the new commercial TV network bidding for the league fixture list, others may think it time to salvage something for the pot.

Sam Snead's Golf School

3. Welcome, new golfers! And let me say beginners — and many others — are apt to grip the club ax shown in the left-illustration. That's wrong! To grip the right way, move the thumb over until it is opposite the tip of the forefinger. Then, when the right hand closes over this left hand the two are properly locked and the left thumb provides important support for the shaft by being under the shaft at the top of the backswing. You will find by experimenting that there is actually a big difference when your swing the club with the thumb in the wrong position as compared to swinging it in the correct position. Try it. I am dwelling on the left hand work in the grip because, while the grip of both hands is extremely important, the left predominates.

Pitcher—Bob Rush, Cubs, limited the New York Giants to four hits as Chicago blanked the world champions 6-0.

Batting—Ted Kluszewski, Redlegs, hit two home runs and a single to drive in three runs as Cincinnati defeated the Phillies 7-5 including Milwaukee, in streching their phenomenal record to 16-3 in recent days. About the only hope left is that Walt Alston's streaking team will come down to earth in the first extended road trip Friday or, long range, that hot weather, if it ever comes, will take some of the sap out of such veterans as Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson and Pewee Reese.

There is no sound basis for supposing that the club will go into a decline once it leaves Ebbets Field. It is true that the Dodgers' home park is ideally tailored to their lefthand power, but it is equally true that their only two defeats up to now, both inflicted by the Giants by one-run margins, came in Brooklyn.

As for the broiling weather to come, that has been taken care of to some extent by night ball. It isn't the killer for the oldsters that it once was. The sun does not burn down at night, and there are no reconditioned Greeks in which to

Dave Batchelor Again Heads Major B League

Under the capable direction of president Dave Batchelor the Major "B" Bowling League had a highly successful 1954-55 season. It was revealed at the annual banquet held at Golden Acre restaurant last night.

It was one of the best yearly get-togethers in the history of the league with a 100 per cent membership in attendance. And the boys showed their appreciation of the fine executive administration by returning the officials to offices without benefit of an election.

The popular president takes over the reins for another season while his capable secretary Bob Redner will again act in an official capacity. Said Dave, "We have had a thoroughly enjoyable season. I had excellent co-operation from team captains and I hope the fellows will carry on next year in the same fine spirit that characterized their efforts in the season just finished."

With Art. Peever and Bobby McCann winning the food-consumption championships, the bowlers enjoyed a delectable chicken dinner.

The Bus Terminals, league champions were presented with the their trophies with team captain Joe Allen on the receiving end while the presentation being made by president Batchelor. Micky Moreau, captain of the Richard Ellis Printing team, the runners-up received the prizes for his squad.

In the individual championship list, Mark Slorma won the trophy for high average with a mark of 221. J. Callaghan had the high triple of 883 while the veteran kegler Joe Legault topped the singles with a phenomenal 435, the highest scored at Recreation Alleys.

Members of the champion Bus Terminals are M. Storm, J. Callaghan, J. Allen, M. Callaghan, A. Knott, W. Kiser and C. McKenna. League teams include Champs, Bus Terminal, Zilis Printing, Sellerling Tires, Comebacks and Scamps.

Manager Pappas, manager of the Recreation Alleys was a special guest and assured the boys "Things won't be changed. I'll be back again next season."

No Reason For Brooks To Decline National Loop Worried Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — American League club owners must be snickering these spring days at the success Seven teams in the rival circuit writhing under the lash of those paladins of power, Brooklyn Dodgers. They hope, no doubt, that there is nothing temporary about the lack of balance among the Nationals.

For too many years to suit the American leaguers, their own runaway races have played to steadily dwindling attendance while the senior division pulled in the fans with one thriller right after the other, specializing in last-day finishes. This time they see a chance that the leagues' roles will be reversed, with the Dodgers pulling far away from all pursuit while several American League clubs take turns making runs at Cleveland Indians.

And never think that the National leaguers are not beginning to worry about it, especially since the Brooks have the means so they can manhandle the western clubs, sleep ll off next day.

Six Entries Expected In Baseball League

Six teams are expected to form the Belleville and District Baseball League, including a Tweedville junior team, if was learned at the association's annual meeting held at CJBQ last night.

Representatives from Trenton, Deseronto, Wellington, Marmora, and Picton were present and all expressed their intentions to enter a club. Although no one was present from a city junior squad president Frank Grandame said: "I was notified by Mr. Paul Ragis, now out of the city on business, that he would definitely have a junior baseball team and up. Each team will be allowed to use so many, but no definite number was decided on last night. It is expected that three or four at the most will be the limit but the matter was dropped until the next meeting. The visiting team will bring the plate umpire, with the home club supplying the base official.

In the election of officers, president Frank Grandame and Lloyd "Red" Doran, secretary-treasurer, were unanimous choices to remain in office. Jack Devine stepped down as vice-president, with Garry Alexander named to the position.

The next league meeting, to settle minor difficulties to have all entries in along with a list of umpires from each team and to agree on a schedule will be held on Monday, May 16, at CJBQ, starting at 8.00 p.m.

The bridge word double is truly some kind of double talk. It means one thing in some situations and something diametrically the other spots. The same tone of voice is used. So you must know what where.

The original meaning of the bidding world double is to advise partner that opponents can be defeated for double penalty. In this sense of the word it is known as a penalty double.

In some special positions the double loses its fundamental meaning and takes on a special meaning. The special meaning is to ask partner to take the double out; a takeout double.

Thus, the word double may mean in partner: Do not disturb the status quo; let me strictly alone. Or, it may mean just the opposite: Please let this double stand; take me out of it.

Providing I have a very plain to an experienced player. He knows exactly how to distinguish between the two. He knows when it is for penalty and when it is only for takeout.

The first requisite for a takeout double is that partner of the double has not yet bid. Because if a player has already bid, a double by his partner is always for penalty. Always.

Take the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠J
♥7 6 4 2
♦K 10 7
♣K 10 7 4 2

WEST
♥K J 9 5 3
♦Q 8 3

EAST
♠K 10 9 7 3
♥10
♣K J 10 9 6

SOUTH
♠A Q 6 4 2
♥A Q
♦J 9 5 4

The bidding starts off like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♥	3 ♠	Double

Is the east double for takeout or penalty? Right quick you must know it is for penalty. Why? Because partner of the doubler had bid before the double was used by one of the pair.

Thus, if partner has already bid, you know fast when your double is for penalty. Because then it could be no other. Not ever.

Could Write Book About Tour With Douglas in Deep South

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wendell Corey could write a book about his tour with "Caine Mutiny Court Martial." Suggested title: "With Douglas in the Deep South."

You'll recall that Paul Douglas, who played Captain Queeg in the troupe, was reported to have popped in Greensboro, N.C., that "the South will rise."

The casual remark to a Greensboro Daily News reporter started a chain reaction. Producer Paul Gregory cancelled the play's tour, declaring Douglas' remark had so infuriated the South that business would be poor. Douglas denied he issued the quote and sued Gregory for $1,000,000. Actors equity placed the actor on probation for a year because of his conduct on the tour.

How did the hassle look to an innocent bystander? Corey, mildmannered Hollywood film-spoken, affords a view.

SOME ENTERTAINMENT

"Naturally, the rest of the company wasn't happy about his remarks," said Corey. "But I'm not sure what effect they had on business. There was a little resentment in Greensboro before we left. But we went on to good business in places like Atlanta, Jackson and Birmingham—and you can't get much deeper south than that."

Corey explained that the company had swung up 16 Pittsburgh when the cancellation came from Gregory. Other southern dates remained to be played. Then the producer was threatened with law suits by civic groups and others who were sponsoring the cancelled dates. He whipped up a company headed by William Bendix to fulfil the obligations.

"They asked me if I would go along," Corey said. "I said I'd do it for $3,000 a performance."

The actor believed he had enough sailing aboard the Caine. From last July to February, he toured in the U.S. and Canada. While he found it a worthwhile experience, he doesn't plan to repeat it soon.

But he said the tour proved the healthy condition of the road for legitimate plays. He added: "You can't tell about some places. In one town of 2,300 in Wisconsin, we drew 4,000 people. In Toronto we couldn't draw flies. Yet Montreal gave us big crowds. We played Detroit for a run that we thought exhausted the possibilities. But we came back three months later and played a nearby university field house with 9,000 people."

AT THE BELLE — Lovely Virginia Mayo and Laurence Harvey share the romantic interest in Warner Bros.' Rita Richard and the Crusaders." The film co-starring Rex Harrison and George Sanders, in Cinema-Scope and Color, is showing tonight for the last time at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY

Barbara Stanwyck Matches Cruelty of "Violent Men"

Barbara Stanwyck's film career of bad women, which began with "Double Indemnity," has now, in all probability, descended to the bottom rung of infamy. In "The Violent Men," also starring Glenn Ford and Edward G. Robinson, at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre Thursday, in Cinemascope and color by Technicolor, Miss Stanwyck has what she considers to be the wickedest role in history in motion pictures. She portrays a beautiful frontier woman whose drive for power eventually destroys her. In the process of building a cattle empire, she casually drops words that lead to cold-blooded murder. She has an affair with her crippled husband's brother. She destroys her own daughter's love. Finally, when the ranch-house that is her pride burns down around her, she climaxes her iniquity by snatching away her crippled husband's crutches in the expectation that he will be burned alive.

According to Miss Stanwyck, the woman I play is a lovely little monster. Ten years ago, I'd have refused to play her. Then, I'd have been afraid people would associate me with this man-eating flower. But times have changed. Audiences tates have matured, for which I'm grateful, because there's nothing as good, for acting purposes, as a bad woman. And this woman in "The Violent Men" is about the 'baddest' ever to emerge from a movie script.

The star confesses that she first turned down her powerful role in "Double Indemnity." Now, she says, "whoever talked me into playing it, did me and Holly-wood a favor. It changed my own career and it broadened the type of roles that many players have since been willing to do."

Loretta Young Nearing End Of Second Successful Season

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Loretta Young is nearing the end of a second successful season on television, ignoring the formula of the usual film series.

Other TV stars appearing on a weekly basis stick to one role for the star and the same basic situation. Loretta plays a different role and uses a different situation each Sunday night, with no effort at continuity.

One result is that the viewer is less apt to tire of the show. He may not like this week's episode, but can tune in next week knowing it will be entirely different.

Fact is, some of Miss Young's programs are over-sentimental and sticky sweet. But she has change of pace and frequently turns in challenging performances, as in her recent "Dateline Korea" in which she played the role of a hard-boiled woman newspaper correspondent.

She also has played school teacher, nurse, woman executive, office girl, test pilot's wife and many other roles. Inevitably there have been two or three strongly reminiscent of her Oscar-winning part in the 1947 movie, "Farmer's Daughter," in which she took the part of a maid of Swedish ancestry.

Miss Young is one of the most successful former movie stars to come into television. Now 41 by her own biography, she started in movies first as a child actress and was a star by her 'teens. She had featured or starring roles in 83 films before changing to TV.

Loretta's show last Sunday completed the new episodes filmed for the current season, which ends in early June. However, she will resume production in late June to accumulate a backlog for the new season, starting in late August.

Many viewers may have noted Edward R. Murrow's fluff just before the closing commercial on his "Person-to-Person" Friday night on CBS-TV. He said, "we'll be back in a moment." Instead of "back in a moment."

What the audience didn't hear was guest Rocky Graziano's comment to Murrow over a voice circuit between his apartment and the studio, still in operation from the preceding interview. Rocky quipped over the wire:

"I'm sorry I tripped you, Ed. You must have picked up some of my diction."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, May 5, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Only fair aspects, but they can help the ambitious ones among you. Don't treat assets, friendships, position or work lightly. You need them all.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Taurus's inborn right thinking and just action should bring top returns. Enjoy life with good friends, loved ones; take an interest in the welfare of others in order to insure cooperation for yourself.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Being roundly capable of maintaining a position where adaptability and dexterity are needed, your success should soar to appreciable heights now. But don't force matters.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Curb any desire to "do it all" in too short a time. Results would show rough edges, lack of accuracy. If quality is your first thought you will allocate your tasks smartly. Rectify errors cheerily.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Hold back a tendency to rush through activities without proper study, analyzing. This could be an exciting, and probably interesting, day. Be philosophical, your genial self and you will win your battles more easily.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — You are on the favored side of the planetary fence. Your Mercury is generously assisted for routine work and professional affairs building, banking, merchandising.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your aspects now are similar to Leo's, though maybe not quite so forceful. Hold emotions in check rather than chance needless risks. Concentrate on quality rather than quantity. A genial disposition is a great aid.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Your big obstacle today may lie in wanting to "jump the gun," getting things done too quickly. Speed is fine only if you are sure you are right. Think twice today.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Nothing outstanding in today's configurations. But refuse to be irritated, or stymied. Review plans before starting your day, then take charge and don't stop until you have attained at least part of your goal.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Even if some indications point to unfriendliness there is always a way for the hopefully energetic, persistent one. Do not go to extremes or be tactless. Both could react against you.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Less benefic influences than you might suppose. Be careful in what you undertake, especially if it's new. But be encouraged by the fact that many have achieved the "impossible."

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Vibrations encourage personal matters rather than business, money of new undertakings. Avoid needless contention; do not undertake responsibilities which you cannot possibly fulfill.

You born today are unusually sturdy, dependable, and loyal-minded. Taureans can readily grasp and utilize new methods, can take the ideas of others, and improve upon them. You are fine mechanics, thorough, efficient in anything you undertake, and will never quit if there is a possible chance of success. You should be a good student. Correct a tendency to brood or worry. Avoid overindulgence in food, drink, anything. This could be a fine Taurus year. Keep your mind on wholesome things, and always pray for guidance.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The builder of the Nautilus Tuesday declared the atom-propelled submarine has demonstrated the technical feasibility of nuclear power for all types of transportation. Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop for the good of his appetite, and I said, Oh boy, look at that big red shiny car. Everybody is turning around to look at it, I said.

Everybody but me, pop said. If it was my car I would probably take pardonable pride in it as an example of my thrift and good taist, but I have no istrist in meer mortals who envy their betters or how they waist it, he said, and I said, Well ok, pop, at least if a millionair wanted to meet you, you wouldn't even meet him!

Only if he thought his society would be good for my moral or intellectual education, he said. If it was able to talk convincingly of the power of mind over matter, or if he knew the difference between a bunch of statistics and a pack of lies, or if he happened to be an authority on English china or Chinese English, I might agree to have an intelligent and humble chat with him. But otherwise, as far as I'm concerned, he could just run along about his millions, pop said, and I said, But jiminnies, pop, suppose he wanted to help the orfanet insarats from you?

In that case I guess I wouldn't be unreasonable, pop said: I'd make a thorough investigation into his background and intentions, and if I found he had no ulterior motive I'd probably tell him a polite go F. he said, and I said Well gosh, pop, how do you ever expect to get rich?

I dont, pop said.

Being a good answer, and I changed the subject to whether people would be any happier if they could jump like grasshoppers, and whether it would make birds or angels if they had wings.

(By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN)

RAWDON — The Belleville Presbytery in the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada convened last Wednesday in King Street United Church, Trenton, under the direction of the chairman, the Rev. G. J. Miniely.

The morning worship was conducted by the Rev. H. M. Davis, of Bridge St. United Church, in Belleville.

An impressive memorial service was held for the Rev. L. Sheldon Throop. His obituary as appeared in local newspapers, was read and the group sang "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest," which closed with "The faithful warriors gather from earth's wide bounds, from ocean's farthest coast, and enter the sweet calm of paradise through gates of pearl."

The Rev. K. J. Crawford, of Marmora, presented his report as secretary.

Mr. W. W. Gilroy was re-appointed president of the "Lay Association," and Mr. W. K. Tummon, Foxboro, was appointed new chairman of Belleville Presbytery, with the Rev. Frank Whitely, of Picton, newly appointed secretary and Mr. H. C. Martin, Stirling, re-appointed as treasurer.

The representatives of the settlement committee are the Rev. C. D. McLellan and the Rev. G. J. Miniely.

Mrs. Arthur Pyear, Carmel, president of Hastings-Prince Edward Women's Association, and Mrs. K. Hambly, Napanee, president Lennox-Addington Women's Association, each voiced greetings.

A letter of greeting was read by the secretary from Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, Tweed, president of Belleville Woman's Missionary Society. The president was unable to be present as she was attending branch conference.

The Rev. T. F. Townsend, of Redeerville, who has served the church for 41 years, asked for his retirement.

The afternoon devotions were conducted by the Rev. R. F. Darke, Foxboro circuit.

Special discussions took place re evangelism and social service, also church extension.

The various committees convened and discussed in detail their phase of the work. All charges which did not present their records for review last year are requested to do so.

Presbytery adjourned in the usual manner.

W. Germany Gains Sovereignty, Now Ally Of Free World

Proclamation Signed Almost Decade To Day After Defeat

By CHARLES CURRY

BONN (AP) — The allied high commission today proclaimed an end to the 10-year occupation of West Germany, a new military ally of the free world.

The official end of the occupation came at noon (7 a. m. EDT), shortly after the proclamation was issued.

The proclamation, almost a decade to the day after Germany's surrender May 7, 1945, moves West Germany formally into line as a sovereign state in the Western bloc. Three of supreme power over 50,000,000 former enemy citizens.

ISSUE PROCLAMATION

The three Allied high commissioners—Dr. James B. Conant of the United States, Sir Frederick Hoyer Millar of Britain and Andre Francois-Poncet of France—gathered at their last meeting here this morning to issue the proclamation ending the German people that the occupation was ended.

Next, the British and French commissioners deposited their ratified copies of the proclamation with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's office. The U.S. and West Germany did this April 24.

Adenauer with his cabinet then went before the Bundestad (lower house of Parliament) to announce formally that the West German Republic has become sovereign.

"The occupation statute is revoked and the Allied High Commission and the offices of land (state) commissioners in the federal republic are abolished," the proclamation said. Sixty Allied laws and 101 ordinances are repealed by the declaration.

RE-ENTERS CIRCLE

"Federal Germany has re-entered into the circle of free nations," Theodor Francois-Poncet, who was chairman of the high commission's first meeting Sept. 21, 1945, and of its 209th and final session today.

"We wish to believe . . . that the free nations will find Germany a loyal and efficient partner, enlightened by the memory of her past ordeals. We wish her good luck on the road she will follow, mistress from now on of her own destiny."

A message from Britain's Prime Minister Eden said: "We welcome Germany into this family of nations as she takes her place as an equal partner among the Western nations. This happy outcome has called for much resolution. . . . Much remains to be done before the security of the free world is finally assured, but I know that we shall travel on this road together."

Conant said:

"All of us are gladly giving up our extraordinary rights of authority, and we rejoice in the fact that the Federal Republic of Germany is being welcomed into the family of sovereign nations.

Adenauer's statement Friday for West Germany's admission to West European Union. In another ceremony at the French capital next week, the Bonn government will become the 15th member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

LARGEST FORCE

Within five years West Germany is expected to field an army, navy and air force totalling 500,000 men —the largest Western armed force on the Continent, U.S. frontier. Twelve divisions numbering 400,000 men trained in modern warfare, a jet air force of 80,000 men and 1,300 planes and a coastal navy of 30,000 men are to be serving by the Atlantic alliance.

Such a force would outnumber the Soviet Union's present armed strength in Red-ruled East Germany, experts say, and where it could tip the balance in favor of the West should a third world war erupt.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cooler air now covers all of Ontario and a number of points northwest of Lake Superior have reported snow. Although this westerly flow of cooler air will continue through Friday the snow-covering area is not expected to remain over northern Ontario.

Girl Steps Out Of Panties But Makes Her Bus

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A young woman ran across busy Flagler street in downtown Miami Wednesday, waving toward a bus.

Midway across the intersection she stopped suddenly, and grabbed her waist with both hands.

As people at the busy corner watched to see whether it was a stroke or maybe appendicitis, as indicated by her agonized expression, something slipped down her legs.

Then she stepped out of her panties, picked them up, and ran for the bus. She made it.

Afghanistan Mobilizes Army Against Pakistan

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—Afghanistan's government has declared a state of emergency Wednesday night and called its minister to neighboring Pakistan home.

Radio Kabul also announced mobilization of the army. All officers and men were ordered to report within 48 hours.

The radio said the steps were ordered to prepare the country to face aggression from Pakistan, a reference to Pakistan.

The Afghans and Pakistanis have been disputing for years over the rights of Pathan tribesmen living in frontier province of Pakistan along the border between the two Indian states. Afghanistan backs the warlike hill tribesmen's demands for independence in a new state of Pushtoonistan.

Anti-Pakistan rioting in which 47 persons were hurt broke out in Kabul in March after the Indian government consolidated West Pakistan's half-dozen states—including the northwest frontier — into a single province of West Pakistan.

DREW ASSAILS GOVT. POSITION ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Says Offer Made Only To Catch Public's Eye

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew has termed "reckless and irresponsible" the current federal offer to share unemployment relief costs with the provinces and municipalities.

He said in the Commons Wednesday the offer was spread at last week's federal-provincial conference merely to catch the public's eye and that the government admittedly had no facts on which to base its offer.

"They did not have anything to put before that conference last week, not a thing," he declared.

Mr. Drew made his statement in the continuation of today's debate as he tangled with two cabinet ministers on oldcr political fighting grounds —the 1945-46 federal-provincial conference.

FIGHTING SPEECH

The Opposition leader, in his most fighting speech since returning to the House Feb. 17 after a serious attack of bronchitis, accused the government of having "revisited" that conference nearly a decade ago.

Health Minister Martin countered with the charge that Mr. Drew—then Ontario premier—was "one of the main architects" that conference did not succeed."

And Justice Minister Garson, who attended the conference for Manitoba's premier, said negotiations at conferences because Quebec refused to enter a tax rental agreement and because Ontario demanded more than the federal government.

Mr. Drew said that facts on which to base decisions were lacking in the new federal offer of unemployment relief and that was why "revisiting

Complaints of clothes lines being raided are common occurrences at the police station but this morning Belleville police really had one for the book.

The complaint was that not the clothes had been taken—but that the clothes line had actually disappeared.

After some little time of gentle urging on the part of the better half a West Hill husband yesterday finally got around to putting up the new clothes lines. He might as well have spared himself all the trouble. This morning the clothes line, pulleys and all, were missing.

MAGNOLIA TREES IN FULL BLOOM

The magnolias are in bloom in Belleville.

Magnolia trees, sometimes called tulip trees, are blooming in two different locations in the city at the moment.

In full spring splendor is the tree at 77 Bridge Ave. It was planted originally by the late George Steward, a former teacher at the Ontario School for the Deaf and a former editor of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Two other trees are blooming at 179 Ann St. on the property of Jack Linton.

CHILDREN LOSING NO TIME TO SECURE BIKE LICENCES

The city police department campaign checking on bicycle owners without 1955 licences and without the required highways department approved equipment turned up dozens of delinquents yesterday.

And according to reports from the city hall this morning the young licence-less riders were losing no time in taking the police warnings to get their licences pronto.

From mid-afternoon on the city treasurer's office was besieged by a long line-up for school children seeking 1955 markers for their bicycles.

But the police campaign re the bicycles is to continue and undoubtedly dozens more will be seeking markers at city hall before the week is out.

COLLEGIATE BAND TO ATTEND RALLY

The band of the Belleville collegiate cadet corps will take part in the eastern Ontario cadet rally in Richardson stadium, Kingston, on May 13th.

The remainder of the corps will not take part in the rally.

Bandmaster Alfred Cooper will be in command of the band in Kingston.

The rally, first of its kind for eastern Ontario, is expected to attract cadet representation from as far away as Sarnia, Belleville and Belleville and Smiths Falls.

Majority of Municipalities Approve Development Assoc.

The Lake Ontario Regional Development Association Wednesday received the approval of a majority of municipalities within the area at about 120 delegates representing 41 municipalities convened at Campbellford.

The Association takes in the seven counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Durham and Northumberland, Victoria, Haliburton and Peterborough, and is one of seven regions which have been set up or are proposed for participation in the Ontario Government's program of economic development in the different regions.

Government officials attending the meeting included The Honourable W. K. Warrender, Q.C., Minister of the Department of Planning and Development who spoke at the conference.

FIVE DELEGATES FROM CITY

Five delegates from Belleville, including three city aldermen attended Wednesday's meeting at Campbellford, which saw an interim board of directors set up for the municipalities within the region. Heading the interim board as chairman is Reeve Harold Ellis of Prince Edward and Tennox and Addington as O. W. Larry, clerk of Hastings County is secretary with other members being Percy McGuire, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, Harold Lasher of Napanee and Sam Gerrie of Picton.

These men will call a meeting of elected representatives, Chamber of Commerce officials, and other interested men from which will be named 12 zone directors to act for one year. Six of the directors will be elected representatives and six from the various planning boards, Chambers of Commerce or from interested citizens.

From this group a chairman and vice-chairman will be named, who with two others will represent the zone on the executive board. The regional board will employ a full time executive and a representative from the trade and industry branch regarding location of possible industry.

The work of the association will not be confined alone to industrial promotion but will include such matters as good roads, tourist and agriculture.

To finance the program each municipality participating will be assessed on a population basis and monies raised by the municipalities will be collected by the treasurer for each region by the trades and industry branch.

Belleville's assessment for the association would be about $1,400 but this amount has not yet been approved by city council.

Attending Wednesday's meeting of the Belleville group were Messrs. Bram Humphreys, Arthur Keegan Reeve Lloyd Jeffs, Percy C. McGuire, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and Don Kingdon, secretary manager of the local chamber.

Problems Confronting Cleaning Plants Explained to Retailers

An outline of the problems created for the cleaning industry by the use of uncleanable materials in fabrics and a plea for co-operation by retailers, cleaning merchants and dry cleaners was contained in an address delivered last night by Hartley Currie, manager of the Dry Cleaners Institute of Ontario.

Mr. Currie spoke to 60 dry cleaners and retailing retailers from Belleville, Trenton, Tweed and Picton at a dinner meeting of the Quinte division of the Dry Cleaners Institute of Ontario, Ltd., held at the Quinte Hotel.

Mr. Currie noted that 16 dry cleaning plants in the Quinte district had $600,000 invested in equipment and did a total annual business of $700,000.

"That is less than $8 per person per year. Dry cleaning in the area served," he said.

In speaking of the use of uncleanable and non-cleanable clothes Mr. Currie said that clothing merchants must accept some responsibility for what is sold and that it is in the interest of both the retail clothing trade and the dry cleaners for them to sell materials that can be cleaned.

Some of the items which cannot be cleaned in dry cleaning solutions because the solutions will dissolve them are: varnished cardboard linings in belts, gives of all kinds, soft black buckram, plastic buttons, plastic zippers, plastic imitation leathers, plastic patterns on dresses and plastic linings in crinolines and underskirts.

Fabrics cut on the bias were described as "a headache in the cleaning industry."

"The only way to straighten bias-cut skirts is with scissors," said Mr. Currie.

"Miracle fibres," such as orlon and acetate mixtures are duds as far as the cleaning industry is concerned.

"Orlon will not stand heat and cannot be pressed," said Mr. Currie. "The fabric fuses and mats at low temperature and becomes unservicable."

COLOR BLEEDING PREVENTED

Color fading of acetate materials caused by the settling or resting of fumes from exhaust coal and cooking gas can be prevented by dry cleaning garments every four months, said Mr. Currie. Blue and grey acetate fabrics are particularly susceptible to fume fading, he said.

Mr. Currie stressed the importance of immediate removal of stains from garments caused by spillage of liquids of all kinds.

"In three months the stain oxidizes in and it cannot be removed. Often stains are not evident but color damage has been done. The honest product prides and tell retail clothing trade and the dry cleaners for them to sell materials that can be cleaned.

Some of the items which cannot be cleaned in dry cleaning solutions because the solutions will dissolve them are: varnished cardboard linings in belts, gives of all kinds, soft black buckram, plastic buttons, plastic zippers, plastic imitation leathers, plastic patterns on dresses and plastic linings in crinolines and underskirts.

Opening Dates Announced By Softball League

The dates for the opening games of the Belleville and District Softball League were announced this morning following a meeting of managers and coaches of the teams with secretary-treasurer Ken Dunsbury last night.

Although the schedule was expected to open the week of May 15th, as agreed at a previous meeting, it has been delayed for one week because of a carnival at the Belleville teams home field, the CNRAA grounds, from the 15th to the 20th.

The Frankford Merchants will get the first home game on Monday, May 23rd, with the Belleville Orfuns providing the opposition in a night fixture. The Point Anne Cementmen were entitled to the first game but they announced that their field would not be in condition in time and they shifted the game to Belleville.

The second game will be played on Tuesday, May 24, with the Bellville Bobcats going to Madoc, this also being an under-the-lights game. On Friday, the 27th, Point Anne will have a home game with the visitors to be announced at a later date. The remainder of the schedule will be drawn up next week and will be published as soon as available.

Dunsbury issued the players' certificates to three of the teams last night, Point Anne, Frankford and Madoc. The Orfuns and Bobcats did not have representatives at the meeting will pick up their certificates from Ken anytime.

Another discussion took place on the umpires' fees and it was decided that the officials wanted an increase from $6.00 to $8.00 for each game, five for the plate umpire and four for the man on the bases. It was decided to raise the fee to $7.50 for all games, home and away, with the officials to share among themselves on the split.

IN MEMORIAM

HANNA. — In loving memory of my dear wife, who passed away May 5th, 1950.
Beside your grave I often stand
And gaze on the flowers you planted
But in the gloom the sweet word comes
Not lost, but gone before.
God knows how much I miss you
He counts the tears I shed
And whispers that she only sleeps
Your loved one is not dead.
Sadly missed and remembered
And prayed for each night
And when I die come home with you
Your smile will guide the way.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her husband Jared.

Maintain Street Widths Motion Of Public Works to Council

TRENTON. (Special.) — The Public Works department brought in a report to council with a recommendation that street widths be maintained. This proposal is a move for council to control residents building curbs and walls in front of their properties.

Time and again Senator W. A. Fraser has charged that some residents have erected curbs and walls illegally on street allowances. He has called for council to take action in the matter.

In his latest letter to council the Senator brought attention to a 12-inch curb being erected on the corner of Henry street and Lorne avenue. He claimed this curb was encroaching on town property. He reminded council that narrowing down streets would not solve the town's parking problem.

Council instructed the town solicitor to prepare papers pertaining to annexation of Murray township property south of highway No. 2 west to the W. Farley road and south to the bay shore. There was a feeling that annexation of the whole piece would be advantageous to the town since the area provides suitable factory sites as well as sub-division property.

Council set a schedule of fees for plumbing inspection and appointed H. S. Pane as inspector.

Board of directors of the Trenton Memorial Hospital will be advised that an annual grant of $5,000 has been included in the budget.

Council decided to send Mayor Ross Burt and clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry to the Regional Planning and Development meeting at Campbellford to ask the authority to join the movement if they thought the town would benefit by a membership.

A car which was not identified set off a chain re-action here yesterday that caused two other cars to crash. The car police are seeking started up quickly from a parking spot and pulled in front of a car driven by Ernest T. Brown, Trenton, causing it to stop abruptly. A car operated by Joseph L. Wannamaker, Trenton following was unable to stop and hit Brown's car from behind, resulting in $310 damage to Brown's car and $100 damage to the front of his car.

Walter Coe of Trenton, charged with indecent assault faced trial here before Magistrate T. Y. Wills and was committed for sentence to Tuesday, May 10. His bail of $3,000 was renewed.

Child Struck By Truck In Critical Condition

Six-year-old Alice Bell, 83 Campbellton, Road, is in critical condition in Belleville hospital following being struck by a truck early Wednesday evening as she was crossing East College street.

The little girl was taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance where it was revealed she had a fractured skull and lacerated right foot.

Police said that Harold Lamay, 40, of R.R. 3 Belleville, was travelling bound on College street driving a stake truck, when the little girl ran out from the south curb in front of the truck.

Lamay has been charged with operating a motor vehicle without adequate brakes.

To Form Network Called 'C-WAY-4'

A network of four independent radio stations in the St. Lawrence seaway valley are banding together, under the title of the "C-WAY-4" to provide more efficient coverage and service in the seaway strip between Toronto and Montreal.

Stations taking part are CJBC Belleville, CKLC Kingston, CFJR Brockville, and CKSF Cornwall.

The four stations serve an area containing 100,000 radio homes in four major population centres along the waterway between Toronto and Montreal.

Purpose of the alliance is to interchange community and regional news and to study the possibility of producing other types of centrally packaged programs. The stations are also searching for ways and means to provide a group merchandising service to advertisers.

Clarke James Of City Named VON Director

OTTAWA (CP)—The demand for nursing care in the home is increasing, Miss Christine Livingston, director-in-chief of the Victorian Order of Nurses, said today.

"Our population is aging," she told the annual meeting of the VON. Successful attacks on infectious diseases and improved maternal and infant care had increased life expectancy from 49 years in 1900 to 69 in 1950.

"More people are living into the middle and later years of life. As a result, the chronic diseases . . . are increased strikingly."

Certain conditions could be treated more adequately in the home than in the hospital, she said.

Her remarks were contained in a text of her speech issued in advance of delivery.

E. P. Taylor of Toronto was re-elected president of the order.

GIVES GRANT

The Ontario government has granted the provincial branch of the order $80,000 to help pay for the services to be given by the nurses to the homes of pensioners, widows and the blind in the province.

Dr. J. C. Preston of Brantford, Ontario VON president, reported to the meeting that Premier Leslie Frost Wednesday night that the $80,000 was recently handed to him by Welfare Minister Goodfellow. It came out of the provincial government's budget for the current year.

Mr. Preston, who is general manager of the Brantford Expositor, said Mr. Goodfellow told of the high regard the Ontario government has for the VON's work and there was hope the VON's homenursing work would help reduce hospital requirements for patients.

Mr. Preston forecast that before many years, nursing groups and provincial governments will be working closely in the "home-nursing plan to ease the tremendous demand for hospital beds. He said the Ontario government was to be commended for its leadership in caring for Ontario residents.

Officers for the ensuing year included: president, Mr. J. Preston; directors, Mrs. W. A. Tinsley, Samia; H. R. Waldon, Welland; C. E. James, Belleville; V. A. Ellis, Collingwood; T. E. McKay, Peterborough; G. Cardinal, North Bay; J. Purdie, Timmins; B. Soutar, Sudbury.

Street Patching Program Started

A street patching program that is expected will continue throughout most of the summer got under way on Front street Wednesday with employees of the city public works department laying hot-mix asphalt in the many depressions which had developed in the pavement.

City engineer Charles Molt noted today that it was expected the work on Front street would be fairly well completed by the end of the week.

When patching of Front street is completed public works employees will swing onto macadam streets in order that patching on these streets may be completed in ample time for street oiling to get underway as soon as possible. Streets to be oiled this year are now being designated and the works committee wishes to have the oiling done by the first of July.

After the macadam streets are patched workmen will then swing back onto paved arteries. Hot-mix asphalt is used on pavements and cold patch on macadam roadways. Both materials are mixed in the city-owned mixer.

Patching of Front street is being done first to allow application of zone paint, as early as possible.

LOVE BEATS UPBRINGING

One man's hobby is, quite definitely, his friends' poison. Nothing can be so boring as the man who insists on telling you—and, alright in telling about their hobby. That is half the fun of it. Fortunately most hobbies have large followings. Some, however, have a restricted clientele. One of these is pigeon-racing.

For this reason the Colchester, England, pigeon fanciers will have scant sympathy in their present plight.

Most of us will find it amusing, rather than infuriating, that a cantefully trained racing pigeon should prefer loving to homing. We may have marvelled at the manner in which "homers" fly hundreds of miles back to their pigeon cotes, but our sympathy is more likely to be aroused by the bird that will forget his aristocratic-breeding and build himself a little love nest of his own with a pretty pigeon of plebian ancestry.

That is what is happening in Colchester. When Hitler loosed his Luftwaffe against London he sent Trafalgar Square's pigeons hunting new roosts. They found them in a castle near Colchester. Now their descendants, obviously using some city-slicker tricks taught them by their ancestors, are inducing Colchester's valuable "homers" away from home. Off to the castle, instead of to their home cote, fly the high-born homers. Once trapped into egg-watching chores, they settle down to a life of idleness, instead of industriously for the next race. This is a shocking state of affairs from the standpoint of the owners of racing pigeons and, indeed, of all those who think that life is real. It is certainly not, from the bird's appeal for many of us at this time of the year. The trouble is that man, unlike the pigeon, seldom finds a pretty stranger who has a castle in which to provide him. Most of us find something which many a man, struggling with lawns and screens for the windows, has long suspected.' Spring is strictly for the birds!

THE VACCINE SCARE

Seventy-two city clinics and health centres in Montreal were prepared to give children free Salk vaccine injections on Monday, but only 5,000 children received this protection to 5,000 children. Only 500 appeared.

It is not reasonable to suppose that Montreal parents are so uninterested in the health of their children that they would not take this without a reason. Nor is the reason difficult to discover. Almost certainly the outbreak of polio cases among a few children who have received the Salk vaccine shots in the United States was a factor in the Montreal situation.

It is to be hoped that health authorities are able to speedily overcome such misgivings as exist. It is possible that these U.S. polio cases were caused by a faulty batch of vaccine. But if this proves to be the case, the vaccine involved was all the products of one establishment, one of the largest laboratories, including the one which is producing the vaccine for Canadian inoculations, is not suspect. Moreover, only one batch of several produced by this one laboratory is under suspicion. In one sense it is fortunate that these cases occurred so early in the inoculation campaign, leading to a prompt check on the vaccine.

Parents should also remember that it is not at all certain that the vaccine shots had anything to do with these polio cases. The children involved may have contracted polio before they received their shots. The vaccine can do nothing to protect a child after polio has been contracted. Nor, for that matter, is it 100 per cent effective in preventing contraction of polio infection.

These polio cases may have one beneficial effect. If they have resulted in parents hesitating to permit their children to receive inoculations under rigid supervision by health authorities, they will result in even greater hesitancy in seeking inoculations with "bootleg" vaccine. Some instances have already been reported of unscrupulous individuals seeking high fees for providing inoculations for children who would not normally be entitled to receive "shots" while the supply of the vaccine is limited. Some of the vaccine to be used in these "bootleg" treatments is probably genuine, the product of reputable laboratories. But is there any guarantee that all the substance called "Salk vaccine" and used by these operators is actually vaccine and capable of providing any protection? What parent dare take the risk of submitting his child to such treatment?

LISTENING TO THE STARS

Over in England they have cracked another sound barrier.

Scientists are listening to the music of the stars.

At the Jodrell Bank experimental station near Manchester a giant radio-telescope recently recorded the noise produced by the collision of two nebulae some hundred million light-years from Earth.

"UNESCO Features" which reports this event does not explain in detail exactly how the British device works. If it depended on ordinary sound waves, that noise would have started rambling through space before there was any Earth. Radio waves would make the trip more speedily, travelling—it is supposed—at light.

This groping back into the past, however, is nothing new. Astronomers with their "standard" telescopes have been doing it for years. What makes the radio-telescope so interesting is that it can explore a far larger region of outer space than can the light-gathering telescope. The gigantic new Palomar telescope in the United States was barely able to provide a glimpse of the collision of the nebulae which the Jodrell Bank radio-telescope recorded.

Other radio telescopes are planned or are under construction in Australia, the Netherlands and the United States.

The turnout of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry last night was the largest since the spring drilling commenced; nearly 200 men were on parade. Lieut.-Col. E. A. Gray was in command. The drill was chiefly in preparation for the turnout tomorrow to assist in the commemoration of the silver jubilee of Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary.

How Belleville will celebrate on Monday, May 6th, the feast of assembly: the campus of the Collegiate and Vocational Institute, school children on parade in units with teachers; the Argyll Light Infantry will parade in full dress and will fire a feu de joie; water, and of all wars will attend wearing decorations and medals; the Belleville concert parade; Major the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, rector of St. Thomas' Church, and chaplain of the Argyll Light Infantry, will recite the prayer of thanksgiving.

In the evening of the Jubilee the sergeants of the Argyll Regiment will entertain exservant officers and ex-sergeants at their commodious rooms in the armouries.

Back to Earth With a Thud!

(Buffalo Evening News)

There was some glum news for space travel enthusiasts the other day from the astronomer royal of Great Britain, Sir Harold Spencer Jones, who is also director of the Greenwich Observatory, said there will be no interplanetary travel "in this century or in the next one nor in the one after that."

We doubt that this forecast will prove more than a temporary deterrent to the hopes and ambitions of the dedicated space addict. But it does prove that keeping tabs on the trends and potentials in interplanetary travel is, for most of us, a frustrating business at best. At one moment, spirits rise as you get the impression from Except A that space travel is almost within grasp. Then comes Expert B and the dream fizzles. As we said, it's a frustrating business. Don't try it. We recommend gardening, or keeping up with baseball. It's surer and more relaxing.

SHARING

If wealth were all men had to share,
This life would dreary be.
Since money makes the millionaire,
But few could live as he.
But few could give as he.
But few could give what he bestows
To comfort or assist,
Yet there is much the poor man knows
That would be greatly missed.

A barefoot boy can comrade be
With all who fish the streams,
And with them share his company
And also share his dreams.
A little garden, blossom gay,
For which some one has cared,
With all who choose to pass that way
Will happily be shared.

We share our joys with those we love.
We share the books we read.
We share our faith in God above.
We share another's need.
With all we know we share our joy,
Our faith and evening prayer.
And well it is that wealth is not
The only thing to share.

Prefers Gertie To Dial Phone

(By Eva Kuhn, in Wisconsin Agriculturist and Farmer)

You can say what you please in favor of modernizing farm life, but I say they've gone a step too far when they take away our telephone operators and install that newfangled dial system.

As far as I'm concerned, when they replace Gertie, our operator, with a contraption that looks like a clock and can't speak a word, they've removed a companionship, not a convenience.

The very first day I moved on this farm I learned the real value of a telephone operator. I called a friend of mine in the city. She was a business call and required that she call me back in an hour.

"I'll call you back," she said to me, "what is your number? My phone has a dial system."

I told her, spelled it for me. Beside didn't know if it had two i's or one.

Last year, I was visiting my folks in Arkansas. It was my first visit home in many years and he was here at home. I felt bad about being away from home on Christmas Day, but I knew that he was alone and lonesome.

I got Gertie on the switchboard to Gertie's switchboard, I heard her say, "He's over to Johnsons having Christmas dinner." I told Gertie knew I could hear her ring Johnsons and when Clarence was having a good time on his birthday.

I answered the call and went on about my business with a light heart, knowing that a dial phone that can give you that service.

I can ring Gertie and hear my favorite recipe that's going around in our community, or get the correct time of day, or find out if the school bus is running, or ask her to peep out the window to see if the library is open.

She's there to locate the doctor when I am in a hurry. And if I'm alone late at night I always have Gertie to call back on in case of an emergency.

So, I felt pretty bad when I read in the paper that we're getting new dial phones. It's going to take me a good long while to get used to doing without Gertie.

U.S. Near Goal Of Socialists

(Montreal Gazette)

The United States, with little more than six per cent of the world's population and less than seven per cent of its land area, now produces and consumes well over one third of the world's goods and services, and turns out nearly one half of the world's factory-produced goods.

This is one of the astonishing facts about the growth of the United States in the recent survey "America's Needs and Resources," by J. Frederick Dewhurst, issued by the Twentieth Century Fund of New York.

It is also pointed out that American productivity, meaning the average output per man hour, is increasing so rapidly that, if present rates continue, the 1960 century as much will be produced in one 7-hour day as is now being produced in a 40-hour week. During the past century the rate of output has risen so fast that the average American worker today produces nearly six times as much in an hour of work as his great-grandfather did in 1850.

What has created this record of production? It is due most of all, this survey believes, to the advance in the technique of production and the technological progress in devising better techniques, more specialized and more and better machinery. The United States has had the spirit of economy that is ready and willing to "bury its machines alive," and not to wait for them to wear out.

There have been other factors. The relative "classlessness" and fluidity of American society, the absence of class barriers and hostility towards trade as an occupation, together with abundant opportunities for profitable investment, are two—these have all contributed to the phenomenal growth of the American economic system.

There have been many critics of the United States, but it is interesting to consider what conditions would most favorable to such production.

As the survey points out: "Worth mentioning is the fact that this monstrous development has been taking place not in Communist Russia but in capitalist America. Of all the great industrial nations, the one that clings most tenaciously to private capitalism has come to be the socialist goal of many dividing abundance for all in a classless society."

From which the conclusion may be drawn that socialist practice does not necessarily lead to the best use of existing productive power.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the five o'clock rush, the busquarter of a page and [illegible]. We jammed aboard the bus, and the last to get on was packed so tight all our hips were touching. If we had been a mailer or movie starlet or feminine busload, it would have been our shoulders that were touching.

At last the bus doors folded shut and the bus moved through traffic. We proceeded one block. One short block to the next corner.

A firmly built and businesslike lady of the elder office staff type reached up for a strap and got a mass of us and pulled the cord. Then, grimly, she released the strap and tractored-rh e r way from amongst us and dismounted from the bus. Our fellow passengers did not see if she were lame or had a broken leg or were about to be trapped. She strode off as vigorously as she had butted her way through us.

Rather than walk one block and had chosen to ride.

Physical comfort is a fairly new thing in human life. But it has become so overwhelmingly in demand in all our natures that it might well have moved up into first place. Less than two generations back, physical comfort, ease and convenience were things like the scale of oil enjoy was not known even by the wealthiest. To keep warm in winter was a problem solved only by the wealthy and often they got overheated in their buffalo robes, hot air furnaces and stove with dozen. Of average among us we do a lot of stoking, stove lighting, ash sifting. We had to walk long distances in the cold and rain to and from work. There were no bubble baths, no hot water taps, no radios, no stoves, turn on radios. There was a lot of work to filling a lamp, trimming the wicks and cleaning the lamp. This isn't prehistoric times I'm talking about. This was within living memory. It was work to keep warm, to get meals, to go to work, to find entertainment, to travel, to wash, to play the piano.

It is easy to do is look at Grandma's furniture to see how uncomfortable it was, stiff chairs, uncomfortable upholstery, slat spring beds.

The Age of Comfort dawned within the past fifty years. It dawned for us all, rich and poor. It somehow didn't seem likely that anything we would all plump for, from now on, other than security, rather than freedom.

Personal Health Service

By DR. WM. BRADY

And How's Your Rheumatiz?

It happened long, long ago, but I still feel red in the face when I think of it. I had just hung my shingle on the doorway next to my office over Tower's clothing store on the four corners in Penn Yan—last time I saw Penn Yan, the store was run by a handsome fellow named Boyd who was Walter Tower's errand boy in the golden days when Topsy was a colt.

Some nice people were kind enough to invite the new doctor to their home for a card party—euchre, what else? Everybody was there and the parlor and the crowded room was so quiet that I was under no strain at all. Suddenly a ponderous gentleman, leaning back in his chair to study his hand leaned a bit too far and fell on the floor. Everybody else gasped, but the new doctor — oh, well, I suffered. The new doctor referred nothing more than loss of dignity, but few if any of the guests at the euchre party engaged my professional service.

I don't suffer as much as I get many patient chuckles from the ponderous "literature" ground around these days on the subject of "arthritis," chronic joint trouble, that is. The credulity, yes, the gullibility of the people who are specialist customers with such trouble, is marvellous, and never ever the customers begin to lose interest a brand new miracle medicine arrives. The new medicine, according to Uncle Pete or Aunt Polly, promises to conquer the rheumatism in the joints, the stiffness, etc.

Now you poor souls know I'm no authority on joint troubles or any other ailment. But since I took to quacking in the papers I have had more time to study what I call chronic rheumatism more time than most doctors have. And the conclusion I have drawn from this study, which may or may not interest you, is that in most cases chronic joint disability (trouble of over a year's duration) is not inflammation at all, nor arthritis, but physical degeneration.

If this offends you, I'm sorry—not that I said it, but that anybody who can read can be so—

Never mind, Consult Webster for the medical meaning of degeneration.

I am sure any nutrition authority or any pathologist will tell you that malnutrition (nutritional deficiency) is the principal cause of physical degeneration, nutritional deficiency through periods of months or years.

A pathologist will tell you that there is present little inflammation involved in most cases of chronic joint disease. So it seems to me that the fast - buck operators who exploit popular credulity with ever changing wonder drugs and—funny treatments for "arthritis" are just exploiting popular credulity.

How many friends or acquaintances of yours have been cured of their "arthritis"?

Let there be no misunderstanding about this. I know of no cure for chronic rheumatic. But from years of respectful study and, then, testimonials—received from readers I believe the suggestions I offer will help in many cases and do much good in many cases.

Letter to the Editor

Stresses Importance Of Trade Link With U.S.

Editor,
Intelligencer.

I enjoyed your editorial treatment of the question: "Canada an Empire or U.S.?" and thoroughly concur in at least two of the answers beamed at one of Montreal's most influential French language newspapers ("Le Devoir"). The Belleville English-speaking Canada has not 'detached' herself from Great Britain, except in the sense that a child at birth is 'detached' from its mother. Yet another, if one may add, is an annex of the United States, it is only in the same sense that a wife is an annex of her husband, or vice versa."

These sentiments suit this reader.

Moreover, it seems to me that our interdependence, north and south of the line, has not been given its proper weight in the U.S.—Canadian scene, as drawn by the editorial commentary. If I remember accurately, not alone are we Uncle Sam's top customer—the trading equivalent of the continent of Europe, in terms of sales to and purchases from the U.S.—but our good neighbor is our top supplier.

The fact that both of these great countries are surging ahead of other respective populations—i.e., 3,500,000, and 425,000 per year, actively accounting for assurance that these markets, links will strengthen as the years pass.

I am not sure whether that it is up to the Canadian people to make the point, as suggested in your editorial: "Let our financiers and industrialists devote their efforts to build our own economy." No whit less, if I may say so, should we, forever cherish the privilege of increasing our inbound commerce from our British neighbor" goods, if only to ensure that good old 'J.B.' will want to buy appreciable quantities of our massive agricultural surpluses.

Mercifully, there is a beautiful blend of opportunity and danger in Jack Canuck's strategic position midway between these two giants of the modern world. In the end, it is the right thought—"How happy could he be with either—were t'other dear charmer away!"

We must make the best of the world as it is, rather than as it might have been.

"Germania."

RELIGION AND THE STATE

The form of government which we designate as democracy had its origin in the democratic policy of political institutions are the result of the application of certain fundamental religious principles in the field of politics. The doctrine of "divine right" which had cracked down hard on the divine right of kings and finally forced it into the discard. The doctrine of the spiritual freedom of man and his dignity before God lies at the basis of the modern concept of citizen rights. The idea that it was given to people to have a constitutional monarchy, for King David made a league with his people in Hebron before he was crowned (II Sam. 5:3). The church guided the state through the chaotic period of "the Middle Ages. In modern times the influence of religious on the political institutions has been profound and decisive. Free government can really be said to be the child of true religion. The political institutions are the result of our spiritual freedom.

As religion impress upon our minds, therefore, the very solemn fact that we cannot serve God and mammon without religion. Do away with religion tomorrow and the Golden Calf would arise and exterminate of free governments everywhere. Once more freedom is bought by freedom into being, religion must remain to give political freedom its purpose and goal.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BLIND TO FAULT

We would be much happier human beings, and we are blessed with many more friends than we have. If we were not so critical of those we do have. Most of us have the faults constantly in mind that are getting bigger when we turn the light of criticism on them.

Thomas Grey, the poet, told a friend of his to "remember Thyself" and be blind to all his faults. So often it is the case that in putting emphasis on the faults of another, we actually stumble over that one's good points! We can well believe that every human being has more good qualities than bad ones. By being blind to faults, we see the best in another.

It is interesting to read all the nice things said about a public man, at his death, who stood up to his critics and abuse in his public life. The latter are hushed then, and well may they be. The wisest procedure is to pass judgment upon no one. Be blind to faults.

It is a fine exercise to outline a plan for our own self-improvement. Sincerely given suggestions and encouragement are always something welcomed. But nearly always a person finds his greatest faults in a mirror of his faults. They are his and he is blind to them because of his ultimate personal property!

Just think what it means to have the love of God in spite of the fact that you are not drawn or attracted. There must be something wonderful about the love of God that overlooks all our faults.

We live in a very imperfect world. It would be strange if we didn't inherit, and adopt to our use, many of the faults of mankind. The only utopia to which we can look forward is that of a vastly better world...free of all wars, and with the glory of the individual at its highest attainment.

Jim Green Wins Quinte Secondary Harrier Race

The first annual boys' harrier race of Quinte Secondary School was held Wednesday afternoon with 122 of the school's 136 male students entered.

Jim Green, a Grade 10 student, romped over the three miles course in 17.01.9 to lead the 118 finishers.

Other sparkling performances were turned in by Bill Dickey who finished second in 17.12.8; Ross Walmsley, Eric Beeby and Bob Ewing.

Doug Heath, first Grade 9 finisher, held eighth position. Richard Clarke, another Grade 9er finished ninth.

The race was organized by Quinte Secondary School's boys' athletic director, Jack Sisson. Points were awarded each contest with entries being weighted to give each classroom an equal chance of winning the team trophy. To collect points for his class a runner had to finish the race in 30 minutes. Extra points were added to the team score according to the position in which the runner finished.

The course started and ended at the school. Runners went out College St. to Sidney, along Sidney to Auburn, then south to Lemoine, down Lemoine to Tracey, along Tracey to Sidney and down Sidney to College and back to the school.

Staff members acting as scrutineers at intersectional check points were: Robert Wright, William Cochrane, Rupert Ronald, Kendall Tancock and John Fry.

The race, under way at 3.35 p.m., was slowed somewhat by street filling of part of the course earlier in the afternoon.

A unique trophy bearing the inscription, "He Who Follows Is Always Last" will be awarded the winning class.

Grade G9B took team honors, followed by G11C and G10C.

The first five finishers in each form were: Grade 9: Keith, Clarke, Boomer, Strome and Dell; Grade 10: Green, Dickey, Stoliker, Wilson and Lessels; Grade 11, Walmsley, Beeby, Ewing, Elliott and Strome.

GERMAN GENERAL

"This should help to make possible the identification of similar movements in the future, from the first moment of their appearance," the resolution under which this UN project was carried out. "The Third Reich" is published in London by Wiedenfeld and Nicolson and sells in Canada for $10.

A passage quotes Blaskowitz on the 1940, when commander-in-chief of staff of the Wehrmacht:

"The greatest possible damage is done to the German people in the present situation, considering the unrestrained brutality and moral depravation that will rapidly spread like an epidemic through the finest of Germany's manpower.

"If the senior officials of the police and the SS demand violence and brutality and praise them publicly, then convicts will soon be ruling us.

"It is astonishing the rapidity with which people of the same calibre, people of low character, meet their like in order, as in Poland, to satisfy their bestial, pathological instincts.

"It is almost impossible to keep these men much longer in check not without justice they feel they are authorized and encouraged to commit the most arrant acts of cruelty."

The Allies, of course, did not know of this report.

Blaskowitz continued through five years of hell on the Russian front and in northwest Europe "for the glory of the Fatherland and the master race."

One had no sympathy for him that 10 years ago in Wageningen.

One might have spared a little had one known.

CANADIAN TROOPS

As a test official started the down count, a tangible feeling of tension swept over the proving ground. The start of the count was the signal for Lt.-Col. Robert Klasha of Ottawa to order the Canadian detachment to don high-density goggles, without which it would be impossible to view the dazzling fireball of the man-made sun.

The Canadians crouched in their trench, bodies tight with tension and pressed hard against the forward wall, bracing to meet the coming blast.

In a crisp voice the final 10 seconds before the blast were ticked off, seeming to pick up frightening speed as the clock ran from "three" to "two—one—zero."

It was evident from the awe-struck faces of the observers that their long, sometimes impatient wait had been worthwhile.

There was a flash of light that made the eyes of observers sting, then a burst of color from the churning fireball that almost defied description. The predominant color was a fiery orange red interwoven with all the hues of the rainbow.

As the cloud rose with surprising speed, it was enclosed by a halo of delicate mauve.

Then came a breath of warm air and a thundering crash as the shock wave reached observers eight miles away on News Nob. The thunder of the flash reverberated from the surrounding mountains in a diminishing roll.

The cloud, blown by winds sheering sharply with altitude, drifted slowly southeast to the rising sun and showed two distinct mushroom shapes, one at a height of about 15,000 feet, the other angled to the east and stretching upwards to about 40,000.

The test area where the Canadians rode out the nuclear fury was covered in a wide-spreading cloud of smoke and dust that completely hid their trench position and test structures.

As soon as the swirling dust cloud had lightened around the Canadian trench position, the vehicles in the rear area under Maj. E. R. MacDonald of Sydney Mines, N. S., moved forward, picked up the intrepid forward detachment and pulled back to a radioactive-free area some miles from ground zero.

There they set up their decontamination and control centre and approximately two hours after shot time moved into the contaminated zone to begin a fall-scale monitoring exercise designed to plot the location and density of fall-out in the area.

DREW ASSAILS

He said that more than two-thirds of the green book proposals on health and welfare have since been implemented despite the lack of agreement in 1945-46.

Detailing some of the developments since then, he said tax rental payments to provinces this year total $320,350,000 against $206,800,000 offered in 1945.

Help for hospital construction, offered in 1945 on the basis of low-interest loans, was being given in outright grants which had helped provide 56,000 hospital beds—plus the federal health program began in 1948.

GRANTS AVAILABLE

Total health grants—offered at $14,200,000 a year in 1945—now were available to the extent of $48,300,000, including grants for cancer control, radiological services, medical rehabilitation and child and maternal health which had not been included in the green book offer.

The government also had gone ahead with universal old age pensions at 70, now costing $367,000,000 a year. The 1945 offers of old age assistance to those 65-69, blindness and disability pensions had been achieved jointly with the provinces on better terms.

Mr. Martin agreed, however, that the green book offer on health insurance has not been implemented.

Mr. Drew said the government is trying to confuse Canadians as to whether it still supports the 1945 proposals.

He said a statement Friday by Prime Minister St. Laurent was one of the most confusing ever made by a Canadian prime minister.

At one point, he said, Mr. St. Laurent said the government did not consider itself bound by the 1945 proposals. At another, he had said the government could accept the proposals if all provincial governments showed a disposition to accept them.

"Which of those statements are we to accept?" Mr. Drew asked.

At another point, he charged: "Right down the line there has been an attempt to confuse the record in regard to the whole question of Dominion-provincial relations and the constitution. . . ."

Through Wednesday's debate ran the dispute over who was responsible for the breakdown of the 1945 conference. Mr. Garson said he sat in the conference and heard Mr. Drew reject the proposals. Mr. Drew termed this statement "A most remarkable example of superlative inexactitude."

KALNAY—UPPER

On Saturday, April 23, at ten o'clock at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, guests from many cities attended the marriage of Miss Mary Diane Upper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Upper of Belleville, to Mr. Norman Eugene Kalnay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kalnay of Belleville. The Rev. Peter Murphy performed the ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The church and vestry were beautified with baskets and standards of all white imported South Carolina gladioli.

Miss Dorothy Grant at the organ accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, who sang "Ave Maria", and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride wore an exquisite white gown of pure silk over taffeta. The long waisted, tight-fitting bodice had a sculptured neckline outlined in scallops of iridescent pearls and rhinestones. The bouffant skirt over hoops swept into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle illusion fell from a corolla of seed pearls and rhinestones and her flowers were a cascade of feathered white carnations.

Mr. Upper gave his daughter in marriage.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Melville J. Openshaw of Toronto, matron of honor, in a delphinium blue gown of crystal-lette over satin and taffeta with slim softly-draped bodice and a voluminous wall-length skirt distended by a crinoline. A brief bolero jacket was fastened with butterfly bow and featured bracelet tucking on the three-quarter length sleeves.

Mrs. Ralph Jago of Prescott, the bridesmaid, wore a gown in golden crystallette, similar in style to the matron of honor. Both wore matching headdresses of gilded leaves and their flowers were cascades of Dutch blue iris and golden daffodils.

Dr. Boyd Upper of Belleville, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. John Connell of Severn River, and Mr. Peter Upper, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Temple, Foster avenue. The bride's mother wearing a navy crepe sheath dress with shoulder cape of blonde sheared muskrat, palette flowered hat in shell pink and corsage of Sweetheart roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore an Acadian blue printed silk frock with short jacket, a white-flowered hat, and a gardenia corsage.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with a white flowered cloth, centred by a three-tier wedding cake decorated in white and silver; topped with a vase of white sweetpeas and clouded at the base with swirls of delicate blue tulle. Silver candelabra with tall white tapers, the bouquets of the attendants, and vases of cut flowers added a further lovely accent.

For travelling to the United States, the bride chose a navy glow blue silk taffeta frock, featuring the new long waisted effect with accordion pleated skirt from knee to hemline. A soft wool topcoat in same shade and bluegrass white straw cocolle hat, white accessories and a white orchid corsage completed the ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Kalnay will reside on the Trent Road, Belleville.

Guests were present from Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Oshawa, Peterborough, Prescott, Severn River and Chicago, Ill.

The homecooking table with its garlands of yellow, was filled with all sorts of pies, cakes, buns, tea biscuits, cream puffs, and a feast of other viands, including relishes, pickles and jellies . . . A perfect display of the cook's art from which one had hard to choose. Mrs. W. McGee, Mrs. E. Taylor, were the conveners, assisted by Mrs. S. Walker and Mrs. J. Bly.

On the fancy work table was everything one could wish, either for the home, or the children in the home, as well as for the adult members, and for the little toy dolls so dear to the heart of every little girl. There were dolls' crocheted sets in pink and white; others in yellow red and white; fancy pot holders; tea cosies; a little pink, dotted, Swiss dress and matching panties; luncheon sets, place mats, and a lovely crocheted spun in white with border of alternating red and white; pink, frilly doily; and others, fine as spider web, to white in star design with linen centre; and handkerchiefs with crocheted edges; beautifully embroidered pillow slips with lace edges, and many others. Mrs. N. Barrage, convener, Mrs. F. Dowsett, Mrs. W. Prentiss, Mrs. S. Lamarche, Mrs. T. Hookings, Mrs. D. Burns, Miss Newell, and Miss R. Dixon, assisted at sales ladies.

BABY BOOTH

The baby booth, which was in charge of Miss N. Allison and the student nurses, was well supplied with baby bootees; little sacques, stuffed toys, Peter Rabbit and a pussy cat, baby shampoo to keep the silken hair of each king of the home soft and sweet; baby powder, samples of other baby requirements sent by local firms; and cans of golden corn syrup to energy producer.

The candy booth lured many with the sweet tooth with its lollies filled with fudges, creams, chocolates and other tempting delicacies. These were convened by Mrs. J. Colden; Mrs. H. Hutt, Miss L. McGrier, and Miss M. Kilpatrick.

NURSERY PROVIDED

A nursery was also provided for the little toddlers who enjoyed themselves while the mothers were visiting the different booths at the bazaar and renewing old acquaintances in the tea room. This was in charge of Miss E. Newman, assisted by the student nurses.

A charmingly tea, and most attractive bazaar, worthy of much commendation to all who participated in its success.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

FEW MISTAKES ARE IRREPARABLE

One of the most optimistic things about life is that very few mistakes are irreparable, and that the remedying of 1 to 4 mistakes can make almost always lies right within our own hands. If a mistake does lead to permanent disaster, it is usually for one or the other of two reasons: either the person who has made it doesn't recognize that he has erred and so continues in the wrong direction, or he refuses to admit he has been wrong and mend his ways.

Because they do realize their mistake, and sincerely want to get on the right track so that they will never be in danger of repeating it, I believe that one young engaged couple who write me are not in nearly as serious trouble as they think they are right now.

It is the girl who writes the letter, after she and the boy talked the whole thing over and made the decision to ask for advice. She is 18, the boy 19, and their plan has been to wait to be married until she has reached 20, and he 21.

"We have been friends for many years," she writes; "ever since we were in grade school. And we have known for at least three years that we wanted to get married some day. So you can see that our feeling for each other is real, and not just puppy love, which we are sure would never have lasted all this time.

"We love each other and understand each other, and we have talked over all the important things of life with absolute frankness, so we know we are in agreement on everything that really counts.

"Everything was going fine until a certain night when we were saying goodnight to each other. Then we sort of lost control and went further than we ever meant to.

"We both were very, very sorry that this happened, and we regret it very much and want to make sure it will never happen again. We agreed that we would do our best to forget, and never speak of it again, but the problem is that something seems to have come between us as a result, so that there is a coldness between us. We can't understand this, and it worries us very much because we are sure sure that we love each other just as much as before, so we decided to write and ask you to help us get straightened out."

Now for the comfort and reassurance of this fine young couple, let me tell them that that I am quite sure they are not really feeling "cold" toward each other but simply self-conscious. This is entirely natural, under the circumstances, and nothing to worry about. For if they are as devoted to each other as they believe—and the history of their friendship would indicate that they are—this self-consciousness will eventually pass. Again, this "coldness" is probably caused by a fear that their slip may happen again, in spite of themselves, so that they are afraid to show any affection at all toward each other.

If they look at the situation clearly and realistically, recognizing their present uncomfortable feelings as just this compound of self-consciousness and insecurity, that will be the first step toward regaining their old happy companionship.

What they will have to do, however, if they are to regain it entirely, it to realize that, if they are not to marry for two years, they have a long time ahead of them in which they will have to be very wise and self-controlled and mature if they are not to slip again. The girl says that she and her boy friend have "talked over all the important things of life with absolute frankness." Perhaps they have talked with altogether too much frankness on two intimate subjects so that, all unconsciously, they worked themselves up emotionally to a point where they were carried beyond their depth, so to speak. In future, they should avoid any talk on matters that might have this effect.

Another thing they should avoid is spending too much time alone. To take part with their friends in all the normal activities that interest young people will be one of their strongest safeguards against temptation.

If these two young people will make up their minds to adopt these suggestions, they will, I am sure, come happily through their present period of distress and confusion.

You Wanted To Make A Batch Of Cookies

By Mary Moore

In a letter from June she asks for a "recipe for fruit squares with ginger and other fruits within but a thick cake on the bottom."

When I do soften up and give you a columnworth of cookies I have to make hundreds of copies of it to send to those who write for "repeats", & as it is the prime project and object is to give you recipes and ideas for sound nutrition but cookies like these are good nutrition if you do not over-do your sugar-cooking in other items. So here goes—a cookie column.

FRUITED SQUARES

(A pan cookie—for June.)

Two eggs, 1-3 cup fruit or fine granulated sugar, 2-3 cup stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-3 cup each chopped dates, candied ginger and raisins, 3-4 cup walnuts chopped. Beat eggs until foamy and add sugar and beat. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and stir in. Add vanilla, then the fruits and nuts and beat well. Spread in buttered 8x8 inch pan. Bake 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. While still warm cut into bars or squares and roll in icing sugar.

ALMOND MERINGUE SQUARES

These are elegant and a great favorite.

One cup chopped dates, (or 1-2 cup each chopped dates and chopped, drained, canned apricots), 1-3 cup water. Cook these together until thickened, gently, then cool. Stir tablespoon butter (or half and half shortening and butter), 1-2 cup sugar, 3 egg yolks, 1 1-2 cups sifted but unsifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites. Cream the butter well and add the sugar and yolks (and) 1 teaspoon vanilla if desired). Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt and add then to the fetiver whites, adding to them gradually 1-3 cup brown sugar as you beat. Spread the date paste evenly over the dough, then spread the meringue evenly over them. Sprinkle over top evenly 1-3 cup chopped blanched or unblanched almonds (or 4 oz. coccanut). Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes. (You'll love me for that one.)

SOUR CREAM COOKIES

(Drop.)

Two and one-quarter cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon each salt, nutmeg, allspice, 1-2 cup butter or other shortening, 3-4 cup, firmly packed, light brown sugar, 1 unbeaten egg, 1-3 cup each coarsely broken walnuts, raisins, heavy sour cream (commercial is best). Sift flour and measure, then sift it with the dry ingredients but not the sugar, 3 times. Cream the butter very well, then cream the sugar into it gradually, then the egg, nuts and raisins. Add the flour mixture alternately with the sour cream. Drop from teaspoon onto ungreased baking sheet and bake in hot oven at 425 deg. Fahr. for 5 or 10 minutes. Watch these closely and be sure not one of them burns. Amount makes about 3 1-2 dozen. These keep well in a covered tin or crock—if nobody's around.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

FASHIONS IN EYEGLASSES

Squint lines are often the battle scars of vanity. The line comes when vision weakens and a woman should wear glasses. But she won't. She imagines that "specs" will detract from her looks or that they will make her appear older. So she stumbles and fumbles, and can't even read the menu at a restaurant. All of which is pretty silly. Impaired vision is often responsible for serious accidents. Furthermore, with impaired vision, the eyes rebel against a strong light, so the lids partially close, in the course of time, the same appears. Once age is established, it is not easy to erase wrinkles.

Eye glasses now come in beautiful, attractive frames so there is no reason why women should reject their eyes just because "they don't look nice." In fact, many women look better and more distinguished wearing them than they do without them.

For the round face, angular lenses are flattering selection. High cheek bones call for lenses that are straight-sided. There are streamlined glasses for the fashionable lady with the streamlined figure.

Heavy frames of dark colors are not for the little cutie with the baby face and the slender figure. They're not sure out of beauty form.

Round eye frames are becoming to few individuals, especially when they are heavy. It is said by those who know that in almost all cases, features are improved if there is a curve on the lower side of the

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THREE WIDOWS AND THE NAMES THEY USE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(a) Mrs. A, whose husband died last year, continues to use her husband's given name and insists that her name is Mrs. John Allen. She is furious when anyone addresses a letter to her as "Mrs. Mary Allen" or when she is listed in any way as "Mrs. Mary Allen"; for examples in club or church organization membership.

(b) Mrs. B, who has been a widow for several years, changed the form of her name to Mrs. Mary Brown just after her husband died, and ever since has used this form of name for all occasions. She insists that this is the correct form for a widow to use.

(c) Mrs. C, who is also a widow and who has been in the real estate business for many years, uses Mrs. Charles Clark in her social contacts, and Mrs. Mary Clark professionally.

To settle the heated discussion we are having in our group, will you please explain to us exactly which of these forms are correct?

An excellent question, E.M., and most important.

(a) Mrs. A is absolutely right in the form of name she uses. In her social contacts a widow should continue to use her husband's given name . . . should not use her given name with "Mrs." She is Mrs. John Allen.

(b) Mrs. B is definitely not right in her social contacts she should use the correct form Mrs. Arthur Brown.

(c) Mrs. C is right in using Mrs. Charles Clark in her social contacts. Professionally she may, if she wishes to for any reason, use Mrs. Mary Clark.

EXPENSES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm the groom-to-be, and we're going to be married quite soon. It's to be a large, formal church wedding. My six ushers are friends of mine who live here where I live. But my best man, who was my room-mate in college, lives two states away from here. His wife is coming to the wedding with him, but is not in the bridal party. There are so many out-of-town relatives and family friends on both sides to be "parked" with relatives and friends here that, as far as I can figure out during their stay, and you should write to them at once inviting them. You make the arrangements and the reservations at the hotel, and you make it most definitely clear to the management when you make the reservations that you will pay all the hotel expenses. But they pay for their own transportation to and from your city. (And be sure that arrangements are made for their transportation from the church to the reception.)

FORMAL ATTIRE FOR BOTH FATHERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At our formal afternoon wedding in the middle of June, my attendants (best man and six ushers) are wearing formal daytime attire (cutaway coats, striped trousers, and so forth). The bride's father is to give her in marriage. What type of attire should the bride's father and my father wear? — A Groom.

Your father and the bride's father both wear the same type of attire you and your attendants wear. Your bride's father, who is to give the bride in marriage, is considered a member of the wedding party; and of course also he is the host of the occasion. Your father is the man guest of honor, and as such, should wear the same attire as worn by the men in the wedding party.

UNOFFICIAL BUT COSTLY

VIROQUA, Wis. (AP)—An "unofficial forecast" uttered in the new Bethel Lutheran Home for the Aged here Tuesday night, damaged other buildings, broke off utility services and toppled trees. No one was hurt. The weather station at nearby Lone Rock reported gusts of wind between 78 and 83 miles an hour.

Mother never fold me...!

And I with she had!

For years I've been stumped about what to get Mom for Mother's Day, and all those gift-giving occasions. She wants, above all, to be pampered with the things that she just won't go out and buy herself! Like the luxury of fine lingerie . . . the extravagance of a fresh, pretty blouse . . . the glamour of a really swish housecoat.

And Mom's a pretty smart girl, too! She knows that a gift from Reitman's is a gift that leads in styling, quality and value. She knows, too, that if I misjudged her correct size she can take it back to any Reitman's store anywhere and they'll gladly exchange it for her. That's why I'm on my way to Reitman's right now. Come Sunday, I'm going to give Mom a lift with a Reitman's gift!

HAMILTON (CP) — Four-year-old Betty Gibson jumped into Lake Ontario Tuesday to save her pet rabbit. She in turn was saved by her six-year-old sister Lillian.

Lillian rushed into the chest-deep water and half pulling, half dragging, managed to get her sister out of the water. Betty kept a firm grip on the rabbit.

Their mother found them sitting on the beach.

Discharge of Super-Bomb Changes Civil Defence Plans

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—On March 1, a chalk-white radioactive dust fell on 23 Japanese fishermen aboard the tuna boat Fortunate Dragon 72 miles from Bikini where the United States had set off a hydrogen bomb.

It took three hours for the pulverized Bikini coral to start falling out from the air and coat the vessel with radioactive debris. One of the fishermen later died.

What happened to the crew of the Fortunate Dragon stunned civil defence planners.

"CIRCLE EVACUATION"

Up to then, civil defence planning had been based on "circle evacuation" of target areas. That is, the populace would move out of the immediate region of the atomic blast-beat wave. It was believed radiation would be mostly confined to this area.

But the super-bomb changed all that.

Not only did the 20-megaton Bikini bomb—the equivalent of 20,000,000 tons of TNT—have a punch with a radius of 14 miles but, superimposed upon the great circles of H-bomb blast and heat, were ellipses of radioactive fall-out stretching far beyond the circles of primary damage.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has made public what the ellipses can mean. Assuming that no one took cover but remained exposed to fall-out for 36 hours, this is the meaning in Canadian terms:

If a super-bomb were dropped on Hamilton and the debris were blown in a 20-mile-wide belt toward Toronto, there would be 100-per-cent casualties from radiation as far east as Belleville, air distance of 140 miles; 50-per-cent casualties for another 20 miles to Napanee; five-to-15-per-cent casualties for another 30 miles to Kingston; none at Brockville, 220 miles from Hamilton.

If the wind were blowing in the opposite direction, there would be 100-per-cent casualties as far as Chatham and 50-per-cent casualties in Windsor.

IN OTHER AREAS

From a bomb dropped on Ottawa with the wind westerly, there would be 100-per-cent casualties in Montreal and beyond to St. Hyacinthe; from a bomb on Victoria and the wind southerly, there would be 100-per-cent casualties in Vancouver and New Westminster; from a bomb on Moncton, N.B., and the wind northwest, 100-per-cent casualties in Halifax; from a bomb on Brandon, Man., and the wind west, 100-per-cent casualties in Winnipeg.

However, if everybody took shelter in basements, the danger would be reduced by 90 per cent. Even staying inside a frame house would cut the danger by about half.

Any Canadian target hit by a super-bomb would be destroyed.

It is estimated that a 20-megaton bomb would destroy everything within a radius of five miles, cause severe damage within an additional radius of 7½ miles and light damage for another 7½. The fireball itself would measure about four miles in radius.

And it has been said, though not officially, that the U.S. now has hydrogen bombs of 40 megatons, the equivalent of 40,000,000 tons of TNT.

How long a city hit by a super-bomb would have to be abandoned because of radiation comes within the range of security. But one year is considered here as a conservative estimate.

If the bomb is burst high in the air so that there is no big ground crater, the bomb cloud will contain only surface debris sucked up into the ascending column. High-speed upper winds disperse the fine particles over a wide area before they finally settle out and come to earth. The radioactivity in this case decays rapidly.

But super-bombs detonated close to the surface present another problem. The fireball volatilizes much of the substratum into billions of particles impregnated with radioactivity. This pulverized substratum is funneled upward into the bomb cloud. Because of their weight, the radioactive sub-surface particles sucked up into the cloud begin to fall out rapidly.

The area of lethal-to-serious fall-out is hard to estimate accurately because of several factors such as the size of the bomb, the height of the burst and the nature of the substratum.

For instance, a bomb-burst close to sea would produce vast quantities of radioactive salt and radiochlorine. A bomb burst in the Atlantic off Halifax would probably cloak the city in a lethal fog even tho...h no blast shook the city.

Total Payments To Unemployed Higher in March

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefits totalling $33,452,000 were paid out in March, the bureau of statistics reported yesterday.

Persons seeking or receiving insurance benefits at the end of March numbered 563,200, down from a month earlier but higher than at the same time last year.

The figure for the end of February was 578,586. For the end of March, 1954, it was 511,80...

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotarians Hear Fine Address On "Insurance"

CAMPBELLFORD— Rotarians here heard a talk on 'insurance' at their Monday luncheon meeting when Ralph W. Harris, Public Relations representative of the All Canada Insurance Federation addressed the club.

Mr. Harris said that insurance is far from new. As long ago as 2000 B.C., in Babylon, there was a form of insurance in practice, and even a 1,000 years before that, there is evidence of insurance being established in the Chinese civilization.

There are 300 companies selling insurance in Canada. There is hardly any risk insurance cannot be purchased to cover. Both federal and provincial governments control of the licences of the companies.

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE

Automobile insurance rates are based on the accident experience of drivers in a particular locality where the insurance is sold. In preventing accidents by educating the walking and driving public, the individual saves money on his own premiums.

Fire insurance has been the chief form of hazzard on which claims are most frequently paid in Canada. Last year, fire rates were down somewhat, although the claims paid amounted to almost 85 million dollars. Fire insurance companies realize a profit of only about one and one-half per cent on earned premiums.

Automobile insurance claims have exceeded premiums, and loss of six million dollars in 1953 were decreased 15 two and one-half million in 1953, by increasing rates.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

In the first three months of 1954, there were 59,250 traffic accidents in Canada and the death toll reached 451 in this period. In 90 per cent of the cases, the drivers are at 'fault, said Mr. Harris. It is seldom that the car fails and causes an accident. It is usually carelessness on the part of the driver that is responsible.

Health and accident insurance has become increasingly popular of recent years as men became more and more dependent upon regular pay envelopes. The interruption in the pay cheque is something that few can afford.

Rotarian Paul O'Sullivan introduced the speaker and he was thanked by past-president Franklin Linton.

STIRLING

Full Agenda Presented To Chamber Members

STIRLING — Stirling Chamber of Commerce convened on Thursday evening in the council chambers and discussed several items of business. The pros and cons of sending a representative to the International Trade Fair in Toronto was thoroughly discussed and no action will be taken until the May meeting.

STORE HOURS

Robert Hatton reported re store hours. The summer schedule is for the store to remain open on Tuesday and Saturday evenings and remain closed all day on Wednesday, during the months of May, June, July and August.

A committee was appointed to look into a proposed Hawkers' and Pedlars' by-law. This committee will report its findings.

Roy Eggleton, reporting for the civic committee, said they had learned that the village does intend to make a park site on the creek opposite the Presbyterian church. Last year several tourists ate their meals in the old-fashioned style of a ground picnic. It was thought wise to have at least one table and bench provided by the Chamber of Commerce and it was hoped some other organization might be interested and place one or two more. An offer of material by Don Rodgers and labor by Roy Eggleton was graciously accepted on motion of J. V. Holt and Ken Mumby. This will ensure one table and bench in the park, free to anyone who wishes to eat at that particular spot.

FARM UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

The Agricultural Committee wishes to ascertain more facts re unemployment insurance for farm laborers. They felt that it would be difficult to hire labor for agriculture under the present set-up.

Thirty-seven members have paid to date, according to secretary Douglas Patterson. The chamber has purchased a duplicating machine and they plan to have the secretary issue a monthly bulletin, and this will keep the membership well informed with up-to-date knowledge of each department.

The chamber approved of the Lake Ontario Planning and Development Association and the following committee was appointed: Everett Ketcheson, Don Rodgers, Roy Eggleton and Douglas Patterson. This group will bring more information to the May meeting.

The chamber made plans to have a map of the town showing present land usage. This map will be readily available when completed and will show residential, industrial, commercial districts, the town property that is owned and a list of the vacant lots. It will take a few months to complete this map, but it will be a worthwhile project.

WORKING COMMITTEE TO BE APPOINTED

At the next meeting a good working committee will be appointed and plans will be perfected to carry out this idea.

The final item was the discussion to ask the proper authorities, to have the Ridge Road leading out of the village taken over as a development road. It was decided that action be taken and a committee interview the proper authorities.

The Chamber of Commerce had a full evening of business to discuss and they were able to give the "go-ahead" signal to several projects.

SCHOOL-HATER SUICIDES

BRENTWOOD, England (CP)—Cavey Foster, 14, kept playing hooky from school and staying off discovery until he knew he couldn't conceal things any longer. Then he "calmly and deliberately" hanged himself, coroner L. F. Beccle decided after an inquest here Sunday. The frightened schoolboy had stayed away from school for weeks, postponing a reckoning by hiding letters from the headmaster to his mother.

Four of Quints Plan No Party On 21st Birthday

MONTREAL (CP) — The four surviving members of the famed Dionne quintuplets plan no party to mark their 21st birthdays May 36 when they will share a $1,000,000 trust fund.

"There is too much work around here to think about it," said Yvonne Dionne in an interview at L'Esperance Hospital where she is training to be a nurse.

The birthday will be the first for the Dionnes since their sister Emilie died eight months ago in an epileptic attack at a rest home in Ste. Agathe, Que.

Yvonne and Cecile are both training at the hospital in suburban Ville St. Laurent. Annette is studying music at Marguerite Bourgeoys College here. Marie is at the family home in Callander, Ont.

Annette may visit her two sisters at the hospital, but for one of the first times since they were born there will be no formal family reunion to mark the day.

NOT INTERESTED

The trust fund the girls will share on their birthday was established following their birth. Each of the sisters will receive approximately $250,000.

Yvonne said she doesn't know what she will do with the money.

"I'm not interested in it right now," she said. "First I want to finish my course, and that will be two more years."

TURNS DOWN OFFER

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall says he has turned down offers of "up to $1,000,000" to write his memoirs. The former U.S. Army chief of staff and defence secretary in an article in this week's Look magazine writes that "there are too many still alive who could be hurt."

Isolationist Senator Wants To Limit President's Power To Make International Treaties

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A hot constitutional debate is building up around a proposal by a mid-western isolationist senator to limit the president's power to make international treaties.

The project is being pushed in congress by Senator John W. Bricker, Republican and one-time governor of Ohio, who feels that a presidential power is being used to make international agreements which conflict with the U.S. constitution and violate state rights.

He is seeking a constitutional amendment which would in effect require that each of the 48 states consent to a treaty before it could become law. This would give each state a sort of veto over foreign affairs. The result, he says, would be confusion—and few, if any, international agreements.

At present, a treaty needs only a two-thirds vote by the Senate to become effective. Once it becomes law—and this is what Bricker doesn't want—it takes international treaty supersedes any state law.

OPPOSED BY IKE

President Eisenhower and his administration are against the proposal, now under Senate committee study before it reaches the floor of the Senate. As an amendment to the constitution, it requires approval by two-thirds of the Senate and three-quarters of the state legislatures before it can become law.

Opponents say the proposal would prevent the United States here to the early days of the republic when state action was necessary to give force to a treaty. President Eisenhower, opposing the amendment at his press conference last week, asserted that the U. S. must speak in foreign affairs with one voice—not 48.

Bricker claims his amendment is designed to halt a growing tendency to circumvent the constitution by doing through treaties what could not or would not be done by congress. He says he actually is aiming against "the advocates of world government."

TROUBLE OVER HUNTING

In the background is Bricker's dislike for a 1918 Canada-U.S. establishing regulations for protection of migratory birds. Bricker cites this as a case in which state jurisdiction over hunting is vested in the states by the constitution and his amendment would prevent such a treaty from becoming effective until ratified by the states and an appropriate hunting law.

Drew Pearson, the Washington columnist, claims Bricker's opposition to the migratory bird treaty dates back to his duck-hunting days in Ohio. In a recent column, Pearson wrote that the senator was angered by interference from federal game wardens who police Ohio's duck marshes along the shores of Lake Erie and enforce the limitations placed into the Canada-U.S. treaty.

The Bricker amendment is on its second round in the Senate. In the last congress, 61 fellow-senators joined him in sponsoring the project. However, it so obviously was headed for defeat that Bricker never brought it to a vote. This time, Bricker is on his own sponsoring his amendment.

Easy to be Candidate In British Election

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—It's easy to be a candidate for Parliament in the May 26 general election.

You have to be a British subject, man or woman, at least 21 years old. You need £150 and 10 friends who sign a nomination paper. The paper and the money are deposited with the returning officer and the name of the candidate goes on the ballot.

The cash deposit is aimed to discourage election-happy eccentrics, some of whom would like to sell the navy or campaign on a platform of getting the earth flat. There is nothing to hinder such enthusiasts, except the £150 hurdle. But if a candidate fails to get at least one-eighth of the votes cast in his district he loses his deposit.

Some categories of citizens are barred as candidates. They include clergymen, any one working in government departments, judges, lunatics, criminals, members of the House of Lords or members of the Royal Family.

BAR INCOMPETENT

These disqualifications are designed to keep clerical influences out of the House of Commons in view of the clergy's strong representation in the House of Lords, and to bar from the principal legislative house persons who are incompetent to have other government or state posts. It was thought best that only personally disinterested persons should serve in the House of Commons.

On the ordinary ballot slip, smaller than a postal card, there is no hint of party affiliations. Officially the candidates are unfettered individuals. So if Isimportant for each party to hammer home the names of their candidates. The voter in the booth won't know who is who unless he remembers.

1,068 Miles Of Trans-Canada Road Paved

OTTAWA (CP) — Paving was completed on 1,068 miles of the 3,000-mile trans-Canada highway to last March 31, Works Minister Winters reported in the house.

In a return tabled in the commons for Frank E. Powell (C—Hastings South) he said federal expenditures on highway construction totalled $63,401,283 as April 29. Under the trans-Canada highway agreement, construction costs are shared 50-50 by Ottawa and the provinces. Quebec is the only province which has not signed the agreement.

Bridges mileage already paved, the return said, 284 miles of grading and 149 miles of paving now are in progress.

Federal outlays in each province to April 29:

Sask. Senator Says Yukon, NWT Should Be Ceded

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan Senator Walter Aseltine has renewed his suggestion that the Yukon and the Northwest Territories should be ceded to the western provinces.

The Progressive Conservative lawyer-farmer from Rosetown says he still believes this is the right course despite blasts from the Yukon when he first made the suggestion in 1951.

Senator Aseltine told the Senate Wednesday it will be a long time before the northern areas have chalked up enough population to warrant their becoming provinces. In addition, the federal government spent "millions of dollars to take care of a territory which could well be taken by the provinces in closer proximity to it."

Therefore, he was renewing his suggestion that all the territory north of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba become part of those provinces.

APPROVE MEASURE

The Saskatchewan senator spoke before the Senate gave approval to principle to a government measure which would increase indemnities for elected members of the Yukon and N.W.T. councils to $30 a day with a maximum of $2,000 per session. Present levels are $20 and $1,000.

All five members of the Yukon Council and both members of the nine-man N.W.T. Council are elected.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) said residents of the N.W.T. should be granted more self-government. There should be provision for formation of towns and villages so northerners could control their own affairs locally.

Senator A. L. Crerar (L—Manitoba), a former federal resources minister who has travelled widely in the territories, said progress toward more democratic government must necessarily be slow because of the huge area and sparse population. But both regions might some day become provinces.

Thunder Storm Follows Heat

TORONTO (CP)—A heavy electrical storm hit Toronto Wednesday night, knocking out power in most downtown office buildings. With it came a heavy rainfall of .72 inches in half an hour.

The storm came after a day of heat. Hamilton recorded 85 degrees, hottest May 4 ever, while Toronto registered 81, only two degrees cooler than the record set on the same day in 1919.

N. Crump Who Wiped Engines Now Is President of C.P.R.

MONTREAL (CP)—N.R. Crump, who as a 16-year-old apprentice mechanic wiped the soot from the Canadian Pacific Railway engines in a yard at Hay Revelstoke, B.C., today steps in as one of the railway's vice presidents ever to head the CPR's vast, $2,000,000,000 empire.

Fifty-year-old Buck Crump, as he is known to friends, was named president Wednesday at one of the world's largest private transportation organizations — enveloping a globe-circling web of railways, aircraft, hotels, telegraph facilities and ocean-going liners.

He succeeds W. A. Mather, who left the presidency he has held since 1946 to take over as board chairman from 75-year-old George Walker, Mr. Walker is retiring as chairman after a 65-year career in the CPR that covered the range from messenger boy to chairman. He remains a director.

Mr. Crump worked himself up from the ranks in the best tradition. While working days, he went to night school and got his high school matriculation. On leave of absence from the company, he went to Illinois' Purdue University for a course in mechanical engineering.

Mr. Crump graduated in 1926 with his bachelor of science degree.

Returning to the CPR in Winnipeg, he began the climb as a mechanic, locomotive foreman, master mechanic, chief draftsman and assistant superintendent of the motive power and car department in Winnipeg.

From there he moved east into the operating and finally the executive ranks of the company.

The man he succeeds as president, W. A. Mather, was born in Oshawa, and graduated in engineering from McGill University. He was vice-president of the Canadian Pacific's prairie region in Winnipeg before coming to Montreal to become president.

Those re-elected directors at the meeting included Louis L. Lang.

Liberal Party Lays Down Platform for Ontario Election

LONDON (CP)—The Ontario Liberal party Wednesday laid down an election platform in which it promises to share with the people of Ontario the "benefits that should follow an expanding economy."

In a statement the party listed 25 points "well within the capacity of the provincial government to finance without additional taxation."

The program would include increased grants for education, township and county road construction and hospitals. It also calls for inclusion of suburban roads in the provincial system and payment of 100 per cent of the cost of construction and maintenance of highway connecting links through municipalities within the county road system.

CALL CONFERENCE

The statement pledged the party, if elected, to call a provincial-municipal conference to discuss the financial relationship between the two government levels.

Plans for a renewed judicial enquiry into the highway department irregularities are included in the program.

The statement said the 25-point program is based on the general policy adopted by the annual Liberal convention.

Other Points

1. Amendment of the Highway Improvement Act so that taxation for road purposes for towns and villages will be reduced by at least two mills.

2. A province-wide hospital and health plan in connection with the federal government and a guarantee that no person in Ontario will lose his home, farm or savings because of the costs of hospital and medical treatment.

3. Medical, hospital and surgical insurance at standard rates for those who are prepared to pay regular premiums, but are unable to do so.

4. Supplementary allowances without cost to the municipality for the blind and aged in the needy.

5. A provincial fund against which municipalities may draw to compensate for half the cost incurred by them in providing unemployment relief.

6. Legislation to insure mortgages loans on owner-occupied homes.

7. Payment of 25 per cent of the cost of land assembly projects necessarily made by municipality.

8. Action "to correct the present pattern of teacher training and qualification." The party said such action threatens a serious shortage of competent and properly qualified teachers.

9. Taking over of the complete cost of the operation and registrance of county and city jails.

10. Doubled grant for conservation programs.

A DEER WEE THING

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—Tiny farmer Clyde Hoagland believes that one of his Guernsey cows has given birth to a cross between a cow and a buck deer. The animal born last Friday lacks a tail. It has eyes shaped like those of a deer and hindquarters lighter than those of a normal calf. Its hooves are sharper.

$50,000,000 Loss To Saskatchewan In Recent Storm

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan's flooded and soggy grain fields represent an estimated $50,000,000 loss to farmers in the wheat-growing province.

Dr. J. B. Harrington, head of the provincial agriculture department's bunabandry department, estimated the loss Wednesday after a paralyzing rain and snow storm, the second to hit the province this spring.

Small communities continued the struggle today against flooding and isolation. Dr. Harrington said the two storms brought more than two inches of precipitation, ending any hope of a bumper crop. He said crop prospects would have been excellent and the farmers been able to start seeding 10 days ago. It was still possible to get a good crop, weather permitting, but it could not offset the setbacks already encountered, Dr. Harrington said.

BACK TO NORMAL

The cities of Saskatoon and Prince Albert, isolated by the storm from Tuesday night to Wednesday morning, were back to normal. Effects of the storm were still visible in districts areas where heavy snow felled telephone, telegraph and power poles and tree branches.

Communications were still shaky in the province's north, the main concern centred in small communities.

Aerial photos indicated a great part of the province was a mass of water.

A large lake has formed in the town of Wolsely, 100 miles east of Regina, forcing the evacuation of 33 families.

Elsewhere in northeast, water levels were reported rising at Tantallon and around the Kamsack-Yorkton areas, flood traffic was almost impossible.

Farmers were using boats at Marcelin, Shell Lake and Kinistino to get into town for provisions.

Proclamation Signed

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government Wednesday reached the point of no return as far as the June 9 election is concerned when Lieutenant-Governor Nickle presented Lieutenant - Governor Dreiburgh with the official election proclamation for his signature.

The issuing of writs for the election had been the only matter the council Monday but did not become final until signed by the lieutenant - governor. His signature made the dissolution of the 24th legislature official and final.

New Tariff-Cutting Power Is Assured For Eisenhower As Senate Passes Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate victory for President Eisenhower's foreign trade bill has assured him of the first new tariff-cutting powers granted a president of the United States in 19 years.

The bill, passed by the Senate Wednesday night by a vote of 75 to 13, now goes to conference with the House of Representatives to resolve differences. But the two versions both contain the key provisions sought by the president.

Thus he is assured of a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade law to June 30, 1958, plus new authority to reduce tariffs in five-per-cent stages in each year of the extension. These reductions are to be in return for trade concessions from other countries.

BELIEVES WILL AGREE

Senator Harry Byrd (Dem. Va.), floor manager for the bill, told a reporter he believes House conferees will accept all Senate changes in the bill except one: An amendment to broaden grounds under which a U.S. industry can seek relief from import competition through the tariff commission under the escape clause.

This amendment was the only one adopted in the Senate without approval by the administration. And even it would leave the president free to override a tariff commission recommendation if he so desired.

However, the new cutting authority is less than that voted by Congress twice previously. In 1934, when the reciprocal trade law was first passed, and again in 1945, the president was given the right to make 50-per-cent reductions of then existing rates.

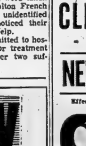
Three Men Saved From Lake Erie

PORT DOVER, Ont. (CP) — Three men were rescued from Lake Erie Wednesday night after their small outboard motor boat dipped over and about a mile off-shore. They were in the water for nearly an hour.

RCMP, D. S. Forster of Simcoe, John Bushbridge and Robert Caldwell, both of Waterloo, were taken from the water by Dalton French of Norwich after an unidentified man on the shore alerted their plight and called for help.

Dr. Forster was admitted to hospital at St. Thomas for treatment of exposure. The other two suffered no ill effects

Will Give Public All Information On Fallout



OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government is anxious to make public as much information as it can concerning radioactive fallout, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday.

He said in the Commons, however, the amount of information it can disclose as the result of the coming nuclear test in Nevada will depend on arrangements made by United States authorities.

The test is being observed by a team from Canada for the first time.

Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) had asked Mr. St. Laurent whether the government would consider giving a Commons committee any information on radioactive fallout obtained in the test.

Other places called were Hamilton, Peterborough, Kingston, Brantford, Almonte, Ottawa, Chatham, Galt, London, Kitchener, Hull, Sudbury, Timmins, Brampton, Niagara Falls and St. Thomas, before the winner was found.

You can win $2,000 this week in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT. First, find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on this page but not illustrated. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $2,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand." If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calling, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a Dominion cash register slip dated this week and totalling $5.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

This gun, a 16th century sporting matchlock designed by de Arminta, is an outstanding example of the fine craftsmanship and mechanical ability of Italian artisans. As useful as it was beautiful, the matchlock was one of the first guns to be taken from Europe to the shores of the Pioneer New World.

TODAY—The Johnson "Lamina" Sporter is a sporting rifle with a stock of hand inlaid cherry and walnut, and a testimony to modern craftsmanship. Like all well-made rifles used in healthful, competitive sport it provides a bond of mutual interest between men who love to talk about fine guns.

Last Queen's Plate Epic For Picturesque Old Woodbine

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The historic Queen's Plate may be run for the last time at picturesque old Woodbine race track next month with the richest purse in the colorful 96-year history of the race at stake.

If 10 horses make the break for the Queen's 50 Guineas in the plate June 11 the purse value of the 1¼-mile race will be $30,985. It would be a great windup for old Woodbine, site of the classic since 1st-to, 1800s when purses of a few hundred dollars were handsome payoffs.

The race is to be switched next year to the new multi-million-dollar Woodbine track being built in nearby Malton township. Work on the new track has already started.

There is little doubt a record purse will be put up for next month's race. The Carleton Hockey Club said Wednesday that 83 of the 138 Canadian-bred three-year-olds originally on the entry list still are eligible but, as in previous years, only a small portion of this field will start in the event.

RECORD IN '23

Since 1932 no more than 22 horses have been in the field. The record 32 went to the post in '23 and King O'Connor, owned by J. Frowde Seagram of Waterloo, Ont., won it. The smallest field was in 1942, when only seven horses started.

At least 10 are likely to enter the starter's gate this year before 50,000-odd fans who crowd behind the brown wooden walls enclosing old Woodbine in east-end Toronto. Never before have there been so many thoroughbreds still eligible at this time for the $35,000-added event.

Owners of the 83 colts and fillies made a subscription payment of $100 last Sunday. Thus far they have paid $125 for each horse. Those who plan to start horses must pay another $250 the day before the race. That's when the long list of scratches is expected.

And many horses will be dropped after the two plate trials. The first of these, six-furlong affair, is scheduled for May 25. The second, at a mile and 70 yards, will be raced June 3.

The betting still favors Loyalist, a brown colt owned by W. A. Moffat of Toronto. He is a 5-to-2 choice.

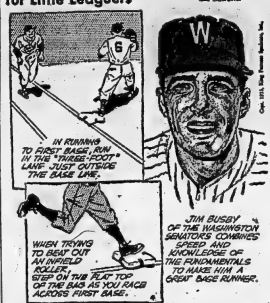
Larsen Gets Permit to Play



NEW YORK (AP)—Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., former U.S. tennis champion, was given permission Wednesday to continue his playing tour of Europe but also was warned that "another incident" would result in his being ordered home at once.

Larsen is competing in the Rome international meet this week under a temporary permit following reports he deliberately drove a tennis ball into the face of a ballboy at Genoa on April 15.

R. H. McMann, chairman of the international play committee, cabled Lauren Wednesday he could continue his tour. Larsen previously had explained that the ball he hit had touched the boy. The cable from the Italian Tennis Association also failed to mention that the boy had been hit.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major Leaguer Scout and Instructor

Many young players don't realize that they must run outside the diamond in going from home to first base. A chalk line outside the base line gives the runner a three-foot lane in which to travel to first base. If he fails to stay in this lane, and as a result interferes with the fielder taking the throw at first base, he may be called out. A player also should run outside the base line in traveling from third base to home plate. If he is running inside the diamond and is hit by a batted ball he is automatically out, but if he is outside the base line and the ball hits him it is a foul ball.

By landing squarely on top of the base in running across first base, the runner avoids ankle injuries which can occur if he steps on the front or back edge of the bag.

McCallum Has Plan For Civic Stadium

TORONTO (P) — Hiram McCallum, general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, said Wednesday he has a plan to convert the CNE's grandstand into the civic stadium it was supposed to be when built eight years ago.

His plan calls for a football field with seats for 50,000 fans and a baseball park.

The present stock car track in the exhibition grounds on Toronto's west lake shore would be ripped out and a quarter-mile cinder track would be relocated elsewhere in the grounds.

McCallum, who got approval for his plan from football and baseball officials, said new stands would be high-tiered to bring them as close to the field as possible.

One big attraction is facilities for parking. More than 8,000 cars now can park in the exhibition grounds with ample space in the surrounding area. The city apparently would pay for the new stadium.

Spar Partner Sends Rocky To Canvas

CALISTOGA, Calif. (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano "Rocky Rocquefort" and floored Wednesday by a sparring mate's left hook to the jaw.

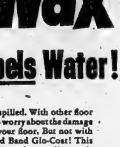
"It was a knockdown, no question about it," said Peter Wilson of the London Daily Mirror. Wilson was one of five British boxing writers watching Rocky work out with Tonie Hall of Chicago, a 200-pounder.

There was no question, either, that the second knockdown in Rocky's career couldn't have come at a better time in the buildup for Marciano's May 16 title defence against British challenger in Kezar Stadium.

Rocky, floored by Jersey Joe Walcott's left hook for a four count in the first round of their Sept. 23, 1952, title fight, is a heavy favorite to beat Cockell by a knockout.

Manager Al Weill, seemingly surprised at seeing Rocky on the canvas in a training workout with 16-ounce gloves, recovered quickly to exploit the punch that nailed Rocky flush on the jaw.

"It only goes to show," said Weill, "that anything can happen when two men are in there swinging."



BOBO-MOORE TALK BOUT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Negotiations are under way for a light heavyweight championship fight between titleholder Archie Moore and middleweight champ Bobo Olson.

This was disclosed Wednesday by Archie's manager, Charles Johnston, who said the strap probably will be in the west of June 22 and will be held here, in San Francisco or New York—"whichever we can get the best terms."

'Sugar Ray' Wins Over Panter

DETROIT (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, staggered in the first round, recovered and was in complete command the rest of the way Wednesday night in punching out a unanimous 10-round decision over Garth Panter of Salt Lake City.

Robinson weighed 163½ and Panter 161¼ for the non-televised bout before 4,672 customers in Olympia Stadium.

There were no knockdowns, although both fighters were rocked by right hands to the head.

In the first minute of the fight, Panter, a 34-year-old father of five children, surprised Robinson with a stinging right to the head. Robinson wobbled for a moment and regained his balance by clutching the middle strand of the ropes.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HOW IT STARTED

Centuries ago, some monks of ancient Germany unwittingly devised the modern game of alleys bowling by taking a short cut to discover what kind of lives the boys were leading.

They discontinued public meetings, parochial visits and bell-fire and brimstone talks and instituted a simple form of athletics which revealed whether the boys were treading the short and narrow or covering the wide-open spaces.

There was nothing much to it. Even the monks' Local No. 937364 did not frown because of its labor-saving characteristics.

In those days Hans and Fritz always carried a short stick called a "kegel". They used it for sport, for knocking off members of opposing gangs, making dates with young fraus and other various exercises. A man without a kegel was as rare as his modern counterpart without an instalment plan.

The monasteries of those days had long narrow cloisters halls. The monks being celibate, the halls were used for lone evening strolls, or mayhap the odd movie, drive-ins not being known in those days.

Then one day business started to pick up. The monks, due to a labor shortage and the fact college graduates were turning to other pursuits, could not handle the rush.

So a quick-thinking monk devised a scheme whereby the boys could be examined as to their mode of living by something approaching mass production.

It was as simple as that. All a fellow had to do was report to the monastery, stand his kegel on end and from a fairly long distance roll a small pebble at it. If he hit it, he was Okay for a while. If not he would be recalled at intervals to test his skill.

A few of the boys got wise. Some that failed in the first try earned halos overnight through the medium of diligent practice.

Then business slackened and the monks found themselves with time on their hands. So the quick-thinking monk devised another scheme whereby the boys would not find life too tiresome.

This Tex Rickard of the cloisters got a half dozen or so of his buddies together one day. He told them to arrange their kegels in two rows. Then they stood back and each took turns rolling a pebble at the kegels. The monk who knocked over the most was the winnah.

That, too, became monotonous so the game was broadened. They used nine pins in rows of three and used larger pebbles, which later gave way to wooden balls.

A couple of centuries later the game was still popular. But it was not properly organized. So somebody devised the first set of rules. They were quite universal, as history says that pins numbering from three to nineteen were used in various parts of Europe.

The game grew in popularity. In the middle ages it was the talk of hamlet, village green and baronial mansions. If Sir Lancelot tossed a party, a bowls game was the centre of attraction. If a wealthy landowner held a levee for the serfs, the boys bowled—with bowls, that is. Princely palaces contained deluxe alleys, probably with the court jesters acting as pin boys. At village soirees, lawn parties, baptisms and village dances, the bowl game was the thing.

During the 15th and 16th centuries the game spread from Germany to the low countries and Austria. The herrs met the mynheers, and Viennese dukes matched strikes with other continental personages.

But the game did not spread to England, Ireland, Scotland or France. Up in the highlands the unsuperstitious kilties did not believe in knocking on wood, so they settled for rolling a pebble at a hole in the ground. So started golf. In France the favorite sport about this time was head-rolling, with the guillotine the only piece of equipment judged legal.

Along about 1818 a party of Dutch merchants visited the United States and after a few rounds of schnapps, decided to show their American hosts how to play bowls.

The idea caught on, and by 1835 it had spread over the eastern States. Then it happened. The Scarfaces, Baby-Faces, Dutches and Dillingers of the rackets scraped some easy money. They gambled huge sums on what was said to be "fixed" games until the authorities stepped in.

At that time the game was played with nine pins so legislature was passed banning the "nine-pin bowling game." This did not sit well with some of the better class. So they thought up a plan to get around the law. It was simple. They changed the game from nine pins to ten pins—and as there was no law against ten-pin bowling, they were in the clear. They were allowed to carry on, and in the course of time several organizations got together to inaugurate what is now the American Bowling Congress.

So there you are. If it were not for that monk-ey business took in Germany in or around the first century, some twenty million bowlers in the United States besides others in Canada and the rest of the world, would today be twiddling their thumbs.

Brooklyn Wins Sixth In Row For Gaudy .895 Percentage; Bombers Score Seven In Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The secret of the Brooklyn Dodgers' staggering head start in the National League now is out in the open—and it's not a complicated one. No miracle potion, no legerdemain. No mirrors.

It's nothing more than the old-fashioned home run.

The muscular men of Flatbush propelled three more of the things at Ebbets Field Wednesday night—by Gil Hodges, Duke Snider—and Roy Campanella—to crush the St. Louis Cardinals 12-4.

This was their sixth victory in a row and their 17th in 19 starts. It gave them a gaudy .895 percentage and a 6½ game lead over second-place Chicago. Only one of the other six clubs is as high as .500.

HAVE HIT 32

Since the season started the Dodgers have hit 32 home runs, accounting for 50 runs. Many of those have come at "clutch"—or game-winning—moments.

Right fielder Carl Furillo has the heftiest output with eight. Duke Snider has six, seven and Roy Campanella five. The others have been distributed among Gil Hodges Jackie Robinson, Don immer, Don Newcombe, Gene Gilliam, Sandy Amoros and Pee Wee Reese. Everybody hits.

While the Dodgers keep right on sizzling, the other red-hot teams in both leagues run into occasional cool-off periods.

The Cleveland Indians, American League leaders who had won seven of their last eight, were chilled by the New York Yankees, who scored seven runs in the last two innings to win 11-5. Detroit rapped the Tigers, winner of nine of 10 and facing a chance to take over the league lead, dropped a taut 11-inning game to the Boston Red Sox 3-2.

STREAK SNAPPED

The Chicago Cubs saw a four-game winning streak snapped as the Polo Grounds where an 11th-inning home run by Whitey Lockman gave the rebuffed New York Giants a 4-3 triumph.

The Kansas City Athletics and Pittsburgh Pirates, a pair of cellar dwellers enjoyed a brief flurry of success. The Athletics defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 for their seventh victory in nine games. The beardless Pirates won their fourth straight, whacking Milwaukee 5-4.

In the other games, the Washington Senators smothered a late rally to shade the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Cincinnati's Redlegs walloped Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 with the aid of two home runs by Wally Post.

Brooklyn's failure to make a few human slipups continues to confound the experts. Including swash-buckling manager Eddie Stanky of the Cardinals.

THAT LONG LOOK

When he came to town Wednesday he announced: "I'm still not convinced about Brooklyn. I'll tell you what I think after I see them tonight."

After the game he commented wryly:

"We got our brains kicked out—but I'd still like another look."

Both Snider and Campanella hit their homers with two men on base while Hodges socked a loner. The Dodgers combined to get good hitting and pitching when they needed it. Johnny Podres, the southpaw hurler, gave up nine hits, including home runs to Rip Repulski and Ken Boyer, but he never was in grave danger.

Furillo and Campanella are hitting .333 and Snider, .322. The Brooklyn team as a whole is batting .270 and the pitchers have a combined earn run average of less than three runs. It's a tough combination to lick.

GIANTS SHAKEUP

Manager Leo Durocher shook up the batting order of his world champion Giants and the move paid dividends. Young Foster Castleman, replacing Davey Williams at second, got the first home run of his major league career. Ruben Gomez won the tense mound duel from San Jones.

Rookie Roberto Clemente made a spectacular catch to save the Pittsburgh game. He ran deep to the right field stands to spear George Crowe's long drive with two out in the ninth and two men on base for Milwaukee.

Post's two homers for Cincinnati came in the fourth and sixth innings and replaced the power lost because of Ted Kluszewski's absence with an injured ankle.

At Cleveland, the Yankees scored four runs in the eighth and three in the ninth to crush Bob Lemon's bid for his sixth straight pitching victory. Yogi Berra homered for the Yanks and Dave Pope for the Indians. Tom Sturdivant relieved Bob Grim in the seventh, was credited with the win.

Willard Nixon, although replaced by Ellis Kinder in the 11th, pitched the Red Sox to their first victory in seven games, bettering Frank Lary in a pitching duel. The game deciding run came in the 11th after the bases were filled by two singles and a walk. Archfield out by Tony Lepelo brought Harry Agganis home.

Fast Breaks Don't Mean Flag Brooklyn Told

CINCINNATI (AP)—Maybe the fans in the stands already are figuring the fast-starting Brooklyn Dodgers will have the 1955 National League pennant race locked up by the 4th of July but such fast breaks from the barrier don't always mean a spot in the world series.

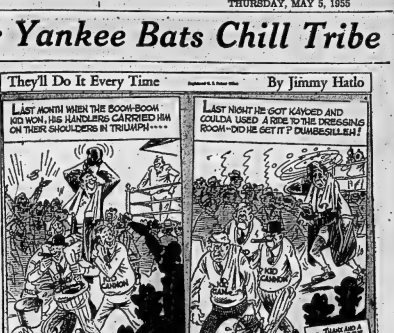
A runaway race naturally doesn't help things at the box office so Dave Grote, the National League's service director, has dug up some psychological trouble for the Dodgers who now have won 17 of their first 19 games and are leading second-place Chicago Cubs by 6½ games.

Since 1914 more than a dozen National League teams got away to brilliant starts and then failed to win the pennant.

The oddity of all probably was in 1916. Pittsburgh won 15 of its first 17 games and 21 of its first 29 yet finished seventh. And Cincinnati, which was second as late as June 28, wound up in last place. That also was the year the Boston Braves came from last place on the 4th of July to win the pennant.

Say-Hey Willie Drops Fly

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Mays finally dropped one of those famous basketball catches he makes but it didn't do any real harm.



In the eighth inning of Wednesday's Giants-Cubs game, Mays camped under a towering fly hoisted by Chicago's Ernie Banks, waited with his hands cupped at the belt line, then let it get away from him.

It was the first time in his major league career that Willie had made an error on one of those grandstand catches.

Banks got to second on the play, but the next man, Clyde McCullough was intentionally passed and Gene Baker lined into a double play to end the inning.

Prancing Thoroughbreds Fit, Ready For Colorful Blue Grass Classic

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Preparations for the 81st Kentucky Derby virtually were completed today with at least nine finely-tuned three-year-old horses ready for the start of the mile-and-one-quarter race leading to fame and fortune.

Nine colts from eight stables are considered definite starters. And the name of a tenth may well be dropped into the entry box before the Friday deadline.

It costs $250 to enter a horse Friday and an additional $1,250 is payable before he can join the colorful parade to the post at the top of Churchill Downs' long home stretch. If 10 are in the post parade Saturday, the race will have a gross value of $12,500 with the winner taking down a net of $108,-400. Both figures are records since Churchill Downs boosted the added money from $100,000 to $125,000 this year.

The horses themselves have completed their training with the exception of a blow-out Friday and possibly speed sharpeners by two of the favorites—Mrs. John W. Galbreath's Summer Tan and Rex Ellsworth's Swaps, Nashua, the 4 to 5 choice from William Woodward's Belair Stud, is as fit and ready as man can make him.

These three dominate the race almost to the exclusion of all others. But the early arrivals among the predicted turnout of 100,000 joined with the trainers of the Derby candidates in picking Nashua as the horse to beat—come rain or shine. And they say it'll be either Summer Tan or Swaps in the runner-up spot. Early odds quoted Summer Tan at 2 to 1 and Swaps at 6 to 1.

The weatherman's predictions call for temperatures hovering around 90 degrees and a lightning-fast track.

"Lowly" Jets Hottest Club In International

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It wasn't too long ago that everybody was feeling sorry for the Columbus Jets and rating the Montreal Royals a strong contender for the International League pennant.

Those "lowly" Jets were a near unanimous pick for the cellar while the "powerful" royals were chosen to finish near the top. But look at those two clubs today.

The Jets, with their six victories in their last eight games, are the hottest team in the league. They won their sixth Wednesday night, walloping the Buffalo Bisons 6-3.

The Royals, with four straight triumphs, defeated Syracuse 5-3 to extend the Chiefs' losing streak to five games. Montreal has a 12-6 won-lost record while the Jets have played three less games with a 10-5 mark. But both have identical percentages of .667.

CALLED BY RAIN

In other games, Toronto Maple Leafs and Havana Sugar Kings battled to a 6-6 tie in a 3-3-inning slugfest that was called because of rain.

Veteran Allie Clark's home run in the eighth inning provided Rochester Red Wings with a 5-4 victory over Richmond Virginians.

Columbus exploded four home runs off Bison pitcher Bob Schultz. Heclor Lopez hit two bases-empty homers and outfielders Ted Del Guercio and Bill Stewart belted one each.

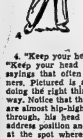
Righthander Leroy Wheat, making his first starting appearance after being sent down by Kansas City, scattered eight Bison hits in registering his first victory.

Jet manager Mickey Cullop, who was unaware that a victory would tie his club for first place, responded happily when given the news after the game.

THEY'RE CAPABLE

"That's great," said the former Columbus player. "We've only seen Toronto, Rochester and Buffalo, but I'm convinced now that these fellows I've got are capable of anything. We've always had the power and the defence, I think now we have the pitching to match."

Don Craig, Montreal rookie righthander, gave up 13 hits but went the route for his second victory against one loss. Chico Fernandez led the Royal attack with a triple and two singles.



The Toronto-Havana game was marked by a fourth-inning shoving contest involving players of both teams. The incident resulted in the ejection of second baseman Pompeyo Davalillo of the Kings and Leafs' Pete Castiglione.

Clark's home run came after two were out in the eighth and Howie Phillips on second after he doubled. Miles Jordan, who gave up only five hits to the Red Wings, was the loser. Richmond collected 12 off three Rochester hurlers.

Czech Beats Walk Record

VIENNA (AP) — Radio Prague said Josefa Dolezal of Czechoslovakia Wednesday bettered the world record for the five-mile walk. He was timed in exactly 35 minutes, 15 seconds below the listed record hung up by Roland Hartly of England in 1932.

Sam Snead's Golf School

4. "Keep your head down" and "Keep your head still" are golf sayings that often puzzle beginners. Pictured is a player who's doing the right thing in the right way. Notice that though his hands are almost hip-high in follow-through, his head is still in the address position and he is looking at the spot where the ball was. You should keep your head down and immovable — because it is the top anchor of the axis of Your swing. If your head is permitted to both up-and-down or move back - and - forward with your swing, you can easily understand how difficult it is to lay the clubface on the ball accurately. You should keep looking at the ball as pictured until the hands reach this position in the follow-through because the action at the bottom of the stroke is so fast that you can't be sure when it's safe to turn the head and look after the ball until your right arm pulls you.

Bucs Get Prize Rookie For $4,000 Dodgers Get Headache For 20 Grand

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It is only by grace of a stringent new bonus rule and a slight sleeping at the switch by the Brooklyn front office that the rampaging Dodgers do not have still another .300-plus hitter.

Robert Clemente, Pittsburgh's sparkling rookie outfielder and leading hitter, would be a great comfort to have around.

Less than six months ago the Dodgers owned the Puerto Rican, only to lose him and $16,000 in cash through a tactical blunder.

Two winters back a Dodgers scout saw the boy, then 19,playing in his native island. Pittsburgh received $10,000 to sign a contract. Any gift over $4,000 brings a new "bonus" player into the game and makes him a target for unrestricted draft after his first season in the minors.

NO FRIENDS WITH ROYALS

Playing with Brooklyn's Montreal Royals farm last year, Clemente batted down no harm. His sticking average in 87 games was a mere .311 is possible that the Brooks decided they had tossed away .300 hitters.

If they still felt they had a "sleeper," they took no measures to cover him up. They let Clemente go back in Puerto Rico last fall and sign with the Santurce club.

First thing anyone knew, came that Roberto-was going wild with the willow and fielding like a little demon. On Nov. 22, Clemente was hitting .380 in Santurce and at least five clubs had him down as their No. 1 draft choice. Branch Rickey of the last-place Pirates got first pick and salted him away for only $4,000. It's all the Brooks have to show for their $20,000.

Baseball May Get Cricket's "Googly" Ball

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The time may not be too far distant when the "googly ball" takes its place in U.S. sports jargon along with the sefus ball and the submarine ball, names of baseball pitches.

A "googly ball," for the uninitiated, is a deceptive pitch thrown by a "spell" bowler in a game of cricket.

The term is an integral part of the English sport which is becoming increasingly popular in a number of eastern colleges.

Cricket, long the national sport of England, dates back in this country to 1751 and now is played at Princeton, Haverford, Harvard, Yale, Cornell and Penn State.

Interest in the sport on this side of the Big Pond still mirror their British ancesters, however. Princeton's cricket club, for instance, numbers only one American among its members. The others come from England, South Africa, Canada, India, Bermuda and Australia.

The team was rebuilt in 1951 and since then flagging interest in the intercol sport has been revived. Although the club is not officially sponsored by Princeton, the university and club graduate dues help defray the cost of equipment.

Mimico Out Of Lacrosse

TORONTO (CP)—Mimico Mountaineers today got to announce their withdrawal from the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior series for 1955 at the annual convention meeting, it was reported Wednesday night.

Reason for withdrawal was given as lack of interest of players who the Mountaineers had hoped would be the nucleus of their 1955 team.

It was reported the decision was made at a special meeting of the club executive. A withdrawal would mean Mimico would be without a senior team for the first time in 30 years.

Mimico, then known as the Mimico-Brampton Combines, last won the Mann Cup for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship in 1942. Intermediates last won the cup in 1932.

TV Again Has Demonstrated Maturity in Field of Drama

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television again has demonstrated that it comes closest to maturity in the field of drama.

Monday night's NBC production of Sidney Kingsley's anti-Communist play "Darkness at Noon" was stark, realistic, adult.

Lee J. Cobb as Rubashov, former people's commissar and old-line Bolshevik caught in the grip of the monster he helped create, gave a moving performance.

If there was a major shortcoming, it was the lack of time on the air to develop sufficiently the process by which the Communists broke down Rubashov's will to remain silent, and his determination not to make a spurious confession.

"Darkness at Noon" was telecast in color as will other dramacolorcasts, was seen in black and white by the vast majority of viewers.

Viewers with monochrome sets may have had the better of it in this case. The grey and black tones seemed more in keeping with the brooding, melancholy mood of the drama than the color version that was mostly in pastels.

James Dean, the TV star who made good in the movies as star of "East of Eden," makes a return visit with Friday night on CBS' "Playhouse of Stars" in the play "The Unlighted Road" . . . Frank Leahy, former Notre Dame football coach, will have his own football forecast show this fall . . . Television Theatre celebrates its eighth anniversary with next Wednesday's NBC telecast.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Double talk in bridge blankets two kinds; penalty doubles and takeout doubles. A double for penalty is its original meaning. The double for takeout is an invented convention signal.

When the double is for penalty it expects to defeat the latest bid named by opponents. When the double is for takeout it expects to hear a bid from partner of the doubler.

To distinguish between the two first recollect whether partner of the doubler has bid before. If he has, the double is for penalty. There is no exception to this no matter how low or high the bid.

Therefore, the only time to consider a double may be for takeout is if partner of doubler has not bid before. This is only one of the factors to consider. But it is the first to consider.

Take the deal you see here:

♥ J 4
♦ K Q 7 4
♣ K J 8 5

WEST EAST
♠ 10 8 6 4 2 ♠ A K Q 9
♥ 9 5 3 ♥ 10 8 7 2
♦ 9 6 5 2 ♦ 10
♣ 10 ♣ A Q 7 3

SOUTH
♠ J
♥ A K Q 6
♦ A J 8 3
♣ 9 6 4 2

Suppose the bidding started off like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♦	Double

It would be foolish for west and east to make such bids with the shown holdings. But suppose they did. Is the west double for takeout? No. It must be for penalty. His partner had bid.

Now suppose the bidding starts off like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦	Double

In the parlance of bridge, a pass is not a bid. Could the double by east be for takeout? It could. Why? Partner has not yet bid. Of several conditions to consider, the first condition is met here.

So, to decide if a double is for takeout, know first that the partner has not bid. You can then worry about other conditions.

Most of your bridge worries never materialize.

In First Film James Dean Emerges as First-Class Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What kind of a guy is James Dean?

Film fans who saw "East of Eden" have been asking that of his first important film he emerged as a star of first magnitude. No other debut of a virtual unknown in recent years has appeared so auspicious.

A great deal has been written about Dean since his rise to fame and much of it has been spurious. The real Dean was observed at close range on the location of "Rebel without a Cause," his second starring film.

At first he doesn't seem too impressive in person. He is not so tall as most leading men. He dresses casually and mingles with the other actors. He generally wears horn-rimmed glasses, with clip-on dark lenses when he's in the sun. He has a handsome, expressive face with a shock of fair hair.

He is somewhat amused by the legends that have already sprung up about him.

DOESN'T CARE

"Some of the things that have been printed about me are fantastic," he said. "One night I was supposed to have been in Ciro's, and I was also reported in two other places. How could I be in three places at once?

"I probably should have a press agent. But I don't care what people write about me. I'll talk to the ones I like; the others can print whatever they please." This attitude has been expressed by other new stars; how long it lasts remains to be seen.

The comparison to Marlon Brando has been pointed out by most reviewers. How does he feel about it?

"It doesn't bother me," he declared. "When a new actor comes along, he's always compared to someone else."

Got much of his seasoning in TV and likes the medium. "It's the closest thing to doing a stage play," he explained. "It's much more exciting than pictures."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, May 6, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — How pleasant when one has really earned some longed-for diversion, some time for a hobby, good fun or just rest! Finish all incompleted tasks and earn your period of relaxation.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — It may be difficult to get things started the way you would like, but don't give up. That extra urge and smiling cooperation is all you need.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Note Taurus today. Things may not be easy but with your efficient management and graciousness, you need not fear the day's outcome. It is better to advance slowly than stand still — or fall behind.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A sensible start will eliminate pitfalls, help to advance. Familiar interests and activities should move along smoothly; you need not fall behind.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Purely personal desires and gain are not particularly favored now but matters concerning the general good, government and civic interests, church activities are under good aspects.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Have a broad outlook, and keep your mind elastic in order to grasp the possibilities now. Be willing to make changes where needed in things pertaining to you and the best interests of all concerned. Be cheerful.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — If you keep ambition and enthusiasm within reasonable check, you can achieve in any honorable undertaking. Menial work, so very essential, also sponsored.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — A day for patience, kindly understanding and sensible cooperation with superiors, associates, employees. It will pay, too, to arbitrate rather than force issues.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — It will be important to think carefully before signing agreements, making settlements, promises. Otherwise, the day is friendly for smart progressive action.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Your Saturn's position now stresses more than usual care in hazardous matters, issues where money, securities, any valuable assets are involved.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Consolidate your ability, talents and general knowhow, put them to work — not only for today's advancement but for later achievement. The days are encouraging but big gains may not show just yet.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Similar now to Aquarius. Familiar matters, home, family affairs are favored. New undertakings of big scope should be planned but not started (unless urged) until you are sure.

You born today are top-notch defenders of rights and of the underprivileged. You make excellent physicians, teachers, jurists; are also highly talented in the fields of music, acting, public speaking; as architects, builders, painters, handlers of live stock, gardening, any work with the soil. You are innately creative and capable in many endeavors. Curb any inclination toward a lackadaisical way of living. Be your genial, pleasant self but never fall into lazy habits. Keep usefully busy, thus happy and progressive. Birthdate: M. de Robespierre, Fr. revolutionist; L. de Rohl'E. Peary, Arctic explorer.

MARSH HILL

"The Home" Topic At Harmony Club

MARSH HILL — The members of Marsh Hill Harmony Club met for the April meeting in the Marsh Hill school on Friday night.

Mrs. Berson Mitts presided. The Rev. R. Darke gave the invocation.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finkle, program conveners, presented the following program: Opening hymn, "Trust and Obey"; Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Ivan Clare, followed by prayer; reading, "Home Disaster," by Mrs. Allyn Finkle; reading, "House Hunting," by Mrs. Charlie Mayell; song, "Sing, Smile and Pray," by the Finkle sisters; reading, "A Prayer for a Little Home," Elaine Lindenfield; reading, "My Kitchen Prayer," Mrs. Frank Finkle.

"THE HOME"

Mrs. Leslie Finkle presented a paper on "Home." "God made the first home, which was a beautiful garden. Did you ever try to think how many homes there are in the world? You know what your home is and something of what it means. There are millions and millions of homes; some like yours, some possibly better and many, perhaps, not so good.

"God had seen that all He created was good, but He wanted some one who could talk with Him, love Him and understand what He was doing. So He created man, but man alone cannot make a home, however good and great he is. Woman was then made, and we have Adam and Eve making the first real home, and from them came all other families in the world.

"Adam and Eve were happy, loving each other, and on the seventh day rested and praised God.

"We find in St. Luke's Gospel that Jesus' home was poor and God was careful about His Son's surroundings and training.

"In the Christian home may we find cheerfulness. Let there be singing as we know that the first note of Christianity to this world was an angel song to the shepherds at midnight.

"May we find thankfulness in the Christian home and also the husbands and wives faithful to each other, and children obeying their parents. Children who early obey their parents at home will later bring honor to them and the father, who chums with his boy now will not be ashamed of his record by and by.

"May we all accept the invitation of the church and seek the new Jerusalem as our eternal home.

After the benediction, Mrs. H. Coulter conducted a "bird contest."

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

PINE GROVE W.I.

The conveners of the standing committees of the Pine Grove W.I. met Wednesday night at the home of the president, Mrs. Grace Sarlsdale to plan the program for the next year.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Little on the birth of a daughter in Belleville hospital.

Miss Patsy Corrigan, of Belleville, was a week-end guest of her cousin, Miss Gwenda Detlor.

Miss Jean Frost, Miss Barbara Brown, students of the Peterborough Teachers' College are teaching this week at Marsh Hill school.

Damage Is Less Than Expected After A-Blast

Right Kind Of Home Can Survive Nuclear Attack

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP)—The Darlings of Doomsday drive are no more, but a preliminary survey of this atomic-battered test town indicates that civilians can survive nuclear attack if they have the right kind of home.

The Darling family — smashed mannequins—were buried in the explosion of their two-storey brick-and-cinder-block house in Thursday's huge blast. A neighboring one-storey frame "rampler" home on Doomsday drive aldo was a pitiful shambles.

But the powerful nuclear-sledgehammer met with stubborn defiance from two masonry homes on the same street, only ¼ of a mile—4,700 feet—away. They stood today, hurt but fairly sound, as harbingers of survival in atomic war.

DAMAGE ERRATIC

Right behind Doomsday drive one high communications tower was slashed down and some power-line poles were toppled. Trailers were hurled like matchboxes, but a few entered test days broken and down.

Split-second sequence pictures told the story of scorching heat and blast that doomed the Darlings' brick home and the adjacent frame rambler. They simply blew apart from the inside out.

So did a pumping station standing near the bank of cinder-block bottled gas. But the gas somehow failed to catch fire.

The walls of the cinder-and-cinder-block house just blew out and the top floor came shattering down. Two girl mannequins in an upstairs bed were crushed under the debris, and the bedroom door was tilted down at a 45-degree angle to the lower floor. Dummies downstairs were buried.

WOULD HAVE SURVIVED

While the frame rambler burst apart, a special 3,600 concrete chain room shelter came through all right. People in it would have survived, Harold L. Goodwin, test director of the United States Federal Civil Defense Administration, thinks Goodwin reported on his tour a few hours after the blast. Reporters planned to investigate the damage further in the days of the test town today.

While Survival City's 250-watt radio station was knocked off the air, its transmitter appeared to be intact. Besides the 150-foot tower that toppled, another 120-footer was bent.

"I think we learned a lot from the test," Goodwin said in a prepared press release. "It is too soon to tell how much. We need information from these various measures of various effects."

DEPENDS ON TYPE

His summary indicated that without a mile and a quarter the chances of survival depend largely on the type of structure. Outside 16 miles, chances are good in even a large atomic blast with reasonable shelter precautions. But blast effects were noticeable on structures as far away as three miles.

The FCDA officials report, in effect, paints this picture:

Out of the 10 houses under test, seven could be made habitable by shoring and repair. Or practically all of the houses the windows and exterior doors in the basements, but all except the two collapsed houses, the greatest danger to people from the blast was glass, bits of venetian blinds and furniture.

At 10,500 feet—two miles—there six women endured the shock in a trench, stood three hours which they received only minor damage and are repairable. Most windows were blown out.

At 6,300 feet, a row of metal industrial sheds stood up well. They have a heavy steel-frame and walls of poured gypsum. Buildings like this might be protective shells for chemical control plants.

At 15,000 feet the blast bent some panels by compression action in the front of a row of three industrial sheds. Inwardly, shelves parked here fared well, except for some broken windows.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Skies were generally clear over Ontario during the night with frost occurring across northern sections of the province. A storm moving rapidly through Manitoba this morning should reach northern Ontario Saturday and bring a return of warm air to the Great Lakes region.

Finds New Way To Clean Smelt But it Smelt

KITCHENER (CP) — A fisherman at Walkerton, 60 miles north of here, has devised a new method of cleaning smelts but now his wife won't let him in the house.

He brought his catch to the basement of his home. A friend lopped off the heads while he fed them tail first through the wringer of the washing machine.

His said it did a beautiful job but this wife arrived home before the operation was completed. He is staying with friends.

Nine Men Killed 12 Injured In Flophouse Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire roared through a skid road flophouse early today, killing at least nine men. At least 12 others were injured.

The bodies, none immediately identified, were found on the upper floors of the five-storey brick building. Firemen searched the ruins for additional bodies. Fire marshal Albert Peterson said the death toll might be higher. Cause was not immediately determined.

It was the third disastrous fire in the same West Madison St. neighborhood in nine days. On April 28 eight persons were killed in a hotel fire and four others perished in a blaze in a nearby rooming house.

Today's extra-alarm blaze in the Comfort Hotel was brought under control within one hour.

The hotel contained about 100 cubicles, about six by seven feet, separated by corrugated iron with chicken-wire tops.

Two Airmen Killed

MOOSE JAW (CP) — An air force flying instructor and his NATO student pilot were killed Thursday when their Harvard trainer crashed in an open field 16 miles south of here.

The airmen, both officers, were identified as FO R. L. Hahn, 25, of Belle Plaine, Sask. The student's name was withheld until his relatives are notified.

Two Mother Ducks Force Change In Plans For Construction of Plant

CHICAGO (AP) — Two mother ducks have forced a change in plans for construction of Chicago's new $100,000,000 water filtration plant.

And if the mallard hens don't hurry the job could be delayed for months.

Commissioner Benjamin Adamowski said Thursday he notified the contractor building the Lake Michigan filtration plant that work within two weeks, work on the project could be delayed.

When Phillip Connell, president of the job's contracting firm, visited the construction site on Lake Michigan Thursday he noticed that work with two huge dredges and other heavy equipment was proceeding from the eastern end of the dike. The blueprints called for work to begin at the western end.

Connell pointed out the discrepancy to a foreman, who escorted the boss to the eastern end of the dike and pointed out something else.

There, nestled in a pile of clay and stone at the end of the dike construction were two mother ducks sitting on a total of 11 eggs.

"These suffice," said the foreman with a gesture toward his men, "refuse to disturb the ducks."

"I'm softy, too," Connell replied. "We'll change the blueprints."

Even with the change of plans, Connell said, work on the eastern end is scheduled to begin 13 days from today.

"If those ducklings haven't hatched by then," he added, "I don't know what will happen. The men obviously will refuse to work near the nest. And our company is strongly pro-duck, too."

Meanwhile, the Detroit construction work on a huge new power plant came to a stop because of the mallard hens.

The kittens were at the bottom of a 40-foot shaft. Rescue crews took the entire morning until the improvised maternity ward could be reached.

A gray, tiger-striped mother cat had crawled into the bottom of a steel and steel form which is crisscrossed from top to bottom with steel rods.

Workmen learned of the mother's problem when she began sniffing at the shaft and pawing at them. Electricians and carpenters ripped off a side panel and Frank Ellison, followed by the mother cat, wormed his way to the bottom of the shaft.

There, sealed off in a far corner, he could see the four two-week-old kittens.

After slats had been removed and the steel rods bent, Ray Miron slid down the shaft and pulled the kittens out.

GOVT. SUPPORTER WANTS INCREASE IN IMMIGRATION

Says It Would Create Bigger Home Market

OTTAWA (CP)—A government supporter says Canada should step up immigration to create a bigger home market for the country's increasing production and keep Canadians working.

Leon Crestohl (L—Montreal Cartier) told the Commons Thursday in the budget debate that the government should stop playing around with immigration categories and restrictions. A vigorous assault should be made on every possible source of immigrants.

"... If we are really to benefit from our natural resources we should not deal with them (immigrants) in a dog-in-the-manger fashion," he said.

"Some countries live behind an iron curtain; let us not behave as though we have dropped at our ports of entrance a similar curtain behind which we Canadians can gloat and past which no one but the select can enter."

HELP ECONOMY

Mr. Crestohl said that a more liberal immigration policy would be a boon to an economy hardpressed for markets. It would benefit labor because it would create an increased domestic market and keep workers busy. It would help farmers in the fields.

Canada's present unemployment was not seasonal or regional but was caused by increasing production and the loss of world markets. If markets could not be obtained abroad, they should be created at home by boosting the population through greater immigration.

Mr. Crestohl said he does not believe labor's view that more immigrants will put Canadians out of work. Increased immigration would make more production necessary and provide more jobs.

SUPPORT GIVEN

At the start of the day's debate, Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) announced a claim Wednesday by Health Minister Martin that the government has implemented two - thirds of its health and welfare proposals made at the 1945 federal-provincial conference.

The government still had done nothing about nation-wide health insurance, unemployment relief or old-age pensions, he said. Mr. Martin's 289 since 1945, not .666 as it claimed.

Has Freak Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Hannah H. O'Connor is baffled by phone offers of up to $100 for a freak bill she found recently in her pay envelope.

The bill is marked $10 on one side and $1 on the other. The $10 side bears a picture of engraving commented that it was a mistake that happened now is withheld until his relatives are notified.

British Speech From Throne Voices Hope for USSR Parley

LONDON (CP)—Parliament was prorogued today after hearing a speech from the throne which said Britain hopes to "enter into fruitful negotiations" with the Soviet Union now that West Germany is once again a sovereign state.

The Queen planned to dissolve Parliament at a formal ceremony later today, signalling the official start of the campaign for the May 26 general election. However, party leaders have been busy campaigning ever since Prime Minister Eden announced the election date April 7th.

The Queen did not attend this morning's prorogation ceremony. In accordance with parliamentary tradition the throne speech was read in the House of Lords by Viscount Kilmuir, the lord chancellor, with members of the House of Commons in attendance. The MPs then returned to the Commons chamber to hear the speech read a second time by their speaker, W. S. Morrison.

The speech summed up the work of almost four years of Conservative government under Sir Winston Churchill and, in the last few weeks, Sir Anthony Eden.

The reference to talks with the Soviet Union emphasized the policy of the Eden government to seek talks with the Kremlin at any level, including heads of state.

The speech went on:

"The ratification of the Paris agreements (rearming and freeing real peace can grow and thrive."

Germany) is a matter of great satisfaction to my government. These agreements will end the occupation of western Germany and will associate the German federal republic with the countries of the West. They will also provide a basis on which my government hope to enter into fruitful negotiations with the Soviet Union."

The speech told of Britain's interest in the troubled Formosan situation, saying:

"My government have been greatly concerned at the dangers of the situation in the Formosa strait. They have been in constant consultation with the various governments concerned, in order to open the way for a peaceful settlement."

Other points cited:

Striving in the United Nations disarmament sub - committee for any system "comprehensive and properly supervised plan for world-wide disarmament in order to prevent the overwhelming disaster of nuclear warfare."

Improved prospects of conclusion of an Austrian state treaty.

Continued efforts to uphold the Geneva agreements on Indochina.

The speech also referred to the meeting of the Commonwealth prime ministers in London in January where they "reaffirmed their mutual confidence" and "their utmost to ease international strain and to promote conditions in which peace can grow and thrive."

Auto Workers Ask GM, Ford To Put $500,000,000 in Fund

DETROIT (AP)—A sum of $500,000,000 in "reserve funds" to finance a guaranteed annual wage at Ford and General Motors has been proposed by the CIO United Auto Workers.

Each fund, an unofficially estimated $135,000,000 for Ford and $335,000,000,000 for GM, would be created by company contributions based on a certain man-hour basis or roll over a period of five years.

CIO president Walter P. Reuther of auto union made its proposal public for the first time Thursday. It was the first indication of what the union's guaranteed annual wage might cost.

Neither Ford nor GM commented.

The union, through a spokesman, said the proposal already had been made to the two companies.

Ford and GM are negotiating separately with the union over new contracts to replace the five-year agreements expiring within the next four weeks. Ford's expires June 1, GM's June 7.

The negotiations, covering nearly 500,000 American workers, are in recess until next week. In the interim the UAW's national Ford and GM councils will be meeting to hear negotiations reports and presumably plan future strategy.

The union proposed that the "reserve fund" of each company be equal to 20 per cent of the base payroll. It said five years of contributions should do this.

Ford has 140,000 hourly-paid workers and GM 325,000. The present hourly pay averages between $2.05 and $2.10.

It was not stated what hourly pay rate the union has proposed. However, the union has said it wants a base-pay boost.

The union said the "base payroll" would be determined by the number of man-hours worked in the year previous to having the average hourly pay.

The union did not go into technical detail on its proposal in publicizing the reserve fund proposal—except to say that at no time under the plan would management have more than a "maximum liability" of eight per cent of its base payroll. The union said that from its "employment experience" an eight-per-cent figure would be rare.

Spreading the five years of creating the funds the company would meet the annual wage from both the reserve fund and regular operating expenses.

SOUTH VIET NAM WILL NOT ADOPT MONARCHY PLAN

Wants Western Powers To Approve Republic

SAIGON (AP)—South Viet Nam will proclaim herself a republic if assured reception by the free world, big three, a source close to Premier Ngo Dinh Diem declared today.

At present, this source continued, the only stumbling block to the south's move to throw out chief of state Bao Dai is the attitude of the great powers.

"There is no question of creating a constitutional monarchy as suggested in the United States," said Diem's associate. "Bao Dai is outmoded, unacceptable to the aroused Vietnamese people, and absurd."

Bao Dai would be the logical contender for the throne of a constitutional monarchy. He was the figurehead emperor of the former Indochina kingdom of Annam, now part of South Viet Nam, until his abdication in 1945. The U. S. was reported considering that even a figurehead monarch would have a stabilizing influence on the politically-divided country.

OUSTER DEMANDED

Two Vietnamese assemblages, a 4,000-man congress in Saigon congress and another congress of 700 local and provincial councilors, called Thursday the removal of the powers of the chief of state. The political groups demanded not only that he be deposed. The other group called for him to give his powers to Diem until a national assembly could be elected as the supreme authority.

Diem was scheduled to forward the council's demands to Bao Dai today or Saturday.

The former ruler, who has been living in the Vietnamese exile resort from his villa on the French Riviera, hurried by car to Paris today to appeal to the Western powers to save his job. French Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister met with State Secretary Dulles in Paris Saturday on the Indochina situation.

21-Foot Cruiser Adrift on Lake Spotted by Radar

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) Adrift in Lake St. Clair, a 21-foot cruiser Thursday night. William Wilson, 52, of Detroit, was picked up by a Coast Guard radar and rescued by a crash boat from Selfridge Air Base.

The United States Coast Guard called on the air force for help after its boats failed to find any trace of Wilson whose wife became back with a capsized boat on lake. Within 17 minutes the 63-foot crash boat located Wilson's cruiser in open water by its mould, the Anchor bay.

The base-equipped crash boat was put into service several weeks ago by the U. S. Air Force. This was its first rescue.

Approve Grants

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Thursday approved special grants of $512,000 to cultural, sports, charitable and business groups.

Another 23 requests were left to be considered. The 1955 total so far is $716,661 more than last year's expenditures for similar groups.

The board turned down a request for $25,000 from the Canadian Opera Gallery, saying it had no authority to make the appropriation.

90,000 Miners Idle In British Wild-Cat Strike

More Quit In Sympathy With 8,300 Coal Loaders

LONDON (Reuters)—Two wild-cat strikes in northern England paralyzed coal mines today for the 16th day and kept two passenger liners from sailing for North America.

More sympathy strikers laid down their tools in Yorkshire and Nottinghamshire mines, bringing to nearly 90,000 the total number of workers idle. The miners have walked out to back wage claims of 8,300 coal loaders who went on strike two weeks ago.

At Liverpool, a wildcat strike of 350 Mersey river tugboat men today held up the sailing of the 27,000-ton liner Britannic for New York and the 22,000-ton liner Empress of Scotland for Montreal.

The walkout began Wednesday night when half of Liverpool's tugmen walked angrily out of a union meeting after hearing that dawn-out talks for better pay and working conditions had temporarily broken down. One of the tugmen's chief demands is for a 44-hour week instead of the present 56 hours.

Prairie Streams Cut Rural Roads In Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP) — A dozen or more Saskatchewan farm communities were threatened with prolonged isolation today as brimming prairie streams continued to cut through market roads and flood valuable wheat-land.

Along Qu'Appelle, Assiniboine and Carrot rivers, some farmers were forced to travel by rafts, boats, canoes and wagons.

Hundreds of miles of municipal roads were covered with water or made impassable with mud following Tuesday's storm.

Commander Pleased With Work Of Canadian Troops in Nevada

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP DESERT ROCK, Nev. (CP)—Commander Robert Klesha of Ottawa was "very, very pleased" with the radiation monitoring work of Canadian troops here following Thursday's long - awaited atomic test blast.

"The unit for the first time went out after an actual explosion and came back with an excellent plot of the contaminated area," said Klesha, officer commanding the tri-service radiation detection team based at Kingston, Ont.

He said he thought the unit, operating under Maj. Roderick MacDonald of New Glasgow, N.S., had done "a splendid job."

Col. Klesha emphasized that his remarks applied to the members of all three services making up his team.

"The men ran into conditions which their training had led them to expect they would find, and they performed like veterans."

Most of the Canadians were in trenches only 3,500 yards from the bomb itself when it was detonated on a 500-foot steel tower at dawn Thursday. The rest were grouped with American tank units further back.

Two hours after the blast the Canadian Canadian team moved right into the heavily contaminated forward area to determine the location and density of the deadly radioactivity, and prepare a radiation chart.

Following the day-long exercise, the Canadians decontaminated their vehicles and themselves before returning to their quarters here Thursday night.

Col. Klesha said the team would carry out the same type of exercise again today, probably extending the monitoring area and checking the rate of radiation decay overnight.

A third exercise would be held Saturday to wind up the team's training program here.

The Canadians return home Wednesday.

Postmen Late One Hour During Year Will Lose Half Day From Vacation

TORONTO (CP)—Federal postal officials have ordered that employees late more than a total of one hour in the year will have time deducted from their annual vacation.

The Toronto Postal Employees Association said it was informed Thursday of the order that went into effect more than a month ago. It has asked the Canadian Postal Employees' Association to protest to the civil service commission.

The Toronto organization has also asked the national group to investigate the legality of such a move.

Employees having a total of late time of less than one hour for the year will be rewarded. For time totalling between one and three hours an employee will lose one half day from annual vacation; three to five hours one day; five to seven hours 1½ days; more than seven hours an additional half day for each hour.

Postal employees now work a five-day, 40-hour week and receive three weeks vacation after one year of service.

Association Plans for Greater Industrial Development in Area Bordering on Lake Ontario

CAMPBELLFORD — The Masonic Temple in Campbellford was the meeting place for about 200 delegates from nine Lake Ontario region counties on Wednesday afternoon. They met to approve the plan to form an organization which will be known as the Lake Ontario Region Development Association.

The new municipality or any size that did not approve the plan was Dundas County of Belleville. A spokesman for the group told the meeting that while the council of that city was divided, Mayor Jack Both had sent word that Belleville would be no part of the plan. Every other municipality who sent representatives to the meeting was wholeheartedly behind the plan.

PLAN SPONSORED

The plan is sponsored by the provincial government with a view to helping areas to help themselves through organized efforts to secure industry, and a better understanding of problems that apply to individual districts in the field of agriculture, education, highways, and in fact, any problem which might be solved through such an organization.

Mayor John Dewart, of Peterborough, was chairman, and Hon. W. K. Warrender, minister of the Department of Planning and Development, was the main speaker. Mr. Warrender explained the plan to the gathering.

EXPRESSIONS

"The need for long scale planning was seen several years ago," said Mr. Warrender. For the purpose of promoting the development of Ontario, the province has been divided into seven regions. The Ontario government has offered to match money put up from each area, dollar for dollar, up to $10,000. This money will go to pay for the salary of a full-time manager who will work with, and for, the municipalities in the area concerned. The working capital will also permit the area to advertise.

REPRESENTATIVES ELECTED

A recess was held during which time representatives from each of the three areas met together and each four men from each to a temporary board of directors. Zone 1, comprising the counties of Victoria, Haliburton, and Peterborough, elected the following: Gordon Powell of Peterborough, H. Pollock of Lindsay, Albert Buchanan of Lakefield and John Nixon of Norwood. Zone 2, comprising the counties of Northumberland and Durham, named Elmer Hoard of Brighton, Jack Burnett of Cobourg, Ralph J. Locke of Campbellford and Herbert Long of Port Hope. Zone 3, embracing the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, chose C. W. Lazy of Trenton; S. Genille of Picton, H. Wells of Tweed and P. C. McGuire of Belleville.

When the group re-assembled, the appointed directors were introduced, and were authorized as an interim board at organized the organization of the region. They will hold zone meetings in their own areas before the 15 at which date a meeting will be held in Peterborough on a regional basis.

The speaker told the group the industry is trying more and more to decentralize. Before locating, an industry balances the whole economic picture. They study taxes, raw materials, labor, markets and transportation facilities. For this reason, the department does not try to force industry to any municipality, but encourages it to look at the area from which the industry may pick a site.

CO-OPERATION STRESSED

Mayor Dewart stressed the importance of a spirit of co-operation among municipalities entering the plan. He said that while Peterborough was probably the largest municipality in the area, he did not want anyone to think that his city had any thought of trying to dominate the organization. He pledged the support of his city and said that he would see the plan go through, because it was probably the first time in history that representatives of so many urban and rural municipalities had met together to discuss their mutual problems, for the betterment of all.

LIAISON BRANCH

Alex. V. Crate, assistant director of the Trade and Industry branch of the Department of Planning and Development, said that the Ontario government was not and he did not want the delegates to assume that the promotion of industry was the only aim. He said that his branch was merely a liaison between the district and the Ontario government, and that the latter was a service department of the government. He said that in his experience in dealing with municipalities during the last nine years, he found a great need for assistance in planning development, and that towns must not only think of themselves locally.

Mr. Crate said the Lake Ontario development region would be incorporated as a company with a board of directors comprising 12 men, plus one man representing the government.

The 10,000 grant would allow the area to get started and the department would guide the area along the proper path but that the board members would be from their own bosses. The government would lend any assistance necessary. He predicted many growing pains, but said these could be dealt with as they arose.

MUNICIPALITY ROLL CALL

A roll call of municipalities showed the following to be present. All endorsed the plan, or said they expected to very soon, when the matter had been discussed in their respective council: Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Omemee, Peterborough, Havelock, Lakefield, Norwood, North Monaghan Twp.; Otonabee Twp.; Downeyville, Campbellford, Cobourg, Port Hope, Brighton, Hastings, Millbrook, Trenton, Madoc, Marmora, Stirling, Sidney Twp.; Thurlow Twp.; Picton, Bloomfield, Wellington and Napanee. Belleville was present but was not in favor of the plan.

Courtesy, Service Standards To Tourists Must Continue Is Advice of C. of C. Official

Belleville cannot afford any backsliding in the courtesy and service standards on which good-will of visiting tourists depends, said J. N. Vanover, chairman of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce tourist committee, in a statement about local participation in Tourist Week.

Pointing out the greatly increased competition for the tourist dollar in other parts of the world, Mr. Vanover felt that every Canadian community must bend to any appreciable number of visitors must:

(a) Make clear to its citizens the importance of the tourist trade to the economic progress of their community and of Canada;

(b) Encourage continued systematic improvement and expansion of vacation travel in Canada;

(c) Encourage continued improvement in Canada's tourist facilities and services, and in the treatment accorded the tourists and the people they meet here.

"Actually, there are very few Canadian communities which do not derive some benefit from the tourist trade," Mr. Vanover continued. "And its benefits go beyond hotels, motels, restaurants and recreation; to tourists, steamship, motor and plane fares; to the gasoline and road-side food purchases; to the novelties, souvenirs and refreshments as follows: 25c

General Graham, a native of Trenton, said the tribute was not given in a spirit of nostalgia.

"The parade today was excellent, especially its effort in company march-past. It is the first time I have seen this phase of parade, and I must say this corps was equal to the demonstration. All-in-all I have inspected several cadet corps and I must say BCI is the best I have seen thus far."

The inspection took place at the Fair Grounds under sullen, threatening skies. A large crowd bordered the infield of the park where the inspection was held.

PRECISION MARCHING

Capt. Evans, who supervises all cadet corps inspections in the area paid the cadets of the Belleville corps.

"I am very impressed with the excellent showing of this corps," he said.

His marching nears the precision-like style of the army. The people of Belleville should be proud of this fine group of young men."

Durrant, a member of the High School Board; Roy Sills, chairman of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board; Mac Smith, chairman of the Belleville Public School Board; M. Approximately 400 girl cadets, garbed in blue and white uniforms, gave a marching demonstration of physical drill. Their efforts were given to the accompaniment of music with no less than four bands present. The display was a distinct credit to their instructor, Miss M. Martin-Smith.

Following the inspection and marching past the cadets gave ample evidence of individual and group training.

Demonstrations of signals, map using, small arms training, Bren gun and anti-tank weapons, mechanical transport proficiency, and recreation squad drill were presented.

REDDON — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bert Reddon, who passed away May 6th, 1954.
We do not speak of you each day,
We do not need to, dear,
To bring you to our mind;
For the days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
You left us, but were ours to give
For you were loved, and more
To-day the world holds no one
Like the one we mourn the more.

GIFFORD — In loving memory of a dear husband, Della Gifford, who passed away May 6th, 1950.
Two years ago today, dear,
You left us all alone.
You can only have one mother,
And that mother is gone.
No other friend in all the world
Can fill your place, dear,
Or ease the heartache
We asked nothing in return,
If in the world there was one.
To your mother you can turn.
It's up to us to remember
It's up to and tend your grave
And prove the standards of love
Is the best mother God ever gave.
But I will remember them all my life,
And I will remember them all my life.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter Betty, husband and son-in-law
Cecil and grandchild Donald.

MILLER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Charles M. Miller, who passed away May 6th, 1951.
No farewell words of comfort,
No time to say good-bye,
God took him at a moment
We thought he could not die.
Sadly missed by his wife and family
And loved ones have to part,
But memory keeps their face in our hearts.
And as we travel aching heart,
Never remembered by wife and family.

DOXTATOR — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Roy Doxtator, who passed away May 6th, 1952.
His charming ways and smiling face
Are a picture we can trace,
But a kind word for each
He did bestow.
Dearly loved and sadly missed,
Sweet memories we treasure,
Sacred to his memory.
—Inserted by Mother and Dad, sister and brother.

Council Votes To Appeal To Municipal Bd.

CAMPBELLFORD — The town council voted unanimously on Wednesday night to appeal the equalization of assessment as it affects the town to the Municipal Board of Northumberland and Durham.

The appeal will be taken directly to the municipal board in Toronto. In such cases, the Lieutenant-Governor appoints a three-man board to hear the case.

It is believed that four other urban municipalities in the United counties also intend to, or in some cases already have, launched appeals. These also will go before the municipal board, and not before a county judge.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were unchanged, hogs were 50 cents a hundredweight higher and lambs generally steady.

The cattle run for the week was some 1,400 head less than last week and about 800 head fewer than the same week last year. Included in the fresh run were 543 western cattle, mostly stockers. This compares with 657 head of western cattle received last week. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were light at six cars and there were no exports to the United States.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights $20.50-21.50; with several lots of choice weighty steers at $21.60; good steers were $19.50-20.50; medium $16.50-19.50; commons $12-16; choice heifers $18.50 with sales to $19.50; good heifers $17-18; mediums $14-16; commons $12-14; boner steers and heifers $10-12; choice fed yearlings $20.50-21; some steers to $21.50; good fed yearlings $19-20.50; medium $17-19; good butcher cows $14.50-15; good light heifery cows $13-$16; canners and cutters down to $8; good heavy bologna bulls $16-17; good light bulls to $16; good light butchers to $16; common and medium light bulls down to $14.

Replacement Cattle: Demand for this class of stock was fair and active as last, because warm clear weather which kept producers on the land, and the high asking price for replacements. In many cases the differential was only 50 cents between top grade stockers and choice weighty steers. Good stockers were $18-20; several matched loads of 600-700 pound Hereford steers sold up to $20.50; extreme tops of $21; mediums $17-19; commons $14-17.

Calves were about 125 head more than last week. Sold at steady prices with good and choice vealers losing the $1 paid for extreme tops last week. Good and choice closed at $21-24; mediums $15-20; commons $10-15.

Hogs were comparable to last week. At least two carloads were shipped to eastern Canada at $25.75. Grade A hogs sold locally at $25.25 - 25.50; sows were unchanged at $18 dressed; Stags $14 dressed.

Sheep and Lambs were just slightly more than last week. Common and medium Canada Feeder lambs ranged from $14 to $20; small lots of good spring lambs sold at $27.50; good light lambs were $26-30; common and heavy sheep down to $4.

"Mr. Fix-It" Held for Fake Gold Deal

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Swartz was arrested at Dufferin race track Thursday on a charge of swindling a Toronto man of $9,500 on a fake gold deal.

Swartz was convicted in the Fort Erie race track scandal three years ago when he was known as "Mr. Fix-It".

He is charged with being one of three men who allegedly sold 105 pieces of brass as gold to Max Kramer last week.

One of the three men posed as a New York jeweler supposedly interested in buying the "gold" from a Timmins man. The man from Timmins did not have enough money and Kramer lent him the money.

Kramer was to have made $1,000 on the deal, he told police, and was left with the brass as security. The men never returned.

Toronto detectives journeyed to Swartz in Montreal. He was arrested when an officer recognized him at the Toronto race track.

Work to Start Soon on New Highway Says Roscoe Robson

The Ontario Department of Highways today called for tenders for grading 6.5 miles of roadbed for four-lane super-highway 401, between Shannonville and Marysville.

The contract also calls for the construction of necessary culverts and the laying of a granular base.

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East, made the announcement this morning. He stated that the call for tenders is in addition to the contract already let for 6.6 miles of roadbed east of Highway No. 14 (Foxboro highway).

Mr. Robson said today that the contract for 6.6 miles of roadbed east of Highway No. 14 was let on Friday, April 29th, to A. Tomo, a contracting company and that work would commence as soon as the contractor can move his equipment to the site.

"The call for new tenders will extend the roadbed far 401 to a point just west of Marysville, where a linkage with Highway No. 2 will be made. It is expected that the contract for the new extension will be let some time around June 1st with work to commence immediately."

Calibre of Color TV Too Poor For Production

TORONTO (CP) — A CBC television official said Thursday the public color television is not yet high enough to warrant producing it for Canadian viewers.

Dr. E. L. Bobak, assistant general manager, made the comment after a demonstration of color kinescope at the annual meeting of the Association of Canadian Advertisers.

Barry Wood, NBC executive producer in charge of color television, said earlier a circuit now is being modified from Buffalo to Toronto and U.S. color television will be available in the near future. Montreal and Ottawa could have the same facilities in less than a year.

Mr. Wood said the Stratford Shakespearian Festival at Stratford, Ont., will be one of the features June 18 of the NBC program, "Wide, Wide World."

Fears Expressed Nuclear Blasts Affect Weather

OTTAWA (CP)—Fear was expressed Thursday night in the Commons that nuclear explosions may be the cause of recent weather disturbances, including this week's devastating storm in the prairie provinces.

"Lack of reliable information on the effect which thermonuclear explosions may have on the weather, aside from their effect on human beings, raises doubts and fears in the minds of people everywhere," said , H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton).

Speaking in the budget debate, he called on the government to press for a scientific investigation under the United Nations of the effects of nuclear explosions. The study should be made by an independent commission consisting of the world's top scientists.

SHOULD BE STOPPED

All tests with atomic and hydrogen bombs should be stopped until such an investigation is completed, he said. The United States and Russia should be asked through the UN to halt their nuclear tests.

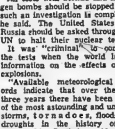
It was "criminal to continue the tests when the world lacked information as to the effects of the explosions.

"Available meteorological records indicate that over the last three years there have been some of the most astounding and unusual storms, tornadoes, floods and droughts in the history of the world," Mr. Castleden said. "People everywhere are asking for the truth and I submit that they are not getting them."

Former Convict First to Respond To Annual Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—A man who for more than 19 years has been a criminal was the first person to respond to the annual appeal for funds of the Salvation Army Society of Ontario.

Now a business man earning $8,000 a year, he is an old friend of the society. But that wasn't always the case.



He drew a stiff penitentiary sentence for an unlawful act, but now credits the John Howard organization for much of his recent success. The man is an employer of two other ex-convicts.

He is typical of the work carried out by the society in the realm of prisoner rehabilitation. The society claims this work saves the taxpayer thousands of dollars each year.

"The second punishment" is a phrase the agency uses to underline the problem which a prisoner faces when he has served his sentence or is released on parole.

It is punishment in the form of trying to find a job when you bear the label "jailbird;" trying to fit into your old environment, or to find a new one, despite the stigma.

The John Howard Society can point to a large number of former criminals who admit it was the society that helped them to go straight. Last year, 1,330 former inmates of Ontario penal institutions called on the John Howard staff to help with their adjustment problems.

Shipments of 100,000 bullheads, first pushes to the catfish, have started to Waynesville. They are taken from Long Point bay with other coarse fish and shipped in trucks equipped with water tanks with oxidization and temperature control.

L. D. Baker, owner of a summer resort near Waynesville, transports the fish from this port 40 miles east of St. Thomas.

He's been importing Canadian bullheads for years and reckons he has taken maybe as many as 500,000 there. They since he hit on the idea.

The duke was understood to be travelling alone.

Winnipeg Pilot Killed in Crash

MONT JOLI, Que. (CP)—A 22-year-old Winnipeg pilot was killed Thursday when a single-engined Beaver airplane plowed-ted 200 feet to the ground at Mont Joli airport.

The plane's radio operator was critically injured and taken to hospital in Rimouski, Que. There were no passengers on the plane.

A hospital spokesman identified the pilot as Albert Kind, 22, of Winnipeg and the injured man as George Henderson, 24, of Toronto.

Officials said the beaver was being taken up on a test flight following repairs when it suddenly stalled and spun into the ground. It looked as though the controls failed, they said.

IS THIS AN INDUSTRY?

The Canadian Tourist Association has produced a pleasing and informative booklet, excellent in everything save the choice of a title. It is called "The Visitor Industry."

The association of the word "industry" with the tourist trade dates back several years. It was first used, we suspect, to intimate that the tourist trade was essential to Canada's welfare—and it is wrongly used for that very reason.

The Century Dictionary defines "industry" as "productive labor; specifically, labor employed in manufacturing."

The labor employed in catering to tourists, whether they are Canadians or outsiders who cross our borders, is not productive in the sense that it does not add to the sum total of the world's goods.

The tourist trade belongs to the realm of commerce, rather than of industry.

It is not essential. That does not mean that it is not desirable. If all non-essential economic activity were to end tomorrow, we should have to go back—when we all grew our own food and weaved our own clothes. Even if we regarded as "essential" any activity which increased the supply of goods, of whatever type, our world would be a dreary one. We would be lacking a myriad of services. And these services are what makes life enjoyable. Without operators of tourist camps, what would be the use of a fortnight's holiday with pay and a plentiful supply of such vacation-time equipment as tennis racquets and spinning rods, bathing suits and outboard motors?

The Canadian Tourist Association is doing a worthwhile work, both in informing Canadians of the happy days which await them discovering the beauties of their own country and in spreading the news about Canada in other lands, particularly in the United States. But let nobody regard its work as being as important as that of mine and mill, forge and farm.

On the other hand, we should recognize that the tourist trade plays an important role in the economic health of the country as a whole and of certain sections of it in particular.

There was a time, when Canada was short of U.S. dollars, when the tourist trade played a vital role in acquiring the currency of our neighbor for Canada. And today, however, Canadians spend more money in the United States than United States citizens spend in Canada. The most important claim to attention that the tourist trade it possible for Canadians to visit the U.S., a desirable but not essential activity on the part of large numbers of our citizens.

A somewhat more important benefit is the fact that U.S. visitors to Canada provide a market for considerable quantities of our foodstuffs, as well as for some other products.

But it is not true, as some would like to argue, that consumption is an end in itself. For instance, in the period immediately after the war there was no lack, for the shortage of U.S. dollars, the country would certainly have been better served if lumber and electric wiring, in short supply, had been used to build houses and to provide farms with Hydro rather than to establish additional resorts.

Whether or not the expansion of tourist trade is desirable at any particular time will depend on circumstances. Today anything which will provide an opportunity for more Canadians to make a living is a highly desirable activity. But let's not talk about the "visitor industry."

PUZZLING FIGURES FROM INDOCHINA

Attention given the statement by Hon. L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, regarding Canada's role in Indochina, can be concentrated mainly on two points: 1—that "terrible things" are being done in North Viet Nam which is under Communist rule; and 2—that in spite of this fact Canada does not intend to withdraw from the international truce supervisory commission.

There are, however, other points raised which are worthy of consideration. For instance, Mr. Pearson said that some 700,000 persons have moved out of North Viet Nam and only a few thousand out of South Viet Nam. With the Communists preventing "substantial numbers" of people from fleeing from their rule, why is the number of people who have moved south still so many times greater than the number who have migrated to the Communist-ruled area?

The easy answer, of course, is that many want to escape from Communist rule but few want to place themselves under it. Undoubtedly this answer seems a variance with experiences during the long years of fighting in Indochina. The record speaks for itself. The French troops in the cities were continually haunting by guerrilla activity. The natives, it will be recalled, were said to be playing the roles of peaceful peasants by day and fighting for the Communists by night.

What other explanation can there be? Well, there is a possible explanation and one with unpleasant implications. Maybe the Communist sympathizers in South Viet Nam received orders to stay put, preparing for a ballot-box victory when elections are held in July of next year.

TASTE

Taste, no orders will obey.
It refuses bit and reins.
Of whatever mothers say
Independent it remains.
Taste with others won't agree,
If a child, you should advise:
"Good for you will spinach be,"
"I don't like it," taste replies.

Taste's a stubborn frait and strange.
Counsel true it won't receive.
It won't condescend to change.
"Eat your vitamins," it's told.
"Try it," but a mother plead.
"Do not push the plate away.
This is wholesome food you need."
"I don't want it," taste will say.

Management by problems faced
Learns to solve them, by and by.
But no one can manage taste.
It refuses to comply.
Taste is tyranny complete.
In a way none understands.
Even grownups when they eat
Take or leave as taste commands.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
May 6 1935

His Majesty King George, V. ascended the throne on May 6, 1910, twenty-five years ago today and his Silver Jubilee is being observed today. He was born June 3, 1865, the successor of Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary took place in Westminster Abbey on June 22, 1911. At the coronation the 15th. Regiment Argyll Light Infantry of this city was officially represented by Major Lorne C. Green, Sergeant James Barlow and Sergeant John M. Boyd.

The observance of the King's Silver Jubilee here today was a most memorable event. Thousands of citizens, including school children; the 15th. Regiment and band; the 34th. Battery; collegiate cadets; pipe band; war veterans; members of the Board of Education and the Separate School Board and the city council gathered at noon and compact block on the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School grounds and Church Street. Bands played, school children sang, and the effect was most stirring. The service of delivering the oration was accorded to Col. W. N. Ponton and his address was indeed able and eloquent. The official prayer of thanksgiving for our King, the Empire and approved by His Majesty was recited by Major the Rev. A. Beauchamp Peyton, chaplain of the 15th. Regiment Argyll Light Infantry and Vicar of St. Thomas' Church.

It was reported around town today that a government architect had just obtained an option on the property at the south east corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets and will erect a drill shed. In this connection it may be said that Lieut. Col. W. W. Ponton secured the option on this property for a drill shed on May 1.

The Odd Fellows' Band will give a concert in the opera house on the evening of May 11. There will also be a chorus of fifty voices.

All citizens should get busy and help along the arrangements for the Old Boys' Reunion; let us make it a grand and enjoyable success.

Easy to Get, So No Good

(By R. M. Harrison in The Widow Star)

Are you one of those—you dope!—of whom Wordsworth did not say?

"A dandelion by a river's brim, a yellow dandelion was to him, and it was nothing more."

Big trouble with the dandelion—"those golden kisses all over the cheeks of the meadow"—as another eminent predecessor, Henry Ward Beecher, put it—is that it never took a course in Sales Promotion. It never learned the cardinal principle in Human Psychology: If something is too easy to get, it's no good. It didn't profit from the experience of girls who are too aggressive. It never studied the glittering, though possibly undeserved, success of the orchid, the pink, and the platinum blonde.

Not so long ago things were different. In 1836 a man Way Down East made a fat living marketing dandelions. As late as 1885 the D.M. Ferry Seed Company sold dandelion seeds. In 1904 James Russell Lowell penned a poetic tribute to the dandelion, which said in part: "Yes, welcome are they to me As Than all the prouder summer-blossoms be."

As a matter of fact the virtually prolific perennial herb of the order Composite (or Taraxacum officinale, if you prefer the longhand about it) rivals the coconut palm as its all-round usefulness. Its nourishing food, blanched for salads it beats the pants off spinach and chicory, though its taste is a bit more bitter. It exceeds them in protein, fat, carbohydrate, and iron. It is rich in vitamins A and C.

Medicine can be made from its roots, wine from its flowers, and supper from its greens. A substitute for the beverage so popular among addicts to the coffee break can be concocted by drying, cutting and roasting the roots. From it pharmacists prepare the laxatively effacious Taraxacum extract. The puss-puckering juice was long prized as a tonic for warts. Doubtless, at Sarnia, Polymer has found that rubber can be made from the dandelion. As late as a generation ago enthusiasts made a petition to have it renamed the "lawn dahlia."

And now that we have found out what a valuable and lovely thing the dandelion really is (Ps. dent de lion, or "lion's tooth") leave us take time out for just an itsy-bitsy message from our sponsor:

Friends! You, Too, Can Grow Dandelions Right in Your Own Backyard!

What a thrill!

Reasonable rates on dandelions by the bushel. Or you can get them free just for digging them up!

See the occupant (pro tem) of this space.

P.S.: Watch for our August progress report.

Seriously, though, semi-gentle reader, we go along with the bequest of the late Williston Fish "I leave to children exclusively the right to play in their childhood, all and every the dandelions of the fields. . . with their right to enjoy them freely."

Now, run off and play among the dandelions, and don't let us hear another peep out of you till supper!

Did Vikings Reach Canada?

(Montreal Star)

We have been from time to time fascinated by reports that the recovery of authentic relics proves that the ancient Vikings sallying from their Greenland bases, had penetrated the heart of the continent long before Christopher Columbus. It seems odd that the stories don't stand up.

The excitement all began with the discovery of the "Kensington Stone" in Minnesota almost 60 years ago. The stone contained on its surface the inscription dated 1354 which told of a Viking expedition up the Red River of the Nelson river, south on Lake Winnipeg and thence to the headwaters of the Mississippi in Minnesota.

Amateur archaeologists leaped into action. Since then more so-called "rune-stones" have been found, together with relics purporting to be helmets, utensils and Viking swords near Beardmore, Ont. The latter were published by the late James W. Curran, the famous editor of the Port Arthur News.

Professor T. J. Olson, of the University of Minnesota, says no relics found can be really proved of Viking origin. As to the Kensington Stone, the inscription on it was carved over the years have always ended in the fact that it is a fake. It purports to describe an impossible journey, and the words on the face of the stone are not of the Viking age. Professor Olson rejects all the evidence as inconclusive.

Olson thinks that if any Vikings did leave their settlements in Greenland they must have adapted themselves to the Eskimo way of life which reminds us of the statement of Sir Stefanson's discovery 40 years ago of the "blonde Eskimos."

But perhaps the Vikings have been found as far west of Greenland as Baffin Island in the Canadian Maritime provinces and New England of the men who accompanied or who followed Leif the Lucky across the Atlantic almost 900 years before Columbus set sail. This, he thinks, may prove to be the real stuff.

Hairy Ape Cult Active, Vicious

(Simeon Strunsky, in the Christian Century)

America, the sociologists tell us, is a land of cults. I guess they are right. Ellen Glasgow in her volume of memoirs, "The Woman Within," has given the name "Cult of the Hairy Ape" to one of the most active and vicious of our stray spangled cults.

By that phrase she denotes the "he-man" intellect" which first marked the 1930's in America. In those years it was usually labeled the "mucker pose." It marks and has marked, at all time, the "Cult of the Hairy Ape" has many devotees at its altars. It boasts a disdain and contempt for intelligence and a glorification of the lowbrow—a very pleasant technique, for its vogue enables a person, instead of apologizing for his ignorance, to flaunt vulgarity to exalt in them and often to compel people who know better to bow down to them.

We can hear the worship ritual of this cult in the appreciation of the "egghead." Anyone possessed of a mere intellectual power is "egghead," and by so much an object of scorn. It is dangerous for a politician to be caught with an egg-face, to be known as a man who can use his brains, because he may produce a luminous idea. With a large number of voters he will do much ego hair trying to live down the fame of the near illiterate and his love for Mamie Eisenhower Joan or a Hinky Dink.

The whole cult is the barbarian invasion so well described in the operation ago by the Spaniard Ortega. Ortega, who warned that western civilization was threatened by barbarians within. The barbarian he sees to manage the government. While there is usually a good deal of derision in the township for the lavish expenditures and waste of money demonstrated by the newly rich newcomer, the whole township is really in possession of its own administration farm where the latest methods, the newest machinery, and the prize animals are to be seen. And a good influence flows from that centre throughout the neighborhood.

Since the Birmingham authorities decided that rabies should be left to the veterinaries, the U.S. Public Health Service politicians moved in and those boys have a good deal to say about the contributions the federal government may make to state or county governmental for public health work.

Money talks.

I can almost hear Ii talking with a clinking sound in those thirteen doggy "clinics" in Birmingham.

If the 20,000 dogs in Birmingham are duly inoculated with whatever the racketeers think is good for them, the dog catcher or the health department, whichever runs the racket, ought to be pretty happy.

You poor frightened people haven't noticed, I imagine, that the periodic scares drummed up by publicity hungry health authorities are generally based on fears or rumors that a "mad" dog is loose in the community and published warnings to hypothetical victims to report at once to health department.

Although I doubt that rabies occurs in the least once only this advice to any one bitten or scratched by a dog, or cat in any circumstances: Have proper surgical treatment by your own or any reputable physician at once.

FOR YOUR PLEASURE

I wonder how many of us there are who look upon great athletic contests, varied as they are, and those that are more unusual, where so much has been created, as almost as us for our personal pleasure? In fact Benjamin Franklin, the late Grantland Rice, "The Tumult and the Shouting." he tells some of the most interesting things about famous athletes to be found anywhere. He said he was taking to Christy Mathewson in a hotel lobby one day when a stranger stepped up and asked for his autograph. "Can't you see that I am busy with a friend?" asked the great pitcher. Then he turned to Rice and said: "I owe everything I have to them when I am out on the mound, but right now nothing will stop they owe me nothing when I am not pitching."

And Rice gives an interesting chapter on Ty Cobb, the great baseball player. Most of how Cobb was forever trying to improve his form and studying out how to do it more efficient as a player. All this for your pleasure, and more, as we look upon these entertainers in all walks of life. These people know that it's their job to play with their audiences something is the matter with them.

Then, for your entertainment, he applause and cheers for those who perform so as to please their so-called "fans". Years of faithful training are behind all those who excel in their particular line of public entertainment. We all learn to appreciate a good thing when we see and who have perfected their particular performance. It is interesting to watch and to study a master!

In any contest, or performance, many we always bear in mind that what we are watching is for our own personal pleasure. The performer knows this and so hopes for that appreciation and encouragement.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Many of the beautiful farms we now see as we drive twenty-five or fifty miles outside our cities and towns are not witnesses to the prosperity of farming. They are by-products of success in the broker-age business or some manufacturing enterprise. They are rich men's farms bought as a hobby, an investment or an all-season escape habitat from the city.

Wealthy men should be encouraged to buy farms. With their operations, such farms are privately endowed research stations of the greatest value to our agriculture. The men who can afford these model farms are experienced in management, and usually employ men trained in our agricultural colleges to manage the property. While there is usually a good deal of derision in the township for the lavish expenditures and waste of money demonstrated by the newly rich newcomer, the whole township is really in possession of its own demonstration farm where the latest methods, the newest machinery, and the prize animals are to be seen. And a good influence flows from that centre throughout the neighborhood.

I am told that a good many of these amateur farms don't make any money. The losses on them are written off as income tax, but what might be lost off a broker's income tax is a gain for the development of agriculture; for the cost of several demonstration farms run by governments would soon ruin a governmental department.

Another advantage lies in the employment these farms afford the sons of farmers who have left lines stock of the post-graduate years in practical work for the young experts.

Most owners of the fancy farms don't realize these things.

"Before I bought the farm," said one to me, "I had a summer home that took me four hours to reach on hot traffic weekends, and a city home. Now I have an apartment in the city, and forty miles away, this lovely farm where I can hole up every day of the year, if I like, and where my friends are not much interested in the economic or moral aspect of the thing. It's just comfy, thats all."

Strength for the Day

ABSENT ONE FROM THE OTHER

"Parting is such sweet sorrow," Shakespeare said in. and everyone knows that absence makes the heart grow fonder. Yet despite these familiar statements, people who must endure long separation from those they love find that there is nothing harder to bear. The French tell us that every heart has its secret sorrow, a story of frustration and tragedy are always present when we are absent from what we love.

Yet human life being what it is, separations often occur. Servicemen are sent overseas for months or years, leaving behind them their sweethearts, families, homes—away even from their native land. Others are sent to prison to keep when it is an involuntary one. Economic pressures, domestic crises separate thousands of people every day, causing deep heartache. Sickness and death cause perhaps the most unhappy separations of all, because they seem endless. And there are many who go through life suffering from the worst separation of all, and sufferers from the worst kind of separation from God. Of all separations, this is the most desperate, and the most completely self-imposed. What a monument to human folly, blindness, and sin, that man should of his own choice cut himself off from the source of his greatest strength and comfort!

"The Lord is with you, while ye be with Him; and if ye seek Him, He will be found."

Naturalists Will Hold Field Trip To O'Hara's Mill

The members of the Quinte Field Naturalists met for their regular monthly meeting at the Queen Elizabeth School on Monday evening. After some discussion it was decided to meet with the Peterborough Naturalists for a field trip in the neighborhood of the O'Hara Mill, near Madoc, on May 7th.

After some further discussion on field trips to Presqu'ile, May 23, and the Moorcroft Farm, June 4th, the president, Mr. Hedley James introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Geo. Hammond.

Mr. Hammond is with the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Marmora. His work is with white grubs, which are found in every province of Canada, but most frequently in Ontario and Quebec.

The parents of white grubs are known as June beetles. The beetles pass through four stages of development—egg, white grub, pupa, and adult. The eggs are laid during June and the young grubs hatch during midsummer. They feed on minute particles in the soil. The following year, they work their way up from the subsoil and do a great deal of damage to crop roots. The next major June beetle flight will occur in 1956 and in 1956.

Slides showed the development of the beetle from egg to adult. They also showed different parasites which feed on the white grub thus aiding in their destruction.

The black Digger Wasp lays its eggs on the white grub just back of the head. The young feed on the grub.

A fungus growth called cordiceps is another form of parasite, and micro phthalma, a parasitic fly destroys many grubs.

CROWS EAT BEETLES

The crow, about which so many bad things are said, eats many June beetles, and so attones somewhat for his evil deeds.

The beetles feed on the leaves of trees and shrubs, frequently stripping the trees during early June.

Where the grubs have destroyed grass roots noxious weeds spring up, such as mullein, blueweed, field daisy, hnikweed and sheep sorrel.

To help control this pest shallow plowing followed with four or five cultivations with the disk harrow is recommended. This should be done in the late summer before a white grub "bad year" or during the spring planting.

A chemical, benzene hexachloride (BHC) is used to treat the soil but is expensive and apt to taint root crops.

Pifftures showing potatoes and sugar beets eaten and fields of hay, oats and corn so badly damaged as to be of little value really pointed out what a terrible pest the white grub is.

Transports Sustain $15,000 Damage in Crash at Marmora

MARMORA (Special)—Traffic on No. 7 highway east of Marmora was held up for two hours early today when three highway transports were in a delayed action collision causing an estimated $15,000 damage and sending one man to hospital with chest injuries.

Provincial Police at Madoc said that William Martin, 3309 Kingston Road, Scarboro, was taken by ambulance to Belleville hospital. His condition was not believed to be serious.

The accident occurred shortly after one o'clock this morning about five miles east of Marmora when an eastbound Smith Transport driven by Kenneth W. Good of Ottawa turned out to pass another transport and collided head-on with a westbound Motorways transport driven by Herbert Chenier, also of Ottawa.

The two big transports piled up in a cloud of dust on the north side of the highway, the dust rising from the scene of the accident confusing the driver of a following transport who thought he was entering a bank of fog. The transport driven by John Sedlock of Ottawa, clipped the side of one of the transports involved in the first accident, then went on its side in the south ditch with the trailer extending over the shoulder of the road.

Through traffic on the highway was blocked for about two hours until one of the transports was moved sufficiently to allow cars and trucks through.

Provincial Constable Lummiss of Madoc investigated the accident.

Mr. James thanked the speaker for his informative address.

Lunch served by Mrs. Henning and her group brought the evening to a close.

Salvation Army Has Big Program Of Expansion

Salvation Army leaders are facing "the biggest expansion program in the movement's history in Canada," Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., C.B., D.S.O., M.C., D.F.C., E.D., LL.D., said today in commending on the 1955 National Red Shield Appeal now underway.

Being pledged to such a vast expansion in buildings and services meant, the Air Marshal said, every Salvation Army Appeal for future years must reach its objective. Not only must capital commitments be redeemed but continually-increasing maintenance costs must be met.

Air Marshal Bishop, who is Chairman of the Salvation Army's National Advisory Board, noted that this year the Salvation Army is ninety years old. The movement, he said, had grown up with Canada until citizens in all walks look upon it as a "necessary and appreciated" part of Canadian life. He indicated his confidence in the success of the 1955 Appeal, and urged all Canadians to assist either by canvass or contribution. Theme of this year's Appeal is "The Open Door." That, declared Air Marshal Bishop, aptly describes the Salvation Army's attitude to human need.

In the Belleville district $8,000 is being sought.

Weather Service Says Rain-Making Experiment Fails

TORONTO (CP) — The government weather service today branded as a failure the commercial rain-making experiments carried out in 1953 and 1954 in sections of the Prairie wheat belt.

It estimated that about one-seventh less rain fell in areas where "cloud-seeding" was used than would have fallen there without it.

The seeding was done in 1953 and 1954 by Canadian affiliates of Water Resources Development Corporation of Denver, Colorado, under contracts with farmers in part of southwestern Manitoba and two areas in west-central Saskatchewan. The purpose was to increase rainfall in the seeded areas.

An official summary of the weather service report says: "... the most likely effect of the seeding was decrease in rainfall of 14.3 per cent.

"The odds were 19 to 1 that the effect of cloud-seeding lay between decreases of 0.2 and 24.8 per cent.

"Moreover, the odds were 39 to 1 against the hypothesis that seeding increases rainfall . . ."

The weather service summary said its statistical survey does not necessarily provide the final answer.

"However, the tests provide what seems to be conclusive evidence that cloud-seeding of the type performed, using ground-based generators emitting silver iodide particles, does not increase rainfall from the type of storms which provide most of the rain on the Prairies during May, June and July."

Rural School Planning Given A New Twist

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) Rural school planning has been given a new twist by a local architect, Victor Prus. His design, recently shown here, is of a building with a central, all-purpose hall as the main feature. Corridors are eliminated.

The central hall, planned to serve as recreation and play space, can also be used as a community, educational and social centre.

Mr. Prus says there is more usable space in his school, yet it would cost less to construct than a corridor-type school of the same size.

The school has been designed for indefinite expansion without "destroying the character" of the building. The central hall can be extended until it is large enough for a full-scale assembly hall.

CGIT members and their leaders were present from Bancroft, Bells Corners, Deseronto, Picton, Queensboro, Redneresville, Roslin, Springbrook, Thomasburg, Trenton, Tweed, Wellington and Belleville.

Registration was in charge of Mrs. G. L. Wamboldt, who was assisted by Mrs. J. W. Sherry and Mrs. R. Brickman.

"GET-ACQUAINTED GAME"

Mrs. R. G. Chapman of Thomasburg, started the activities with a "Get-Acquainted Game".

When everyone had assembled, Miss Linda Hogg, president of Tabernacle CGIT, welcomed the group. Mrs. Pace thanked the officials of Tabernacle United church for opening their church for the rally and then divided the group into four interest groups: worship, led by the Rev. H. Davis of Bridge Street United church; music, led by Miss Margaret Hillis, Belleville; recreation led by Miss Hazel Thompson, Belleville, and handicrafts led by Mrs. L. Anderson, Belleville.

There was also a display of books with reference to CGIT work, which was in charge of Mrs. A. Hewitt and Mrs. R. G. Chapman.

The WMS works co-operatively with all boards of the church.

Little Miss Doreen Ward delighted with a piano solo and the Misses Daryl and Doreen sang a duet, which was greatly appreciated.

The Rev. Mr. Townsend closed the meeting, after which Mrs. Ward and committee served refreshments and were tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GIFT TO FRIEND WHO WILL BE HOSTESS TO HER CHILD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm expecting a baby in June. A very dear friend of mine has offered to take care of my 18-months-old son while I'm in the hospital. This is my problem: I don't want to hurt her feelings by offering her money for taking care of him. I thought that perhaps I could buy a present for her or her home. Would this be correct? If so, what would you suggest I buy for her? And when would I give it to her? — M.H.

I think it might be a good idea for you to see her, most graciously and in the understanding spirit of your close friendship, if she would please let you and your husband give her a gift of money for her to buy something she particularly would like to have for her personal use or for her home. I'm sure she would feel that you were most kind in your intention, even if she preferred not to accept money. As an alternative, I'd suggest that you give her a Gift Certificate, so that she would realize the joy of choosing for herself an article she would very much like to have. Or, you might suggest that she may have mentioned, or that you feel might be useful when it's come, either for herself or for her home. Give your gift to her very soon after your offer to help. And most important, to accompany either the Gift Certificate or the present, write her a most appreciative note for her generous goodness.

SIMPLE WEDDING, ONE ATTENDANT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm planning to be married soon. A very small church wedding with just the families present; the ceremony to be followed by a reception at home. My problem is whether it would be correct to have a white wedding, and not have any attendants. I haven't any relatives whom I could ask to be my attendants, and we have decided not to ask any of our friends. If I did ask one or two, the others might feel slighted, and I certainly don't want that. I would appreciate your help. — D.F.

It would be correct for you to wear white, if this is your first marriage . . . a simple white bridal costume, if you wish, and if you keep all the plans as simple as the ones you mention. And I suggest you do have one attendant, who would also be your witness. I'm sure your relatives and friends would understand your plan and your choice.

WHOSE CIGARETTE LIGHTED FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I are hosts to a woman friend at dinner in a restaurant, should he light her cigarette first, or mine — C. S. M.

Your husband, the host, should light your woman guest's cigarette first . . . in deference to the fact that she is your guest.

TWO WELCOME, PRACTICAL SHOWERS . . . PANTRY, KITCHEN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our troup (small income gals) are (we) wants to give a shower for a darling friend of ours, but because we each want to give her as nice a wedding present as possible, the shower just must be as inexpensive one. In trying to be very practical several suggested a Pantry Shower, and some a Kitchen Shower . . . Then we got confused and thought they might be the same thing. If they are different, which would be the less expensive one? — Phyllis

These showers are different . . . and each gives a wide opportunity for practical and inexpensive presents. For example, presents for the Pantry Shower: small cans of fruit juices, fruits, vegetables, soups, and similar foods; canned meats and sandwich spreads; all kinds of mixes (biscuits, pancake, muffin, gingerbread, waffles, cakes, and so forth; sugar (granulated, loaf, powdered, brown, rock-candy crystals for after-dinner coffee); cereals; tea, (loose or tea-balls) coffee, regular and or instant), chocolate, cocoa; packaged desserts; herbs, spices, other seasonings; macaroni, spaghetti, noodles; preserves, jam, jellies, marmalades. These and many, many other canned or packaged items would be most welcome to the newly-weds' pantry, excellent on hand 'holder!

For a Kitchen Shower, here are some suggestions for inexpensive and always-welcome presents: pot-holders; any type of kitchen brush; two gay-and-bright kitchen towels; a package of different sizes of bright-colored sponges; two rolls of paper towels; paring knife; nut-cracker; cooking fork and or spoon; cookie cutters; small saucepan; muffin tin; tray; mixing-bowl; wooden spoon; measuring cup; set of small measuring spoons; paper napkin holder; can opener (!!); shaker; pancake turner; food grater; refrigerator dishes; set of plastic bowl covers; 2 custard cups.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

FRECKLES ARE NO REAL PROBLEM

Are freckles a beauty problem? Hollywood doesn't think so. Some of the prettiest women on t h e screen have them, in fact one only has to go to Palm Springs, the desert resort, and see the sunkissed concours of the cinema's loveliest to realize that, with them, freckles are practically inevitable. For, since they won't give up their sunbathing, it naturally follows that many have freckles. Of course the make-up experts—know how to conceal them when the pretties are before the camera. They employ a brownish make-up that is practically the same color. During the day they wear a cream powder base as an effective cover-up. These toiletries act as a protective agent against sunlight and help to prevent the development of more freckles.

There are two kinds of freckles—those that appear with the first warm breezes of spring and fade out with the advent of cooler days, and those that persist all year round. So-called summer freckles often lend a saucy, provocative air to an otherwise colorless face. It is difficult, however, to make a teenager believe that what she considers a liability is really an asset.

If one does not wish the more protective measures should be taken in early spring. A heavy powder with a creamy base is recommened by beauty specialists. Cosmetic oils or creams should be used lavishly as heavy lubrication wards off the havoc of strong sunlight.

Lemon juice, an old-fashioned remedy, is still considered effective; it is even more so when combined with an equal amount of peroxide. The peroxide should come from a freshly-opened bottle. Applied with cotton balls at night. It is allowed to dry on the skin.

Some of the older girls may flirt with the idea of having a skin-peeling treatment. It is true that the discoloration can be removed in this way, but the freckles will pop right out again upon the next exposure to sunlight. It is an expensive unsatisfactory indulgence.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

THANK YOU NOTE:

I am embarrassed. You have been so generous and gracious with your letters of good wishes for Marianne and Herbie and complimentary notes to me that I do not know how to adequately thank you. Your opinions are important to me and know that my young people have left for distant lands I have reread your letters and cards and find that they are kinder than I deserve. Some of the readers whose addresses I know have not been answered, for the pile of mail asking for recipes has priority over personal letters, but I hope they understand. One letter in particular from "Mrs. Ella F." which arrived only yesterday, was so understanding I would love to know her address. If Mrs. Ella F. will send it I will write her a pen and ink note, then all she has to do is decipher it. Thanks Folks. You do more for me than I do for you by a long way.

P.S.—Marianne's first letter arrived yesterday too. They have a housekeeping apartment in Amesbury and "I can do the cooking Mum".

QUESTION:

. . . your column has been a great help to me . . . we have been in Canada for nearly two years but I still do not think I manage well. I am sure I make mistakes doing something simple and obvious to Canadian housewives. I spend on an average $150 a month on food including milk for myself, husband and two children—a girl 13, and boys 7 and 4. My husband does not always come home for lunch . . . surely this is fantastically high? The children eat one grapefruit each, nor will they willingly eat twice-cooked meat or fish or rice or spaghetti. You can see the problem I have with leftovers. The children are all three very slightly built so I don't like to say: "Well there it is, take it or leave it!" They have masses of energy and have kept very fit since coming here. I do not give them (cola drink) or bought cakes or cookies, but the 7-year-old's teeth have had four cavities since Christmas. The other two have no cavities or anything else the matter. I am very keen about cleaning teeth and only allow a boiled candy after one meal and then—clean teeth. Maybe you can tell me what I am doing wrong or leaving undone. Sample menus —Breakfast—fruit juice, oatmeal with golden or maple syrup, bacon or eggs (and eggs for husband), toast and butter and honey. Lunch—fish cakes and French fried potatoes or scrambled eggs with peas or baked bean casserole or sweet corn and cheese and tomato ring or cold meat and salad, toast and butter and marmite, cheese or jam, fruit, milk (tea for my husband). Tea—cookies and juice (or milk for children); Supper—thick soup, meat and two vegetables, potatoes—I usually make 3 desserts as my husband likes pies and the children milk puddings, fruit or ice cream, milk (coffee for my husband).

I use brown bread, also sprinkle wheat germ liberally around. The children have cod liver oil daily, although they dislike it.—Frances

ANSWER:

First permit me to bow low to you for your energy and candor. I hope you have found Canadians hospitable and worthy of you. What I am going to suggest is a fine skill to acquire but can be done: Don't have any leftovers! I know you may and some readers will think their hands in horror and say they abhor the feeling of wondering if they have cooked or provided enough. With a family of three growing children you know very well how much they will eat. Don't stint on meat but give them a certain generous amount and when it is gone that's that. If they are still hungry when their plates are empty give them whole wheat bread and a generous piece of the kind of cheese they like to eat with their fruit dessert. I am mailing you two releases which have appeared here on Wednesday in the two previous weeks, written in response to Shirley M., who is trying to manage on $10 per week for four. I am also mailing recipe for excellent pot roast. I am guessing that you overspend on meat. My dentist-brother says we don't give the 7-year-old any sweets. I practised what I am preaching and results were 100 per cent for sound teeth. Don't permit those little immature minds to dictate to you. You are in charge.

Mother's Helper

YOU may avoid tearful competition in the Easter Egg Hunt if each child understands in advance that eggs intended for him are specially marked. Use crayon before the eggs are dyed, and identify them with an initial or name, according to the child's age.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

CAN YOU CURE AN UNTIDY MAN?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I think I am married to the untidiest man in the whole world.

He never hangs up his clothes, just throws them on a chair or on the bed or even on the floor and leaves them lying there. It's the same with towels in the bathroom. I'm sick to death of picking up after him.

I've tried everything I can think of—scolding and begging and even crying. Sometimes I've just left the things alone, in the hope he'll finally get fed up with his own sloppiness and change his ways. But he never does. In the end, I have to pick everything up anyhow.

What can I do before I go crazy? — Mrs. H. W.

Dear Mrs. H.W.:

Why work yourself up to a nervous breakdown over this? I agree it's a disgusting and nerve-wracking situation, but in your own interest you can't afford to let it get you so emotionally upset. You admit that all your efforts to get your husband to reform have been to no avail. Well, you're accomplishing by your constant scolding and begging and crying is to keep yourself in a state.

I suggest you go at the problem in another way for awhile. Keep quiet about the matter most of the time, pick up after your husband if you must, but occasionally—not too often, but at reasonable intervals—say something like: "Honey, I want so much to keep a nice home for you, and it's quite a job to take care of all the things that need doing. Would you be a pal and help me by keeping your own things picked up? I sure would appreciate it."

Unless your husband is a thoroughly mean and selfish man, this sort of approach should do the trick in fairly short order, where reproaches only make him more stubborn.

A DIRECT APPROACH WOULD BE UNWISE, EDITH

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The other night at the skating rink, I saw a boy I would like very much to know. H e was skating alone all evening and didn't seem to have anyone with him, and I thought he watched me as much as I watched him. I was with a couple of my girl friends, and one of them said that while she didn't actually know him, she knew who he was, and she told me his name and that he lives in the next town to ours.

I would like to get to know him, and I was wondering if it would be all right for me to write him a letter and suggest that we meet at the rink some night? — Edith J.

Dear Edith:

Yours is by no means the first letter I've ever had asking how to meet a perfect stranger, but yours is the first to suggest quite such a direct approach.

If this boy noticed you specially, as you seem to think he did, he is likely he's just as anxious to meet you as you are to meet him, and will be trying to figure out a way to do so. At any rate, I think you'd better wait and see. If nothing happens, then you may be able to find some one of your friends who knows him and can bring about a meeting between you.

But I certainly don't advise writing to the boy, without any encouragement from him. It might give him a wrong impression of you which you might later regret.

SHE'S 13, AND OLDER BOYS FLIRT WITH HER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I am only 13 years old, I look a lot older than my age. In fact, people have mistaken me for a girl of 16.

The problem is that fellows of 17 and 18 flirt with me and ask me to go out with them, and my mother gets mad if I ask her if I can have a date with an older boy. She thinks I should go out with boys of my own age, but if I did that, it would look silly, because I'd look older than they do. — Judy P.

Dear Judy:

Maybe you do look older than your age, but I rather doubt if you act it. For a girl of 13 to flirt with older boys would, in my opinion, make her look a lot sillier than if she were going out for a normal good time with a boy her own age.

However, however you yourself may think about it, I also doubt if those older boys take you for anything but exactly what you are—a little girl—and if you were to accept their invitations to go out with them, you'd probably find that they had been just stringing you along.

Unless you want to feel, as well as look silly, you'll ignore any older boys who try to flirt with you and stick with your own age group.

Three Woodstock Boys Inherit Reforested Land

WOODSTOCK (CP) — A legacy from their great-grandfather has made three Woodstock boys Canada's youngest certified tree farmers.

Mrs. Alberta Allison died last year at 83

From her, Jim, Don and Keith Stevens received 40,000 trees on 40 acres of reforested land.

The deed to the bold sets forth the needs of forest conservation enjoins the boys to carry out its purposes and acts them up in a business as foresters that should pay them thousands of dollars.

"It is at least as good as an insurance policy and probably better," said the boys' grandfather, James Vance, immediate past president for Ontario of the Canadian Forestry Association.

Jim is 18, Don 16 and Keith 8. For months the sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stevens of Woodstock have been carrying out reforestry work on their 40 acres, doing all the manual labor they can. On Easter holidays they helped plant 1,900 trees.

CROP IN 30 YEARS

"The payoff will be in about 30 years," their grandfather said. "They can start thinning now and if they do it right they will be getting dividends indefinitely, good dividends."

The boys have a mixed lot. It includes Black ash, rock elm, hard maple, ash, cedar, pine and spruce.

Why Soil Pipe Becomes Clogged by Tree Roots

Soil pipe is especially vulnerable to tree roots because of the moisture it carries. Cast iron pipe sealed with lead between the joints will keep roots from closing drains. The slightest leak in sanitary drainage systems can be an invitation for the entry of moisture-seeking roots. Strength is required to prevent leaks caused by earth settlement or heavy trucking.

Farm Management Made Easier When Business "Office" Installed

Farm management is a business as anyone concerned with running a modern farm knows.

A certain amount of time, and in many cases, a considerable amount of time, must be spent by a farmer (and by his wife, too) in "doing" the accounts.

Yet, unfortunately, this important part of farm life is often neglected. Accounts are sometimes looked after helter-skelter on the kitchen table with important papers finally shoved into a drawer among the cooking recipes. This need not be so, because anyone handy with simple tools can build a corner "office" for farm business.

It need only be a corner with a desk and drawers and a few shelves hung on the wall. Even so it will serve to keep farm accounts in order—a place to store papers, bills, books, letters, catalogues and the like.

The corner desk and shelves, perch like other built-ins throughout the house, can be made easily from plywood. Techniques are the same as those used in making fir plywood kitchen cabinets and drawers. Any lumber dealer can supply pamphlets on joining and finishing. He may even have a detailed plan for just the desk or shelf-storage you need.

If you build it yourself, or have it built for you, the desk can be tailored to fit the corner chosen. Stained or painted to suit the room a fir plywood desk can be a handsome addition as well.

Once the business corner is put in you'll wonder how you ever managed without it.

Two saws—rip and cross cut—are needed for sawing lumber, but only a crosscut is needed when working with fir plywood. The best all-round saws for cutting fir plywood have 8 or 10 teeth per inch.

Now You Can Spray Paint Without Gun

A shortcut for a small paint job is offered by the new enamels in aerosol cans for spray painting. These cans, charged with freon gas, spray any object with paint as effectively as expensive equipment with a motor driven compressor.

Of course, each can contains only a comparatively small amount of paint—6 to 12 ounces, depending on size. So it would take a lot of cans to spray paint a house. But for refinishing a radiator, touching up chipped enamel on a refrigerator or kitchen cabinet, or giving one small piece of furniture a smooth finish like an automobile body, aerosol cans of spray paint are big time savers.

There is no cleaning of brushes or rollers when all you do is to press a button on top of a can and let the paint spray. You can get 13 colors, including gold and aluminum, plus a clear colorless lacquer. All of these dry within a few minutes. They can be used on wood, metal, leather, or paper.

Various decorative possibilities have been opened up by this invention.

Clear spray lacquer protects window sills from weather

Bronze or copper screens won't stain paintwork if coated with a clear spray.

Radiators are brightened quickly by spraying with gold or aluminum. Newspapers protect the wall.

Build It Yourself!

The use of hardboard for home interiors is one of the latest trends dictated by the need for economy, ease of working, and attractiveness in the medium chosen by the owner or tenant.

A hardboard of the type made by Abitibi has a multiplicity of uses both for renovating or for adding to the convenience of any room in the house. Marketed in panels from 8 to 16 feet long and 4 feet wide, — with some grades in 4-foot lengths as well — this hardboard appeals both to the professional builder and to the man or woman wishing to undertake a home-reno jobs. The board is a fibre by-product of the newsprint industry; very strong yet easy to saw, plane, nail, or to finish with wax, stain, paint, etc. And the biggest advance yet recorded in the hardboard field has been achieved by Abitibi with its new Woodgrain hardboard, a fine panelling product with a rich, fancy grain.

Hardboard can be used for making hardboards and clothes closets in bedrooms. It can be applied over cracked plaster and makes good wall material; it can be cut into narrow panels fastened vertically above the dado. Lightweight counters, play tables, sewing surfaces, working areas for kitchens, etc., also can be made from hardboard.

Ceilings of hardboard are most attractive; while some grades of the board can be utilized as underlay for floor coverings of all kinds.

Abitibi manufactures a special tileboard, scored in 6-inch squares for use in kitchens, bathrooms, utility rooms, etc, where a tile effect is desired. And there is also a perforated board punched with 5/16-inch holes which can be used for decoration or, in combination with metal hangers, is excellent for closet linings.

kitchen cupboards or for hanging up tools in a workshop or garage.

Little Women Drop Heavy Hints Give Hubbies Hammers For Xmas

It seems Canadian women want their husbands to work. And we don't means just at the office. We mean at home! On the pretext of providing hubby with a hobby, they loaded his Christmas stocking with such goodies as tool kits, power saws and the like, then started making pointed remarks about garden furniture, rumpus room and book ends.

All of which, it seems, the innocent male has taken hook, line and sinker. Hypnotized by the spell of "do-it-yourself" publicity, he grabbed the tools piecemeal and made for the basement, which, according to the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, is the best place in the world for a man with the urge to create.

Seems logical. After all, if a man really wants to hit his thumb with a hammer, ruin a perfectly good piece of solid mahogany with a power saw, or curse to his heart's content, where better than underground, out of the way of the rest of the family, and with no place to go but up.

Of course, he is liable to find that the first "do-it-yourself" job is putting said basement into shape before he can even start on setting up his own workshop. Let's face it, the average Canadian basement looks like something left over from World War II, with piles of debris here and there, odd pieces of derelict furniture lying about, and perhaps even a strand or two of barbed wire to lend atmosphere. Naturally, all this has to be cleared away before operations on the basement proper can begin.

Then, of course, there is the problem of that faithful old servant, the furnace. It's been faithful, all right, but it is certainly no thing of beauty, and the room it takes up, together with its fuel bin and ash heap, can be put to much better use. To cap it all, it is probably eating up much too much fuel for the amount of heat the family is getting out of it.

So perhaps the second step in rehabilitating the basement should be to replace this old relic with a really modern heating plant. These new heating units, compact in size and attractive in appearance, can either be tucked away conveniently into a corner, or arranged as part of the furniture of the basement.

But the feature that will appeal most to the ardent "do-it-yourself"-er is that they require little servicing that he will find himself spending less time shovelling coal and sifting ashes, and more time "doing-it-himself" in his own workshop. And don't forget that he'll want that workshop kept warm too, a job that the new heating plant can do with ease.

Let's not overlook the fact that the new heating plant is going to give more heat for less money throughout the entire house. And this is important, too, because, with all those new tools at his command, a man is sooner or later going to be thinking in terms of re-modelling and re-decorating upstairs. When he does he will want to replace out-dated heating units with modern ones that will fit in with the decor of the rooms. And to do this successfully, it will be necessary to have an efficient heating plant to provide adequate quantities of warm air or hot water to those new units.

But the basement is, of course, the first job for the new "do-it-yourself" fan and, with the preliminaries properly taken care of, he can provide in what was once almost useless space not only a workshop for himself, but perhaps a rumpus room for the family, a labor-saving laundry for his wife, or a hobby and games room for the youngsters.

And, by the way—when we spoke of "do-it-yourself" as a piece of housewifely trickery, we were only kidding! It's really terrific fun, and perhaps the greatest antidote to 20th century nerves there is.

FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

MODIFIED COLONIAL

Although given the Colonial treatment, this home still retains enough present-day styling to make it stand out as a very smart, modern design. The roof overhang shelters the front door, and a brick planting box, right of the entry, adds a colorful touch.

There are closets aplenty on the bedroom floor. Note the huge walk-in one next to the main bath, also the convenient linen closet.

The first floor layout is well-either to the kitchen and study, planned, with a front hall leading or to the living-dining area.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

This Colonial home has contemporary charm. It's due in part to the roof, which gives a low look, despite the two-story height of the house. Note, too, the windows, multi-paned in the modern manner.

Inside, H-351-KF contains a surprising number of rooms, plus a great deal of storage space. It's a plan that's ideal for the growing family.

THE ENTRY HALL

Just opposite the entrance is an attractive stairway to the second floor. To the right, there's a lavatory and a hall that leads to study and kitchen. Step to the left and you enter the living area.

This is a charming room. The first thing that strikes your eye is a huge fireplace and, next to it, a large area of built-in book shelves. Designed in an L-shape, the far end of the living area cuts across the back of the house to make a dining section. A built-in china closet takes care of linen, china and silver storage.

FOR SUMMER MEALS

From the dining room, there's an exit to the back porch and, since the kitchen is close by, it's an easy matter to serve meals outdoors in the summer.

The kitchen itself is something special. The appliance set-up couldn't be more compact. A U-shaped arrangement provides counter space on one side, sink and dishwasher under the window, stove and more counter space on the other side of the U. Just opposite the stove is the refrigerator and, next to it, two closets.

But there's more to the kitchen than this. Note the separate breakfast nook. It's glassed in to make a sunny area with a garden view.

ENTRANCE FROM GARAGE

There's also an entrance from the garage.

A study completes the first floor plan. Well-placed for privacy, it would make a good TV room, leaving the living area free for entertaining or conversation.

SLEEPING QUARTERS

Upstairs, there are four bedrooms, the two at the back being especially roomy, with a private bath in the master bedroom. A second bath serves the others. There's an abundance of space for linens and towels, and the wardrobe closets are more than ample.

All told, H-351-KF comprises 27,529 cubic feet.

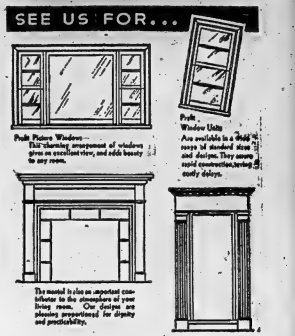
Heat Will Soften Window Pane Putty



To replace window panes, it is necessary to remove every trace of old putty so the new putty will stick. Sometimes this is difficult without damaging the wood surface.

One way to do it is to heat the old putty to soften it. New tank type propane blow torches, throwing a fine pencil flame, are handy for this job. Gently heat the putty until it is pliable. Move the flame slowly and steadily. Do not hold it too long in one spot.

Use a putty knife or scraper to remove the heat putty as you progress with the flame. Then apply a heavy coat of linseed oil to the bare wood to keep it from soaking oil out of the new putty.

NHA SMALL HOUSE DESIGNS—The interior layout of this new bungalow design leaves little to be desired by families for which two bedrooms are sufficient. The windows also ensure a bright and airy living room, which features a fireplace with tile hearth and is well planned for furniture arrangement.

The kitchen is of ample dimensions, allowing space for serving meals. The rear entrance leads directly to the basement and is handy to the kitchen. Good closet space has been provided in both bedrooms while a linen closet is adjacent to the bathroom.

The total floor area of the house is 871 square feet while the cubic measurement is 18,000 cubic feet. Exterior dimensions are 39 feet, 10 inches, by 28 feet, four inches. Working drawings for the house, known as Design 129, may be obtained from Houston's at a minimum cost.

Making a Dutch Door Can Be an Easy Project

Essential steps in converting a stock pine paneled door into a popular Dutch door. Small sketch at the left shows how the finished Dutch door looks and works. It is made from a stock door identified at any well supplied lumberyard as No. N.D.612, the designation of the U. S. Dept. of Commerce commercial standard CS-120-48, "Standard Stock Ponderosa Pine Doors." You can order from that number.

A Dutch door has many advantages as well as time-tested popularity. With top and bottom sections swinging independently, the upper part of the door can stand open while the lower section is locked. This can be a safeguard for children and pets and makes the door practicable indoors as well as for entrance use.

A Dutch door can fill a real purpose between a kitchen and dining area, or as a door to a child's room.

Almost any stock pine paneled door, new or old, can be made into a Dutch door, but it must be of the design with a thick section crosswise through the middle. Here's how you can do it:

1. Decide on a cutting line through the middle rail — the thick section. If possible, locate this line slightly above the exact middle of the door.

GLAMOR IN A DUTCH DOOR

2. Attach two hinges above the selected cutting line and two below it. If the door has been in use before, the top and bottom hinges may be left in place, providing you can find two new hinges that exactly match the old ones. If matching hinges can't be obtained, four brand new hinges will give a better looking job and a better hanging door.

3. Saw the door apart along the chosen line.

4. Plane about 1/16th inch from the bottom of the top section for clearance. If the door is to be used as an exterior door, slightly more planing may be necessary to accommodate weatherstripping.

5. Sand the edges smooth and round all corners slightly.

6. Hang the sections of the door carefully for free swinging.

7. Install a sliding bolt vertically near the outside edge of the top section, just above the lower edge. Attach the bolt receptacle at a corresponding point on the bottom section. When the bolt is engaged, the entire door will swing as one unit.

Keeping New Doors From Warping

Proper care is required to keep new doors from warping. Under the standard guaranty of the National Woodwork Manufacturers' Assn., paneled doors of ponderosa pine are warranted against a warp or twist of more than 1-4 inch upon delivery.

To maintain that standard, this treatment is recommended: (1) Store doors only in a dry room—never in a new building where plaster is wet. (2) Apply a primer coat immediately after delivery. (3) Never cut a lock mortise deeper than within one inch from the inside edge of a door stile. (4) Give the top and bottom edges of a door at least two coats of paint or varnish immediately after the door has been fitted.

Stationary Tub Goes Glamorous Losing Weight

The stationary laundry tub has taken on glamor. Soapstone, porcelain and concrete have given way to fibre glass-reinforced plastic in green, blue, yellow or white. The weight of the tub has been reduced by 90 per cent —so light that a woman can lift it. The prosaic angle-iron stand has been replaced by a graceful wrought iron fixture. The tubs are made of the same material now being used for lightweight bathtubs, sports car bodies and military body armor.

Lightweight and graceful, this tub is made of plastic and fibre glass.

Ideas for your basement modernization—Knotty pine walls, asphalt, tiled floor, and a nook in the windows. This is a project that creates an garden outside to provide flowers and sunshine an informal family room at a minimum building cost.

Floor Drain Keeps Bathroom Neat

A smart trick in bathroom planning is to place a drain in the tiled floor and slope the floor slightly toward the drain.

This simplifies mopping the floor and when children splash in the tub or shower, the water goes down the drain instead of standing in puddles on the floor.

It is a safety measure, too. On those rare occasions when someone lets a bathtub or wash basin overflow, the water merely runs down the drain in the tile floor, instead of under the door and on the carpets of other rooms.

Stepladder Won't Bark Your Shins

By WM. A. SWARTWORTH

NEW STYLE Stepladder — Its curved steps save shins.

Have you ever wondered why somebody doesn't do something about the straight edges on stepladder steps which play havoc with your shinbones every time you do a dab of painting or some similar chore?

Well, somebody has—at last.

After much thought and a little work, John L. McClothen, 63-year-old retired Pittsburgh, Pa., machinist, came up with a concave—or inwardly offset—tread that permits you to work in a sort of cradle.

Demonstrating his improved ladder recently, McClothen, a big man, moved about—facing backward and forward—with an agility just about impossible on a conventional ladder.

"When using a straight-tread ladder," he explained, "a man must stand in a twisted, awkward and off-balance position. He cannot brace himself.

"With this ladder he has freedom of foot movements and can stand at ease, facing in any direction, with legs firmly secure in the recess of the tread."

McClothen has patents on both the tread and strut support design. But he has one big problem. No one has stepped forward with an offer to manufacture the new ladder.

Eleven States in U.S. West Are Thrown Into Confusion By False Air-Raid Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—A false air-raid alert which originated Thursday at a vigilant Canadian radar station and threw 11 Western states into varying stages of preparation for an enemy attack was still causing repercussions today.

An unexplained breakdown in the American communications network caused a delay in advising that unidentified planes picked up by a Canadian westcoast radar station were United States Air Force B-47 jet bombers on a routine exercise. The British Columbia station reported the aircraft as a routine measure, since often as many as 50 American planes a week flying from Alaska to the U.S. pass through the Canadian radar screen.

"Normally we use them as an exercise," said a high-ranking RCAF officer in Vancouver.

CONFESSING RESULTS

RCAF C-100 fighters scrambled for an interception, and the American civil defence system swung into action—while confessing results.

At Olympia, Wash., Admiral B.G. Lake, state assistant director of civil defence, said the alert apparently originated at McChord air force base near Tacoma, but didn't reach defence officials in that state at all.

Lake said he assumed the warning was not relayed because the observer at McChord had "acted wisely" in holding the message for a recheck. The alert was relayed, however, to California air force bases, and Hamilton air force base, north of San Francisco, and the warning to the Alameda county (Oakland) sheriff's office which immediately broadcast:

"Attention all points and all stations. Set condition yellow. This is not a test." The message was repeated seven times.

ATTAK EXPECTED

Yellow alert means an attack is expected; a red alert means attack imminent.

A San Francisco operator of the city's alert system said the mix-up came exactly as it was supposed to—that even though the routine procedure of checking the authenticity of such a warning. By the time he had checked it out the all-clear had sounded.

Several American cities west of Oklahoma also broadcast the yellow alert. But in other cities in Utah, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Texas and Louisiana only a white alert (military emergency) went to military units.

Many U.S. radio and television stations went off the air and some started "control—a series of civil defence broadcasts on selected channels.

In Nevada, no alert was given because the entire staff of officials in the state's civil defence program was at Las Vegas for Thursday's atom bomb test. Colorado fallied entirely to get the warning.

Several stations went off the air in Los Angeles for about seven minutes, and in Sacramento, Calif., 1,000 persons took refuge in the Capitol Building basement. In San Mateo, a San Francisco suburb of 55,000 school children went through an air raid drill—but the city's sirens all failed.

The continental air defence command in Colorado Springs and air force headquarters in Washington said that "because of a communications delay within the air defence system, western air defence units failed to receive the notification in time to avoid calling the alert."

There was no civilian alert in the Canadian province as air force authorities did not notify civil defence authorities in Vancouver of the sighting. An RCAF spokesman in Ottawa said the planes were flying away from Vancouver when picked up, and eventually left the system.

METEORITE LANDS

BILL APPROVED

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—A South African government bill condemned by opponents as an attempt to "pack" the country's highest court got full parliamentary approval Thursday when it was passed by the Senate 26 to 15. The bill will enlarge the quorum of appeal court judges from five to 11. In cases testing the validity of acts of parliament.

Public Hearings On Canadian TV Code Proposed

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC plans coast-to-coast public hearings at which individuals and organizations may express their ideas for a Canadian television code.

A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, told the Commons committee on broadcasting Thursday that the hearings should start soon.

Aim will be to devise a code comparable to the set of regulations now governing sound broadcasting in Canada.

Mr. Dunton said there now is, in effect, a gentlemen's agreement that while Canada's TV policies is being worked out the general spirit of the regulations governing should broadcasting will prevail.

TO PRODUCE OWN

Turning to another side of the industry, he said that while, so far as can be seen, it will always be cheaper to import English-language television shows, the CBC prefers to "produce our own shows to reduce the percentage of our costs from sponsors."

The CBC now recovered 50 to 60 per cent of its productions' costs from sponsors, apart from spot shows such as sports events.

A the concentration of viewers increases, he said, the CBC's sponsorship rates will go up and it is hoped a greater proportion of the costs will be recovered. There seemed little chance the CBC would ever recover 100 per cent

Coming Ontario Vote Likely To See First TV Campaigning In Canada's Political History

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario voters likely will be the first Canadians in history to get their political campaigning over television.

A CBC spokesman said the publicly-owned corporation is prepared to permit its own stations and those privately owned to be used for political purposes in the Ontario election campaign.

"The various political parties participating in the Ontario election will be given free time on the Ontario television network for political speeches if they want it," the spokesman said.

He disclosed that CBC officials, including chairman A. D. Dunton, will meet in Toronto Monday with officials of the Ontario Progressive Conservative, Liberal and CCF parties to discuss the use of television in the campaign for the June 9 election.

It is quite possible that a schedule will be arranged to permit the parties to make televised political speeches. We understand that the parties desire that this be done."

Federal political parties decided not to use television during the 1953 general election campaign. The Liberal, Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties at that time felt the medium was too new and such use of it required further study.

Two aspects of televised political speeches will be looked at by the Toronto meeting. In addition, the meeting will decide on free time to be allotted to each party and the Ontario radio network.

The broadcasting parties decided to use television during the meeting first" will decide on the amount of free time to be granted each political party. CBC television stations at Toronto and Ottawa. Chances were excellent that, if this time is granted, the televised political speeches also would be carried over the nine privately owned TV stations forming the Ontario network with the two CBC outlets.

The meeting probably would also discuss whether privately-owned television stations should be permitted to sell time for local political speeches.

Basis on which time would be allotted among the parties on CBC stations or the network has' not been decided, the spokesman said.

In the 1951 Ontario provincial election free time on the CBC's Ontario radio network was divided equally among the Progressive Conservative, Liberal and CCF parties.

This formula may be changed at the coming meeting, depending on what the parties want this election," he said.

Privately-owned radio stations are permitted to sell time for political broadcasts. This right is not expected to be withdrawn at the Toronto meeting.

If it is decided to televise political speeches on the CBC TV network they probably will be heard over stations in Toronto, Ottawa, Windsor, Kitchener, Hamilton, Sudbury, Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie Kingston and Peterborough.

Allocation of free time on the CBC's national radio network for federal political parties is based on representation in the House at the time a general election is called. No decision has been made yet on use of television by political parties during the next federal election campaigns.

However, free radio time is granted on the basis of representations to minor federal parties by their own viewer before the public on the CBC network program, The Nation's Business.

Canadian Welfare Council to Elect New Governors

WINDSOR, Ont. (P)—A'new board of governors will be elected at today's sessions of the annual Canadiad Welfare Council meeting which began Thursday with more than 300 social and welfare workers from all parts of Canada attending.

Today's session will also hear the annual reports from council executives.

Opening sessions Thursday were devoted to reports from the council's standing divisions on delinquency and crime Community Chests, Family and Child welfare needs of immigrants.

PEACE TO UNREST

Stuart Godfrey, assistant deputy minister of public welfare for Ontario, told the family and child welfare division that many of the problems of family unit can be traced to economic and political unrest.

The division approved a report recommending improved adoption legislation to ease adoptions across the anadian-American border to combat existing "black market" practices in babies.

The report said in many pats of Canada there are more children up for adoption than there are families to take them, while in other areas the reverse is true.

Addressing the delinquency and crime division, Albert Virgin, director of training schools for Ontario, said the incidence rate of juvenile delinquency in Canada has been cut in half in the last 10-year period, on which accurate figures are available.

NUMBERS CUT

In 1942, he said, 12,224 juveniles were arrested in Canada. In 1952, this number had been cut to 6,213. The number of juveniles committed to institutions in 1942 was 10,-000, compared with 4,000 in 1952, he said. This decline in juvenile crimes was chiefly due to the effective work of trained welfare officials.

Division chairman Rev. D. B. Macdonald of Ottawa, told the meeting an effective rehabilitation system of parolee for prisoners would aid in rehabilitating many convicts now considered habitual.

Quoting from a brief presented by the federal justice department, he said placing a prisoner on parole gives him a chance to reestablish with a minimum of strain to the responsibilities of community life after the narrow life within a prison.

3 Owen Sound Youths Remanded

GODERICH (CP)—Three Owen Sound hitchhikers charged with robbery with violence of a 36-year-old CNR employee were remanded Thursday until the age of the youngest member of the trio is determined.

James Steffler, 17, Vincent Donald Flood, 16, and the third youth were arrested Sunday after W. J. Kennedy of Kincardine was found bleeding and unconscious on a highway near here.

Mother of the third boy, said her son is not yet 16, if proved under 16, he will be tried in juvenile court. Police said Kennedy was returning home from a train run to Owen Sound when he was attacked and his car stolen. The youths were picked up after the car they were driving rammed into a tree.

OTTAWA (CP)—A justice of the Supreme Court of Canada says it is illegal for anyone to break up a religious meeting of any faith.

Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau made the remark Thursday while commenting, along with others of the nine court members, on argument in behalf of three Quebec provincial police.

Glen How of Toronto, counsel for Exymier Chaput of Chapeau, Que., claims the officers interfered with Mr. Chaput's religious freedom when they broke up a meeting of about 25 persons in his home Sunday afternoon, Sept. 4, 1949, Mr. Chaput seeks $5,000 damages.

The Quebec Superior Court and Court of Appeals have dismissed his claim, which is now being carried to Canada's highest court.

"IN GOOD FAITH"

Counsel for the officers, Avila Labelle of Hull, Que., said they may not have been right in dispersing the meeting and seizing a Bible, pamphlets and hymn books. But they had acted in good faith on superiors' orders and in the belief the meeting was seditious. This, he said, would affect their action.

Mr. Justice I. C. Rand commented that good faith is no justification for doing something that is illegal.

Mr. Justice Taschereau said he never saw a crime committed in good faith. He described the officers' belief that the meeting was seditious as "an after-thought" They went to Mr. Chaput's home for the sole purpose of stopping the meeting, he said.

BEFORE RULING

Mr. Labelle noted that the Chapeau meeting was held before the Supreme Court ruled late in 1919 that a Jehovah's Witness pamphlet entitled "Quebec Burning Hate" was not seditious. The Quebec Court of Appeals had ruled it was seditious and the officers acted on that assumption, Mr. Labelle argued.

Evidence is that the Bible seized was the Holy Bible, before the Supreme Court ruled late in 1919 that a Jehovah's Witness pamphlet entitled "Quebec Burning Hate" was not seditious. The Quebec Court of Appeals had ruled it was seditious and the officers acted on that assumption, Mr. Labelle argued.

Evidence is that the Bible seized was the Holy Bible, before the Mr. Justice Taschereau asked: "There's wrong with reading a Catholic Bible?"

Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux interjected that the pamphlet case had nothing to do with the officers' Chapeau action. Mr. Labelle argued that a police belief that an offence was committed makes the Witness meeting justified their action even if no offence was committed.

REASONABLE GROUND

Mr. Justice Rand said police must have a reasonable ground in fact before they can assume a crime is about to be, or has to be committed, and act accordingly.

Earlier Mr. Kew said the officers had no search warrant authorizing them to seize Mr. Chaput's Bible and pamphlets. The seized matter was never used as evidence against Mr. Chaput because no charge was brought against him.

The ultimate result of upholding the officers' argument that they had reasonable grounds for would be to let police do anything they wanted and that anything they did would become law.

"That is the difference between a democracy and a police state," he said.

PAPER FIRMS APPEAL

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment Thursday on an appeal by 25 paper firms from their conviction on combining to fix prices and resulting fines totalling $234,000. The hearing took 14 days. The appellants include seven paper mills, 20 incorporated wholesalers, one unincorporated merchant and the secretary of the Fine Paper Wholesalers' Association.

Ont. Liberal Calls For Tariff Protection For Wool Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ontario Liberal called Thursday for tariff protection for the Canadian woollen industry from British competition.

Arthur White, whose Waterloo South constituency is a textile area, asked Finance Minister Harris to reconsider the budget decision that no change will be made in the tariff ceiling on United Kingdom woollens.

The Galt lawyer said the ceiling of 50 cents a pound means British manufacturers can offer cloth in Canada at 50 to 60 cents a yard cheaper than Canadian production costs.

Mr. White said the ceiling should be eliminated before Canada signs the new General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade under which it would agree to make no tariff increases.

He also said Canada should have the same "escape clauses" under GATT that are to be granted by the United States.

"We have listened too long to members of the United States government give lip service to the principles of freer trade and then as soon as any of their industries are suffering from competition they immediately slap on quotas and use the escape clauses under GATT."

With Canada holding the same privileges given the U.S. under GATT, "if the United States or any other country wantonly uses the escape clauses against us then we should protect our own industries in the same method."

Mr. White referred to the recent tariff board study of the British woot tariff.

The board's report said the concession of a tariff ceiling to U.K. woollens was not entirely responsible for the problems facing the Canadian wool industry. It cited other factors including competition from synthetic fabrics, a declining demand for woollens and changing buying habits.)

Mr. White's demand for abolition of the U.K. woollen tariff maximum for U.K. woollens would mean a full tariff of 30 per cent plus 12 cents a pound, would apply. "CLEAR INDICATION"

He said the board's finding that 17 Canadian mills had been closed and employment reduced by 40 per cent between 1949 and 1954 is "a clear indication that the Canadian industry has suffered and is suffering serious injury."

The Canadian industry was not seeking an increase in wool tariffs, just mercy abolition of the ceiling on U.K. imports.

The original purpose of the ceiling was to permit importation of high-grice, fancy British woollens which could not be made economically in Canada. But prices had risen to such an extent that duty applied to nearly all wool imports from Britain.

Mr. White said there is no doubt in his mind that the 50-cent maximum is one of the contributing factors in the plight of the Canadian industry.

Wages were another factor. In 1935 the Canadian industry paid wages 55 per cent higher than those in Britain. Now they were 151 per cent higher.

Controversy Develops at Rail Crossing Hearings in Capital

OTTAWA (CP)—Controversy has developed before the Commons board of transportation of traffic at rail-highway crossings.

Contention arose Thursday over: 1. A CPR-CNR proposal to have Parliament slap on a $25 fine on persons disregarding official warning signs at crossings.

2. A request from Bell Telephone Co. that cities be forbidden to pass the cost of moving their transmission lines when they put overpasses or underpasses are being built at railhighway junctions.

Debate on these points arose as the committee considered a government bill to increase to $5,000,000 from $1,000,000 a year the treasury contribution into the grade crossing fund used to help railways and highway authorities in building protective devices at crossings.

The committee adjourned consideration of the bill—and incidental proposals—until next week.

The $25 fine proposal, brought in by the CNR as a suggested means of checking level crossing accidents, was opposed by Transport Minister Marler. It might, he thought, infringe on the jurisdiction of the legislatures.

The Bell proposal also ran into opposition from Mr. Marler and from the CPR. Mr. Marler said the board of transport commissioners, which allocates costs of crossing projects, already has aired the question and decided against a recommendation to Parliament.

PR counsel K. D. M. Spence said the Bell company is very fairly treated, getting free use of highway land for its lines.

Seven Cases Polio Reported, None Vaccinated

TORONTO (P)—Seven cases of polio in the metropolitan Toronto area—all of them involving children from suburban North York—were reported Thursday by health officials.

Three of the cases were described as serious with "a species of paralysis" showing in each case.

None of those stricken had received the Salk anti-polio vaccine. The children were admitted to the Hospital for Sick Children within the past few days. Hospital officials said the victims included some playmates and had been in close contact with one another.

Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, city medical health officer, said there has been a rise in polio reported in the city of Toronto proper.

Some 30,000 Toronto school children will receive Salk anti-polio vaccine injections Monday. For some 20,000 of them it will be their second inoculation.

Four Trains A Day Still Chug Along "Railway of Death"

By MICHAEL NELSON

KANCHANABURI, Thailand (Reuters)—Four trains a day still chug slowly from Bahren Pisbon to Wang-Po, in central Thailand, along the "railway of death" built with the lives of 40,000 British, Australian and Dutch prisoners-of-war and an unknown number of Indians, Javanese, Malays and Chinese.

This railway was built during the war under the direction of the imperial Japanese army to fulfil the dream of linking Thailand with Burma. In less than a year, thousands of "white coolies" and hundreds of thousands of Asians built a railway 240 miles long through some of the toughest jungle country in the world.

But no trains come down from Burma now.

Apart from 60 miles or so still in use, the jungle has reclaimed the track.

Some engines which travel on the section of track still open are originals brought up from Japan during the Second World War. Others, ironically enough, are new models, bought from Japan in the last few years.

At railway stations, the same villagers who sold food to half-starved soldiers trot along the side of the train with their travelling kitchens on their shoulders and rice sizzling on portable cookery as they run.

In a temple at Bang-Po, a Buddhist priest described how he had sold bananas and papayas and mangoes to those prisoners.

"The prisoners were thin like skeletons," he said, "and we sold them the food very cheap."

The Thai government considered rebuilding the railway right through to Burma again. But it decided against it. The terrain is too difficult.

Instead, it intends to build a new railway in easier country on a route used by Burmese invaders in the section of track still open are

R al Battle Shaping Up For Nomination

PICTON.—A real battle for the Progressive Conservative nomination in Prince Edward-Lennox is shaping up.

Seeking re-election will be Norris Whitney. Opposing him at the convention to be held at the Parish House in Picton, Saturday afternoon, May 14, will be Jack K. Welsh of Demorestville, who lost the nomination four years ago to Mr. Whitney by a few votes.

Both candidates are former wardens of Prince Edward county and both are widely known in both sections of the riding.

It is likely several will be nominated but so far, only Mr. Whitney and Mr. Welsh have announced that they will let their names stand.

Using a system of delegates from each polling sub-division the convention usually attracts around 500 supporters. With a keen battle for the nomination in the offing, a full attendance is expected by association officers.

Municipalities To Seek Federal, Provincial Aid

CHATHAM (CP) — Southwestern Ontario municipalities facing possible forced installation of sewage disposal plants have decided to ask the federal and provincial governments to pay 75 per cent of the cost.

Representatives from Windsor, Sarnia, Chatham and Wallaceburg estimated at a joint meeting here that it would take more than $17,000,000 to cover the entire project. They claim the task is a financial impossibility for them.

Installation of sewage disposal plants in these communities was recommended by an international joint commission headed by Saul St. Marie and Niagara Falls, also

Leslie is six-year-old Leslie Ann Murray of suburban Grosse Pointe Woods and the lamb is her pet named Fuzzy. "Fuzzy is a he."

When Fuzzy followed Leslie to kindergarten one day, the teacher, Mrs. Mary Rea, didn't turn him out like her Mother Goose counterpart. Instead, she decided the frisky animal would make a good school mascot and invited Fuzzy to come back.

The children take turns feeding him and racing with him at recess time. During class he curls up in the middle of the children for the afternoon.

ONCE FAMILIAR SIGHT

This forest of spars at Lunenburg, N.S., was a familiar sight about 30 years ago or more, but now is thinning out. The famed schooners of the Lunenburg deep-sea fishing fleet are giving way to modern draggers and soon will be but a memory. The Nova Scotia Bureau of Information photo shows the schooners at their piers. (CP Photo).

Draggers Replacing Schooners That Graced Lunenburg Harbor

By GERALD FREEMAN

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—The clean-lined schooners that made Lunenburg a famed fishing port are vanishing from the seas, and the men who sailed them are bowing to relentless, unromantic progress.

Schooners are being replaced by stubby, work-a-day draggers, regular fishing machines. Schooners captured the imagination but draggers catch more fish, and they've doomed the sleeker ships as surely as railways doomed stagecoaches.

Draggers are built high from the water and most have diesel engines that drive them faster than any sail and provide power for refrigerated storage space.

Schooners were long and low and trim as tommycod, built to pace to the banks and home again with their perishable catch. They carried 25 to 30 men, about twice as many as draggers.

LONELY REMINDERS

Earlier in the century the twin spars of nearly 150 schooners made Lunenburg's busy waterfront look like a leafless forest. Now only 11 or 12 are left, lonely, sea-scarred reminders of the past. There are fewer than a dozen draggers.

No schooners have been built since the Second World War in Lunenburg's shipyards, and some of those remaining have been converted to draggers.

The sharp-eyed skipper who commanded the greatest of them all has resigned himself to the new era. Angus Walters was master of the Bluenose when, fresh from her launching here in 1922, she began her career by winning her first international ocean schooner race. The 140-foot vessel was the longest ever built here.

The Bluenose-Walters team kept winning through the 1920s and '30s and Bluenose became one of Canada's proudest legends.

Capt. Walters sold her in 1940, and she didn't long survive. She grounded on a reef one stormy night off Haiti, and waves pounded her to pieces.

HISTORIC LOSS

Her wheel is preserved in a hotel here, and she's pictured on a shilling along in "a living gale" on the back of Canadian dimes.

Capt. Walters sold her to a firm that put her in trade in the West Indies, and "it was the greatest mistake ever created."

He blames the government because he couldn't get the backing he needed to turn the Bluenose into a fisheries museum after he retired from the sea.

He figures it would have been worth "millions of dollars" to Nova Scotia's tourist industry.

"When I knew I wouldn't see the Bluenose again it was like walking out of a cemetery," Capt. Walters says. "But after 60-odd years at sea I wanted to stay ashore. It was a choice between the Bluenose and my dairy."

Capt. Walters is 74 now and in a new era himself. He's been retired from the sea for 15 years, and is owner-manager of the town's only dairy.

"Whether you're a farmer, fisherman or fiddler," he says, "you've got to keep up with the times. We all know machines have taken the place of hand labor, and the dragger is the latest method of fishing."

But he's still a schooner man. "I think it's been proved in other countries that the dragger has destroyed the fishing grounds. It seems the schooner can keep fishing in the same spot for years."

Schooner fishermen rowed away from their ships in dories to handline for cod on the fishing banks. Draggers scrape the bottom with a huge cone that trails a net to gather everything in its path. Capt. Walters says that in places like the North sea draggers have so disturbed the bottom the fishing has been ruined for years.

Witness Points Out Accused As Slayer

REGINA (CP)—A pudgy housekeeper Thursday pointed out a man with whom she once lived as the slayer of 76-year-old Miles Tudor.

Elizabeth (Tootsie) La Fleche, testifying during the preliminary hearing of Jacob Dyck, 45, charged with Tudor's murder, said she was with the two men during a drinking party on New Year's Day, 1954.

Mrs. La Fleche testified that during the party she went into Tudor's bedroom and found Dyck standing over Tudor's hammered body. They then divided $2,480 they found in the ol man's money belt, she said.

Mrs. La Fleche also is charged with Tudor's slaying, and her preliminary hearing will follow immediately after Dyck's.

Tudor's badly decomposed body was not found until last April 15, 15 months after he died. The body had been sealed into one of the three rooms in his small east-end Regina home.

Madeline James Heads Quinte Mixed League

The Quinte Mixed Bowling League lives to its record last night at the annual banquet held at Tobe's County Gardens.

It was a grand party. For once the distaff side had its say, so much in fact that when the male of the species refused for various reasons the president's job for next year—what happened? You guessed it. A lady, Mrs. Madeine James took the job while red-faced males applauded her gesture.

Murray Ritchie, the out-going prexy, was in great form. He announced the various items of business, with a definite sense of humor aided and abetted by 'hecklers' from the crowd. It was one of those parties where everything went by the board but a definite decorum was maintained until the business session was concluded.

The league is the largest in the bowling register of the city. Fourteen teams, comprised of the Dead Heads, Head-Pins, Eager Beavers, Champs, Lazy Aces, Old Timers, Tack Heads, Zombies, Alley Cats, Sun Rays, Punks, Wild Cats and Hot Shots, had a fine season.

The Champs, living up to their name, won the league championship and the bauble that goes with it. Members of the titular squad which include Vince Sagriff, Art. Whalen, P. Ronsky, J. Ronsky, G. Jarvah, Al. Wardhaugh and his grand gal Theresa, and D. Anderson were presented with handsome trophies by prexy Ritchie.

Individual prizes were given to both lady and gentlemen winners. Fred Mulvihill

Jean Mulvihill was tops in the ladies' average with a 203; June Dymock headed the ladies' high triple with a 777 while Madeline James had the high single of 337.

Cec Hardwick had the men's high average with a 225. Waller Moore had the high triple of 786 while M. Thrasher topped the singles with a 346.

Hidden score prizes were presented to Madeline James, Doris McLean, Jean Mulvihill, Earl Cousins, Fred Clarke and Cec Hardwick.

The league paid tangible tribute to its popular president, Murray Ritchie through the presentation of a box of golf balls through treasurer Hugh Sullivan.

In the election of officers several male nominees turned down the office of president for various reasons. It remained for a lady, Mrs. James to accept the position. Vince Sagriff, a well-known city bowler took over the job of secretary while June Dymock will handle the league's purse strings next year.

Following the dinner and the business session upwards of 100 league members and guests enjoyed dancing.

ACQUIT DRIVER

BARRIE (CP) — Everett Blair Wright, 27, of Penetanguishene Thursday was acquitted on a charge of dangerous driving in connection with an accident Jan. 29 in which Pte. Raymond Bedard of Camp Borden was killed.

Ted Kennedy's Farewell to Hockey Featured by Hart Trophy Award

MONTREAL (CP)—Ted Kennedy Toronto Maple Leafs' captain who announced his retirement as a player a few weeks ago, has finally been named as an individual award the Hart Trophy—after 12 completed seasons in the National Hockey League.

Selection of the 29-year-old Toronto centre by hockey writers broadcasters and telecasters, was announced Thursday night by the NHL, which issues its $1,000 with the award. The trophy goes to the league player most valuable to his team during the season.

It is unusual that the starry Leaf centre, the take-charge man of the team, has never won an individual award before; nor has he ever made the NHL's first all-star team. He was voted the centre post on the second all-star team three times in his career.

At Toronto, Kennedy said Thursday night he was happy about getting the trophy award but it would not influence his retirement from the National Hockey League.

Kennedy's quit the game after Leafs were eliminated by Detroit in the Stanley Cup semi-finals this spring to devote full time to his job as salesman for a building material company.

"I don't know if I deserved the Hart or not in the past," Ted said. "But the way I saw it, I was of less value to my club last season than I was in some of the other years. Personally I would have preferred to have gone out on a Stanley Cup team."

ARGOS SIGN COACH

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Early, 33-year-old veteran of nine coaching seasons at Notre Dame, has been signed as backfield coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union, it was announced Thursday night.

Early will continue as backfield coach of Notre Dame through the spring practices, which end today. He is due in Toronto at the end of June.

Argo head coach Bill Swiacki originally had sought George Dickson, also a Notre Dame backfield coach but this deal fell through after reports of the negotiations were released prematurely.

Ward Not Ready To Turn Pro

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvie Ward Jr., one of the best of the world's amateur golfers, said Thursday he had no desire to turn pro because "it might spoil the game for me."

"As it is, I get a terrific kick out of playing golf," the 29-year-old Walker Cup ace said. "If I turned pro it would become a cold, cut-throat business. That's not for me.

"I can play when I want to. I'm not dependent on the game for my livelihood. It's pleasure rather than work. I'll never turn pro."

Ward, 1952 British Amateur champion and runner-up for the same title in 1953, is a member of the nine-man U.S. team which sailed Thursday for the Walker Cup matches at historic St. Andrews, Scotland, May 20-21.

Whip Features Wrestling Card

A topnotch card will feature the opening of the wrestling season at the Memorial Arena tonight. Whipper Billy Watson, popular British Empire champion, will oppose Ercle Dusek, the Nebraska Bearcat, in the main event.

Ernie Dusek is one of the most rugged and experienced battlers to charge into a ring. When he meets the Whipper, though, he'll be in against an opponent who combines speed, skill and hard-hitting specialties that have taken Watson to the game's top brackets.

Tex McKenzie, six-foot-nine, 270-lb. Texas rancher, will tackle Emil Dusek, another brother of the notorious Dusek Riot Squad. The gigantic, young McKenzie is a capable and popular athlete who can usually take care of any kind of opposition.

The first match on the program will be Pat Flanagan, of Toronto, against Jan Gotch, of Hamilton.

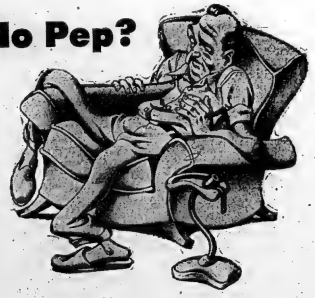
The best of Tall Tales



There's a story going around about a stage hypnotist who invited a member of the audience to volunteer to help in the act. When the volunteer he had was under the influence the hypnotist told him he was carrying a heavy ladder on his shoulder. The audience roared with laughter at the sight of the man staggering along under the weight of an imaginary ladder. The hypnotist laughed too . . . until his volunteer assistant suddenly turned around and knocked the hypnotist clean off the stage with the end of the ladder.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

DERBY DAY IN KAINTUCK

Tomorrow is Derby Day in Ole Kaintuck,

Dawn Lovelyvale way in the blue grass country, trackdom's faithful will miracle with society's glamor as the most colorful track classic in American turf annals gets under way.

The blue grass belongs to the home of Ole Black Joe, but a lot of green "stuff", the kind you cannot eat, will change pockets before the spring sunshine fades along the trail of the lonesome pine. Or is that in Virginia?

Rambling old Churchill Downs with its spire like a church, will be close-packed with sportsmen and sportswomen from north, south, east and west, not to mention the inevitable gate-crashers. The pretty Kentucky flowers will vie in their flaming beauty with glamorous Kentucky and other belles. Derby Day is their "coming-out" party.

Long queues will form at the mutuel windows. There will be Derby breakfasts and mint juleps in frosted cut-glass bowls and frosted glasses.

Probably a vice-president will be there with governors, senators, congressmen and mayors. There will be louts, too. ("Could Ah see you-all for a minute, buh. Don't bet Hoe's Back. He's likely to be scratched. 'N I don't like Sick Leaf. He's not well-bred. Garlic looks good. Won his last race by a breath. For my money, buh, I'd take New Potato. It's in the bag.")

There will be fried chicken and hickory-smoked ham in the basket. Colored boys in stable colors will croon to their darlings as they walk them round and round. Top-hatted gentlemen oozing lucre will squire beautifully-garbed women. Flags and bunting will whip in the southern breeze. The ice-deep crowd along the rail. Darkies ambling hither and yon. Ah, to be in Ole Kaintuck on Derby Day.

All eyes will be centred on the favorite, Nashua, the Belle Sind colt which flew a mile around the Churchill Downs track the other day in 1.37 3/5. He galloped the full Derby route in 2.05 3/5—a time much faster than some of the actual Derby clockings.

Aboard Nashua will be the famous Eddie (Banana Nose) Arcaro who has five Derby winners to his credit. Nashua is said to be an "ornery critter" tabbed by Ted Atkinson, who pinch-rods for Arcaro in the Woods Memorial as an "ungovernable, unnerving and unpredictable horse that can pin like the devil when he wants to."

But Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons said: "He's not mean, he's just capricious—a big over-grown play boy." Nashua's groom calls him a "juvenile delinquent."

But there are some who fancy "Summer Tan" who was beaten by a nose by Nashua after a perfect ride by Atkinson in the Woods Memorial. And an odd characteristic of Nashua may help the "Tan" to victory. Nashua does not like crowds. He has been known to shy away from a small group of people. And with thousands cheering and yelling from the rail a scant three feet from the track—who knows what might happen.

As we said before the famous mint julep is part and parcel of Kentucky, especially the "cunnels, suh." This is how the julep came into being. A Tennessee legislator riding thru' Kentucky, via Dobbin, stopped at the plantation home of a "cunnel", where he was given some bourbon served neat in a water glass.

"How come," he inquired politely, "that distinguished citizens of Kaintucky have not learned the delights of the julep." He, therefore, sent some servants to pick some mint and whipped some juleps.

Months later the Tennessean retraced his steps and stopped at the plantation. He asked for the master of the mansion. An old half-blind negro lost no time in explaining that his master was dead—and the cause thereof.

"No, suh," he sighed. "The cunnel ain't heah no mo.' He took to his bed right after some no-count gen'man from Tennessee teached him to put grass in his whisky an' jes plain drunk himself to death."

Wants Name For Al Kaline

DETROIT (AP) — Sports editor Lyall Smith of the Detroit Free Press had a problem. He wanted to give a nickname to Al Kaline, the young slugger of the Detroit Tigers, but couldn't think of one.

So he asked his readers to send in some nicknames. Here are a few:

"A Bomb Al . . . The Nipper . . . The Greyhound . . . The Arm . . . King . . . Zip . . . Kitten . . . Baby Doll . . . Al . . .

But the best perhaps, was "Sally."

"After all," pointed out the reader, "salt means alkaline." Ouch!

Rally To Smack Cardinals As Giants Wallop Cubs 6-3; Race Tightens In American

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This isn't the way it was supposed to be at all.

Here's Brooklyn shooting along at a .200 clip in the National, the league that was set for a dog fight, and a whole pack of teams beating their chests in the American, where the race was thought to be cut and dried.

Brooklyn now have won 18 of 20. They downed St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 Thursday. Only team to beat Brooklyn so far is the New York Giants. And that's all the Giants have shown to support their world championship banner.

Giants finally reached .500 Thursday beating Chicago Cubs 6-3. That moved New York into third place, but still eight games back of the flying Brooks.

In the only other National League game played, the surprising Pittsburgh Pirates made it three straight over Milwaukee 5-4. The Bucs pulled off the season's first triple play.

TIGERS SHARE FIRST

Only one game was scheduled in the American and Detroit won it, beating Boston 3-2 to move into a first place tie with Cleveland.

That left the Tigers and Indians a game ahead of Chicago and 1½ ahead of New York, the only two teams expected to wrestle Cleveland for the pennant. Kansas City Athletics, whose shift from Philadelphia was figured to be their big move of the season, are in fifth, only three games back.

Even last place Baltimore is just eight games back.

Milwaukee, Brooklyn and New York were to fight it out for the National League spotlight, but St. Louis and Cincinnati providing outside threats. There is no one can catch the Brooks to tell them they have the wrong script.

DRIVES IN SIX

The Bucs play wrapped it up for the Bucs, killing a Milwaukee rally in the seventh inning. It was started by Ed Mathews' liner to first baseman Dale Long, who had quite a day for himself. He drove in six runs, hammering three doubles.

Brooklyn came from behind to smack the Cards, taking a 3-2 lead and then breaking a 3-3 tie on a walk and two sacrifices.

Tom Lasorda started for Brooklyn, but left after a hectic first in which he tied the National League record with three wild pitches in one inning. Wally Moon, sliding home on one of the wild tosses, got a two-inch spike wound on Lasorda's knee. Clem Labine and Ed Roebuck finished, with Roebuck the winner.

MAGLIE WINS

The Giants finally got a victory from Sal Maglie, although he left in the seventh after thunder showers caused almost an hour's delay. Billy Gardner got four New York runs home with a single and a two-baseb double.

Detroit advanced on Al Kaline's triple that broke a 2-2 tie with two out in the ninth. Until then, Boston's Tom Brewer and Tiger rookie Duke Maas had battled to a draw.

Nashua Favored To Win Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Nashua, the odds-on favorite, will win Saturday's Kentucky Derby in the opinion of the big majority of the men writing about the race.

Of the 65 newspaper men polled, 45 picked Nashua to win. Swaps was the choice of nine and Summer Tan of eight.

Jethroe Hits Around Horn In Leafs' Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sam Jethroe, veteran centrefielder with Toronto Maple Leafs, showed Thursday night why he was once a star with Milwaukee of the National League.

Jethroe led Leafs to a 9-3 victory over Havana Sugar Kings by slamming a home run, triple, double and single and scoring three runs. The victory, watched by 3,294 fans at Toronto, moved the International League's pennant winners into a second place tie with Columbus Jets, a game and a half behind Montreal Royals.

The Montreal team won their fifth game in their last six starts by knocking off Syracuse Chiefs 9-4. In other games Rochester Red Wings defeated Richmond Virginians 4-2 and Buffalo Bisons stopped Columbus 7-4.

BLAKE IS WINNER

Behind 2-0, the Leafs went in front in the fourth. Lew Morton homered in the fourth and Jethroe connected for his sixth four-bagger of the season in the eighth for climax a 16-hit Toronto assault. Eddie Blake, in posting his third victory in five starts, allowed only five hits.

Montreal produced a 13-hit attack in downing Syracuse after the Chiefs forged ahead 3-0 in the first inning. Gich Cox held the Chiefs off the rest of the way, while Montreal batters pounded five Syracuse hurlers. Chico Fernandez had a perfect night for the Royals with three hits in three at bats.

Strong relief pitching by veteran righthander Ellis (Cot) Deal, who gave up three hits in 5 1-3 innings, sparked the Red Wings' victory. Hochester jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Tommy Burgess hit a home run off losing pitcher Jocko Thompson with one aboard.

The Blasos scored three runs in the sixth and two in the seventh to overcome Columbus. Lou Limmer and Al Pinks homered for the Jets.

Shawinigan Defeats Edmonton 3-1 To Win New Edinburgh Trophy

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP) —Shawinigan Falls Cataracts have closed the 1954-55 hockey season in Canada by winning the Edinburgh Trophy, emblematic of the country's minor professional championship.

The Cataracts won the title by defeating Edmonton Flyers 3-1 Thursday night and taking a best-of-seven playoff series 5-2.

In doing so, they overcame a home-town jinx that had plagued them since the start of the series. Prior to Thursday night, the Cataracts had failed to win at home all their victories coming at the Montreal Forum, the "home ice" of the Flyers.

The toast of this bustling industrial centre today is playing-coach Roger Leger, who came through with the goals needed by Shawinigan Falls for the win. Sonie Broden scored the third goal while Don Polle fired Edmonton's lone tally.

Hundreds of fans poured to the ice to take part in the presentation of the trophy to the Cataracts

Mayor Gaston Hardy of Shawinigan Falls, instrumental in bringing hockey to the city after a one-year lapse, was on hand for the centre-ice ceremony wearing a 10-gallon hat that he won on a bet with the mayor of Edmonton.

The Cataracts were in command almost from the start of the game and the oil city boys tired quickly. The winners fired 44 pucks at Glen Hall in the Edmonton cage while Shawinigan Falls' Bob Perreault was tested only 22 times.

Referee Georges Gravel called 12 minor penalties, eight against the Western League champions.

Leger's first tally, while the Flyers were two men short, came at the 33-second mark of the second period. He fired what proved to be the winner at the 9minute later on a high shot from just inside the blue line.

Edmonton's only tally came at 14:04 when Don Polle pushed a loose puck by Bob Perreault.

Broden got his insurance marker at 14:38 of the third period while both clubs were a man short.

SET BOUT DATE

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion of the world, will defend his title against Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco, in the Polo Grounds on Wednesday night, June 22.

Newcombe Ready To Do What "Boss" Orders

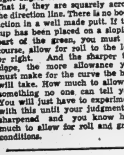
BROOKLYN (AP)—The one-man rebellion and the 24-hour suspension of Don Newcombe ended today with the penitent pitcher ready to accompany the first-place Dodgers to Philadelphia and a greenlight to pitch whenever manager Walter Alston issues the summons.

Newcombe, suspended indefinitely Thursday for refusing to pitch at batting practice and told to "go home," wasted little time making peace with Alston. The 29-year-old righthander, in a telephone conversation with Alston, expressed regret over his action which the manager had termed "insubordination."

Big Newk explained his action was not intended as a defy of Alston's authority.

"I simply wanted to pitch, that's all," Newcombe said. The club was rolling along in high gear and I was angry at myself for not doing my share. I just wanted to help . . . Sure, I refused to pitch batting practice but that was because I knew I would not pitch in the coming series in Philadelphia . . . I had previously been told I would."

Alston said it was the second time within 10 days that Newcombe balked at pitching batting practice.



"I explained to him the reason I wasn't using him was that the weather was cold and I wanted to give his sore arm a chance to come around," said Alston.

LEADS FIRST ROUND

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Chandler Harper of Chattanooga, Tenn., shot a one-under 69 despite a two-stroke penalty on a lost ball Thursday to snare the first round lead in the $25,000 Colonial National invitation golf tournament.

The 41-year-old Harper, who has been 31 years on the tour, had only 30 putts on the 7,035-yard course.But it was his deadly approach shots that gave him lead over a field of 46 others.

Sam Snead's Golf School

5. Today's player's putter is just striking the ball. His left forearm still rests lightly on the left leg and at impact the left forearm slides gently along the direction line just a very short distance with the right hand following this move. Both hands remain at right angle to the line of direction line. That is, they are squarely across the direction line. There is no body action in a well made putt. If the cup has been placed on a sloping part of the green, you must of course, allow for roll to the left or right. And the sharper the slope, the more allowance you must make for the curve the ball will take. How much to allow is something no one can tell you. You will just have to experiment with this until your judgment is sharpened and you know how much to allow for roll and grass conditions.

Predict Record For Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The 81st running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby Saturday will go to the horse able to carry his speed over the mile and one quarter of Churchill Downs' spectacle — but decided oval in close to two minutes and two seconds.

That was the consensus of the trainers of the hand-picked field of three-year-old colts as the names of the horses were dropped into the entry box this morning. A field of 10 was expected for this richest of all Derbies.

Although it'll be the smallest field since Citation beat five rivals in 1948, the value will grow $12,500 for the winner of earning a net of $108,600 if as many as 10 parade to the post for the start at 5:30 p.m. EDT. Radio and television descriptive of America's glamour race by CBS is scheduled from two.

Two fighters are defending Canadian colors. Iroquois and Wet-terweight Sonny Forbes of Toronto, Ontario's contingent.

THE FIRST WARMUP PITCH MIGHT BE AIMED AT THE LAST SHOULDER OF THE CATCHER, THE SECOND AT THE RIGHT KNEE, AND THE THIRD AT THE LAST BOOKS, THE FOURTH AT THE RIGHT KNEE AND THE FIFTH AT THE BELT BUCKLE.

JOHN ANTONELLI, YOUNG SOUTHPAW STAR FOR THE NEW YORK GIANTS, HAS A LEARNED THAT YOU NEED CONTROL WELL AS STUFF TO BE A WINNING PITCHER.

There is a lot of talk about the importance of control to a pitcher, but few of us realize its real value, and this is particularly true of beginners in the game.

Every serious student of baseball has heard about the Boston Braves of 1914, the miracle team which was in last place on July Fourth but rallied to win the pennant. According to Larry Gilbert, the sage of Southern baseball and a member of the miracle team, Manager George Stallings played a big part in this success story by cutting two of his pitchers, Bill James and Lefty Tyler, of control trouble. Not only did he insist that they get the first pitch over the plate, but that they always stay ahead of the batter in the strike-and-ball count. They made every effort to get the first pitch over the plate, and if they missed with it they were sure to make the second pitch a strike.

When Joe McCarthy managed in the major leagues, he also was a stickler for insisting that his pitchers get the ball over the plate, and he would point out to them how difficult it was for batters to get base hits even in batting practice against half-speed pitches.

Form Senior B Baseball Loop

WATERLOO (CP)—Three unexpected developments cropped up when the organization of an Inter-county senior B baseball group was completed here Thursday.

Kitchener Legion juniors stepped up to the higher league, London filed a late entry and Waterloo Tigers didn't file any.

Jack Couch, manager of the Kitchener juniors, said the Legion sponsors were prepared to enter the proposed senior B league.

His entry was accepted with the provision that if the team is among the top four finishers it must compete in the playoffs. It will revert to junior series for the Ontario Baseball Association playoffs.

Other teams in the league are Preston, Listowel, Elmira and Guelph.

Walter Pidgeon Shows no Signs Of Slowing Down on Movie Lot

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After 30 years in the movies, Walter Pidgeon shows no signs of slowing down.

To demonstrate his durability, MGM is pitting him against a robot in a space epic, "Forbidden Planet." Now he has done everything.

Pidge has come a long way from the Canadian boy who broke into the movies in 1925 with Dolores Costello in "The Mannequin." It took Hollywood 15 years to cash in on his suave talents.

Born in Saint John, N.B., he won his first notice as the singing partner of Ziegfeld Girls. He never made too great a dent on the public consciousness until 1937, when he first signed with MGM. He became—and remains—the most serviceable actor on the lot.

MR. MINIVER

Perhaps his greatest fame came as co-star with Greer Garson in "Blossoms in the Dust," "Mrs. Miniver," "Madame Curie," "Mrs. Parkington," "Julia Misbehaves," "The Miniver Story" and "Scandal at Scourie."

Last year Miss Garson left MGM to become a free-lance, so future co-starring does not appear likely. Walter retains a lively interest in her career and raved about her TV debut in "Remains to Versa."

When Greer decided to leave the old home lot, Walter made the decision to stay on.

"This studio takes good care of its people," he explained. "I'd be lost anywhere else. So last August I signed on for another three years. It's the same kind of deal I had before—exclusive services for five pictures every two years.

"When the contract is over, I'll be 60. By that time, I'll be ready to take life easy. I'll probably never quit entirely, but it will be fun to slow down a bit."

He shows no sign of slowing down yet No! only does he remain active in films; he's also one of Hollywood's busiest citizens. Among his activities is the Screen Actors Guild, of which he is president.

The word double plays a dual role in bridge bidding. It may be a double for penalty. It may be a double for takeout. Unmistakable conditions tell you which and when it is.

If partner of the doubler has already bid, the double is always for penalty. And that's that. So, the only time a double could be for takeout is when partner has not yet bid.

Even then it might not be for takeout. Because there are other conditions that may turn it into a penalty double. One such is if the opponent bid is more than three in a suit.

Thus, even if partner has not yet bid, a double is not a takeout request if the opponent's latest bid is four or more in a suit. And if a double is not for takeout it must be for penalty.

Take the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠A 7
♥K 7 5 3 2
♦A 4 2
♣Q 8 6 3

WEST
♠10 6 5 4 3
♦Q 10 9 8 3
♣10 4 3

EAST
♠K J 9 7 2
♥Q 10 8 4
♦5
♣K 9 5

SOUTH
♠Q 8
♥A J 8 6
♦K J 7 6
♣7 7 2

The bidding has gone like this:

South	West	North	East
1 Heart	Pass	4 Hearts	Double

Is the east double for takeout or for penalty? Partner of the doubler has not yet bid. So, one of the requisites for a takeout double is there. But is there a condition to change it?

Yes. There is a condition that changes it. The doubled opponents' bid was more than three in a suit. Therefore, it could not be for takeout. Which means it must be a penalty double.

Suppose the north response was three hearts instead of four. An east double at that spot would be for takeout. Why? Partner had not yet bid and the doubled suit bid was not more than three.

You have here been told of two conditions that help to decide when a double may be for takeout. But there are others which may still determine that the double is not for takeout. Take it easy.

BREAK UP FERRY

FORT ERIE (CP)—The Orleans, last of the Niagara river ferries here, is being reduced to scrap. The Orleans, crushed by ice this spring while anchored off Grand Island, was built in the 1800 era and had a capacity for 260 passengers. The ferry service ended five years ago.

Trainer Leaps To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Robert Hyatt Hall, 30, top trainer of race horses in the United States last year, leaped to his death Thursday from the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

Police persons said they saw McDaniel stop his automobile, walk to the railing of the bridge and leap over without hesitation.

Police said a coast guard cutter picked up the body 30 minutes later. McDaniel's wallet was found on the front seat of his automobile.

McDaniel was en route from Golden Gate Fields in Albany, Calif., where he had a number of horses in training, to his home in San Mateo, friends said.

Red, as he was known on the tracks and from the management of harness winners saddled been the top thoroughbred trainer in the U.S. for the past four years. His public stable often held as many as 50 horses whose training he supervised for their owners.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Al His Best With the Best"

"To Paris With Love," coming to the McCarthy Theatre Monday, brings Alec Guinness back to the screen in the brilliant light comedy mood which has delighted millions all over the world and made him one of the brightest of international stars. It is a witty, gay, sophisticated story and the setting, of course, is Paris, that jewel of cities — in the Spring.

The incomparable grand master of light screen comedy plays a widower, a sprig of Scottish aristocracy who takes his son to Paris to initiate him in the Gallic ways of life . . . and love. And Paris, as unpredictable as her women, causes the strangest things to happen.

Father falls for the pretty French girl he originally thought unsuitable for his son. Who is to blame him if he suddenly finds her more suitable for himself—Paris? The son falls for the glamorous French woman he originally thought suitable for father. Who is to blame if . . .

The relations between relations become strained in consequence, the two Anglo-French ententes are extremely cordial!

Playing opposite Guinness is Odile Versois, enchanting French star of "A Day To Remember" "The Young Lovers." Vernon Gray, handsome young Canadian actor who registered as a screen personality with a big future when he made his debut in "A Day to Remember" with Miss Versois, has, the chance of a lifetime as the son.

Supporting the stars are such well-known English and French artists as Austin Trevor, Elina Labourdette, Jacques Francois, Jacques Marin and Claude Laydu.

"To Paris With Love" also scores with the introduction of an exciting new discovery in 18-year-old delightful Maureen Davis.

The Grand Master Guinness is at his best, surrounded by the best!

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Not the least interesting phase of the current boxing situation is the fact that a fellow who demonstrated recently he is a whale of a fighter at 196½ pounds probably will be second-best heavyweight in the world—with a picture soon to defend his 175-pound championship against the best 155-pounder in the universe.

In other words, Archie Moore, having finally realized he was bucking a fixed wheel in trying to get a title fight with Rocky Marciano, has advised the International Boxing Club he is willing to give Rocky a shot at his light-heavy crown here sometime this summer. It would be true that more than 30 pounds separates the pair at their best, and that's a lot of seat.

The 38-year-old Archie was a whistle lot of heavyweight in his decisive beating of Nino Valdes the other night in Las Vegas. Eye-witnesses said the veteran Negro looked slow in the beginning, but toward the close of the bruising 15-rounder he appeared to have fought himself into the pink of condition.

It seems almost incredible that any human can fight at or near his best over a range of 20 or more pounds, yet Archie has been doing just that for go long now that the fraternity takes it for granted he will pare himself down to 175 for Olson and enter the ring at full strength.

There was speculation that the remarkable oldster would be unable to make the weight for his title defence against Harold Johnson here last August. Two months before he had scaled 189½ for a no-title outing. Yet when the appointed day came the champ notched a trim 173, and that night he stopped his young opponent in the 14th round.

When a California board claimed last March that Moore's heart was acting up and suggested he was in no fit condition to continue fighting, it was taken for granted in boxing circles that the repeated strain of boiling off 20 or more pounds within a month or less had at last caught up with the aging champ.

Minor Baseball Holds Meeting

A small gathering of minor sports enthusiasts met in the council chambers of the city hall last night for the year's initial meeting of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association but lack of team representatives kept business at a minimum.

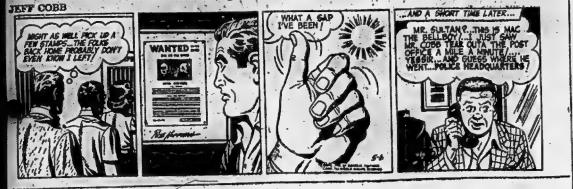
As has been the case in previous years, the main problem facing the organization is the need for sponsors. Only six teams were represented at last night's meeting while between 15 and 20 are needed to form leagues in each of the four divisions, pee wee, baniam, midget and juvenile.

Holdovers from last year present were Canada Cement with a peewee and a midget team, C.N.R., Vaughans and Houdinos while new, expected entries are OSS Parkdale Veterans and Local 320. The names of many potential sponsors were discussed and will be contacted in the near future while anyone interested in coaching, sponsoring or umpiring is asked to contact "Red" Doran at the city hall or president Bill Cook.

Mr. Caulfield was the chairman of last night's meeting with secretary Bill Brennan reading the minutes of the last gathering. No election of officers was held.

The second meeting of the year will be held next Thursday night, 8.00 p.m. at the city hall and a large turnout is urged.

QUOTE DERBY ODDS



LONDON (Reuters) — Acropolis the Derby favorite, was backed to win the £25,000 first money in the Epsom classic, at Thursday night's Victoria Club call-over.

In spite of this heavy support bookmakers extended the odds against him to 4-to-1. Previously 7 to 2 had been the top offer. Real supported of the others was Tom Carey's National Anthem who stayed at 22 to 1.

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, May 7, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Smart calculations, calm reasoning essential on this zone too generous day. But there is never a day in which some good cannot be accomplished. Enjoy free hours sharing good fun with family.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Necessary tasks should be done quietly, without anxiety and, when obligations permit, participate in pleasant diversions you cannot enjoy on work days. Cultivate a talent, your garden, any healthy pastime.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury's aspect today stresses a need for extra caution in handling property, finances. Don't make promises thoughtlessly, or neglect family and other necessary duties for outside interests.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Restraint in emotions urged. Sound financial investments and matters servicing the public, hotels and restaurants can be profitable. Be alert to new opportunities.

July 24-to August 22 (Leo) — Mixed vibrations, but the day is not generally restrictive or unpleasant in implication. If wise, you will choose activities most needed now in your particular sphere and concentrate on them.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — The unusual (if sensible and calculated to bring lasting rewards), investments in good real estate, and other up-to-date deficiencies are favored for advancement, gain. Be alert to fine leads.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Not an unfavorable day, but be careful, nevertheless, not to fall into such tricky traps as extravagance, carelessness in making promises, contracting too many debts, etc. Enjoy wholesome diversion.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Your Mars' position, which is not so auspicious, suggests gentleness, patience, kindly understanding. All these will help to make it a pleasant as well as fruitful day and bring a better tomorrow.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Jupiter and Uranus, both in friendly positions, augur for progressive, lucrative returns generally, with unusual matters out front. Pioneer, yes, but also keep within reasonable bounds.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — You of strong character need not fear a restraining hand in some activities. Rather, let it urge you toward further advancement in matters important to your future, family needs.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius — Your planet Uranus, well aspected now, favors occupational tasks and the development of your talents. It should also urge you to fresh incentive, concentrated effort. Good going!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Be watchful of health needs, cleanliness and the character of those with whom you associate. Day stresses caution in the handling of chemicals and liquids, and suggests that you put forth your best efforts in whatever you do.

You born today are determined, self-reliant, capable in profession, trade, business matters, religious careers. You know how to soothe the ill and troubled, can gently manage little children and old folks. You have natural gifts for gardening, all artistic work; should prove a genius with live stock, in matters where building and scientific knowledge are necessary. You are usually genial, patient, tolerant, and above anything petty or underhanded. Do not keep your troubles to yourself; your loved ones and truly good friends will gladly aid.if you talk with them.

Birthdate: Peter Tschaikovsky, famed Russian composer; Johannes Brahms, Ger, composer; Rob't Browning, Eng., poet.

Backs Out Car, Then Driveway Disappears

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Jesse Brewer Friday backed her car from her garage onto the street, then watched her driveway vanish.

"It sank slowly," she said, "and didn't stop until a section 20 feet long and 10 feet wide had dropped about six feet."

The driveway is—or was—over the city's main sewer.

Unemployment Declining Faster Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Government information indicates that unemployment is declining at a greater rate this spring than a year ago.

A post-war unemployment peak was reached in late March but government statistics later that month will show that since then there has been a substantial drop in the number of Canadians seeking jobs, they say.

However, present information indicates that the number of jobless still is appreciably higher than at the same time last year. One of the reasons for this is the fact that some aids to that employment has not kept pace with a growth of 100,000 in the labor force.

Employment normally starts picking up between March and April as warm weather enables a step-up in construction and other outdoor industries. Indications received by the labor department are that the latest monthly figures made public last month for late March represent the peak—or close to it—for 1955.

Last March 19 there were 401,000 persons out of work and looking for jobs, according to the bureau of statistics. The labor department reported 453,000 were classified for work with the national employment service on that date. The two sets of figures compare with 321,000 and 570,000, respectively, at the same date a year earlier.

Informants say that since late March a good spring in most parts of the country has stimulated outdoor employment. Improvement also had been noted in other industries.

Statistics available here normally lag about a month behind local conditions. Officials say they show that in early April there was a major decline in job applicants.

TORONTO (CP) — James Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for the past 10 years, says he accepted "around $5,000" from a constituent for campaign funds four years ago but nothing dishonest or underhanded was involved.

The 65-year-old lumber dealer, who has a represented Renfrew South in the legislature since 1935, said Friday that he was asked by Premier Frost to drop out of the 1955 general election campaign when party members learned of the contribution. He added that he has not yet decided whether to seek the nomination for the June 9 election.

The premier said in a statement issued Friday night that he told Mr. Dempsey he could not endorse him for the campaign until the question of Mr. Dempsey receiving campaign funds is "cleared up to the entire satisfaction of all."

Mr. Dempsey said he was the "victim of a misunderstanding."

"Everything I did was honest and above board. And my people know that."

RECEIVED FROM DROHAN

Mr. Dempsey said he received the money from the late James Drohan, a lumberman at Barry's Bay, near Mr. Dempsey's home-town of Renfrew. He was unable to recall exactly how much he had obtained from Mr. Drohan.

"It was around $5,000," he said. "It might have been as high as $6,500 or $6,800, but I don't know. It wasn't given to me in a lump sum. I received it on three, or maybe four, occasions."

Mr. Dempsey said he accepted the money on behalf of the Progressive Conservative party, which was campaigning for re-election in the 1951 provincial election.

"Part of the money, probably a couple of thousand, was a legitimate debt he owed me," Mr. Dempsey said. "All the money was spent in the interests of the party. To keep everything straight, I gave him receipts for the full amount. But unfortunately the receipts too closely. As far as I knew they were for income tax purposes."

NO INTEREST

Mr. Dempsey said the announcement a few days ago that Mr. Drohan, suffering from leukemia of ill health is not entirely correct.

"I'm the victim of a misunderstanding," he said. "My people know that I didn't do anything to keep everything straight, I gave him receipts for the full amount. But unfortunately the receipts too closely. As far as I knew they were for income tax purposes."

Blast Wrecks Buffalo Plant

NORTH TANAWANDA, N. Y. (AP)—An explosion and general-alarm fire early today wrecked a three-story brick factory in this Buffalo suburb occupied by Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., causing an estimated $150,000 damage.

One wall of the building was blown out by the blast. The roof collapsed and the interior of the plant was destroyed. Part of the blaze was brought under control.

Every unit of the city's fire department took part in the fight. One fireman was slightly injured.

The cause was not immediately but fire officials said the explosion probably was whitin paint and lacquer was stored.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A disturbance over Michigan this morning spread cloud and showers over most of the province during the night. These showers will be east of the Great Lakes by the evening. Behind this storm very cold air is pouring across Ontario and frosts are expected to cover all of Ontario on Sunday.

GOVT. POLICY ON IMMIGRATION IS UNDER FIRE

No Maintenance Of Racial Balance Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—Maintenance of a racial balance in Canada plays no part in government immigration policy, the Commons has been told.

Immigration Minister Pickersgill made the statement Friday night in reply to a Progressive Conservative member's concern over the declining share of Britons in the inflow of immigrants.

"To the best of my knowledge this department does not now and never has paid any attention to keeping a racial balance," Mr. Pickersgill said.

"And I hope it never will."

He said the immigration department would like to see more immigrants coming from the British Isles and is concerned about their falling numbers. It gave preference to them because they fit quickly and more easily into Canadian life.

NOT OUR RACE

The policy of preference and selection is not based on race or creed, he said.

"It is based upon a conception of adaptability to the kind of society we have tried to build in this country in the last 200 years."

Referring to the policy statement by the late prime minister Mackenzie King, he added:

"I am confident that when Mr. Mackenzie King said in 1947 that we did not want to make a fundamental change in the population of this country, that was what he meant and all it was all he meant."

The statements were touched off by the comments of Gordon Churchill (Progressive Conservative) who said there has been an apparent chance in immigration policy since 1945.

BRITISH SHARE

Mr. Churchill said that since then immigration from the British Isles has been 26 per cent of the total. It was a far cry from the British share of 80 per cent of the total during the immigration boom of the first century's early years, or the 50-per-cent share in the first half of the century.

ALEXANDRIA, Ont. (CP)—Two families were made homeless Friday in a fire which destroyed two homes and a door and sash factory in this town 30 miles southeast of Cornwall. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cardinal and their two children and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Label and four children were left homeless.

'Dumbells' Make Past Live Again As Massey Hall Rocks With Laughter

TORONTO (CP) — Six men Fri-40th anniversary of the Dumbells' day night turned a bare stage into a flashback of the First World War and its entertainment.

The men were from the world-famous Dumbells troupe of the Canadian Army which played to packed audience at Massey Hall rocked with laughter or was nostalgic as it relived the days of Bingo Long and Pack Up your Troubles.

The ovation was tremendous when the six marched out in old tin hats and khaki mufflers singing the troupe's "Dumbell Rag." But the whole audience awaited the arrival of "Harjacie", played by Ross Hamilton, who sang with the clear voice of the graceful woman he portrayed on the original show to troops in the front lines.

The reunion commemorated the Validity of 2 Quebec Laws Not Issue in Appeal Case

OTTAWA (CP)—Judgment has been reserved by the Supreme Court of Canada in a case that appeared at the outset to involve important constitutional implications but which wound up as an ordinary action for debt.

Esymier Chaput, a Jehovah's Witnesses minister at Sherbrooke, Que., sought $5,000 damages from three Quebec provincial police officers who broke up a religious meeting in his home 5½ years ago.

Glen How of Toronto, Mr. Chaput's lawyer, also wanted to argue the validity of Quebec legislation which he was involved in several hearings.

But when lawyer Avila Lafelle of Hull—defending provincial policemen Edmond Romain, Lindor Young and Roger Chartrand—said he was not relying on the legislation for his defence, the court threw out Mr. How's plea.

"Mr. How was contesting validity of the Magistrate's Privilege Act and the Quebec Provincial Police Act. But Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin said the court held unanimously it could not pass on a issue not argued by both parties.

NO LAW AGAINST POSSESSING GOLD COURT DECIDES

Code Section Revised And Never Re-enacted

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal has quashed a conviction of illegal possession of gold and ordered that the law used for conviction was non-existent.

The court said in a judgment handed down Friday that the section in the unrevised criminal code under which charges of illegal possession of bullion were laid had been revised in 1953 and never re-enacted by order-in-council.

At the same time, it quashed the conviction and sentence of Steve Konowalchuk, 54 a year - old miner from Timmins, and said he should not have been charged because the criminal code section under the old law did not exist. The court, however, continued, said, that anyone convicted on the charge in Ontario from 1953 to April of this year, when the revised criminal code went into effect, could have his conviction thrown out.

MAGONE DECLINES COMMENT

Deputy attorney-general Clifford Magone declined Friday night to comment on the decision. He said no decision has been made yet on whether to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup said in his judgment:

"The section of the criminal code under which the appellant was convicted does not permit any prosecution in Ontario."

The three justices on the appeal court were unanimous in their decisions. Besides Chief Justice Pickup they were Mr. Justice Desmond Hogg and W. F. Schroeder heard the case.

15-MONTH TERM

Konowalchuk was convicted at Cochrane last November by Judge D. A. Ducharme of illegal possession of $3,700 worth of 90-per-cent bullion. He was sentenced to 18 months in jail. Konowalchuk was arrested on a provincial police officer who posed as a buyer of high-grade ore, using $3,000 provided by the Ontario Mining Association.

The dispute hinged on the word "bullion" which was inserted into the section in 1938. However, the act never was restored by order-in-council.

In 1938 the words "bullion, platinum and precious metals" were added to the section. The crown, represented by W. B. Common, Q.C., contended that the order-in-council of 1940 was still operative although the words were deserted.

ACT IS CITED

Mr. Common said this could be done because the Dominion Interpretations Act, which says that all changes made under a repealed act shall continue "good and valid, in so far as they are not inconsistent with the substituted act."

He said the word bullion did not change the general meaning or purpose of the act.

G. Arthur Martin, Toronto criminal lawyer, and G. T. Evans of Timmins presented the case for Konowalchuk.

Big Three Foreign Ministers Meet to Plan New Effort To Reach Agreement With Russia

By STANLEY PRIDDLE

PARIS (Reuters)—When the Big Three foreign ministers meet here Sunday to plan a new effort to reach agreement with Russia over the reunification of Germany and European security, they will have before them the recommendations of experts who have been meeting in London on how Russia should be approached.

The experts' report also will include a brief which the Western foreign ministers—John Foster Dulles, Harold Macmillan and Antoine Pinay—would use at the conference table if a four-power meeting were held.

Dulles arrived by air from Washington this morning for the meetings. In a statement to reporters he said the present mood was one of "greater confidence for the future of Europe and for the future of European peace."

The American secretary planned his first session, however, with new Premier Edgar Faure, Pinay and other high French officials. They were to meet immediately to discuss the crucial Indochina situation.

The three statesmen already are committed to taking fresh soundings in Moscow as soon as the new arms plan for West Germany goes through. The Soviet position, however, is far from clear. The theme of Moscow's propaganda over the last three months has been that implementation of the Paris agreements will make new negotiations about Germany impossible.

This never has been accepted at face value by the West, which has taken the Soviet decision to give Austria her independence by signing the long-delayed state treaty as an encouraging sign.

In their notes to Moscow last Nov. 29, the three Western powers set out a program containing four steps, in addition to the entry into force of the Paris agreements, which they said should form the "essential basis" for a new conference.

There were: 1. conclusion of the Austrian treaty; 2. clarification of Russia's attitude to the free elections in Germany necessary to unite the country; 3. prior diplomatic exchanges about other subjects for discussion at a conference, including European security; 4. a real prospect of finding solutions to the problems confronting the powers.

There has as yet been no clarification of Moscow's attitude to German elections. No diplomatic exchanges have taken place about other likely subjects for a conference. In the view of most Western diplomats, there is little more prospect of agreeing upon a German settlement with Soviet Russia now than there was in November.

But pressure on the Western ministers to arrange a new East-West meeting is such that the statesmen are expected to agree upon a formula inviting such a meeting and upon the early dispatch of a new note to Moscow inviting Molotov to take part.

Give Duke Rod Then Demand He Buy Licence

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Nottingham's city elders gave the Duke of Edinburgh a trout rod—then demanded 18 pence for a fishing licence.

"A fishing rod without a license is not to be used for the crime," explained Woodford Muddel, chairman of the Trent River authority.

The duke guest of honor at a civic luncheon Friday, paid up without a murmur.

The action arose out of a police raid on a religious meeting of 35 persons in Mr. Chaput's home Sept. 4, 1949. Alleging the constables interfered with his religious freedom, Mr. Chaput said they seized his bible, some hymn books and pamphlets.

Veterans Still Paying Terrific Price for Victory Over Third Reich

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Courage did not end with the commander of Canadian servicemen when the Second World War and the Second World War ar-amputees—1,330 lost one leg, 89 both legs, 410 one arm, 10 both arms. Four triple amputees are believed still living; 198 men were totally blinded; there are 242 paraplegics.

There are 64,000 veterans—31,477 from the First World War—receiving prosthetic and orthopaedic appliances from the veterans' affairs department. Prosthesis is the medical term for the artificial aids to deficiencies, such as by an artificial leg.

In a single year, the department issues nearly 100,000 such appliances from hearing aid batteries to socks for limb stumps and has repairs made to another 20,000.

All this is only a small part of the price—excluding the cost in human suffering—that Canada still payinvt for victory over the Third Reich.

Surgeon-General Wants To Study Report By Panel

Canadian Health Officials Will Reach Decision Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, surgeon-general of the United States, early today recommended that all polio vaccination programs be suspended pending evaluation of a report on the Salk serum by a top-level American medical panel.

Scheele said the U.S. public health service will announce tomorrow its recommendations regarding the use of the Salk vaccine. The panel Friday night concluded a two-day study of its manufacture and testing.

Scheele had said Friday night that inoculation programs through the U.S. should continue with vaccine already approved. He stressed then that the surgeon general was not "under suspicion" and expressed confidence that the government's embargo on approving further supplies at the vaccine for shipment would be lifted within a few days.

NOT FOLLOWED HERE

But that time the Canadian health department in Ottawa said Canada would not follow the U.S. lead in holding up distribution of the vaccine. A spokesman said no decision on production has been tested thoroughly and found satisfactory and that distribution is being continued at top speed.)

But shortly after 4 a.m. EST Scheele called for the suspension and said the recommendations of the panel and other information would have to be evaluated before the public health service could make an announcement.

The health service said in a statement:

"Pending the Sunday announcement, the surgeon-general recommended that states and municipalities postpone their vaccination programs."

Scheele gave no hint of what the panel had reported. He indicated, though, that other "information" also would be considered before the public health service gives its official opinion tomorrow.

The panel's report came after a number of states reported post-inoculation polio cases. One member of the group was Dr. Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, developer of the vaccine.

Plenty of Time To Escape Says Witness

WELLAND (CP) — A Toronto service station attendant testified Friday at the murder trial of Lloyd Vainoff that 17-year-old Grace Gabanyeic had plenty of time to escape from the accused's car but did not try.

The girl said he serviced Vainoff's car and Miss Gabanyeic did not appear frightened at the time. Vainoff, 30, of Port Colborne, Ont., is charged with kidnapping the Welland telephone operator.

Harry C. Nixon Nominated Again

PARIS, Ont. (CP) — Harry C. Nixon, at 64, took on a familiar job Friday night. He was nominated by Liberals to represent the Brant constituency in the June 9 provincial election for the 18th time.

A member of the Ontario legislature continuously since 1919 when he ran for the Grain Growers of Ontario which formed the government, Mr. Nixon has been a successful candidate in 17 provincial elections and one by-election since.

The by-election came after his 1919 victory. He entered the UFO government as provincial secretary and at times cabinet ministers had to resign their seats after appointment to get their seats again in a by-election before taking office.

On May 30th, St. Thomas' parish celebrates the 100th anniversary of the present church building. This anniversary will be marked by special services on Whit Sunday, May 29th, and by two recitals of liturgical music to be held on May 30th and on May 8th after evensong.

The recitals will consist of music from the Church's liturgy sung by the St. Thomas' choir from the west gallery, interspersed with hymns and organ music.

The recital will be under the direction of Robert Bell, organist and choirmaster of St. Thomas'.

Reserve Indians Will Not Make Issue of Pact

DESERONTO, Ont. (CP) — Indians of the Tyendinaga reserve near here are considering drawing to the attention of the federal government its failure to live up to a contract made years ago with their forefathers.

At the time the Indians turned their land over to the government, both parties signed a contract, one clause of which provided the federal government would annually give each Indian family five pounds of flour and a bottle of whisky.

Each year a ton or more of flour arrived at the reservation, accompanied by a big scoop. But so far no whisky has arrived.

The Indians have no intention of making an issue out of the lack of whisky, but they would like to know why there were no deliveries.

Three 'Super Value Days' Being Sponsored by Merchants

Biggest bargains since Champlain went this way trading beads for beaver pelts will be available next week as Belleville stores cooperate to present "Super Value Days".

Local shoppers will have stars in their eyes next Thursday, Friday and Saturday as huge black stars bearing the legend "Super Values" guide them into stores where merchants have something awaits them at prices out of this world.

Super Value Days are likely to keep thrifty housewives awake nights dreaming of bargains galore. And well they might because Super Value Days means just what the name implies.

The Retail Merchants' section of the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring this comic sale as a salute to spring. Participating stores have been analyzing their resources to advertise the big event, which is to be launched by the distribution of thousands of extra copies of the Ontario Intelligencer Wednesday May 11th. Blanket coverage of the Quinte district is assured. Radio station CJBQ is also publicizing the big event.

Stores marked with the big black star symbol of super values will bring special items to their customers at undreamed of savings. Theatres will have special matinees, restaurants will feature super value meals at rock bottom prices; and all merchants taking part will have items on certain regular lines.

Paul Mercier, heading the Chamber of Commerce promotion team, termed last year's Super Value sale "a very pleasant surprise".

"Good values were offered last year and those who had good values showed results," said Mr. Mercier. "A special sale of this kind is good for customers and good for businessmen," he continued, "because they attract new people into local stores who otherwise might not trade in them and because the values offered are so good they are bound to promote customer satisfaction."

Tweed and Picton Orators Win Legion's Speaking Contest

Orators from Tweed and Picton captured top honors in the Canadian Legion's public speaking contest held in the Picton Town Hall auditorium held in the Prince Edward County collegiate in Picton Friday evening.

Eva Martin, of Tweed, won the senior division with an address, dress, "It's Great To Be a Canadian". Ford Roborough, of Picton, was the junior winner with a talk on the drought of 1937 and its effect on the livelihood of the prairie provinces. Ron Matheson, of Tweed, won the elementary division title with an address on "Sir William Osler — A Great Canadian".

All contestants had been winners of local contests sponsored by branches throughout the district. Picton representatives had topped more than 40 entries in a preliminary contest while Tweed finalists had been judged best of 29 entries in the Tweed branch's preliminary contest.

Zone winners will be presented with a suitably inscribed certificate and a cash award and are eligible to participate in the district finals at Cobourg in June. District winners will be eligible to compete at the provincial finals in Windsor for a bursary of $500.

Legion officials, who spoke briefly during the evening were, Len Taylor, zone commander, of Belleville; John Bristol, district commander, of Cobourg; Ernie Madoc; Len Foley, president of the Picton branch and Homer Shields, chairman of the Picton branch's entertainment committee.

They pointed out that public speaking contests are part of the Legion's citizenship program and that topics are chosen by the Legion to promote good citizenship and a greater understanding of Canada and Canadians.

Judges were Mrs. F. J. Webster, Belleville; Mrs. Robert Temple and Dr. Boyd Upper, both of Belleville.

Judges were unanimous in their praise of the poise, confidence and sincerity of contestants and complimented them on the content of their addresses and the manner in which they were delivered.

Taking part in last evening's contests were Eva Martin of Tweed, and Kathleen Walmsley of Picton; Juniors: Bill Burns of Tweed and Ford Roborough of Picton; elementary: Charlotte Reid and Ronald Matheson of Tweed, and Bobby Bristol of Madoc.

Conservatives Will Select Candidate at Marmora Meet

Ralph Neal of Marmora, presided at the meeting, which saw representatives present from every municipality and which included Mac Smith, president of the Belleville Association.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a special speaker at the meeting next Wednesday evening and the different municipalities urged to appoint their delegates to the convention as quickly as possible.

Hobbycraft machinery is being installed and plans have been laid for men to make a variety of small articles including magazine racks, wall brackets, novelty toys, rocking horses, tables and ottomans.

Handicapped women will be able to make aprons, dresses, quilts, cushions and a variety of other articles.

Members will be able to sell their articles from a booth on the market square.

Theatre Guild Discusses Plans For Next Year

For its last meeting of the 1954-55 season, the Belleville Theatre Guild presented a workshop performance of "Farewell Appearance", a one-act play by Norman Holland. This presentation was notable for bringing on stage a number of Guild members who had never before taken part in a production. Under Clair Keleo's direction, all the cast, both old hands and newcomers, gave an excellent account of themselves in this pleasant little comedy.

As the inmates of a Home for Retired Actors, Betty Sedler, Mary Deacon, Nikki Thomas, John Ryan and Ray Cobarton all had to perform the difficult feat of adding many years to their appearances and manner, which in all cases was most convincingly done. Perhaps Nikki Thomas, with her short but precise strutting on the stage stole the acting honors, with the most amusing little sketch.

In the younger roles, Rosemary Hunley played the managress of the Home, Wendell Lewis was the young actress just tasting her first success, and Mary Louise Kinnear was the aristocratic resident maid. Clair Keleo completed the cast in the role of the fanatical agent of uncertain age.

SIMPLE SETTING

The simple but effective setting was designed by Mary Moulin who also assisted Helen Sulman with the costumes. Properties were ably handled by Beryl Linnen and Mary Doyle were in charge of make-up and Jo Ellen Sedler was stage manager.

During the business session, president of the Guild, Ronan Cartwright, announced that plans were already being made to enter the Guild in the Dominion's most active and interesting one, both for Guild members and for the general public. He pointed out that It is hoped to present three full-length plays in the Collegiate auditorium, as well as a screening of one-act plays at Queen Victoria school.

Mr. Cambridge emphasized that, for this to be possible, the directors' association must be given support, and he felt sure that it would be.

Other items of business included a report from Mrs. Doyle on the eastern Ontario Drama League executive meeting held recently in Kingston, and an announcement by Charlie Cole of a course in drama at the Peterborough Teachers' College to be given by John Londerville. This course would run from July 11th to 16th and would be directed to wide variety of theatrical subjects.

Park Proposes PC's, Liberals Disclose Funds

TORONTO (CP)—Eamon Park, president of the Ontario CCF party and its candidate in Toronto Dovercourt in the June 9 Ontario general election, Friday proposed that all political parties disclose to a public tribunal the sources of their campaign funds.

The proposal was made in a statement Mr. Park issued in connection with the announcement by James A. Dempsey that he was sold to drop out of the running as Progressive Conservative candidate in Rosedale South because he did not advertise a 1951 political contribution of $6,800 from a lumber contractor.

Mr. Park's statement said:

"The Liberals have come to let the public in on the sources of central and local campaign funds. We challenge the Conservatives and Liberals to open their central and local books to complete public scrutiny. As president of the CCF, I state we are ready to place our books in the hands of any impartial public tribunal.

"We receive no funds at all from special interests. I dare the Liberals and Tories to be as frank. "The CCF advocates the adoption of the British system whereby the expenditure of any political party is limited. Any other method puts the wealthiest party before the people's rights. That has been the pattern in Ontario. It's about time it came to an end."

Major John Foote Speaks At Legion's First V-E Dinner

TRENTON. (Special.) —Speaking at the first V-E day dinner in the Trenton Legion hall here last night, Major John Foote, V.C., expressed fear that an atomic war would be so decisive that only stable nations with one common philosophy would survive.

The Canadian Army padre, who chose to stay at Dieppe with his men when he could have returned to England and escaped capture and two years in a Nazi prisoner of war camp, feels that the danger of war always is the peace. He foresees another war explaining "if they'll do it once, they'll do it again." He hopes the democratic people would stick together because "wars isn't anybody in the world who can tackle us and win." The padre who won the highest award for bravery was 31 on Thursday, May 31, 1917, when the Canadian Royal War ended for Canadians 10 years later.

WANTS VETERANS STRONG

Major Foote said his greatest desire was to see war veterans growing in this country. "Political parties don't matter, but what we believe in matters tremendously," he continued.

The speaker voiced his views on peace. "We have a tremendous deep respect for our own beliefs, the unselfish giving of time and effort to better living in our own community is the real peace that matters most and the answer to the conclusion of hostilities."

Capt. G. R. Rutherford, V.C., M.C., M.M., of Colborne, another famous Victoria Cross winner, introduced Major Foote. Although Major Foote said: "He is the only other man in the Dominion of Canada with such a long row of ribbons as First World War ace Billy Bishop."

Capt. Rutherford explained that it was hard for him to throw light on Major Foote's career. "We V.C. men very seldom ever talk of our exploits. There are very few here," he said looking about the crowded hall, "who are not deserving of the highest medals."

Canon A. S. McConnell, M.B.E. spoke briefly on "Fallen Comrades" called on the veterans to perpetuate the memory. Although the scars of war after ten years only show on the buildings, the loss of so many of the finest flower will never fade from the hearts of loved ones, which received messages that commenced "we regret to inform you. . . ."

Dutch treat attending the dinner expressed appreciation when Canon McConnell made mention of the war cemetery at Bergen-Op Zoom in the Netherlands.

PLAN MORE DINNERS

Branch president Ell Donald-son assured Legion members that there would be many more V-E dinners to come.

In extending the civic welcome to the guests, Mayor Ross Burtt, M.M., said: "Believe me this is one of the greatest honors the people have given me as their representative of the town of Trenton."

First vice-president K. K. Kenny proposed the toast to the ladies and Women's Auxiliary, who provided the banquet.

Mrs. J. H. Alexander replied.

Cpl. A. Holmes sounded the Last Post and Reveille. The lines of commemoration were read by Mrs. Silsby, M.B.E.

District Commander Scotty Broughton of Brighton, thanked the guest speaker.

Organ music for the sing-song led by the branch past president A. Cunnell, was played by Billy Long.

TRENTON (Special)—A clanging fire bell and shrill sirens shattered the early morning stillness in Trenton today when Trenton firemen rushed to the Lotus Cafe on Dundas Street where an awning in front of the building was on fire. Firemen soon had the situation under control although the awning was lost.

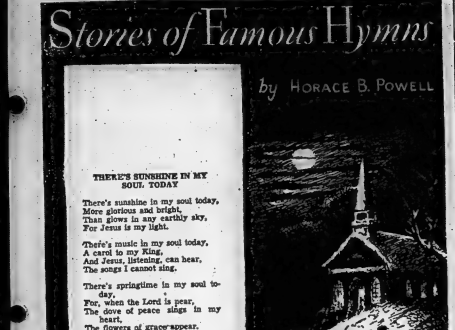
IN MEMORIAM

CARTER. — In loving memory of a dear daughter, Mary Gwendolyn Carter, who passed away May 8th, 1954.

She has gone across the river
To the shore of ever green.
She has gone to see her dear face
But the river flows between.
Some day, some day, our eyes shall see
The face we loved so well.
Some day we'll clasp her loving hand
And never say farewell.
—Ever remembered by mother and father.

CARTER. — In loving memory of a dear sister and aunt, Mary Gwendolyn Carter, who passed away May 8th, 1954.



My little sister when we woke that morn
The sorrow the day would bring.
The call was sudden, the shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
God took her hand to understand
Who gave them first to mine.
But in His wisdom, God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
Some day we'll clasp her hand so tight
And courage to bear the blow.
And what it cost to lose your dear,
No one will ever know.
—Sadly missed by sister Doris and Lee and children.

CARTER. — In loving memory of our dear sister and aunt, Mary Gwendolyn Carter, who left us suddenly on May 8th, 1954.

We miss you more than words can tell
Our hearts still ache;
As time goes on
We miss you more.
—Sadly missed by Gladys and Percy and children Ronald and Norma.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

THERE'S SUNSHINE IN MY SOUL TODAY

There's sunshine in my soul today,
More glorious and bright,
Than glows in any earthly sky,
For Jesus is my light.

There's music in my soul today,
A carol to my King,
And Jesus, listening, can hear,
The songs I cannot sing.

There's gladness in my soul today,
And hope and praise and love,
For blessings which He gives me now,
For joys "laid up" above.

This is one of the most popular hymns in the list of Eliza Edmunds Hewitt and John R. Sweney who joined hands to produce a host of nineteenth century gospel song favorites. The hymns, "More About Jesus I Would Know" and "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?" also came from their famous partnership.

Miss Hewitt, a native of Philadelphia, studied to be a teacher but was compelled to give up her classes when a spinal ailment made her an invalid. On her bed of illness she turned to writing and almost immediately her hymn-poems began to attract wide attention. Her love for boys and girls which had led her to choose a teaching career found expression in an unusual collection of Sunday School hymns and songs for children.

When her poems were published and circulated, they attracted the interest of Mr. Sweney, who also was a Pennsylvanian, and he sought out the young authoress and asked permission to write music for her religious verses. The tune for "More About Jesus" was one of the first that he turned out. In the quarter century that followed the Civil War he wrote many others.

Sweney became a very talented musician. He mastered the piano and the violin and, later, was a church choir leader. During the war he directed an army band; when peace came he taught music for many years at the Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester, his birthplace. In these post-war years he gained considerable prominence as a director of choruses at summer religious conferences and at evangelistic services.

A Lift For Living

The Search For Security

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

On my way to work I pass a sign reading "Shelter". It is a grim reminder that our coastal cities are considered in danger of possible attack.

While I am not much afraid of being bombed, I know how much part of my tax dollar goes for security against war. Also I see the increasing budgets to provide economic security against unemployment, sickness, old age helplessness, and all other ills that flesh is heir to.

Consider the search for security against illness. Organized against the dread diseases of cancer, polio and the heart. Ours is a frightened world.

It is less frightened today because a dedicated young doctor named Jonas E. Salk devoted countless hours and means of attacking a terrifying scourge—polio. His achievement has been acclaimed by parents all over the world. They feel a new sense of security.

Security, up to a certain point is desirable. Watch the little child nestling so safely on its mother's bosom or riding so fearless atop the shoulders of its father. The infant, deprived of such a sense of security in its early stages, is usually stunted in some part of its nature. The tender plant of childhood blossoms on the trails of mutual trust.

RELEASE POWERS

And so it is in later life. A certain feeling of security is necessary to release the creative and co-operative powers of a person. When we live under the shadow of impoverished old age or threatened unemployment or impending war, we cannot give our best to the world.

If you doubt the desirability of a feeling of security, read the Bible. The pages of Scripture are dotted with promises of divine safeguarding. "God is our refuge and strength; a very present help in trouble." And the very first chapter in the Book of Proverbs contains these words: "Whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from fear of evil."

The great Hebrew prophets sought to hearten their people with interpretations of God speaking thus: "Fear thou not, for I am with thee." Recall how frequently Jesus tried to show His frightened countrymen the security they might enjoy with their Heavenly Father, climaxing with these words His farewell discourse: "My peace I leave with you . . . Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

Yet the search for security must be watch lest it be a wrecking thing. If we demanded safety to be guaranteed in all directions would be the virtues of faith and courage?

We are in danger of being so security-conscious that we shall be weakened by unworthy fears and become trustful of unreliable securities. When the standard of living gets low enough, people will prefer a full stomach to a free spirit, and surrender themselves to a police state. That must not happen here.

SOIL FOR RED SEED

Two years ago in Calcutta I saw a crowd of 50,000 people listening to some Communist agitators. Who were those 50,000? They were the landless and no doubt in large part jobless, people of India. They were very fertile soil for the Communist seed.

Persons who have a zest for work find joy in their jobs, people who feel that they belong to a community and are responsible for its homes and schools and churches are persons who are immune to the Communist infection.

In our search for security we must remember that a healthy body is a good form of defense against disease; a healthy mind is our best protection against disease temptation, poisoning fears a n d public corruption.

Another form of security is a solid foundation. A wise parent knows that he cannot make his son really secure by leaving him a trust fund, unless the son is inspired a n d equipped to help himself. A worthy child does not ask his parents to guarantee his future, but he does have a right to expect from them a solid foundation for his future.

Parents insure the future of their children by working with them even more than working for them.

MOTHER'S DAY

The day was spent in grateful song and prayer,
A tribute to the name of motherhood,
And voices blent in praises everywhere
For all the world of mothers, kind and good.

But in our praise did we remember one,
The mother, who with fond, maternal pain,
Sent to the war her brave and stalwart son,
That freedom o'er the world should ever reign?

Did we remember her who gave with blinding tears
Her son, the pride of their dear, peaceful home,
Who gave his life, the promise of the years,
That we to return across the ocean foam.

Oh! let us not forget the mothers
Who nobly played a patriotic

For Parents Only

Thoughtfulness For Mothers

By NANCY CLEAVER

"An oriole can make my heart
Turn upside down with sudden bliss,
But that is nothing, Johnny dear,
To what you do with one wet kiss!"

—Freda Newton Bunner

These are lines which we like, written by a friend who has brought up three children. Perhaps you have your own favorite Mother's Day quotations or poems. This is a good time to read aloud in the family, the wise words of King Solomon about a virtuous woman. These are found in the last chapter of Proverbs, verses 10 to 31.

On the second Sunday in May, countless mothers thank their children for gifts which express their love. From some quarters there is a loud protest about "commercializing Mother's Day!" Of course, it is foolish to spend extravagantly! The present with the highest price tag is not necessarily the one which is appreciated the most. But is unselfish and materialistic age, does it not do any son or daughter good to sacrifice to give mother pleasure?

It is the time and thought, as well as the money, which make a gift "special". Little Bobby had overhear his mother saying how short she was of clothes pegs every Monday. He took great pride in buying a dozen new non-rust spring type pegs which were more durable than ordinary ones. Sally sent away to a seed house for an ounce of heavenly-blue morning glory seeds which she knew her mother wanted to plant.

SEES YOU LATE

W.D. Howells once wrote "A man never sees all that his mother has been to him till it's too late to let her know that he sees it."

What a pity it is that if our mother has died let us recall all that she did for us, on her day. We can express that love by making a special effort to do something she would delight to see us attend Divine worship or help some poor mother who is having a hard struggle to get up her children.

If we are fortunate enough to have our mothers still with us, Mother's Day is an occasion when we can use our imagination to give a gift which will express our love. Flowers, candy, a book, a picture, something for her to wear or for her home—what a wide variety of presents from which to select one which will give mother real pleasure.

Strangely enough, the celebration of the date is not approved by some mothers who have not taken time to see to use in the character growth of their children. "If a woman excludes," said one, "all of her home—what a wide variety of presents from which to select one which will give mother real pleasure.

Strangely enough, the celebration of the date is not approved by some mothers who have not taken time to see to use in the character growth of their children. "If a woman excludes," said one, "all of her home—what a wide variety of presents from which to select one which will give mother real pleasure.

"Oh, you shouldn't have wasted all that money on me!" It does tend to take the sting off." Half the fun of preparing a present for a special occasion is to see that it is appreciable! In terms of the encouragement of generosity, a rare enough thing, money spent on a gift is never wasted!

Surely the value of Mother's Day for countless people far outweighs its abuse by the comparatively small group! Let us hold fast to any occasion which makes us more thoughtful, more unselfish and generous to the one person in the world who never fails us!

Some detractors of Mother's Day scoff at it, saying that those who observe it only forget their mothers the rest of the year. On the other 364 days, they claim, these children take their mothers very much for granted.

But has this been your observation? The majority of sons and daughters we know, who make a point of giving mother joy on the second Sunday in May, are the very ones, who give her happiness throughout the year. So, we say, "Here's to Mother's Day! Long may it continue!

part,
Forgetting not the sacrifice they gave—
The love, the life of a fond mother's heart.

A PROBLEM OF CREDIT

"I wonder whether too many people are not trying to acquire too many things in too little time."

That casual observation was made on Thursday by Mr. Jack Pembroke, as he addressed the annual meeting of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association of which he is president.

Mr. Pembroke was dealing with the problem of credit in general and mortgage money in particular and the danger that a possible excess of credit might result in "straining our economy."

"I do not believe that the volume of credit outstanding today has already reached the point where it is overstraining the economy," he said, but he added, "unfortunately decisions cannot be made in many and so complex that over-borrowing only becomes apparent after it has happened."

There are many families which can attest to the truth of the latter part of his statement. Although it ought to be a much simpler task for a family to estimate what should be the limit of its borrowing than for a nation to arrive at a similar estimate, unforeseen factors can disrupt even the most careful calculations. Then, too, there are some families which do not seem to calculate at all; while on the other hand there are many families in too little time, whereupon the family's economy definitely is strained.

Mr. Pembroke suggested that we may soon face a situation where a tightening of mortgage credit, rather than a liberalization of-it, "may be necessary and desirable." He is, of course, an expert in that field. The average citizen is likely to regard mortgage credit as one of the most useful fields. Mr. Pembroke pointed out that an increase in the amount of mortgage loans and a lengthening of the period over which these loans can be repaid has resulted in higher purchase prices for houses. This is true, but with Canada's population growing and with few individuals or corporations showing any eagerness to build dwellings for rent it is difficult to see how this trend can be reversed. Houses, unlike many of the things for which credit is used, are necessities.

THREE SHOOTING INCIDENTS

At Brantford, Ont., on Thursday morning an Indian, Cameron Sydney Hill, age 24, was killed by a bullet fired by a policeman. The bullet ricochetted.

At Joliette, Que., Constable Jean-Paul Paquette, age 30, was shot twice in the neck by Montreal police. The bullets did not ricochet.

At Toronto, also on Thursday, York Township police fired at three youths. They did not hit them.

Hill was suspected of having broken into a home.

Paquette was fleeing with 20 comic books, allegedly stolen.

The York Township youths had broken into a marijeteria.

There is no profit in discussing these incidents. A person either believes that policemen have a right and a duty to stop a suspect by any means possible, or he believes that the people should resort to the use of firearms only to protect themselves, to apprehend a dangerous criminal or to prevent a serious crime.

There would be considerable profit, though, in the authorities opening up their minds as to which of these viewpoints is to guide police work in this country.

If a policeman is justified in firing two shots at a youth of 19 who was fleeing with comic books, then the public should be informed of that fact.

Informed, lawbrakers and suspected lawbreakers could act accordingly.

The police could then omit their warning shots, aiming at the fugitive the first time, thereby saving a lot of lead and energy.

CHERRY TREES BLOOM AGAIN

The cherry blossom festival is one of the spring highlights in Washington.

Each year one of the splendors of the United States' capital is the sight of thousands of cherry trees in blossom.

Thousands of persons trek to the city just to see the trees.

Originally the trees were a gift of the Japanese government and were intended to symbolize mutual respect and admiration. But the cherry blossoms, lovely as they as always, stirred the passions of hatred and revenge in many Americans because of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor five years ago Sunday.

It was even suggested that the trees be cut down and burned.

Today, 10 years after the cessation of the world's most horrible war, the cherry trees are blooming again in Washington. Some time ago the United States was preparing to drop the first nuclear weapon on Hiroshima—a weapon which killed 70,000 persons in one searing white flash that marked the dawn of a new era.

The cherry blossoms have bloomed in Washington once more. The United States and Japan are partners in an Asian alliance. Thousands of Americans and Japanese lie dead in the far corners of the world but the cherry trees are born again by the magic of spring to shed their fragrance and display their finery.

Men and nations change. Cherry trees do not change.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

He sat in the stern and I sat in the bow.
He used similar bait, as I think of it now.
He fished the same lake, used the same kind of line,
But while he caught the bass, not a nibble was mine.

Not complaining am I of the luck that I've had.
Sometimes it's been good other times it's been bad;
But what is the difference I couldn't learn
'Twixt the man in the bow and the one in the stern.

When I sit in the stern the two-pounders somehow
Go swimming past me to the man in the bow.
Should our places we change, every small-mouth will turn
To lunge at the lure of the man in the stern.

I wonder at times does the blame lie with me?
Do the bass all take fright when my features they see?
Can it that he be the reason why bait they go by
Or is my companion more skillful than I?

"Must you bring your expression home with you, Clancy?"

The Mohawk Indians on the Tyendinaga Reserve celebrated the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty King George V, at the council house on the Reserve yesterday. The proceedings commenced with a banquet at noon in the dining room of the council house. After listening over the radio to the King's address the gathering sang the National Anthem. The rector of the Anglican Church on the Reserve, the Rev. Herbert Principe, occupied the chair and conducted a meeting. With him on the platform were a number of distinguished chiefs of the tribe. Short addresses were made by W. C. Mikel, K.C., and the gathering listened to talk dealing with the life of His Majesty and the people of the British Empire.

Where is the centre of Belleville? Some people would place it at the corner of Montreal at the corner of Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St., and others would say that it is at the city hall. It is neither of these places, according to a distant city engineer Charles A. Mott, but it is at Church St. near Victoria Ave. The discussion arose when Mr. Mott presented the Intelligencer with a new map of the city today. The point in question is marked and determined by co-ordinates after the latest style of surveying. It is found to be on the sidewalk on the west side of Church Street, about ten feet north of the north wall of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; this brings it at the side of the house of Dr. R. W. Tennent. The matter of the geographical centre of the city is now settled so long as the city limits remain as they are.

At a meeting of the Intermediate Baseball club the following officers were elected: hon. president, Mayor W. C. Mikel; president, H. B. Macauley; vice-presidents, George Dulmage; manager, William Gilbert; secretary-treasurer, F. E. O'Donahue; club coaches, Allan Meagher and H. Pringle.

Doing Best Has Rewards

(Hamilton Spectator editorial for young people)

We have all heard at various times the exhortation from parent and school to "Do your best."

It is one of those simple commands which sprang so readily to the lips in admonishment or encouragement. Behind it there lies much wisdom and it is one of the most important lessons we can learn, boiled down to bare essentials.

It may seem platitudinous to remind Canada's youth to be derived from doing your best, but rewards there are. One of the most important is that your nagging little friend, Conscience, is put in his place for a while and this, alone can bring great satisfaction.

There are material returns, too. The world is filled with all sorts of people who will recognize honest, and sincere effort with things like promotions, salary increases and bonuses. Hanging back in the ranks may be an easy way to go through life but it is hard on the barnacle and rarely shows much of a profit.

Any number of examples can be cited—concert performers, star athletes, the office boy who works his way up among the leaders or the man who digs ditches just a little better than his fellows and becomes a leader of them. The Horatio Alger stories of the poor newsboy who rose to the top would probably be described as "corn" today. The literary merits of these stories might not be very great, be-

Nurseries Not for Dads

(By Alan Dick in The London Herald)

I will wash dishes any day of the week, make beds, fetch coal, or cook the supper. But I will have positively no truck with nappies.

I thought I was alone in this view —I often am on the subject of children—but this time science is on my side.

Psychologists agree that fathers can become too much involved in baby doesn't like weather.

An experienced counsellor working with the Marriage Guidance Council advised watching the behavior of animals.

Mother animal does all the coddling and cosseting.

It isn't until the youngster can stagger about on his own that father comes into the picture. And then it is to play, not to nurse.

Mothers are motherly by instinct. Fathers can only learn by training.

That is why a woman lending her infant child is a figure of dignity.

And why a man messing about with talcum and safety pins is plain undignified—like a circus animal doing an unnatural trick.

but the simple message they carried contained a great deal of truth.

You will find the world fiercely competitive when you go out into it but don't be dismayed. Just do your very best whatever the job is. There is always room at the top for one more and there always will be.

Costs a Lot To Get Clipped

(Victoria Times)

Males who are unhappy about the current price of haircuts and alarmed at the thought of further increases, should consider the lot of German barbers. It is reported that haircuts cost him $4,500 a year.

It seems that for his present program he must wear a crewcut fade. This, he claims, necessitates two visits per week to the barber shop—a swanky salon which requires a tuxedo dress. A set-to-set check deposit and other essentials. All told, he estimates that to the barber costs him on the average five dollars, or $500 a year. But to have $500 for a hair cut feature he must earn $4,500, since he is in the income bracket where the government gets far more of his pay cheque than he does. Hence, his computation of the annual cost of looking neat and tidy around the ears.

This makes the average man's dollar per month, or whenever his wife drives him to the barber, shop seem much more reasonable. But it is still of appreciable overhead cost.

There are men living here who can remember when haircuts were 35 cents and you had your choice of two kinds—the bobbed-hair stickum. In those days shoeshines were a dime, and a ten-cent tip could bolds it high in any company. Today a barber's smile costs at least a quarter.

Men who have no talent for music or acting appear to have only two choices; either to wait for rescue by Samaritan, or go live in a cave. Unfortunately barbering is one of the few trades that cannot successfully be converted into a do-it-yourself hobby.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FAITH, THE SUBSTANCE

The entire world has been thrilled by the winning of the long battle against polio, won by a young man by the name of Jonas Salk, who long ago determined to do this fearful thing, and the resistance by which it was accomplished. Never did he and his many assistants ever lose courage in the face of the millions of children, as well as fathers and mothers, who will forever bless his name.

This thing we call Faith is a substance in life, as mentioned by the human will and backed by courage. Its originator is the man who is warmed over in the iheart. You can't successfully or happily achieve anything worth while without this God-given substance of faith. Every great thing in the world has been generously gifted with this Faith, but behind it he has had to put all of himself.

Rather than fear and despair, substitute Faith. Live, love and work by it. Demonstrate it to others, Think of Salk, Pasteur, Edison, Washington, Lincoln and scores of other names that will live forever in the annals of mankind. Faith is one of the essentials without which nothing worth while can be accomplished. In every activity of life is Faith demonstrated and we see it in the science of all men.

Think of the utter confusion and loss of confidence that would ensue if acceptance and demonstration of Faith in ourselves, Faith in our fellowmen, Faith in God were absence of it for the morrow, Faith in the sunshine and dew while in the heart of every human being, Faith in God and the Hereafter.

Faith is the essence of optimism, and enthusiasm breeds ideas and puts them into practical operation every day. When Faith is greatly backed it gains fleetness and will travel to the ends of the earth! Faith is something that is welcomed everywhere—for without it nothing could be.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THREE STEPS

When the jailor at Philippi, terrified by an earthquake and the escape of his prisoners, called out to Paul, "What shall I do to be saved?" Paul's simple answer was, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

But that of course is only the first step in salvation. All salvation begins with faith, but every decidedly it does not end there. What do we believe about Christ? We believe that He comes bringing salvation from sin. Very well; the second step is the step of faith—we accept that forgiveness even though we realize that we in no way deserve it. Coming to Jesus or than to get into our minds and hearts that the perfect righteous God is willing to forgive us our sins, and for no other reason than that we ask Him in the name of Jesus Christ to do so.

But still we are not saved when we have taken the gift. One further step is necessary—that is the step of obedience. We must not only believe that God can save us we must accept the forgiveness He offers; and then in the final step we must submit in His lordship and agree to follow Him in every walk of life.

Three steps in salvation—and the third is obedience. The old gospel hymn puts it perfectly in these words:

Trust and obey,
For there's no other way,
To be happy in Jesus but to trust and obey.

West Germany Returns to Air

(Ottawa Journal)

For a decade in this era of astounding advance in man's mastery of the skies the Federal Republic of West Germany has been grounded. It was one of the provisions imposed upon the Reich by the Allies who accepted her unconditional surrender 10 years ago that no German aircraft should be made or flown.

Today reinvested Federal Republic, seeing its future in association with the western powers, accepted this condition as one of the penalties of a lost war, but the additional price suffered. The situation was that West Germany was denied the aircraft of half a dozen countries but by no German technician or pilot. Not only was it forbidden that Germany should develop an air arm of defence but the mundane and useful use of civilian aircraft also was forbidden. The Lufthansa line, which linked the TCA flies regularly into and out of Dusseldorf from London—has been were grounded. Its routes serving Hamburg, Frankfort, Cologne and the other chief cities, but of Germany's own share in the conquest of the skies there was nothing but a memory.

Now this ban has been relaxed, with new aircraft and pilots were to aid in her own defence. Aircraft built in the United States with the word "Lufthansa" painted on their sides mark the rebirth of German civil flying. Passengers flying into with German crews are flying between Dusseldorf and Frankfurt, Dusseldorf and Hamburg, and this summer there will be flights of German aircraft to London, Paris and Madrid, and between Hamburg and New York. The economic services to the Middle East and then to the Orient will be established.

Before the war Lufthansa claimed to be the largest airline in Pan American among world air lines, and German factories were producing the best. When the war ended the war demonstrated all too tragically, their destruction was complete to cover the ground lost, and already there are plans in the making for production of aircraft in Germany not only for the Lufthansa, and for one day a re-created German air force, but for the foreign market.

Wel Germany's recovery from the ashes of defeat and ruin has been a marvel of the postwar years. Return to the air is a step in which every German will take deep satisfaction.

Personal Health Service

By DR. WM. BRADY

Cultivation Of Good Looks

When I say, from time to time, that your dentistry stock in trade includes good digestion, good health, vite, good looks and longevity, I'm not trying to flatter the dentists to they won't regard me as a fine character with a "filthy" mouth (I never brush my teeth).

I have seen what few dentists have been privileged to see, the finest teeth in the civilized world, the teeth of the people of Tristan da Cunha, who had never used tooth brushes or dentifrices. Until some dentists conjures up a reasonable explanation for this or for the fact that the most scrupulous toothbrushers in the world have the poorest teeth, I'll take the mincing insinuation about my "filthy" mouth with amusement.

This is the first lesson in how to keep well, because I believe a full complement, of luxurious and efficient teeth, your own or your dentist's, is a fine insurance of good digestion, good health, vite, good looks and longevity.

If your education was neglected, in grade school and high school, you may think my estimate of the value of good teeth is overdrawn. The ninnyhammer who brushes his teeth with daintily packaged soap containing the latest antihistamine, the most powerful germicide or the right proportion of tweedledidum, diet settles it.

The ninnyhammer would like to qualify to have an opinion concerning the relation between teeth and beauty, get Dr. W. A. Price's book, Nutrition and Physical Degeneration, from the public library or your book dealer. Dr. Price was a dentist. When I am licked by the yammerings of some mincing little man about my "filthy" mouth, I take down Dr. Price's book, read a few passages, and presently recover my equanimity and my respect for the dental profession.

THE 7 KEYS TO VITE

It was not without long study of health that I learned the keys:

1. Save your teeth
2. Temperance
3. Correct breathing
4. Nudity (not nudism)
5. Iodin ration
6. Exercise
7. Corrective, protective, rejuvenation, regeneration diet.

There may be some one in the world who is beautiful, youthful, handsome or good looking even without teeth or with one or more teeth missing, but I'm from Missouri.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For twenty some years, friends of mine have celebrated the opening of the trout fishing season in the same cluster of beautiful small lakes, deep in the northern woods, a not-too-remote but fairly inaccessible section of the north. They built a small cabin as a sort of clubhouse; but it was not a rich man's club by any means. It was the public

Along Canadian Trails

Pioneer Artist

By Leonard L. Knott Illustrated by David Ranson

Many years ago, before Canada had become a country of big cities and factories, when the North American Indians still lived in freedom and were ruled by their own Chiefs, there was born one strange and colorful costumes and had their own distinctive ways of tions.

Today the ancient Indian tribes have almost disappeared. Except at such places as the Calgary Stampede, the Rocky Mountain Indian Festival and at Camp Caughnawaga, near Montreal, the glory of the Indians is never seen. Many of the traditions of these first Canadians might have been lost forever if it had not been for a great artist during pioneer who came here from Ireland back in 1816.

Paul Kane grew to manhood in Muddy York which was later to become the city of Toronto. In the streets as he walked to school, he often met Indians who had come in from the forest to trade. He was fascinated by these strange people and always wanted to know more about them. At school, he learned to draw and from the time he began putting down on paper some of the faces and costumes of the men and women of the forest country.

BEGAN LIFEWORK

After he finished school, Paul worked for a while to earn enough money to visit the art schools of Europe. Then, in 1844, he returned to Canada and began his life's work. One of the most important tasks an artist had ever undertaken. In June, 1847, with only a box of paints, a gun and ammunition he went on foot to Lake Simcoe, by boat to Orillia, crossed over Sturgeon Bay and Lake Huron and hired a canoe and a gun to paddle all night to reach Penetanguishene where he boarded a packet boat for Owen Sound.

Here he found what he was looking for, an Indian encampment just 40 miles away. He started out again on foot, walked through the forests and swamps all night during a pouring rain and arrived the next day at noon at the Ojibway Indian village of Saugeen. He had travelled without food or rest, but he was impatient to begin and sat down immediately to begin painting feverishly all the picturesque personalities of the Ojibway tribe.

Back in civilization, he showed his paintings to some Hudson Bay Company factors. They were delighted with his work and offered to lead him to the Indian tribes of the northwest. Off he went with the fur brigade, up the Great Lakes to Port Arthur and on to Fort Garry, Fort Edmonton and Fort Vancouver. His expedition took three full years during which he travelled hundreds of miles on foot, or snowshoes, in canoes and York boats, in Red River carts and on horseback. He fought through fierce blizzards, often froze at forty below zero and sweltered under scorching Prairie suns.

RECORDED INDIAN LIFE

His travels were made up of suffering and determination. When he returned to York he had with him more than 500 sketches, the greatest pictorial record of Indian life ever made. In York, he settled down in his studio to complete his paintings. The Upper Canadian Legislature commissioned twelve paintings for their legislative building. A wealthy patron ordered more than a hundred. These he later presented to the University of Toronto.

In a carefully written journal Kane kept a complete record of his journey. His notes and his paintings together enabled him to publish one of the great books on the North American Indian. Tired, partly blind as a result of months spent on the glaring white snow of the Far North, and satisfied because his job was completed, Paul Kane died when he was 60 years old. But before he died, he knew that he had become a household name in Canada and Europe.

GIPSY DAYS

Wellington on the Lake

How our pulses stir and quicken
When stern Winter's power is o'er,
And the winds of Spring are calling
Grass a-creeping to the door!
Then our gipsy blood flows faster,
With new life our pulses beat,
And the vagabond within us
Lures us from the home retreat.

Strangel the spirit of the vagrant
In our life should play a part!
Nay, not strangel 'Tis but the prompting
Of a bold adventurous heart—
Just a spark of that bold spirit
That inspired that Loyal band
When they sought new homes and firesides
In this virgin forest land.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — Now with the Summer near, the holiday spirit is in the air, and plans are being made for summer vacation trips. A friend writes from Toronto of her expected visit to the New England States while others are planning a longer trip, even to Europe. So the spirit of adventure is still felt, a spirit inherited from our ancestors who first settled in this country.

Mr. Alex Tait, student at the Ontario College of Art, Toronto, spent a few days with friends in Wellington.

Mrs. Elmer Carley spent the week-end with her parents at Chesterville, Ontario.

The local W.M.S. assisted in the Sunday morning service in the United Church. The Rev. Mr. Foulter delivered the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater, Belleville, were week-end guests at the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vanderwater.

Mrs. Ella Burnett is a patient in Kingston hospital. His many friends are hoping he may soon be better.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton spent a few days in Peterborough, guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Cockrane and son.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hubbs, Toronto, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris.

Mrs. Ernest Bond and Mrs. Ernest Bond spent Monday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ford who celebrated their golden wedding on April 5th, and who received many cards, telegrams and gifts, were remembered this week by the Dominion Textile Company, Montreal, with G. Blair Gordon, president, who sent by express the gift of a comber peraik sheet and two pillow slips neatly boxed. The Textile Company formed in 1905 is also celebrating its fiftieth anniversary.

Miss Helen Arthur, Belleville, and Mrs. Leona Whyte, Trenton, called in Wellington on Wednesday, enroute to Mrs. Whyte's summer home near Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McFaul spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mrs. Inez Ingram's new home on Belleville street is nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vanderwater will be entertained at dinner, on Sunday, Mother's Day, at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, with Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater as host and hostess. Other guests will include Mr. and Mrs. A. Orr, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vanderwater and family of Bath.

The many friends of Miss Clara Anderson, Belleville, were saddened and shocked to hear of her death a few days' illness in Kingston hospital. Miss Anderson was a frequent and welcome visitor to Wellington where she made many friends. Among those attending the funeral on Tuesday at the Grant Funeral Home, were Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Miss Marjorie Blakely with Miss Helen Arthur; Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. A. T. Fleming of Wellington. Interment was made in Albury cemetery.

National Body Urged to Study Road Accidents

MONTREAL (CP)—The dean of McGill University's faculty of medicine has urged creation of a national organization to study and do battle against menace responsible for thousands of deaths annually in Canada, the United States and Britain.

The suggestion, formation of a new section of the Canadian Medical Association to study the problem of traffic accidents, was made Thursday by Dr. C. Lynnan Duff at the close of an international medical conference on road deaths that brought together doctors, surgeons and psychiatrists from the three countries.

The conference also heard a recommendation for formation of a second organization to study the problem, a separate foundation to be supported by private and government funds.

Traffic accidents, it was said, are responsible for 3,000 deaths a year in Canada, 34,000 in the U. S. and 5,000 in Britain.

The two meetings was unique in that delegates discussed problems to which they could not possibly find an immediate solution. Traffic accidents have been termed the No. 3 killer ranking after heart disease and cancer.

Stratford Links Musical Program With Drama

STRATFORD — Sister to the Shakespearean Festival theatre-tent in Stratford, Ontario, is the Festival Singers, who will open its inaugural Festival of Music, July 5-August 6 this summer, the Stratford Festival organization has taken over the Casino, a former Edwardian-dance palace in the city . . . and is revamping it into a 1,000-seat auditorium for the four week music program. Changes involve the construction of a special acoustic ceiling, the building of an orchestral platform, and the installation of comfortable seats.

In their alterations the architects have taken a lead from the theatre-tent, which brings actors and audience into close contact, and placed the brchestral platform in the middle of the long wall of the rectangular auditorium instead of in the conventional position in the end of the hall. Thus the audience is racked closely around the orchestra in an intimate semi-circle.

The Concert Hall will accommodate 1,000 people, with seat prices similar to those of the theatre-tent, ranging from $5.00 down. It is close to the theatre-tent, on the banks of the Avon River, about five minutes' walk from the centre of town. The music program this summer to run in conjunction with the Festival's third annual season of drama feature Boyd Neel conducting the Hart House Orchestra in a series of concerts and such outstanding soloists as Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, Isaac Stern, Lois Marshall, Alexander Schneider, Aksel Schiotz, Zara Nelsova and Glenn Gould.

ROUND UP GUNS

SUDBURY (CP)—Police in the Sudbury district have launched a drive to round up dangerous homemade pistols which they say are being used as playthings by children and teen-agers. There are believed to be nearly 30 muzzle-loading guns in the hands of local youngsters, police report. The crudely-made weapons could easily be lethal, it is stated.

A Girl's Best Friends Lead Adventurous Lives

(THE BLUE BELL)

It's not known who first discovered a true diamond, but there is a faint suspicion that he rapidly became a mighty popular fellow.

If he headed for the bright lights with his new-found wealth all the dolls in town were after him, and if he kept to the dark alleys, all the boys in the Kasbah were after him.

The truth about diamonds is that they are a highly portable commodity, and everyone gets an unconditional urge to test this portability by carrying them away from whoever has them at the moment.

Full many a gem of purest ray serene the dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear," sings the poet. Full many another gem has been brought to light only to spend the rest of its time nestling in the murky folds of its owner's cummerbund.

And with reason, for the history of diamonds is a gentle, heart-warming tale of theft and misappropriation from ancient Golconda to Modern Metropolis.

THEFT IS IDENTITY

For example, take the Koh-i-Noor or "Mountain of Light." Tradition has it that it was found in India between 4,000 and 5,000 years ago, and that it is the oldest known diamond in the world.

This little bauble, which then weighed 186 carats and was valued at "half the daily revenue of the whole world," is first reported in the possession of Mogul rulers of India, who got it as a "voluntary" gift after its possessor had failed to hide the diamond in his headgear, which he later removed (and failed to keep his hair from falling out.)

TRADED TURBANS

Learning of the hiding place from a fellow prisoner, Humayun the astute Nadir proposed exchanging turbans with Shahjahan the condemned. Always the perfect gentleman, Mohammed could not refuse his conqueror's request for courtesy. It is said to relate that when Nadir returned to Persia with his diamond-studded turban, he was assassinated by a courtier.

And now we come to the romantic adventures of the Great Nadir's son. Deposed from the throne, he had boiling pitch poured over his head and his eyes put out. Gallantly he refused to reveal the hiding place of the diamond, and in the end was nominally restored to his throne, retailored the Koh-i-nor, and lived happily ever after.

Passing lightly over the charming history of another lucky possessor of the great diamond, Aga Zeman, who was deposed and had his eyes pierced by a lance, we come to an even luckier owner, his brother, Shah Shuja, who was deposed but fled to the court of Runjit Singh, "Lion of the Punjab." These incidents bear out the truth of the old saying, "Sovereignty rests with the Koh-i-Noor."

Runjit, we are told, was very friendly with Shuja, and after he had taken everything else that he had, laughingly asked him for the Koh-i-Noor. The rascally Shuja tried to pass off a big topaz as a substitute, but Runjit knew his diamonds and were properly insulted on the real thing. The villain-ex was forced to yield the stone and virtue triumphed.

DIAMOND "ANNEXED"

After the death of the Punjab Lion, the British Lion annexed his kingdom — and the Koh-i-Noor. "Annex" is a Good Word, not to be confused with less subtle ways of getting diamonds.

Presented to Queen Victoria, the great stone was recut according to a design chosen by the Queen and the Prince Consort, who personally placed the diamond upon the cutting device.

As a result of the royal choice of pattern, the cutting "entailed the greatest possible amount of waste," removed 80 carats. Some have deplored the loss of the artistic and flawless stone rather than the original stone, but more will rejoice that the dark taint of sinister Oriental intrigue has ceased to be associated with Koh-i-Noor I was quite obliterated by the chaste chisels of Victorian propriety.

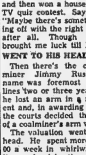
The Koh-i-Noor is now the central stone of the Queen's State Crown, designed especially for Queen Mary, for the coronation of 1911. A clever method of mounting makes possible its removal so that it may be worn as a brooch — or spirited away to Scotland.

There is some dispute among diamonds as to which of them was the Original Idol's Eye, but undoubtedly the one most deserving of the title is the Orloff Eye. Only a diamond associated with a tale of skullduggery is fitted to survive, as the Orloff does, in the Diamond Treasury of the Kremlin in the Soviet Socialist Republics in Moscow. (The Orloff survives in Russia because it is a diamond.)

Shaped like half an egg and weighing 200 carats, this massive diamond formed one of the eyes of an idol housed in a temple surrounded by seven walls. The temple in turn was on an island in the middle of a river, so that the simple Oriental guardians believed the sacred eye to be safe even from the wily Occidental.

THEFT IS IDENTITY UNKNOWN

The theft is attributed by some to an English adventurer and by others to a French soldier-of-fortune. This account distributes the honors impartially.



The thief embraced the Hindu faith, for no Christian was admitted beyond the fourth of the seven enclosures of the temple. As the event proved, it was an example of wise religious discrimination.

The scenario is familiar. A stormy night. The idol in fitful shadows. The thief reverently prying the eye from its socket. An alarm—and the thief flees, leaving the other eye behind. The idol has since taken a dim view of the whole thing.

The thief sold the diamond to a sea captain, who sold it to a Jewish merchant, who sold it—I'll you are still following—for £50,000 rubble (everything was relative then) to Count Orloff, who gave it to Catherine the Great, who graciously accepted it but did not restore the Prince to her favors. There may be a moral in this.

There is a legend that as Napoleon was approaching Moscow the Orloff was hidden in the tomb of a priest in the Kremlin. Both Napoleon and the priest escaped the tomb and tried to take the diamond. The priest got the day at 9.30. All the students went to the fair grounds in the morning and were absent for the day at 9.30. All the students went to the fair grounds in the morning to view the great attraction. The boys of BCIVS looked like experienced soldiers as they marched back to the grounds. This was their reward for the hard work that both teachers and students had made the preparations for the inspection. It is a matter of pleasing pride in BCIVS but on a display of rhythmic exercises.

WARDROBE TONIC

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A mildish day, even if it is winter and out comes that personal spring tonic, a new straw or stetch hat. Here is a new one new between season hats. White shiny straw is used for a nice touch of youthful and smart, and good with a navy belting ribbon band ends in elongated tabs that are stiffened, the top one to be worn lower layer in red, the twain held by a rhinestone buckle. A curve sculptured to reveal the hair is a feature of the flattering pontie cap that takes a pronounced dip at one side. A pheasant feather slips through three self loops to sweep down one side.

HARRIER RACE

Quinte Secondary school held its first annual harrier race on Wednesday afternoon — 122 boys participated and 118 finished the course.

Jerry Green of G 10A placed first in the race and he ran the 3 miles in 17.01.9. Bill Dicky came in second with a timing of 17.12.3. Third, fourth and fifth places were captured by Ron Walmsley, Eric Beeby and Bob Ewing, respectively.

The boys were running to get points for their class. In order to get points they had to finish the course in 30 minutes. An average was taken in order that each class would have an equal chance to win. G 9B were the victors and took the class trophy. Runners up were G 11C and G 10C.

The course started on College street in front of the school. The race took in College street, Sidney street, Albert street, Lemoine street and Tracey street. It was rough gravel all the way and part of the course had been recently oiled which made running more difficult.

Those who placed first in each grade were, Grade 9, Keith; Grade 10, Green; Grade 11, Walmsley.

VARIETY NIGHT

A variety night will be held at Quinte Secondary school next Friday. It will feature "The Masque of Beauty," a play presented by the Drama club. This is a modern satire and should prove very interesting. Also on the program will be gymnastic displays and students' talents. Admission price is 50c for adults and 25c for students and will take place in the school auditorium.

ELECTIONS

Nominations for the Girls' Athletic committee executive took place on Wednesday morning. Running for president are Lesley Anderson and Shirley LaRue. Elections will be held next week.

We are expecting to hold all club elections very soon.

SPRING FLING

The annual Spring Fling was held at Quinte Secondary school last night. This was the first formal ever to be held at Quinte. The dance featured Commodore's orchestra. Prizes were awarded and refreshments were enjoyed by all. The Spring Fling was a great success and we hope there will be more formals held at Quinte Secondary school next year.

CADET INSPECTION

BCIVS held their annual cadet inspection yesterday at the fair grounds. The students of both BCIVS and Quinte Secondary school registered in the morning and were dismissed for the day at 9.30. All the students went to the fair grounds in the morning to view the great attraction. The boys of BCIVS looked like experienced soldiers as they marched back to the grounds. This was their reward for the hard work that both teachers and students had made the preparations for the inspection. It is a matter of pleasing pride in girls of BCIVS put on a display of rhythmic exercises.

Going Places

Tipping Tips For Motorists

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

With the season at hand for going places by car, it might be a good time to go into some of the problems of tipping as they apply to auto touring. Here are some of the matters readers bring up most frequently.

Motels: It used to be a pretty good rule that if anyone made with the sign of the open palm, it wasn't a motel. But the tourist court business has developed so in the past few years that it's almost impossible to tell the hotels from the motels without a scorecard—or something.

Motels have sprung up in the hearts of major cities, right under the hotels' figurative noses. Many of the latest ones are multi-storey affairs with subterranean garages. Coffee shops, cocktail lounges, room service and other appurtenances of hotels are commonplace by now. And so, unhappily for the travelers-on-a-budget, is the jingle of coins of gratuity.

Fortunately, the majority of motels still feature room, bath, and no tips. Some even go so far as to complete your stay after a tiring day at the wheel. Coffee shops, cocktail lounges, room service and other appurtenances of hotels are commonplace by now. And so, unhappily for the travelers-on-a-budget, is the jingle of coins of gratuity.

Coffee shops, cocktail lounges, room service and other appurtenances of hotels are commonplace by now. And so, unhappily for the travelers-on-a-budget, is the jingle of coins of gratuity.

But if you prefer nothing by the book motels are the only way to go, as well as room rates. These glamorous new hostelries you see on every hand—they overwhelm from at least a mile in any direction) have bellmen, doormen, and a variety of other service employees generally associated by the tips only with hotels, and you should plan to tip as you would in a hotel.

Restaurants: Here, employees are encountered on a tipping basis with new frequency. As a result, you may not have had much to do when arriving by other means.

Doormen: Don't tip them for anything for you but open your door. And don't tip them for toting bags out. Usually they don't expect a tip for this service.

Parking: Here is a temporary parking space for your car while you're eating or sleeping. Unless an attendant, he's earned a quarter or so. You may hand it to him as you enter the lobby to register or, if you wish, the next time you leave your room.

In most hotels, too, the switchboard operator will connect you with the doorman if you want to send for your car, and since this is also a time and trouble-saver for you, it's proper to show your appreciation.

PARKING ATTENDANT

Here you probably won't be around when the parking lot attendant takes your car away, tipping him for his practical or expected, if you are around when he delivers it. You may give him 15 cents or so if he makes a fuss about wiping your windshield and holding the door open for your lady friend. But that's pretty optional, especially in small-fry.

Eating places: Traveling by car you'll often take your meals in more informal places on the road than you would usually encounter while traveling by other means.

At roadside drive-ins, drug store counters, the counters of small-town restaurants, tips generally are not expected.

In the type of cafeteria popular through the South, where a waiter delivers your tray and prepared-to-order dishes to your table, a small tip is in order.

Table waiters and waitresses work for tips and place you go. But hostesses don't and headwaiters or managers do only in the fanciest continental restaurants. Busboys never.

CAR HELP

Filling stations, garages, etc.: No tipping for any routine services you'll be buying gas or oil and service employees really goes out of his way to help you change a tire or clean out the battery turning over, or change that tire in a black driving rain. Then the appreciation ought to lead you to pay a little more than the new price structure normally is what he asks for is reasonable.

Some folks also tip car-washers, especially for the "hand" variety.

Sightseeing attractions: We've found that in any occasion where a tip was expected or warranted in this country, though in Europe they're usually taken for granted. But you needn't worry about this.

If you take the kids along Maids in both motels and hotels will often baby-sit for you, at least long enough for you to enjoy a quiet relaxing dinner, for a modest tip.

If you want the youngsters' diapers and duds done in a hurry at the self-service laundry, even though other bundles may have preceded yours, there are usual waiting (while the other folks are coming back later for theirs) plus 25 to 50 cents for the attendant's extra some preference.

Fickle Fate Makes Life Exciting

By EVELYN VAUGHAN

Life's a switchstick, fantastic, thrilling. Only last year oil millionaire David Stokes married teashop hostess Betty Glasier and his wheel bar off on a luxury yacht honeymoon. Then he was killed in a car crash and his money went to others. The other week Betty took a job as a movie starlet—and married Boyle!

Only last year Mary Malcolm was punching tickets and taking fares on a midland bus route. Her love remained true to Jimmy, an airman seemed to have ended. Because the airman wanted to make sure, he had sailed for home . . . but then came a transatlantic proposal.

Mary flew to California on a one-way ticket, married Jimmy there and then won a house and car in a "get quiz contest." Says Mary: "Maybe there's something in starting off with the right kind of name after all. Vaughan, I mean, has brought me luck till I changed it!

WENT TO HIS HEAD

Then there's the case of coal-miner Jimmy Rushton, whose name was famous in the West Indies two or three years ago when he lost an arm in a mining accident and, in hospital, became engaged to a nurse. Then he went to the courts decided that the value of a coalminer's arm was $50,000.00.

The valuation went to Jimmy's head. He spent more than $1,800.- 00 a week in wining, dining, travelling and celebration. He tried to rescue five lame ducks in a month. In a hectic four months—according to his counsel—he got through more money than any man could earn tax-free in a year.

Then the judge reduced the amount of compensation. In a final frantic attempt to retrieve his fortunes, Jimmy turned to theft. Today he has learned that even a one-armed bandit can't give you bags in prison.

You never can tell in the amazing whirligig of events. Remember pretty Eve Spiers, the English schoolgirl who was sent home for wearing slacks? Her father was fined for not sending her to school and months of legal wrangling ensued. Since then Eva has left school and started work. Her job as a trainee actress has been—making slacks!

SLOW START

Remember Brynley Fussell, the boy who was the first starter over four flying lessons, pushed a lightplane into the air, got into trouble, banger and tried to fly it to Eire? He had to make an emergency landing, was fined £10 and told he was hauled before the magistrates.

Yet the following year the "airmad boy"—as the world knew him—had a job as a pilot on the run across the Channel to France, where he met Lindbergh, Lindbergh shook their heads at his behavior. But today Brynley is where he always was, flying for pleasure in a highly promising career as a jet engineer.

What became of the Gazelle Boy, the youngster who was found naked and speaking the language he gazelles in the deserts of Arabia? In an Iraq hospital, where he had learned to be human, learned so well that today he is a hospital orderly!

Romance and adventure!

Once the searching spotlight of the world turned on Isabel Macdonald, the girl who was known as the fairy tale of Britain. In her early twenties she acted as her father's secretary at No. 10 Downing Street. After her father's retirement, she left the limelight and married a local painter and decorator.

But the sequel is still stranger. Her husband died. Years before, Isabel, giving her own fairy-tale place, humble Lossiemouth, she bought a tube of toothpaste from a young local chemist. Afterwards, when at Lossiemouth on holiday, she had married the chemist—to wed him.

Then they met socially, renewed their acquaintance—and chemist James Peterkin proposed to Isabel. Who can deny that life's a switchback, packed with surprise and every turn!

DETROIT (AP)—The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CIO) Friday night voted to accept a new contract with Parke, Davis and Co., ending the first of a strike in the manufacture of pills and drugs. GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FIANCE FACES KIND BUT DIFFICULT SITUATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last week Sally and I became engaged, and when I went to spend the week-end at her home of my fiance's parents, they offered me a beautiful diamond ring that was a precious heirloom in their family, as the engagement ring for me to give to their daughter. My fiancee had sensed this might happen, and she had told me beforehand she didn't want this ring as her engagement ring, that she didn't really want any engagement ring, my fiancee's parents, they offered me a beautiful diamond ring that was a precious heirloom in their family, as the engagement ring for me to give to their daughter. My fiancee had sensed this might happen, and she had told me beforehand she didn't want this ring as her engagement ring, that she didn't really want any engagement ring, but to make this clear to her parents as carefully as I could was one of the most difficult things I've ever had to do. They were upset about it, and seemed to understand and accept the decision and mine. But somehow I continue to feel that there might be something more that I could do to make them feel right about the situation. Could you suggest anything that wouldn't seem overdone, would seem sufficient? — Jim

I think you have a wise and sound inclination here. If I were you, I would write a note to your fiancee's mother and father, thanking them again, with very special appreciation, for their wonderful thought and most loving suggestion. Then add your deep hope that they completely understand their Sally's wish either to have no engagement ring or a ring that you could afford to give her, and your wish to abide by her decision. Say that such a letter, written with t h e greatest sincerity and consent in your letter to me, will add just the right touch to the not-easy situation.

THANK YOU NOTE FOR MONEY GIFT TO NEW BABY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our new baby has been sent several gifts instead of money, with which I've been asked to buy articles I'd like to have for the baby. What would be a correct form for a thank-you note?—L.C.

A thank-you note somewhat like this:

Dear Marie,

How very kind, how very generous of you and Jim to send our new baby such a wonderful present! We send you deep thanks for your goodness to us, for your thoughtful plan that I buy something that will give our new little Janet happiness and comfort. I haven't yet been able to go forth shopping for this important chore, but when I do, I'll write you all about it. And I do hope you and Jim will come soon to give our daughter the joy of "meeting" our two dear friends.

Dearest love, Sue

Deepest appreciation from Us Three.

Affectionately,

UP THE AISLE WITH THE USHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin, her husband and I have planned to go together to the formal church wedding of the daughter of a friend of our family. My cousin is much older than I am, and I guess it would be natural for the usher to offer her his arm. Then should I expect to walk with my cousin's husband, following my cousin and the usher, or should he follow his wife and the usher, while I wait for an usher to escort me to a place in the row with them? — Alicia K.

You would follow with your cousin's husband.

WHEN MARRIED WOMAN SIGNS WEDDING GUEST BOOK

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I two questions about name-forms that always bothe me. And I am further perplexed by the fact that I see some of my friends use one form and some, another.

1. How should a married woman sign the Guest Book at a wedding—when she signs for herself alone, and when she signs for her husband and herself? When I sign at Wedding Reception Guest Book, I "peek" at the other signatures above mine to see what form is used, and wonder about the different forms I see used.

2. And what form of name should she write with her return address on the back of an envelope? Here

White Wool For Evening

By TRACY ADRIAN

Spring evenings are inclined to be a little on the cool side even though mild weather is not far away. This being the case even at resorts there is a real need for a chic and cozy coat to cover bare dinner dresses or filmy dance gowns.

Here's a model that will fill the requirements and will be a handy topper even during the summer months. It is of white fleece cuffed with mink and jewel embroidery and it has a stunning white silk taffeta lining for added luxury.

too one sees different forms used. —Margaret

1. A married woman should sign her informal name in the Guest Book at a wedding reception. Mar-garet Clark. Or there may be times when, for clearer information, she might sign Margaret Davis Clark: In the first place, a formal name (that is, with title "Mrs.") is not a signature. And in the second place, it seems strange to see a formal name written in a guest book, which in itself is an informal, friendly item.

When a woman signs the guest book for her husband and herself, she writes: George and Margaret Clark. (Courtesy to write her own name last.) When her husband signs, he writes Margaret and George Clark. (Courtesy to write his own name last.)

2. The formal name is the one that should be written for "public" information on envelopes: Mrs. George Clark. (Here the name is not a signature; therefore the informal name should not be used.)

INVITATIONS SHOULD SAY "BIRTHDAY PARTY"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you think that on the invitations to a child's birthday party it should always be indicated that it is a birthday party? My two sisters and I have been discussing this, and they think that the children's parents must then feel obliged to send presents with their children who come to the party, and that this may mean difficulty to the family's budget. — Patricia's mother

To the birthday child it would be a deep disappointment not to include on the invitations "I'm having a birthday party, and I hope you can come." A child's birthday party means having the little guests bring gifts, but the gifts may be, should be, inexpensive ones. This is true too: if the invitations don't say it's a birthday party, the birthday-child inevitably would tell some guests (probably most of them!) that the date is her or his birthday date, and the children who were told would bring gifts and the others would be embarrassed not to have brought gifts. Birthday gifts, a birthday cake, ice cream, games with prizes . . . this is the time-honored formula for a child's birthday party, and a child expects these traditions to be observed! Then . . . precious memories to cherish!

HIS THANKS SUFFICIENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the prospective groom, and in the small organization in which I work it is the custom for the men to give a present to the man getting married. This is usually a present intended more for his use than for "their" use. My bride-to-be lives out-of-town, and doesn't know my co-workers. I've been wondering if I should ask her to write a note of thanks to my co-workers. Or are my thanks to them sufficient? — E.R.

In these circumstances your thanks are sufficient.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

KEEP ON BEING DIFFERENT; IT'S SMARTER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a girl I have been seeing a lot of for the past few months. She is 18 and I am 19.

Two or three times lately, when I have taken her home after a date, she has asked me if I were not going to kiss her goodnight. I have never made any attempt to do this, because I am rather shy.

What I would like to know is, if a girl asks a boy this question, does it mean she specially likes him, or would it just be a matter of routine with her? — Tom

Dear Tom:

Certainly no girl would ask a boy to kiss her if she didn't have a special liking for him, but at the same time I'm afraid goodnight kisses between boys and girls these days are, as you suggest, a matter of routine. The reason I say "I'm afraid" this is true, is because my own feeling is that such liking can be shown in far better ways.

Personally, I think you'd be smart not to fall into the expected routine. I'm inclined to think that it will make a great deal more impression on this girl, and increase her interest in you, if you follow your "no kissing" policy. However lightly they may regard kissing and petting, girls like a and admire boys who command their respect, and vice versa.

YOU'RE BETTER OFF WITHOUT A JEALOUS BOYFRIEND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The fellow I have been going with keeps accusing me of still liking a friend of his whom I went with before I knew him. If it weren't for that, everything would be wonderful between us, because I am very much in love with him and he keeps saying he loves me. He is 23 and I am 22.

What can I do to make this fellow believe that I don't care about anyone but him? — Miss H. W. Dear Miss H.W.:

If you haven't said or done anything to give this other any reason to believe you're still interested in his friend, then the only explanation of this attitude is that he has a jealous nature. And there are just two things you can do with a young man of that type.

One is to handle the whole thing with a light touch, and laugh it off when he acts up, or if that doesn't work, you can have a showdown with him and tell him if he doesn't trust you, you're through with him. And mean it. Generally speaking, you're much better off without a jealous boy friend.

On the other hand, of course, there are girls who deliberately try to make their boy friends jealous. They enjoy the feeling of power it gives them. So just in case you've been up to something like that, let me tell you that it's not only a very mean, but a very dangerous game to play, and very, very rarely gets a girl anything but trouble in the end.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

My twin sisters are graduating from (Nursing School). We are planning a reception for about 100 friends in the church hall. Would you please give me a suggestion for a salad plate, or a sandwich plate, for such an occasion. The lunch will not be served until 10 or 10.30 in the evening.—Edith W.

ANSWER:

Salad plates are popular and pretty but troublesome. Each plate must have a generous bed of well cupped delicate lettuce leaves. Individual jellied molds are ideal as the centre item; cheese-stuffed celery sticks, mound of cole slaw, carrot curls, radish roses, gherkins or dills, ripe or green olives, half hard-cooked or deviled egg. Ribbon or pinwheel sandwiches or simply buttered bun could accompany these. If anyone is adept with a pastry bag, white cream cheese could be moistened with genuine mayonnaise and piped at the last minute on the jellied bowls for decoration and as the mayonnaise disappointment. If you would prefer not to serve any dessert item you might pass buttered thin slices of plain or date bread with the salad plate. The only other item needed is tea or coffee.

QUESTION:

I like the way you say "Let me help you sometime," for you know you are helping me every day, but now I am going to ask for special help. . . what causes my otherwise light and fine textured cakes to have little tunnels. . . I would it be overbeating. . . I wasn't a good baker until I did follow recipes to the letter. . . used the last of my Christmas cake last week, your special recipe this year, . . and it kept perfectly stored in a covered roaster down cellar. . . it was a hit. Nan conduct the heat to the centre and also keep the skins from cracking. . . when asked what I'm doing I say "I'm aluminuming him, mum". . . I wish Marians every happiness in her new career. . . in my opinion your column is the highlight of the paper. "Les".

ANSWER:

Are you the "Les" I met who called herself a "tall beanpole". Anyway, thanks for the baked potato speed-up idea. You were right about overbeating causing tunnels. These are the four common causes of tunnels in cakes: overmixing, oven too hot, too much flour or wrong kind. What kind of cake are you making that has tunnels? Let me know and I will send you my detailed recipe for it.

QUESTION:

This is my first attempt at writing to cooking columnist. . . I feel more as if I am writing to an old friend. . . please send really good Christmas cake this year from your recipe. . . it is refreshing to read recipes that can actually be used without fear of wasting ingredients or breaking the budget. Everyone at our house enjoys hearing about your family. It's so much more interesting than just reading recipes all of the time. . . please send recipe for Yorkshire Pudding that does not have to be poured in with the roast. . . would you have a recipe for a type of fruit squares made with ginger and other fruits without a thick cake on the bottom—June M. E.

ANSWER:

EMEM'S YORKSHIRE PUDDING

Put into beater bowl 2 eggs and 1 cup milk, beat and add flour. Beat until mixed then add 2 cups whole milk and 1-4 teaspoon salt. (This may be baked around roast or in another pan—it doesn't matter.) Have pan very hot with about 3 tablespoons fat in it—the bigger the pan the thinner the Yorkshire—and better I think. Put pudding in oven of 540 deg. Fahr. and keep heat high while it rises and begins to brown then lower temperature for last 10 minutes to 350 deg. and bake about 30 to 40 minutes. Yorkshire pudding improved if mixed and chilled 1 hour before baking.

Thanks for a charming letter. I hope you saw the "Fruit Squares" Thursday.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU!

There should be no plain-looking women these days. Just think of the individuals and the industries that contribute toward feminine loveliness — dress designers; hair stylists; textile manufacturers; the leather industry which contributes pretty shoes, gloves and handbags; cosmeticians; beauty shops; jewelers, milliners! The list is as long as your arm.

Beauty experts say that many who were not blessed with pleasing features have made themselves more interesting in appearance than some who inherited good looks. They ever that plainness is a challenge and that it can be overcome by self-study.

The first rule is to weigh one's good points against those which are not so good — and feature the good ones.

If a woman has beautiful eyes, she should play them up. They can be made even more glamorous if the lashes are darkened with mascara, if the eyebrow boast a graceful wing-like contour, and if the flesh surrounding them is firm and smooth.

If a woman has smooth, shell-like ears, they should never be hidden by a hair-do. In fact, attention should be called to them by wearing earrings, about which the world of fashion is slightly mad these days. She should wear hugs circle or little "chandelier" that fall nearly to her shoulders.

The girl with a nice, slender neck should call attention to it by wearing a dainty necklace.

If one's nose is not precisely what one would have ordered, compensating good qualities should be developed. The hair-do should be chic; make-up should be applied with delicacy and a keen eye for flattering colors; and the mouth should always wear a beautiful expression. Then no one will ever notice the offending nose.

Wife Preservers

When you buy bath towels, hold them up to the light to make sure that the weave is close and the pile loops are fairly close together and not tightly twisted. Bath towels should be sturdy enough so that one can swing them back and forth across your shoulders, and thick enough so that you have something substantial to hold onto.

Bulletins From Birdland

BALDY THE DUCK

Baldpate is not really bald; he only appears to be. This small duck with white feathers forming a patch on the forehead, crown, and back of head may well be called handsome. Glossy green on the sides of the head and the speculum, a pinkish brown body, and blue bill with a tip make a colorful bird. The white patch on the flanks and wings at the front of the inner wing are distinctive. His male, though not as conspicuous, is quite pretty in her soft dusty pinkish plumage trimmed with greyish white.

These are the American widgeons, more common on the west coast than here. Nevertheless, some pass through southeastern Canada in March and early April on their way to more northerly nesting waters. They nest on islands in lakes, or near water, or even in open grassland or the shelter of a woodland. Few ducks are as much at home on land as the baldpate, and they choose such isolated lakes and rivers for their breeding grounds.

Perhaps the reason for their particularly early arrival is because their winter quarters are never very far south, and may be only in southern New England or the Ohio Valley. In migration they stretch out in a line nearly abreast, or fly in a dense group.

WHISTLED WARNINGS

They whew and turn to unison. The flight call, a soft whistle, is heard almost constantly, and a louder whistle from one warns all when danger threatens. Then up they fly, higher. Hunters consider them a nuisance, because the frightened cries tell all other birds to keep away. Strangely, only the male whistles, a mellow "whee, whee, whee"; the female has merely a weak, guttural "quack".

About 10 eggs, though sometimes as many as 12, are placed in a dry hollow, lined with leaves, grass, and down. Like most other members they will with a down blanket when leaving them. She must do all incubating, as the father flocks with his male friends.

These birds are considered very good table ducks, for they have no fishy flavor in spring but have the odd habit of grazing on grain and tender shoots of grass. They eat insects and are particularly fond of wild celery.

Being no good at diving, they have two methods of obtaining vegetable matter that grows under water. Sitting high on the surface, they spin about like tops, picking up floating material. And when a redhead, canvas-back, scaup, or coot comes up, they make a dive carrying the desired food, these rubber baldpates quickly snatch it.

Attractions of Field, Stream Given in Television Show

By GRAHAM McMULLIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The enchantment of a world outdoors is being shared here as never before.

The attractions of field, stream and campfire are no further than the nearest television set and a halfhour show called "Outdoors with Hal Denton."

The show is produced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation once a week and is believed to be the only one of its kind in North America.

The production is a skilful blend of story, recorded is film, and action on the stage of CBUT, Vancouver.

TRAILS A COUGAR

In a typical sequence, Hal travels over an old logging road on the trail of a predatory cougar.

The pace first quickens as the road through deepening snow. Closeups of hounds snuffing large tracks in the snow heighten the action.

The camera zooms in with another closeup of a barking hound and then swings to the cougar now high in a tree. It switches back to Denton as he aims and fires. Hal drops the cougar with a single shot.

Another story will include a trip to the fish hatchery at Cultus lake or a weekend of pheasant shooting.

Lessons in outdoor lore, safety with guns, wildlife management, the rights and wrongs of pitching a tent and a study in poison ivy and poison oak are a few of the subjects included.

FAN MAIL

Hal's fan mail is a tribute to the program's popularity. When he previewed he was thumbing through 700 letters.

Best response was to an offer of a pup that appeared on the program. Hal explained he couldn't use another hunting dog and suggested to his audience that the dog be given a good home.

More than 3,000 letters poured in containing an estimated 6,000 names for the draw that was proposed.

The program has thrown life in the outdoors open to spectator participation on the scale enjoyed by football or hockey.

No broken field runner runs through an armchair advice than does Denton as he plays a trout under the practised hand of a master.

The 41-year-old Denton comes by his outdoor love from forebears in the north to the wildlife in the province. For 10 years he was co-publisher of a magazine called Sportsman's Guide.

Eastern Ontario Army Engineer Fined at Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—Lt.-Col. Lyndsay H. Brown, eastern Ontario Canadian Army area engineer, Friday was fined $300 after he pleaded guilty at a court martial to a charge of illegal possession of publicly-owned goods.

In addition the court sentenced him to loss of three years' seniority.

Military authorities said Lt.Col. Brown will continue in his post as eastern Ontario engineer.

Lt.-Col. Brown was formally charged with "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline" under Section 118 of the National Defence Act.

The court prosecutor, Capt. J.R. Ray, legal officer at central Ontario command, Oakville, gave a list of items found on Lt.-Col. Brown's Mallorytown farm April 2.

The defending officer, Col. R. D. McDougall, said the Crown Assets Corp. assessed the value of the goods at $150. It was previously thought the value of the stores was about $5,000.

The items listed by Capt. Fay were: 60 bags of insulation, 19 rolls of toilet paper, two toilets, 450 square feet of maple flooring, 12 small radiators, a quantity of soil drain pipe, one 50-gallon water tank, one 40-gallon water tank, one electric pump, and several electric motors.

CALLED SCRAP

The defence counsel said the items were scrap and "junk" which had been discarded by the army.

The prosecutor called four chatterer witnesses from the Crown's new Col. Brown and that he had served under them. They all testified he was a gentleman, a good officer and of good character.

The witnesses were Lt.-Col. Edward Webb, chief engineer of the Canadian Army; Brig. G. C. Lilley, deputy quarter-master general, national defence headquarters; Brig. M. P. Bogart, commandant, Canadian Army Staff College here; and Brig. M. S. Dunn, eastern Ontario commander.

Judge advocate of the court was Lt.-Col. W. P. McClement, assistant judge advocate general, central command. President of the court was Brig. J. V. Allard, officer commanding 3rd Infantry Brigade, Valcartier, Que.

CAREER SOLDIER

Lt.-Col. Brown was responsible for spending of large sums of Canadian government funds in the eastern Ontario area. He is a career soldier—who graduated from Royal Military College and served in the 1950 during the Second World War.

He was suspended 14 days ago and placed under open arrest by Brig. Dunn.

Council Decides To Enforce Dog By-Law

STIRLING — At the regular council meeting the Horticultural Society asked for protection for shrubs and flowers from the numerous dogs which roam the village streets. It was decided to enforce the dog by-law.

A delegation from the Chamber of Commerce outlined the Industrial Development plan for this region and council will be interested in further information.

It was decided to have a small park on Mill Street available for tourists.

The tax payers will be asked for an additional $1400 for educational costs of Centre Hastings High School area. The yearly cost is $10,500.

Clerk Mallory said the 1954 unpaid taxes were over $900 and this list will be turned over to Hastings county for collection.

Ray Rose will be the caretaker for cutting of cutting grass on the various parks for another season for a fee of $40.

Several minor details were discussed and a number of bills ordered paid.

BAN HORROR COMICS

LONDON (Reuters)—A bill banning sadistic "horror comics" became law Friday after receiving the Queen's approval. Garden Notes

Garden Herbs For Food Flavoring

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Today I came upon some garlic sets, left over from the time of dill pickle-making last fall. I broke them apart and planted them in the garden; we will expect to have a supply on hand for pickling this summer; I saw some growing in Grand Valley last summer. They looked like a lily plant, with leaves spread out around the center stem. So if you are planting some garlic sets space them eight to 10 inches apart.

I also found that there were a few heads of dill left with plenty of seeds for a row of that. Fresh dill leaves and flowers give a lift to cucumbers, salad dressing and many summer salads and sandwich fillings. We have been cutting chives for several weeks. They add a fine flavor to cottage cheese, omelettes and sour cream dressing.

NO NEW PLANTS

My one lavender plant is sending up new green leaves among the old grey ones. It has lived and thrived for three years in dry clay soil and each year I must expect to drop its seeds and form new plants, but none appeared. Last summer, I picked the tips and "heads of the planted them around the mother plant. Still no new ones.

This year I will plant the seeds in pots of vermiculite, keep them moist and in a shady place. Perhaps I will have bags of lavender flowers to sweet my household linens in a year or two. I could buy more plants but it is fun to grow them from seeds.

Herbs do not have particular soil requirements; in the sandy loam will be more compact if no fertilizer is used and they will grow in gravelly soil. Many of them are attractive as flowering plants such as rosemary with Mr. and sweet marjoram, and saffron.

I do not find anything in any of the seed catalogues, and as far as I know it is seldom used in Canadian cookery; but I find it used in fancy bakeries. Three years ago the market price was thirty eight dollars a pound.

CULTIVATE OTHER HERBS

While we may not care for saffron, there are several other herbs we should cultivate to add flavor to many summer meals. Anise is an annual with cream-colored flowers, two feet high, used to flavor salads and baked goods.

We will have basil for salads and use a pot of it in the fall for garnishing. Coriander makes a good addition to the salad bowl and flavors many stock. Borage is also for savory dishes and salads. A pinch of summer savory is good in meat stews, dishes, with squash and in dressings.

A row of parsley is handsome in the garden and adds to many dishes. It is excellent for garnishing and flavoring and is one of the few sources of vitamin C which is a daily necessity to the well balanced diet. We have a patch of mint too. This provides the main ingredient for mint sauce, and the tender tips of the leaves are used in salads, jelly, and with new potatoes and peas.

Mint used in our garden is broad leaf cress. This has the tang and flavor of water cress and can be grown all summer without the special care needed by watercress and will run to seed so readily, as does curled cress.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WHICH IS RIGHT?

Apparently there are a half-dozen definitions of the word "amateur." Avery Brundage, the "I-am-the-law" of the International Olympics Association, has one; the ordinary dictionary has another; the Soviets have yet another, and so has the rest of the sports world.

Mr. Brundage, who indignantly ordered Barbara Ann Scott to return an automobile to admiring Ottawa citizens or forfeit her amateur status some years ago, authored a piece in the Saturday Evening Post a week or so ago, and the most of it centred around his visit to the Soviet Union. Now up comes another piece in the Canadian Olympics Association Bulletin, written by editor Nelson C. Hart, of the University of Western Ontario.

The Russian wool was pulled thickly over the Brundage eyes. He believed what a high ranking Red official told him when he said the Soviets were adhering strictly to the Olympic code. He believed the same story in 1936 when Hitler's thugs showed him around Germany.

In that year Hitler sent Nazi athletes away for months in government-operated camps that offered ideal training conditions. Schooling? Huh! And unknowns bolted up fighting for Olympic first places. The same thing has been going on in Russia. Stories coming from behind the Iron Curtain by those who were there verify this. But the Reds don't announce it. A Russian hockey player said to be a "colonel in the Red Army, stated during the recent world hockey championships that he had not seen a parade ground in 18 months.

Very well, Mr. Brundage, allegedly, did not see or learn these things when in Russia. He blinked through the wool on his return and warned the United States that the Reds may take everything in the 1956 Olympics. Speaking of the Red progress in hockey he warned that defeated Canada may not only lose the world title and were beaten this year by a team of former Canadian professionals.

The trouble with Brundage is his idealism suffers from chronic blindness.

Now listen to what Mr. Hart wrote. He points out that the International Olympic Committee in Helsinki 49, February, 1935, published an article, "Athleticism, the Fundamental Sport," written by Michel Clare. The international rules strictly forbid an amateur from deriving pecuniary gain from the practice of sport, but amateurism is changing.

Michel Clare states that the USSR and her satellites have created the title of athlete-official comparable with the policeman, and the military or physical training professor. The factory or the syndicate takes charge of the champion athlete in his private life. The rules are thus virtually respected since, payment to the athlete is veiled as remuneration for the services rendered to the employment agency.

Where were the Moscow Dynamos for some time prior to the world hockey championship? The "colonel" said he had not seen a parade ground for 18 months. Probably in a state-subsidized training camp.

Michel Clare wrote: "Despite attempts to reduce emphasis on nationalism, propaganda continues.. Totalitarian countries spend fortunes on sport which has its own ministry in the government.

Government subsidization, for after all, that is what it is, does not, apparently make a professional of an amateur in the Iron Curtain countries. Yet the Canadian Olympic Association is asking the Canadian public to donate some $212,000 to Canada's athletes to the Olympics.

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll sums it up this way: "It seems to us that members of both Canadian and Russian teams made a full-time job of hockey and depended upon it for a living. But there was this difference when it came right down to conquering in the so-called World Championship Tournament in Germany. The V's were never quite sure if they were going to get there because they had to depend on public contributions to get them there. The Dynamos knew their government would pick up all their tabs.

"It's the same way in all other sports. There is no financial problem behind the Iron Curtain because of government subsidization while the problem of finance looms up in the western countries because private citizens are asked to solve it.

"It sounds very nice, but when members of the Canadian Olympic Association start passing the hat they find citizens extremely reluctant to contribute."

Elmer Speidel Is Basketball Is Alberni B.C.

ALBERNI, B.C. (CP) — Two years ago Elmer (Spider) Speidel of McLaughlin, N.D., had never heard of the twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni, B.C. Likewise, Alberni had never heard of him.

Now, nobody in Canadian basketball ever mentions one without reference to the other, sometimes to the two lumber towns on Vancouver Island. Speidel is basketball.

Now 25, Speidel (pronounced Spydell) first received an offer to coach basketball here in 1953 en route back to the United States on a troopship from Korea in 1953. NO BEARS!

Army trained, he took on a little reconnaissance before announcing his intentions and sneaked into Alberni at night to look over the ground.

He sated a small boy if he knew where Fred Hume, one of the Alberni Athletic Association, could be found.

"You're Speidel, ain't ya," the boy asked.

Assured that the visitor was, the boy's face fell.

"Gee, I thought we were gonna get a big guy for a coach." Speidel stands at five feet.

MISSED TITLE BID

The wandering basketball player found Fred Bishop and the Alberni Athletics, a senior A team that went through the 1953-54 season with 24 wins and 17 losses. They also went past Victoria and Vancouver to the provincial title, then travelled to Nanaimo, Alta., where they beat the Nat-breaking Union Jacks two straight, 97-73 and 76-69.

He looked as if they might go all the way, but they dropped three straight to Winnipeg Pauline 72-70, 71-65, and 76-63, and Paulins went on to the Canadian championship, where they racked up basketball knowledge in high school and at Seattle University.

Indians' Star Rookie Has 50 With Yankee Ace Two Behind; Dodgers Beat Phillies in 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way Herb Score and Bob Turley have American League batters fanning the breeze these days, it may be that Bobby Feller's strikeout record will have to dust itself off and keep and eye on its first real challenge.

Feller's achievement is a phantoup that's never been chased, unlike Babe Ruth's home run record that has had to assert itself practically every year. Those 348 strikeouts Feller whipped home in 1946 haven't even been bothered to sneer at recent totals.

Robin Roberts' 198 strikeouts in 1953 were the closest anyone ever came to Feller's mark.

Now come highballin' Herb and Bullet Bob.

AHEAD OF FELLER

Score, the 20-year-old lefty Cleveland's Indians have touted as a southpaw Feller, actually is ahead of Feller's pace. After his first five appearances in '46, Feller had whiffed 46. Score after five games has fanned 50.

Turley, the New York Yankees righthanded fireball, the same five-game milestone, has struck out 46.

Turley, who won 1-0 Friday in 12 innings for Baltimore while tying Roberts for the major league strikeout lead with 185 last season, picked up ground on Score Saturday by fanning two, but the victory over Boston. Score set down 10 in a three-hit, 4-1 success against Kansas City.

In other AL games, Virgil Trucks two-hit Detroit's New York 4-0 Chicago victory while Washington edged Baltimore 2-1.

DODGERS WIN AGAIN

In the National, Brooklyn remained a winner, beating Philadelphia 6-4 in 12 innings; Pittsburgh made it six straight, 3-2 over New York; Cincinnati beat Chicago 4-2 and Milwaukee beat St. Louis 8-2.

Turley, who one-hits the White Sox just last week, gave up only one-hitter in hand with two out in the ninth inning. Bill Klaus got on an infield roller and Turley ended it by fanning pinch-hitter Sam Mele. It was Turley's third victory without defeat, best in the majors, and the club's lowest-hit earned run average to 1.40.

Mickey Mantle and Billy Hunter each smacked home runs for the Yanks who hit Frank Sullivan and two relievers for seven safeties.

Score, now 3-1, fell just two short of Feller's Sugar Ridge record strikeout record of 28 after having missed Feller's one-game total of 19 by the same margin Sunday against the Red Sox. Two singles and a walk enabled Kansas City-to-team batting leader in the AL—to mar score's shutout bid in the seventh. Then Jim Busby and Hal Majeski both homered behind Score as the Indians took full title to first place.

BENGALS BOUNCED

Trucks and the White Sox knocked Detroit out of a share of the lead, edging 12 percentage points ahead of the Tigers, now in second. Trucks, who won 19 last season, made it his first complete game of the year by limiting the Chisox to seven hits. Al Kaline's single with two out in the ninth spoiled his no-hit bid.

At Philadelphia, Don Newcombe re-cleared of suspension for insubordination only hours before—stepped in to win for the Dodgers in relief after Carl Erskine had pumped two runs home to break a 4-4 tie. It was the Brooks' 19th victory in 21 games, pushing their 5½ games ahead of the Cubs.

Two-pitch relief pitching of Ben Wade, a Dodger castoff, kept Pittsburgh's string alive. He came on with one out in the 10th run on third and the potential winning marker on second in the last of the ninth and after intentionally walking the bases full, put down Cincinnati at the plate.

Andy Pafko was the Milwaukee hero, driving in three runs with a double as the Braves pasted four St. Louis pitchers to break a five-game losing slump. The victory jumped Milwaukee into third place over the Giants by two percentage points.

Yankees Win Dinghy Race

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—World Swath of Morehead, Mass., Friday won the Col. R. J. Tucker bowl for the firstly dinghy yacht race competition.

Bermuda won the lade's free for all race, taking three races in a row.

The United States won the team racing trophy in the international 14-foot dinghy championships by defeating the Canadian team, 32½ to 28.

J. Hartley Wadlington of Bermuda won the individual title and the Princess Elizabeth Cup in the 14-foot dinghy championship.

Will Probe Medoros' KO Of Johnson

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Laboratory tests are expected to prove today whether Harold Johnson, No. 1 light heavyweight title contender, was doped or the victim of a punching bunch by Cuban heavyweight Julio Medoros at the Arena Friday night.

The 26-year-old Johnson, a 4-1 favorite, failed to answer the bell for the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder and Medoros was awarded a technical knockout victory. Johnson collapsed in his corner and had to be removed from the ring on a stretcher.

Alfred Kleiz, state athletic commissioner, told reporters that there was something "definitely mysterious about what happened to Johnson. The doctors believe he may have been drugged. We will conduct a thorough investigation."

Jimmy White, manager of Medoros, dismissed the dope talk as nonsense. White said his fighter belted Johnson groggy with a right hand at the bell ending the first round. Medoros, who lost a decision to Johnson in Miami last December, gained his 13th victory in 28 fights.

The cloak and dagger story told by Johnson's handlers centres around an orange. Clarence Johnny-D-a trainer of Johnson's trainer, said the fighter began acting "groggy" in his dressing room after taking a bite of an orange. He told Klein and reporters that Johnson complained the orange was "bitter."

Red Wings Win Seven in Row; Leafs Edge Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Red Wings, flounder-ing around the cellar a week ago, now have the rest of the International League wondering what magic formula is needed to stop them.

Rochester captured its seventh straight victory Friday night by nipping Richmond Virginians 5-4, and moved into third place two games behind the league-leading Montreal Royals.

Royals were idle, their game with Syracuse being postponed because of wintry weather.

In other games, Toronto Maple Leafs went 12 innings to defeat Buffalo Sugar Bears 3-2, while Buffalo Bisons stopped Columbus Jets 2-1.

The Red Wings were outhit by Richmond 14-6, but they tapped veteran southpaw Ben Heindelman for five big and four runs in the first three innings.

A wild pitch by Raul Sanchez in the bottom of the 12th gave the Maple Leafs their winning run and moved them to within a game of Montreal.

Jack Crimian, who relieved Connie Johnson in the sixth, held the Red Kings in check the rest of the way to gain his second victory.

Wayne Belardi's home run with Buddy Hicks on base was all Rochester's Bisons needed, gaining his first victory of the season for Buffalo.

Vern Theis, optioned to Columbus by Pittsburgh last month, was the loser.

Over 100,000 Will Watch 'Nashua' Seek Derby Honors

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—This is the day Nashua, the odds-on favorite, answers the big question in the 81st and richest of all Kentucky Derbies.

The bay colt from William Woodward's Belair Stud places his enviable record of 10 victories and two seconds in 12 races on the line against nine other razor - sharp three-year-old horses at 5:30 p.m. EDT.

And at the end of the mile and one-quarter, a $125,000-added test of speed and stamina, some 100,000 spectators and the unseen television and radio audience should know whether Nashua is worthy to have his name written alongside the truly greats of the turf.

Many already have attached the label "great."

But there are others who ask that the pride of Belair, conditioned by 80-year-old Sunny Fitzsimmons and ridden by the peerless Eddie Arcaro, prove himself against kindred in the one-mile, 1 gl minor horse race.

They asked him to do it against such worthy rivals as Mrs. John Sch. Galbreath's Summer Tan or Galloway, Ohio, Rex C. Ellsworth's California-owned Swaps and the one-two punch of Racing Fool and Flying Fury from Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable.

He opened at 4 to 5 in the betting. And it wouldn't be surprising if the odds went even shorter when the field gets the word "go."

The weatherman saw the possibility of thunder showers before race time but a light rain would only tend to make the track faster.

If all of the 10 overnight entries are in the post parade, the winner will bank a net of $108,500 of the gross purse of $132,500.

Whipper 'Corkscrews' Dusek In Opening Wrestling Card

By GEORGE R. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Whipper Billy Watson, his dashing eyebrows still neat, has a new wrestling hold.

The popular Whip has named the "Commando", avoided the "Avalanche" and now centres his activities on the new "corkscrew".

So discovered one Ernie Dusek, member of a famous "rassle" family who cracked "wood" in the main bout of the opening card of the wrestling season at Memorial Arena last night.

Dusek is one of a galaxy of six brothers, four of whom belong to the group fraternally, the other two merely "grunt" when they see the rest at the family wrestling.

And he will probably be eating with his left hand for a day or so, after the Whip finished performing it into an unreasonable facsimile of a corkscrew. It's a simple method, but don't try it on the little woman until you know how.

JUST LIKE A PRETZEL

As a matter of fact it is a good "hold" for the free to know since it renders the victim "as helpless as a bare-de-combat" with whichever arm is the victim being tied up like a pretzel on a binge. And it stays that way until it drops off, or the producer gives it a quick flip back to normal.

This Ernie Dusek, an ornery cuss, was probably hitting one of the best manner known to the rassle trade. In fact he used very unorthodox methods, at times, to stop the Whip's eye quite frequently with a ball of paper he kept secreted in his trunks.

And one Joe Gollop, an alleged referee, when his whistling hand got stick at home, was also the recipient of some of Ole Ern's unclean methods. But Joe Gollop and Dusek got the slim kid from Montreal between them, private midriffs on the odd occasion and Joe took on a pancake look. He was flatter than a reporter's wallet the day after the ghost walks.

Later Joe was the victim of some rude treatment with both the Whip and Dusek denying the application. In a strange gesture next week.

Sambo appealed to the crowd—and catch the Dusek got the work—Whoknell would think that a "carney villain" would get cheered over the Whip in a Belleville ring?

On another occasion Ernie scored the official square in the kisser with a familiar "corkscrew" and counted up to fifteen stars then calmly watched the Whip hit the mat with a smile. Ernie was breathing out the back of his neck. Playful cuss, this Dusek.

AWARDED FALL

In fact he became so playful after twenty-two minutes of the hour-limit brawl, that Joe remembering he had left half a bottle of soda-pop in the referee's room, decided it was a good time to take a snort of the fizz-water and sweated in the job. He left.

Now that did not sit very good with Le Dusek—and he came out like a juice-up wildcat after a sleek bunny for the next fall.

He tried everything in the catalogue and at times had our hero in tough straights. But right prevailed—as it might and the Whipper came through with some ten minutes to go. He used the corkscrew that sent Dusek into grimaces of pain with his left arm held in front of him like a twisted rope.

Joe scrambled to the Whip to "unscrew" his "flipper" but the pride of East York was adament. He let the wily Dusek suffer for while as the crowd milled around ringside, then decided to "release" him.

Sho-nuff, it happened. Dusek promptly slipped in the Whip and the Whip just as promptly "corkscrewed" the Dusek arm into position and strode from the ring. That was that.

Pat Flanigan held up the family pride when he bested Jan Gotch after 20 minutes in the opener while towering Tex MacKenzie held another Dusek, Emil by name to a draw after nine minutes of exercising.

The Kalmikoff brothers a bearded Russian duo will be on the main bout in a tag team match next week.

Boxing Champs Will Be Named Tonight

REGINA (CP)—Eight and perhaps nine new Dominion boxing champs will be declared tonight.

One was named by default Friday night in opening rounds of the Canadian amateur championships here when only one fighter, Keith Monroe, Regina, entered the flyweight class.

The two fighters are defending their championships this year and one lost his Friday night. Sonny Liston, Toronto, dropped a decision in the welterweight division to Norm Kergenson, Toronto, and was eliminated.

Bill Graves of Edmonton, Canadian and British Empire light middleweight champion, gained a technical knockout over Len Callender, Regina, at 1:09 of the second round. Both heavies, Willie Barbrick, Toronto, for the title.

TWO KNOCKOUTS

There were two knockouts, featherweight Sonny Kenny, Barrie, Ont., finishing off Don Walker, Brandon, at 2:39 second first round and Raymond Shanks, Halifax, winning the same way from Bob Mercer, Kingston, at 2:3 seconds of the second round in their lightweight bout.

Kenny meets Hugh Meikle, Vancouver, for the featherweight title tonight. Shanks goes on John Houle, Sudbury, Ont., to complete the lightweight quartet with the winner going against Ed Smith, Montreal.

The last bout was a light welterweight match between Jorma Ahokas, Sudbury, and Hal McFarlane, Melfort, Sask. McGuinical claimed a decision after taking a pounding in the first and second rounds. But Ahopelo was almost out on his feet at the final bell.

From Doghouse To Dodger Hero

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — From doghouse to Dodger hero in 36 hours is the story of Don Newcombe. But the hulking Brooklyn pitcher is $300 or more poorer for it.

There was no indication that the 235-pound righthander's penalty for insubordination will be increased because of his sparkling two-hitting relief job Friday night which helped the Dodgers to a 6-4 12th inning victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. He smiled when he left with the win.

"I'll never make an example of this," said Buzzy Bavasi, Brooklyn vice-president. "The players must know Walter Alston's boss."

Alston, the boss, was the first to get on Newcombe for insubordination. Don when the final out was made.

"I never saw you faster, Newk," the manager said. "You were great."

SIX FOR NOW

Newcombe replaced Ed Roebuck at the start of the 11th and proceeded to retire the side in order in a row, striking out two. His 12th ball was dramatic only in it wasn't hit out of the infield.

Earlier in the evening Newcombe had a tense time with the rest of the team for warmup. He didn't throw batting practice. It was because he refused to pitch batting practice on Thursday. He was fined and suspended and ordered home.

Shortly after the incident, however, Big Newk relented and fought out that order as apology was just sore because I wasn't getting a chance to pitch," he said.

Soccer Vets Whip Youngsters

LONDON (AP)—Eleven old-stagers of English soccer turned the clock back 20 years Friday night to whip a "Young England" team that you might have heard of.

The oldsters, led by such veteran stars as Stanley Matthews, Tommy Lawton, Frank Swift and Stanley Mortensen, rounded out the game looking far fresher than the Young England side made up of established players in their early 20s.

Matthews, 40, played his fourth game this week. He scored a brilliant first-half goal and then laid on the passes for second-half goals by Lawton (38), Bobby Langton and Mortensen.

The youngsters included inside forwards Johnny Haynes and Albert Quixall and outside Frank Blunstone, already established international. But they never looked in the game.

CHOSE SOCCER HEAD

LONDON (Reuters) — Arthur Drewry, president of the Football (Soccer) League, is to be re-elected chairman of the Football Association—the premier appointment in English soccer administration.

He succeeds Sir Amos Brook Hirst, who for health reasons did not stand for re-election. Drewry is a director of the Grimsby Town club in the third division northern section and has been vice-president of the Football League.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

One of the most difficult situations a catcher must face is that of trapping or blocking pitches which bounce into the dirt. It is easy for such pitches to bound away from him if he doesn't take advantage of his equipment. He can drop to his knee so that his chest protector rests on the ground and then use the ball in case it takes a bad hop to keep him from getting his hands on it.Instantaneously.

He should try to catch as many balls as possible with the fingers of the catcher's mitt pointing up. However, the fingers of both hands should be pointing down when it is necessary to dig balls out of the dirt.

It is good practice for catchers to play infield positions at regular intervals during batting practice in order to learn how to follow bounding balls and develop and field them properly, because almost all throws to home plate from the outfield come in on the bounce, in addition to the pitches which hit the ground before reaching them.

6. There's a lot of golf in this picture, Study it. Here's the backswing with wood. As you swing back from address position, move the club along the direction line. Don't move a foot before you start up and around. Notice the dotted lines of the hands and shaft and that at hip-high position the wrists have not yet started to cock. The hands should not reach the fully cocked position until the hands have reached the top as pictured. Notice that both hands are under the shaft, the left arm is ramrod straight and the right elbow points down and close to the side. Our player has swung a bit beyond horizontal at the top of his backswing, which is O.K. for a good golfer. The beginner will do better results if he doesn't swing below horizontal. Our player has completed his hip-and-shoulder pivot and the back of his shoulders is toward the hole. His head will remain fixed in the address position until he has swung down and started his follow-through. Then, and only then, will he turn his head to watch the ball.

Bassett Retires From Boxing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Percy Bassett, a busy little featherweight and lightweight over all the world to practice his trade, quietly acknowledged Friday that his boxing career is finished.

"My doctor told me I can't fight any more because of a detached retina in my left eye. So I guess that's that," the 28-year-old Bassett here. The fighter has a 50-50 chance of a successful operation to restore full sight to the eye. The operation is scheduled for Monday.

Bassett's last fight was in Paris, where he attracted a lot more attention and money than he did in his 10 years in the ring. The French seemed to like his ever busy, weaving attack built around a solid left hook and a consistently good defence.

He TKO'd the French lightweight champion Seraphin Ferrer last week.

Since 1948, Bassett won 83, lost 11 and drew twice. He was knocked out once by Charley Riley of St. Louis, Mo.

Baseball Star Opens Drive

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Piersall, Boston Red Sox outfielder, Friday inaugurated a national campaign to fight mental illness in a ceremony before the Sox game with New York Yankees.

Piersall, who got and conquered the mental health problem, spoke to the crowd and rang a huge bell symbolic of the start of the national crusade.

On the combination "Mental Health Day" and "Jim Piersall Day" the Waterbury, Conn., boy said:

"I want to impress on my listeners that you needed to go to bat for the thousands who are fighting mental sickness. They went to be treated like anybody else but they need help. I hope my own experience will help."

Gordon Pirie May Be Next To Achieve Four-Minute Mile

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—This may be galloping Gordon Pirie's big year.

The forgotten man of the one-mile scene in the no-name gang in 1953, was sidelined by a foot injury last season while Britain's miracle man, Lundy, Chris Chataway, Vladimir Kuc and Emil Zatopek scooted into the record books.

With a little luck, the lean athletic Londoner could make 1955 achievements, for which he was overlooked, athletic champion and sportsman of the year in three separate awards.

Watch out for Pirie from one to six miles, say the experts.

BEST ALL-ROUNDER

Selected by the retiring Bannister as one of his successors who could fill his running shoes in the four-minute mile, Pirie, 24, is rated still the best all-round British runner, which means a lot considering the wealth of talent around.

After surviving a bout of influenza that knocked him from a Spanish meet, Pirie put on his first public display at London's big White City Stadium in April with a cracking 28:21.4 for six miles. It was a meet record, which compared with the world record of 27:19.2 held by his old adversary, Zatopek.

And Pirie indicated a new technique in running on the cinder track sprint similar to Bannister's two years ago when he broke four minutes and instead of heading for the tape and collapse, he ran on as used to do.

The word is that Pirie, six feet, three in the world, is built for work, will concentrate on distances from 880 yards to the two miles and in the end will be the best of the lot. He has his eye on the mile and 1,500 metres. It will be a race between Pirie and American Wes Santee, whom he trounced over the mile in 1953, to get under the four minutes.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Chandler Harper rolled along like a tumbleweed in a stiff Texas breeze Friday spraying birdies all over Colonial's 7,035 - yard golf course to shoot a five-under-par 65 and take a big lead in the $35,000 invitational golf tournament.

BC, McGill Game Set for Sept. 24

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacific coast football game between McGill University, Montreal and the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds will be staged at Empire Stadium here Sept. 24 if $5,000 can be raised for the college classic.

Everybody connected with the game wants to see it out here," Buz Fulton, UBC athletic director, said Friday.

At least $5,000 is necessary to fly the Redmen here. Last year and in 1953 the game was played in Montreal.

Phillips has opened negotiations with the McGill Alumni Association in Montreal and is also seeking fund-raising aid here.

Marlon Perkins Flying to Africa For Animals for Zoo Parade

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Not knowing your doubles can make a mess of your bridge game. A double is either for penalty or for takeout. A double is always for penalty if partner has already made a bid.

So, if it could be for takeout it must be a double before your partner has made any kind of a bid. And if the bid you doubled is in suit it must not be higher than a bid of three.

These are two of the conditions that help determine when it may be a double for takeout. There are other conditions. Another is that your double must be made at your first opportunity to double.

Sit west in the deal shown here:

	NORTH
	♠9 4 3
	♥A Q 9 4 2
	♣Q 8 6 4
WEST		EAST
♠A K J 8 5		♠10 7
♥7 5 3		♥K 10 6
♦K J 9 5		♦2
♣—		♣J 10 9 5 3 2
	SOUTH
	♠Q 6 2
	♥8
	♦A Q 10 8 6 3
	♣A K 7

Let the bidding roll like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Double	2 ♥	Pass

Is your west double for penalty or for takeout? You know what it was meant to be. But does your partner know? And how is he to decide which kind of a double you intend it to be?

His pass is not a bid. Since your double was made before a bid by him it means the condition of a takeout double. And the doubled bid is not more than three in suit. Which meets another condition.

But a double is for takeout only if made at the first chance to double. You had a chance to double. You had a chance to pass. You had a chance to bid. You did not do at the time.

Instead, you first defended with a bid. So, when you doubled on the next round it was not a double at the first opportunity to double. Consequently it is not a double for takeout.

If not for takeout, a double is always for penalty. One of the big penalties of bridge is the kind of partners you get.

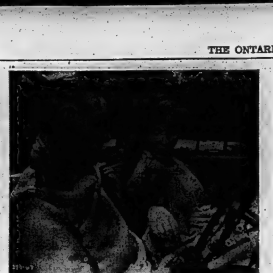
By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Marlon Perkins of NBC's "Zoo Parade" flies to Africa in a few weeks to search for new television talent and also to try to swap armadillos for aardvarks.

He and producer Don Meier will spend the summer on the dark continent filming six or more programs for the coming season.

The armadillo - for - aardvarks deal will be part of Perkins' function as director of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, where the weekly show is telecast. He will take along some animal life specimens fairly common in the United States, including armor-plated armadillos from Texas, to offer zoos in Africa where they are rarities. In return he'll seek animals common there but novelties here, such as the antating aardvark.

African episodes now planned for next season's shows include the annual migration of wild life across the continent's great rift, underwater scenes of Mzimi springs, the Fort Elizabeth snake farm, Kruger National Park, elephant-training stations in the Congo, and assorted African oddities.



Although a number of programs will be missing when the new TV season starts next fall, many familiar ones are being renewed. Among those signed up again in the last few days are "Life of Riley," Rin Tin Tin, Ford Theatre and Captain Midnight. "Father Knows Best" will be back starting Aug. 31 and for the first time will go into Canada via the CBC.

The recent telecast of the Academy Awards tops the latest popularity ratings report of A. C. Nielsen Co. Other leaders, in order, were: The special circus telecast, "Lucky," the NBC color spectacular of April 3, "Toast of the Town," Jackie Gleason, Disneyland, Jack Benny and Groucho Marx.

LARSEN WINS, ROSE LOSES

ROME (AP)—Art Larsen, temperamental United States tennis star, fought his way into the quarter-finals of Rome's tennis tournament Friday with a grueling 58-game victory over Torben Ulrich of Denmark, 4-6, 6-4, 13-11.

In the upset of the day Giuseppe Merlo of Italy beat highly-favored Mervyn Rose of Australia 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, and also entered the quarter-finals.

AT THE McCARTHY — In "To Paris With Love", which can be seen Monday at the McCarthy theatre and for three days, Alec Guinness goes to Paris to find a charming French girl for his son . . . he succeeds, but to his surprise, he himself falls for the lady's obvious charms. It is just one of the hilarious complications to be enjoyed in the bubbling new Technicolor comedy "To Paris With Love",

Midgets Mystify Scientists

By CYRIL DARK

Scientists and medical men have not yet got the full answer to the phenomenon of the little people—not the gnomes and fairies of the nursery, but human midgets. Now Britain's midgets have founded their own club in London.

Life can be a worry if you are very short in stature. You cannot go to a doctor for your partner will look over the top of your head. You are embarrassed when you sit down in public, for your feet won't touch the ground. Driving a car can be tricky, for a midget's feet can hardly reach the pedals.

To get together to help each other with their problems, London's midgets have founded a club under the guidance of Mr. Roy Coombs of Bristol. He comes well within the membership qualification which is a height of less than five feet (in stockings). He is only 4ft. 3ins. He hopes that the club will help members to overcome their shyness, and that manufacturers may be persuaded to make small furniture and special sizes of clothes.

NORMAL AT BIRTH

The little people are still something of a mystery to scientists, anatomists, and doctors, but one thing is certain: nearly all midgets are of normal weight at birth and are born of normal parents. The children of midgets themselves are invariably normal at birth and outgrow their parents while they are still young children.

For the first year a midget is as big as a normal child. Growth continues to varying ages, sometimes slowing down at 18 months, while in other instances the child's development may not be arrested until six years or even later.

Midgets occur in every race, and most frequently, apparently to the law of averages, in large families. Instances have been recorded of two or even three midgets born in a family of 10 or 12 children.

The odds against normal parents having midget children are 1,000,000 to one, but if any do arrive they means a dump in housekeeping bills; as midgets eat and drink much more in relation to their size, than normal people.

HIGH METABOLIC RATE

Their big appetites are due to their metabolic rate, which is one and a half times that of the normal adult. A midget may therefore eat one-20th of his entire weight at a sitting, or drink enough liquids to provide him with a bath. A midget three feet nine inches tall is on record as consuming regularly a seven-course dinner including a thick steak and two quarts of cherry ale taken without any sign of distress!

Statistics show that little more than 22 per cent of midgets marry, and 56 per cent of these marry other midgets. Marriage as it may seem, is remaining 44 per cent of midgets who go to the altar marry normal men and women.

Sometimes "short and long" parents and children have provided piquant stories. Countess Upiza, a Viennese midget comedian who toured America early in this century had a son who was nearly six feet tall. He frequently took dad to the theatre, carrying him in his arms on public conveyances and paying only one fare, for father rode free!

ENJOY GOOD HEALTH

Most midgets have lived to a ripe old age—and nearly always have good health records. For example, Burolwaski, a famous 19th century midget, 39 inches tall, died in his 99th year. Richebourg, a Frenchman of 23 inches, lived to 90. George Wyott, a London midget, died on his 77th birthday.

The most famous midget of modern times was certainly Charles Sherwood Stratton, dubbed "General Tom Thumb" by that showman, Barnum. He made millions believe that Tom Thumb was the world's smallest adult human being, "smaller than any infant that ever walked since, 25 inches in height and weighing only 15 lbs." Actually, Tom Thumb was 3ft. 4 inches tall.

In 1863 Tom Thumb married Lavinia Warren, 2ft 1 inches tall defeating the suit of another midget, "Commodore Nutt", Manufacturers from all parts of America sent gifts to the midget couple; special carriages were organized, and tickets for the church service changed hands at 11 pounds each. Tom Thumb died in 1883 at the age of 51—but his fame was so great for the next 17 years that his widow made a small fortune by appearing on the stage as "Mrs. Tom Thumb."

It has been estimated that there are about 5,000 midgets in the world, and probably half this number earn their living in show business.

Assoc. President Will Not Seek Nomination

RENFREW, Ont. (CP) — James W. Baskin, prominent Renfrew lumberman and president of the South Renfrew Progressive Conservative Association, announced Friday night he will not seek nomination to contest the June 9 provincial election.

Earlier Mr. Baskin, also national secretary of the Young Progressive Conservative Association, had indicated he would seek nomination to Renfrew South. He gave no reason for his change of mind.

The field for the nomination was thrown open when the sitting member, James Lawrence Kemp, terminated earlier, withdrew. He said in Toronto he received orders to withdraw after it became known that a political contribution of $6,000 he received in the 1951 provincial election was not reported.

The new Renfrew South nominating convention will be held May 14. Mayor R. M. Simpson of Arnprior, Ont., has announced he will seek the nomination. J. J. Foran of Eganville, Ont., also will enter the contest.

AT THE BELLE — Love at first sight — with Van Johnson, a somewhat comical onlooker. Gene Kelly openly indicates that it's a case of "Love at first sight", when he meets Cyd Charisse in the Scottish Highland village of Brigadoon. The scene is from MGM's new CinemaScope musical in color, "Brigadoon". The film is continuing today and Monday. A Tom & Jerry color cartoon, in CinemaScope, "Pet Peeves," is an added attraction.

Rod Steiger Says Actors Can Afford to Be Independent

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There was a time when every actors would come to Hollywood with hat in hand, hopeful for what the movies could give them. Television has changed all that.

TV actors can afford to be independent, and they are. Most of them realize that the films can help build their names and bank accounts. But movies today provide steady employment for only a choice few. And so New York actors need not wait around for roles here. They can head east and keep active.

One such performer is Rod Steiger, the chunky young actor who won an Oscar nomination for his second film, "On the Waterfront." He said he was happy with the nomination, which improved his professional standing and earning power.

REALLY HAD MEANING

But he was even prouder of the Sylvania award. Reason: He got the Academy honor for just one role. The TV honor came for a variety of portrayals, from Andrei Vishinsky to the love-starved Marty.

"I like doing pictures," Steiger remarked. "But I'm convinced that you should never come to Hollywood until you've established your name in another medium. If you don't you can get lost here."

He feels Hollywood has underestimated the power of TV to established pames.

"They say that TV actors have to go to Hollywood or Broadway to make a name for themselves," he declared. "That's a lot of baloney. Last summer Kim Stanley took 'The Traveling Lady' to Michigan and turned away 500 people every night. It was not because of her Broadway reputation, but because she had done the show on TV."

AT THE CAPITOL — A Courting Cooper — the first name being Gary! In Samuel Goldwyn's "The Cowboy and the Lady" he is seen as the handsome gallant from the West who comes East to ride Rodeo and dailies long enough to fall head over heels in love with a society pet, played by Merle Oberon — who is co-starred in the re-released comedy opening Monday at Capitol Theatre. On the same program Edward G. Robinson and Joel McCrae in "Port of Wickedness",

FLOWER HITS GRACE

CANNES, France (AP) — Grace Kelly, Oscar-winning star of "The Country Girl," was a casualty at Thursday's "battle of flowers." A flying carnation hit her in the eye as she rode in a carriage. Three hundred thousand bouquets were hurled to and fro during the battle, which was fought with the aid of most of the movie stars attending the Cannes film festival.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, May 9th, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — It isn't necessary to exert yourself to the point of fatigue in order to accomplish a steady, effective pace is urged.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Think first, speak afterwards. Thus you will eliminate errors, avoid having to retract statements, even to retrace steps, activities. The right start is very important.

May 21 to June 21 — (Gemini) — A better day than you may think at first. There may be a few "mean" hazards, obstacles, but they can be good for you, make you want to try harder.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Move a little, think a lot — but do not be over-anxious in your saving, or moody in your thinking. Introspection should be saved for happy recollections, or for help in revising outmoded methods.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — This day's aspects are not as confused or different as they may seem to be. Look deep and thoroughly. It will take more than everyday effort, but the results can be fine.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Here is a chance to develop an idea or plan you haven't had the chance to before. It gives some leeway to inventiveness, originality. But don't go overboard in anything.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Self-confidence comes more easily when you make sure of facts and study methods beforehand. This automatically means better progress. Start right, and keep a sane tempo.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — A day for some careful reviewing, for revitalizing yourself and being accurate in even the smallest items. With thoughtful procedure you can come through with few scratches — maybe none.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — If there are new obstacles, meet them philosophically, as those in your Zodiacal Sign innately do. Do not be confused by the talk and conjecture of others. Eliminate error-routes.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — If you are married to, or must work with or for, a sensitive or nervous person, you may have to be especially tactful, and silent today. We all must at times; it is good practice.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Today note Capricorn; your aspects suggest similar tactics. Do what you know to be right and don't fear criticism. Be concise, but not too brief. Keep smiling.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — There are those who may wish to sidetrack you, get you to waste time, or to invest time, energy, maybe even funds, in useless activities and interests. Be a very careful judge throughout.

You born today have a keen mind and many abilities can be a good judge in confusing problems, an able assistant to civic, government interests. You are a natural soother, a quick reasoner, a ready provider. Your magnetism and personality are strong. Use your talent power and energy to the fullest and you will amass a harvest of rich accomplishments, wonderful living. But don't overdo. Strike a sensible tempo and do not let yourself be sidetracked by time-wasters. Seek God's guidance daily; don't overindulge in foods or liquids. Birthdate of: Sir James Barrie, novelist - dramatist; John Brown, Amer. abolitionist.

CONSUL RETIRES

TORONTO (CP) — George J. Haering, 59, for more than three years United States consul-general in Toronto, is retiring from the U.S. foreign service, it was announced Friday. He is expected to take an administrative post in Washington with the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

10th Anniversary of German Surrender Celebrated Sunday

RHEIMS, France (Reuters) — In the country of Western Europe many of them still recovering from the years of bombing and German occupation, Sunday celebrates the 10th anniversary of the German surrender in a ceremony at Rheims May 7, 1945.

For all of these countries the completion of the ratification of the Paris treaties restoring sovereignty to West Germany this week will mark the beginning of a new phase in relations with the former enemy—a phase in which West Germany will be welcomed as a new member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

While a memorial to the members of the French resistance movement is being unveiled at Rheims, the capital of the newly-created Western European Union into which a rearmed West Germany is to be incorporated will be holding its inaugural session in Paris.

Ceremonies at the Unknown Soldier's Tomb under the Arch of Triumphe, a parade of veterans up the Champs Elysees and a special service in the Cathedral of Notre Dame are the highlights of celebrations in Paris, a national anniversary of VE-day in Paris.

In Britain, there will be no official celebrations, but special commemoration services for the dead of both world wars and veterans' parades traditionally are held in connection with Armistice Day in November each year. And the British Broadcasting Corporation is presenting a week of special radio programs.

In Belgium, the highlight of the celebrations will be the unveiling of a monument to wartime resistance workers at Liege, the city where 100,000 workers went on strike in January, 1941, in protest at resistance to the Nazis in 1940.

In Holland, Queen Juliana and other members of the Dutch royal family will join in a ceremony at the town of Wageningen where Nazi Gen. Charles Foulkes, now chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff, accepted the surrender of the German forces in Holland May 5, 1945. Dutch celebrations last this year's ceremony and the day will be celebrated throughout the country as a national holiday.

In Denmark, celebrations will take place throughout the country, but the spotlight will be on Copenhagen where Field Marshal Viscount Churchill will be unveiled in the Freedom Institute. A message to the Danish people, broadcast from Skagen, 500 miles away in the far north of Jutland, by relays of runners will be read at the town hall.

For the first time since 1945, VE-Day will be celebrated throughout Norway. A march past the royal palace in Oslo, where King Haakon and Crown Prince Olav will take the salute, will be followed by memorial services in churches all over the country.

The people of Norway, where the allies made their first landings in Europe in June, 1944, will celebrate VE-Day as a holiday, as they have done every year since the war ended.

GOVT. POLICY

He said he is not an exclusionist. Maintaining the present balance of racial groups did not mean excluding all but whites as we can satisfy get them," he said. But would not be a democracy result in a material change in Canada's racial groupings."

Mr. Pickersgill said Canada can only persuade—not conscript—Britons to come to Canada, improve economic conditions there had made them less willing to leave.

APPROVES PROGRAM

Immigration was one facet of Friday's debate as the Commons gave its approval to the 1955-56 spending program of Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, department of citizenship and immigration. The House stayed 15 minutes overtime to com'lete its consideration of items totalling $20,573,000.

Progressive Conservatives made one unsuccessful effort to chop $282,117.75 from one of the major items — immigration inspection services, the amount proposed next year $3,643,955.

With CCF and Social Credit members supporting the Liberals, the Commons voted 65 to 9 against a motion by C. W. Carter (Northern Ont.) — PC — to make the reduction. The amount was proposed was five per cent of the item.

Mr. Pickersgill said the deputy minister has more responsibility than ever before because of the number of over-estimates in the 1952-53 fiscal year, to more than 22 per cent in 1952-53 and to 7.3 per cent in 1953-54. The opposition member also criticized other money items, including transportation and other assistance to the economy.

Mr. Pickersgill replied that the items include amounts for meeting uncertain eventualities.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along on the Avenue with Glasses Magee just walking along, and I said, Oh boy, somebody is getting balled out.

Meaning on account of the red uniform. And I said, Who is it you're talking to some man in a car in the middle of the street, and Glasses said, Oh boy, the poor guy is heering plenty. That cop's face is even redder than usual, he is so mad.

Aw, that's impossible, I said, and Glasses said, Well, you can look. Let's sneck up close and heer what he's saying to him, I said, a a of Glasses said, Nah, I don't want to miss this.

And we started to cross the street slow as if we were just going across on our own bizness, and I said, Hey, suppose he gets mad at us for standing there listening?

G'wan, he's busy, he's bein bawled out, Glasses said, and I said, Sure he's bein bawled out for obstructing the law, and suppose we get fined?

Oh boy, my father would take it out of my allowance, Glasses said, and I said, Same for me, chee

Oh well, it's take a chance, Glasses said, and I said, Sure, this is a here crossing.

And we snuck closer, and the cop in the car was saying stuff, and away, saying to the cop. Well so long, Steve, don't forget we're expecting you on Monday for supper over Saturday. And they waved goodbye to each other and the cop said to me and Glasses, What's the idea of standing in the middle of the street like that, you want to get run over? Keep going, he said.

Gee, he's a swell guy, I said, yeah chang the luck, and we didn't feel perfect again till we were a city block away and then we got real and a dog stood down at the bottom looking up dubiously.

PC ONT. MEMBER

Mr. Dempsey said he would make no immediate decision on whether to run in next month's election.

Mr. Frost said:

"On Wednesday, April 27, at about 8 p.m. immediately at the termination of the federal-provincial sittings at Ottawa, we will be on my way to attend the closing formal functions. I wear shown in confidence what purported to be photostats of receipts signed by Mr. Dempsey in favour of Mr. Drohan.

"I was not given the photostats and I do not know of the authenticity of the originals from which they were said to be taken.

TELEPHONED HIM

"As I left the Speaker's reception, I had one of my aides telephone Mr. Dempsey to see me next morning at 9 a.m. in my room at the hotel in Ottawa. I advised Mr. Dempsey of the information which had been given to me, and I told him that until the matter was cleared up to my entire satisfaction, he could not have my endorsation.

"The following day I again advised Mr. Dempsey, and also his acting provincial secretary, that I understand that Mr. Dempsey has made a full statement to the press.

"Mr. Dempsey has been the member for Renfrew South for 10 years and has very diligently served his constituents. It is very regrettable that this has occurred."

Dr. Drohan died three years ago. When Dominion government income tax officials checked his papers, they found a receipt.

Mr. Dempsey said he did not pay income tax on the amount because it was not a personal gift but a contribution to the party. He said that he talked over the matter with Premier Frost at McCann.

Dr. McCann said Friday night that "never at any time in my life did Mr. Dempsey discuss with me his personal income tax or anybody else's income tax."

Mr. Dempsey said Premier Frost was notified of the contribution April 27 at the Federal-Provincial confer nce in Ottawa and was told by Mr. Dempsey that it was a gift two years.

Dr. McCann in a telephone interview from his home in Renfrew, Ont., said all contributions to political parties are not deductible for income tax. There was no law against an individual making a contribution to a political party after income taxes had been paid.

The gifts made to him by Mr. Drohan, who had been a life-long friend, have been entered in income ledge in the Ottawa valley since the 1951 campaign, Mr. Dempsey said.

"I had known Mr. Drohan from the time we were boys and when he offered to help me in my campaigns, I accepted it. I have done nothing of which I am ashamed. I didn't steal a nickel."

Mr. Dempsey said he neglected to list the contributions in his post-election public statement, as required by the Election Act, but said his was a sin of omission rather than commission.

A few days after Premier Frost returned to Toronto from the Dominion-provincial conference at Ottawa April 27, Mr. Dempsey was asked to withdraw from the party policy.

The premier said Friday night he told Mr. Dempsey he could not endorse him for the election campaign until the matter was Scheele had announced Friday that the government was holding up clearance of new batches of the vaccine until it would be certain that "every conceivable safeguard" was being used. He said inspection of new vaccine supplies would be increased right away if present safety measures were judged inadequate. There would be a few days' delay if more exhaustive test methods were needed.

Scheele explained he was "no cause for alarm" in the holdup of inspections, as only three percentage batches from being shipped in the U.S. by manufacturers.

Meanwhile, Ottawa had also announced — before today's health service report — that steps were made public—for resuming vaccinations halted 10 days ago.

Today, however, California authorities announced that the production of vaccine now made by Cutter laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., Ave., Canada, after vaccine was withdrawn from use last week.

As of Friday, 41 cases of paralytic and three of non-paralytic polio were reported in the state. Officials estimated 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 children inoculated in the U.S.

GHOSTS SC RAMBLE

Crews of No. 428 Ghost Squadron at RCAF Station, Uplands, near, Ottawa, run to their aircraft on a practice "scramble" after receiving the signal for an alert. Although it has never been suggested officially that fighter squadrons in North America be used specifically for the defence of cities and their civilian populations, the fighter planes would be used for the defence of American bomber bases and the plants which turn out planes and thermonuclear weapons. The bombers also would have to be protected to permit massive retaliation against the aggressor. (CP from National Defence).

Ground-To-Air Defence Against H-Bomb Attack May Be Obsolete

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Civil defence thinking here now is that ground-to-air defence against hydrogen-bomb attack may be obsolescent.

The United States "is ringing its major cities and target areas with a ground-to-air guided missile known as Nike.

But the question being asked here is: What good will it do to shoot down near a city a plane carrying a hydrogen bomb? The bomb would go off anyway when the plane plane crashed and, because the effects of an H-bomb explosion are so widespread, it would matter little whether the burst were directly on target or several miles from it.

DEADLY FALL-OUT

Too, the serious-to-lethal radioactive fall-out from a 20-megaton bomb, the equivalent of 20,000,000 tons of TNT, extends downwind for about 200 miles across a belt up to 20 miles wide.

It has never been officially suggested that fighter squadrons in North America are intended to be used specifically for the defence of cities and their civilian populations.

The fighter planes would be used for the defence of American bomber bases and the plants which turn out the planes and thermonuclear weapons. The bombers would have to be protected to permit massive retaliation against the aggressor.

Too only solution would appear to be the pushing of defences farther and farther north so that attacking planes, when shot down, by ground or air fire, would crash in relatively uninhabited country.

DECISIVE WEAPON

Officially, Western leaders have said that free nations would use the H-bomb, first if need be, to prevent defeat. From a recent speech by External Affairs Minister Pearson:

"It is inconceivable that any general would stand by and watch his troops being defeated by an overwhelming superiority of numbers while he hid in his arsenal a means which might restore the situation.

"Would we, or our possible enemies, permit ourselves, or they, themselves, to go down under a foreign invader while in possession of any weapon that might stop him? The answer is NO. Indeed, the decisive nature of the weapon would itself likely determine in favor of using it if the alternative were defeat and destruction by other weapons."

Privately, though, some officials doubt that the West would use the H-bomb first.

There see a third world war, if there is one, opening up cautiously, with atomic bombs classed as conventional weapons. Warfare might continue for a long time and the H-bomb be used only as a last mad-dog act—by one side or the other.

But, whichever side used it first, the other would also get a dose of it, though possibly not as big.

The West's entire massive-retaliation policy is based on the premise that this continent could take an H-bomb attack and still have enough left to return a knock-out blow at the enemy in kind.

That is why North American defence has taken on such importance. The defence must be strong enough to enable Canada and the U.S. to take the blow and hit back almost instantaneously.

WARNING LINES

The two countries now are rushing work on two radar lines, the DEW (Distant early Warning) line in the Arctic and the Mid-Canada Fence.

The DEW line may give as much as three or four hours' warning of an enemy air attack. But radar lines do not shoot down planes.

An adequate defence of this continent, therefore, well away from the most densely populated areas, would require interceptor bases in the North, plus interceptor control radar.

The only existing interceptor control radar is the Pine Tree chain roughly along the Canada - U.S. border. Range of its individual stations is believed only 200 miles. This means that attacking bombers would be approaching their targets before the defending planes could intercept them.

At the moment, Canada has only four or five long-range CF-100 jet interceptor squadrons and an equal number will also come into operation this year.

This will mean a defending fighter force of only some 200 planes, which, however, could be quickly concentrated at the point of attack. The Canadian fighter force would be augmented, of course, by, hundreds of American fighter planes.

GUIDED, MISSILES

The hydrogen bomb also makes increasingly important to the RCAF the development of an air-to-air guided missile, now being tested at the new air force weapons range at Cold Lake, Alta.

With Second World War armament, a fighter plane had to get within 400 yards of another aircraft to shoot it down. Since then, advances in the plane itself have far outstripped its armament.

A distance of 400 yards today would mean suicide for the interceptor crew because the bomb in all likelihood would be detonated and the fireball alone of a 20-megaton bomb measures eight miles across.

To save its interceptor planes and crews, the air force will need an air-to-air guided missile that can be fired at least 15 miles away from the bomb-carrying plane.

LONG-RANGE THREAT

Beyond the bomber is the threat of the intercontinental ballistic missile equipped with a thermonuclear warhead.

Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the Defence Research Board, said in a recent speech at Montreal:

"The evolution of an effective defence against intercontinental ballistic missiles poses some very difficult problems which are not yet completely solved. However, history suggests that provided we avoid the disaster of an all-out atomic war an effective defence will ultimately be found.

"Nevertheless we must recognizes that the existence of thermonuclear weapons and the possibility of intercontinental ballistic missiles has given the offensive in war tremendous superiority over the defensive.

"We are, in fact, faced with the scientific possibility of reaching some time in the future a state in which there exist offensive weapons of power and number adequate to destroy our whole civilization with no adequate means of defending against them.

POWERFUL DETERRENT

"In this scientific race we must strive to keep our offensive and defensive developments in step but if this cannot be done we must be sure that our offensive capabilities are at all times adequate to deter the aggressor from attacking.

"Should we ever lag significantly behind him in either offensive or defensive capabilities we run the risk of tempting him to embark on World war three.

"Therefore the peace and possibly the survival of the world depend upon the speed with which the scientists and engineers of the free world can devise and perfect successive offensive and defensive weapons systems."

Dr. Solandt concluded with this sentence:

"We are now at last faced with the desperate alternative of one world or none."

New Detective Aid Installed By Toronto Police

TORONTO (CP)—New machines at the criminal investigation bureau in Toronto city police headquarters put the department in the forefront in North America for speed and accuracy in criminal identification.

The new equipment, built for Toronto police with the technical advice of Sgt. Jock Borland, head of the bureau, can tell detectives the probable identity of an offender for whom they are looking.

It combines coded cards in a cross-index pattern so that a first name, outstanding physical characteristics, or even the long of voice used is enough to lead to identification.

Said to be faster than similar machines in use in police departments in the United States, the equipment operates on new information sheets police are using to compile descriptions of arrested persons.

On a recent trial run it supplied in less than a minute the name and a photograph of the only man known for that type of crime who had hair like that described by witnesses. He was the bureau chief man's card from those of all men convicted for armed robbery.

This particular man had been arrested before the new equipment was in operation and was serving a sentence for the robbery. But the trial run served to convince detectives of the possibilities of the new detective aid.

Evacuation of Cities Entirely Feasible in Event of Attack

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Civil defence planners here are convinced that evacuation of Canadian cities is entirely feasible in event of hydrogen bomb attack.

"What else can you do?" one official said bluntly. "Leave everybody in the city to be killed by blast, heat or radiation?"

Evacuation could not be properly carried out today or tomorrow. But with adequate planning, it could.

Privately, civil defence people say the latest disclosures about the destructiveness of the H-bomb, particularly the widespread radioactive fall-out, are penetrating the apathy about civil defence in many government circles.

START PLANNING

They feel that if this apathy is broken down at the top levels of government, evacuation plans for Canadian cities will materialize, slowly but steadily.

Already, a four-man civil defence team is getting together with civic officials to make a start on evacuation plans for each major city.

In many, or possibly most, respects, the H-bomb has made civil defence planning easier, not more complicated.

Civil planning was based on the effects of the atomic bomb, it was believed that parts of a city and some of its people could be saved if medical services, fire departments and the like were rushed in from outside.

The H-bomb has changed all this. Even a medium-sized 10-megaton bomb, the equivalent of 10,000,000 tons of TNT, would destroy or damage beyond repair all buildings in any Canadian city and kill all persons left in the city.

SHELTERS OUT

Even deep underground shelters are out of the question. The bomb's fireball would set up all the available oxygen.

Thus there is no problem, in dealing with the H-bomb, of trying to stop fires or bind up the wounds of the injured. There would be no buildings left to bure. The dead would not need to be buried.

What is needed now are not medical stockpiles of blood and bandages but of tools and to deal with radioactivity. Canadian doctors are already studying ways of combating radioactivity.

At the same time, civil defence people abandon the plans for the eventuality of an atomic bomb attack. There is always the possibility the enemy might use an A-bomb instead of an H-bomb.

The radar warning line now being built in Canada's Arctic will give Canadian cities probably three and possibly four hours' notice of air attack.

TIME FOR EVACUATION

Officials contend this is enough time to evacuate any Canadian city—provided plans are laid well in advance and each person knows where to go.

"I am convinced—absolutely convinced—that it can be done, even if only because the consequences of not doing it are so awful," one authority said.

"Take Ottawa, for instance. Even with our traffic helter-skelter in the evening, some 30,000 civil servants get home from work in an hour or at the most two hours. With a plan, we could evacuate the whole city in a short time."

How would such a plan work?

It could be developed only over a period of time. Ottawa, for example, could be divided into segments with volunteer wardens assigned to each block. First, a test could be tried evacuating 10 per cent of the 200,000 population, then 20 per cent, then half. The tests could be made at different times of the day or night.

PLANS FOR TRAFFIC

All incoming traffic would be blocked off except for some necessary transport, thus making each road at least double lane. The wardens would previously have told each family in their block the route to take out of the city and would have visited them periodically to double check.

"We can't do it all at once. There is no point in getting everybody excited. Nothing might happen for 10 years and we'd be right back where we are now."

Civil defence people here are often asked what would become of a city's population supposing it were safely evacuated. How would they be fed and housed?

At the moment, they say, that is a secondary problem. There is no point thinking about how to feed dead house people unless they are alive. The main point now is to determine how to get them out of the city.

HANGS HIMSELF

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Louise Falwell looked out and saw her five-year-old son, Herschel, playing with a rope on the back porch of their home Thursday. A minute later the boy was dead—the victim of an accidental hanging. He apparently became tangled in the rope and fell.

Bank Governor Predicts Good Times for 20 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—The governor of the Bank of Canada forecasts a continued high level of employment for this country over the next 20 years and says it is "inconceivable" that there should ever be a repetition of the great depression.

"You may consider this a tall order," he said Thursday night. "Personally, I am confident that the great depression of the 30s will never be repeated.

"Under-employment of productive facilities on such a scale is inconceivable now that society has come to understand and is determined to use the instruments of fiscal and monetary policy to promote economic stability and expansion."

But he warned that there likely will be temporary recessions from time to time.

Mr. Coyne was addressing the annual meeting of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association.

HOLIDAY RIOT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Hundreds of persons celebrating Mexico's national holiday, Cinco de Mayo, rioted Thursday night when a policeman arrested three of the celebrants for disturbing the peace. Officers arrested a total of 100 persons on charges of drunkeness and disturbing the peace. No one was hurt badly.

U.S. SLOWS POLIO VACCINATION PROGRAM

Federal Health Dept. Will Make New Safety Check

Canada Will Continue Immunization Program

BY ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. government has urged that the polio vaccination program in the U.S. be held up for at least a few more days while federal health authorities make a new safety check.

Surgeon - General Leonard A. Scheele, announcing this Sunday expressed hope a plant-by-plant or vaccine manufacturer would prove the full responsibility of the program by the end of this week.

He voiced confidence that five laboratories now turning out the Salk serum would get a complete bill of health. And he said he hoped the first held-up batches of vaccine would be cleared quickly for public use.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Scheele, head of the U.S. public health service, likewise pronounced the vaccine every bit as safe and effective as originally announced.

He assured parents whose children have been vaccinated that "in the very best judgment of the public health service, they have no cause for alarm."

Scheele's announcement was a strong recommendation" that all vaccinations be suspended for the time being—even Sunday as a finale to a weekend of confusion over the status of the vaccination program.

As late as Friday, Scheele himself had recommended that the inoculations bet continued where vaccine was available. Saturday he suggested a weekend halt and followed through with Sunday's recommendation for a further delay for what he called "a double check."

SOME SHORT OF VACCINE

Most states seemed disposed to follow Scheele's recommendation. New Jersey and Connecticut are among others, had vaccine supplies ready for the start of shots but called a halt.

Many states had no choice. They lacked sufficient vaccine to start or resume their programs.

The public health commissioner Albert Heustis said, that state's program will continue unless there is a "specific" must for us to consider the division of Germany. Adenauer contended that only free elections can pave the way to settlement of other European issues

British officials are reported to contend the main issues at stake are a European security treaty, world disarmament and exchange of non-aggression pacts to be made between east and west.

British officials reported that an arms limitation pact for both East and West Germany, be proposed to Adenauer as a way of preventing any rebirth of German aggression. The plan was reported to have been viewing with alarm, France and the United States are reported to favor the proposal.

Expect 'Big Four' Will Sign Austrian Treaty This Week

Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay To Meet Molotov in Vienna

Genial Ghost Aiding Golfers Really Red Dog

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Golfers said that the sixth hole at Sydney's Fairways Golf Club was haunted by a benevolent ghost. Sooner or later almost everybody holed in one at the "haunted" green.

The green is over the brow of a hill from the tee and recently a putter with an inquiring turn of mind solved the mystery.

From the brow he watched a red setter come out from a nearby house, pick up the ball —and try to bury it in the hole

BY RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP) — The Big Four foreign ministers were reported ready today to meet here late this week and sign the Austrian independence treaty now being completed by their ambassadors to Vienna.

Informants in Paris, where the western ministers are conferring, said Russia has indicated her Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov will see them here about Friday for that purpose.

Accordingly, they said, U. S. State Secretary Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay are preparing to fly to this Austrian capital about Thursday.

MAY PLAN CONFERENCE

Besides signing the treaty here, the western foreign ministers also are reported planning to spend two or three days in informal discussion with Molotov on the Austrian pact and scope of a projected summer-time Big Four conference of heads of governments or foreign ministers, aimed to settle East-West tensions in Europe.

British and France favor Switzerland or Stockholm as a site.

Only a few issues were outstanding in the ambassadors' treaty talks and allied and Austrian officials expected them to end today or tomorrow. Diplomatic sources in Paris said Sunday most of the hurdles had been cleared during the weekend.

These sources said the Western ministers worked out a formula in Paris Sunday for clearing the last barriers to agreement with the Russians on the pact.

CLEAR BIG HURDLE

As reported from Paris, the Western Big Three agreed they could not promise to war to guarantee Austrian neutrality, which the Russians have made their price for ending the occupation. Instead they will join in a declaration recognizing the country's neutrality. But this was reported satisfactory to the Russians.

The Britons and Americans were reported to have agreed that claims of Western oil companies to procure holdings in Austria should not be allowed to prevent the signing of the treaty. The Russians agreed to abandon their hold on the oil fields if foreign companies do not return to their pre-war position of dominance.

WORK OUT SCHEDULE

The envoys must agree also on the time schedule for the withdrawal of the occupation troops— 44,000 Russians in eastern Austria, and some 23,000 U.S., British and French troops in the western part of the country. The question is whether the pullout will be completed by Dec. 31, as the Russians have proposed, or if 90 days should be allowed for ratification of the treaty by any of the four occupying powers.

The ambassadors have agreed on most of the other articles of the 30,000-word treaty. Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl said in a message to Austrians that differences still existing were "of a minor nature only."

Eighteen Meet Violent Deaths In East Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

An elderly Montreal couple and a man and woman in their 50s at Halifax were among 18 persons who met violent deaths in eastern Canada during the weekend.

Laurent Roy, 75, was struck while standing in the doorway of his Montreal home. His 62-year-old wife was knocked to the floor by the blow and died en route to hospital.

In Halifax, Mrs. Anna Marshall and Anthony Connors died in a fire that burned out two basement apartments and forced more than 20 other apartment-dwellers to flee in their night clothes.

Ontario had eight deaths and Quebec six. Nova Scotia had four, New Brunswick and Newfoundland one, a Canadian Press survey showed. There were no deaths in Prince Edward Island.

Traffic accidents took six lives, four in Ontario.

W. E. Woods, 57, of Walkerton, Ont., was killed in a car crash 30 miles north of Stratford. David Wayne Neath, 11, died from injuries suffered when struck by a car while riding his bicycle near Guelph, William Reiffer, 67, of Kitchener, died from injuries when thrown from his car. Cecil Martin, dale of Toronto, was killed when he was thrown from his car which was in collision with two others on bicles.

Donna Joseph Hefler, 22, of St. Catharines was drowned when his canoe capsized in Lake of Bays, 100 miles north of Toronto. Arthur Ouellette, 33, was drowned when the boat from which he was fishing overturned in a river near Pembroke, Ont.

Lloyd Scott, 38, was burned to death in his one-storey home at Napanee, Ont. Johnny Sayk, 8 died near his Toronto home when struck in the mouth—by a stone thrown by a playmate during a quarrel.

FIFTEEN FIREMEN OVERCOME IN KITCHENER FIRES

$300,000 Damage At Granite Club and Cafe

KITCHENER (CP)—Fifteen firemen, including their chief and a captain, were overcome by smoke Sunday night in two fires that swept through the Kitchener Granite Club and a downtown restaurant. Total damage was estimated at more than $300,000.

One of the blazes, a $225,000 outbreak that ruined the club and left up $60,000 worth of new timber stored at the rear of the building, was believed to have been ignited by a 13-year-old boy. Police said the boy admitted accidentally setting the blaze.

Most of the firefighters were overcome by fumes while fighting the born blaze at the Chicken Nest, a restaurant operated by Costas Gage at 10 Queen street in central Kitchener. Damage to the Chicken Nest was estimated at about $25,000.

The restaurant blaze gave firemen a long battle. Thick black flies as smoke gushed from smashed windows and followed the fall victims to hospital for treatment. None was reported in serious condition.

CHIEF SENT HOME

Fire chief Kenneth Putnam was overcome at the Chicken Nest. He was sent home in the company of a doctor. Fire captain Fred Mahaffy also fell victim to the smoke at the Granite Club fire, was treated at hospital and returned to the club restaurant, where he rescued one of his men who was affected by the fumes. Cause of this fire was not known.

Lounge, kitchen, and some machinery were destroyed at the Granite Club, on Agnes street. The flames were stored at the rear of the club by the Dominion Fire Company. During the burning rubber could be seen 20 miles away.

All off-duty firemen were called to the club fire. Men and equipment were sent from Waterloo.

Mrs. Bert Haslan, who turned in the alarm, threw her own keys to firemen plenty of room. The firemen had returned to headquarters and started to clean their equipment when the alarm for the restaurant fire was turned in. Several apartments over the restaurant, an ice cream parlor and a tailor shop were next to the Chicken Nest were damaged by smoke and water.

Firemen, however, kept the blaze confined to the restaurant.

Flames first started battling the club blaze, had to take occasional breathers during the restaurant outbreak. The Canadian Legion hall a few doors away was pressed into service as rescue rest. The Salvation Army provided coffee and sandwiches for firemen.

TRIB INCREASES PRICE

Nudists Must Wear Normal Dress, But What Is Normal for a Nudist ?

LONDON (Reuters) — Fifty elegantly-dressed nudists at a weekend conference,hotly debate their rights to strip at future meetings.

The proposal was referred on a proposal that "normal dress will be compulsory at all meetings unless otherwise stated."

Some members promptly demanded to what dress was "normal" —for a nudist.

"How shall make ourselves look ridiculous if we make dress compulsory," one member—in brown tweed jacket and grey flannels—of the British Sunbathing Association said.

Another, in open-necked shirt and sports jacket, raised the battle cry "normal dress is undress."

But a woman, covered up to the neck in a smart navy blue suit and white blouse, noted blandly "if we met at a hotel we wouldn't think of stripping off and trotting about naked."

The chairman, in grey suit and tie, finally decided that definition depends on where we are meeting" —and called for a postal ballot of all members on the question.

West Germany Is Welcomed As Atlantic Pact Member

By JOSEPH DINAN

PARIS (AP)—The North Atlantic Council today welcomed West Germany as its 15th member in the free Western alliance against the threat of Communist aggression.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer took his place at the NATO council table for the first time in a public session in the Palais de Chaillot. The top NATO group opened a three-day session in problems of Western European defense and other issues of global import.

For the 79-year-old West German statesman the ceremony marked a culminating stage in his long and difficult campaign to end roll his countrymen as an equal partner in NATO.

Adenauer's place at the council table, allotted by alphabetical order, was between France and Greece. Only 10 years ago both countries were conquered by the Nazi invaders of the Second World War.

Outside and inside the NATO headquarters, the black, red and gold banner of the Bonn republic flew for the first time alongside the flags of the 14 other NATO members.

Simultaneously the West German flag flew from the U.S. EMBASSY, the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe, 12 miles from Paris.

Canada's minister of external affairs, L. B. Pearson, in welcoming Adenauer remarked that the situation "is not finished" but has improved. He said "we must exploit every genuine opportunity to seek by negotiation solutions for the problems which today keep alive fear and tensions in the world."

The new strength of NATO with German membership, he said, is only a means to an end—peace and security.

Citing the "new phase" in the development of European unity, Pearson stressed that Atlantic unity should also be further developed. He noted that France and Germany have joined western European Union — which includes also a Britain whose vision across the seas has not prevented the acceptance of a new and indispensable European role.

"Europe, however, even a united Europe, is not enough and NATO, the vigorous and hopeful expression of the Atlantic idea, is recognition of that fact," he said.

With the formalities out of the way, the ministers, including Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson, were to discuss prospects for a Big Four meeting this summer, with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin in Switzerland next July 1.

(Reuters news agency quotes usually well-informed quarters here as saying they were confident Eisenhower consent to such a conference would be forthcoming within 24 Hours.)

British spokesmen, who with the French have been pressing for a top-level meeting, said Sunday night U.S. State Secretary Dulles had promised to ask Eisenhower for an answer on the proposal within 48 hours.

In recent press conferences, Eisenhower has said he wanted assurance of Russia's sincerity before he would take part in a big-power conference.

Here at the North Atlantic Council meeting to welcome West Germany into NATO, Dulles conferred most of Sunday with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay on the prospects for Big Four talks and the Austrian independence treaty. But West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer joined them Sunday night.

Between NATO meetings today, the Western Big Three were to take up the situation in South Viet Nam in an effort to work out a united policy. Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, who weathered an attempt last week to topple his regime, has appealed, to the Big Three to reject cries of state Bao Dai's efforts to re-establish himself in Viet Nam.

Bao Dai hastened here from his French Riviera home Saturday and conferred with the premier on this dispute with Diem.

Although Dulles forwarded the British-French proposal for a top-level Big Four meeting, U. S. State said Dulles still feels the four foreign ministers should meet first to work out details of a German settlement and other European questions.

Informants reported to have insisted that any Big Four meeting should be preceded by one that would consider the division of Germany.

Adenauer contended that only free elections can pave the way to settlement of other European issues

Conservative Meet Censures B.C. Chief for Attacking Drew

OTTAWA (CP) — Now, says Deane Finlayson, it's up to the British Columbia party members.

That's how the 35-year-old leader of the Progressive Conservative party in B.C. summed things up following a motion by the party's national executive during the week-end censuring him for attacks on the national leader, Hon. George Drew.

The executive ousted Mr. Finlayson from its Strategy Committee with its "strongest possible condemnation." The B.C. leader sitting it out Sunday, the executive went on to vote unanimous confidence in Mr. Drew and endorse establishment last year of a separate federal party organization in the Pacific province.

"The problem for the B.C. party members is to decide whether they are going to carry on in future," Mr. Finlayson declared in an interview here.

"Some people support the national leader's federal council and some people claim the right under the party constitution to function as a federal field but owe nothing to this federal council."

The main cause of internal dissension in the B.C. wing of the party has been "this federal council" set up following the provincial party association's vote of non-confidence in Mr. Drew's leadership last year.

The national executive, in endorsing it said the party's B.C. council has "sole jurisdiction over provincial affairs in that province and sole power to appoint executive members to British Columbia to the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada."

Mr. Finlayson said President George Hees said the resolution does not apply to Mr. Finlayson, who by virtue of being provincial leader is an executive member.

The executive completed only to this weekend's meeting.

Damage Is Heavy In Qu' Appelle Valley in West

REGINA (CP) — Already battered into a scene of destruction by week-end flood waters, the Qu'Appelle valley prepared today for what might be an even greater blow.

Whole cottages vanished into lakes which form the Qu'Appelle system Sunday as high winds rammed flood waters against a weakened foundation. Today the winds were expected to increase, sweeping the province from the southwest. Rain was also opposite the force which hammered the 200-mile valley Saturday.

Still to come was the surge of water expected to arrive after the turbulent Assiniboine river on Manitoba later this week.

Flood waters during the weekend fanned out over the eastern reaches of the lake, inundating thousands of acres, as they built up for the plunge east.

Meteorists at Regina strengthened dikes in preparation for two days of heavy rain expected there there Wednesday or Thursday, the second a day or two later.

The few reports reached Regina Sunday indicated great damage along the valley to many resort centres throughout its length, a haven for prairie dwellers in summer.

There were no casualties reported. Most of the lakeside cottages still are unoccupied.

AWAIT REPLY BY EISENHOWER ON BIG 4 TALKS

Paris Source Reports He Will Approve Meet

PARIS (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers awaited word today from President Eisenhower on proposal for a meeting "at the summit" with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin in Switzerland next July 1.

(Reuters news agency quotes usually well-informed quarters here as saying they were confident Eisenhower consent to such a conference would be forthcoming within 24 Hours.)

British spokesmen, who with the French have been pressing for a top-level meeting, said Sunday night U.S. State Secretary Dulles had promised to ask Eisenhower for an answer on the proposal within 48 hours.

In recent press conferenges, Eisenhower has said he wanted assurance of Russia's sincerity before he would take part in a big-power conference.

Here at the North Atlantic Council meeting to welcome West Germany into NATO, Dulles conferred most of Sunday with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay on the prospects for Big Four talks and the Austrian independence treaty. But West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer joined them Sunday night.

Between NATO meetings today, the Western Big Three were to take up the situation in South Viet Nam in an effort to work out a united policy. Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, who weathered an attempt last week to topple his regime, has appealed, to the Big Three to reject cries of state Bao Dai's efforts to re-establish himself in Viet Nam.

Bao Dai hastened here from his French Riviera home Saturday and conferred with the premier on this dispute with Diem.

Although Dulles forwarded the British-French proposal for a top-level Big Four meeting, U. S. State said Dulles still feels the four foreign ministers should meet first to work out details of a German settlement and other European questions.

Conservatives Plan Big Drive Before Next Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party's national executive said Sunday it plans "vigorous campaign" for nomination between now and the next federal election.

The statement was issued following a two-day executive meeting and eGorge Hees, president of the party's national association, told reporters he expects an election in two years.

The last election was Aug. 10, 1953.

The executive handled mainly organizational matters, including the spending all of Saturday's session dealing with a party rift in Ontario.

Mr. Hees said at a press conference that the national party leader, Hon. George Drew, spoke for two hours when the private session opened Saturday and that it was a fighting speech expressing confidence in the party's chances in the next election.

The party leader, he said, also repeated in his remarks statements that rumors of a possible tie-up between the Conservative and Social Credit parties are groundless.

Mr. Hees referred to his own statement made in Vancouver last September that the party has "no intention of joining forces with any other political party or group" in order to form a government. He said he had not made with Mr. Drew's authorization.

Khrushchev Toasts Western Allies While Other Reds Denounce Them

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev toasted the western allies' role in defeating Hitler at the end of World War II Sunday. But other high Soviet officials marked the 10th anniversary of the end of the war by blasting the West for rearming the Germans.

Khrushchev saluted Russia's wartime allies at a party given by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to stress the Soviet government's desire for good relations with all countries.

He paid tribute particularly to the wartime collaboration of the Soviet Union and Marshal Tito's Communist Yugoslav partisans, but also mentioned the United States and Britain by name.

Earlier in Moscow's Bolshoi theatre, deputy defence minister Ivan S. Konev denounced the Paris armament agreements and said Soviet forces must be at the "necessary levels" since "imperialist circles are now arming West Germany".

East Berlin, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russian defence minister, charged that the West German army could plunge Germany into a "new catastrophe" and he urged West Germany to turn toward the Paris pacts.

From other side of the Iron Curtain the western allies celebrated the VE anniversary with speeches and parades.

In Reims, France, western officials attended a brief ceremony in the schoolroom where the German surrender was signed.

While allied diplomats gathered in Paris for the last steps bringing West Germany into the defence alliance, French soldiers paraded down the Champs Elysees.

Ottawa generally marked the day with prayers in churches and

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada with not a single unfavorable reaction reported among the 500,000 of its children inoculated with Salk polio vaccine, is continuing its immunization program despite a United States decision to hold up its vaccination.

Health Minister Martin said the decision was reached after a fast weekend check with deputy health ministers in all provinces but Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, who couldn't be reached.

"It is their feeling that there is no need for similar action in this country," he said in a statement Sunday night.

Dr. G.D.W. Cameron, deputy health minister, conferred with Washington officials by telephone shortly after U.S. Surgeon-General Scheele announced Saturday recommended inoculations in that country be halted pending a check of some commercially produced vaccine that has proven faulty. About 40 cases of polio were reported among the estimated 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 children vaccinated in the country by the U.S. government decided the country's vaccination program "should continue, not be postponed" for the present.

But Mr. Martin, after talking to Dr. R. D. Defries, director of the University of Toronto's Connaught laboratories, who was in Washington to consult American officials on the vaccine, announced the Canadian stand taken Saturday.

Mr. Martin pointed out that all vaccine used in Canada, is Canada's joint federal-provincial program is produced in Canada's own laboratories and is submitted to extensive testing—first at Connaught and then at Ottawa where the serum was unanimously agreed that there should be no interruption in our present nation-wide immunization program," he said.

CCF Workers Of Two Ridings Meet Saturday

The CCF officially opened its provincial election campaign in both the East and West Hastings ridings on Saturday at a meeting of key campaign workers from both ridings held in Belleville.

After the business of riding organization had been completed the candidates from both ridings addressed the gathering briefly.

Art Cole, the East Hastings riding CCF candidate, said he saw no excuse for anything less than 99 per cent of full employment in a province with all the natural resources of Ontario. He cited the need for more housing and schools as one way of taking up the unemployment slack. The CCF, if elected to office, would initiate such a program.

Mr. Cole said the two old-line parties had been mat ag a political football of the adequate health scheme for the people of this province for some years, but neither of them had attempted to implement their promises in this connection.

"How," he asked, "could a doctor be expected to vote at Queen's Park to introduce a provincial health plan?"

A health plan for the people of this province is one of the major planks in the CCF platform," he said.

Mr. Cole stated that the CCF stood for farm security through marketing legislation to establish stable farm prices.

The West Hastings riding CCF candidate, Bill Saundry, said the present provincial government had promised to pay half the cost of education in Ontario but had fallen well below that figure since it had been in office. Mr. Saundry said that under a CCF government grants for education would be increased to 50 per cent of overall cost.

He said that the CCF will advocate a public automobile insurance program during the coming election. Mr. Saundrey estimated that such a program would cut premiums by at least one-third as an answer to possible suggestion that the CCF would be like the two old-line parties when it came to fulfilling election promises. Bill Saundry cited the case of Saskatchewan where a CCF provincial government had introduced many of the reforms presently advocated in the CCF election platform in Ontario.

Doug. Aselstine Wins Top Honors In Talent Show

Doug Aselstine, 17, son of Mrs. Helen Aselstine, 32 Grove Street, and a talented pantomimist, won top honors at the Talent Show telecast over the Kingston television station Sunday night.

Doug's pantomiming of "Spike" Jones the satirically known bandmaster and his orchestra won first place for him over a field of twelve other amateur finalists.

Doug will be given a professional engagement in the Buddy Page New York Stage show being offered in the Kingston Springtime Exhibition sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of that city. It runs from May 10 to 14.

The master of ceremonies and director of the talent show was Buddy Page.

Doug, who is a talented saxophonist with the Commodores orchestra here, apparently is having a good year. He was named "Mr. BCI" this year besides being awarded the "best entertainer" title of the school.

He comes by his musical and entertainment talent naturally. His grandfather, Walter, is one of the better known musicians of the city having been a member of the Municipal Band for several years as well as other musical aggregations here.

Break-in Nets $50 in Goods At Service Station

TRENTON (Special) — Provincial Police from Brighton are investigating a theft of $50 worth of cigarets and other articles from O'Malley's Service Station on Front street last night. Entry into the station was gained by digging a hole underneath the back door and crawling up through the floor. In order to remove their loot the thieves smashed a large light of glass in the locked door and neatly piled the pieces outside.

A member of the local police department decided there was something amiss when he noticed through the front window that the drawer of the cash register always left part way open was closed. He found signs of a break-in on checking the rear of the premises and the Provincial Police at Brighton were called in since the property is in Murray Township and under their jurisdiction.

Motorist Fined For Leaving Scene of Crash

TRENTON (Special) — Found guilty on the evidence submitted Robert Browne of Trenton who works in the Trenton area, was ordered to pay $100 and costs of $34.50 or failing to remain at the scene of an accident. The case was heard by Magistrate T. Y. Mills here in police court this Monday morning.

Browne was driving a car on Front Street making a turn at the Mayhew's Mill corner, when there was a collision with a car driven by Gerald Arthur Pyear of Delaney Street. Trenton. Browne, a witness testified, stopped and looked at the damage to the vehicle and then got back in his car and drove off before police arrived to investigate.

Belleville Boy Makes Salk Shots Little Sweeter

Would you take a little needling for a candy sucker?

Belleville elementary school pupils taking Salk shots will find them sweet as a result of a gift from a former Belleville boy.

John D. Hayes, president of the Laura Secord candy company has forwarded 1,200 candy suckers to the local department of health office through Laura Secord distributor, Dolan the Druggist, for free distribution to children receiving polio vaccine.

Mr. Hayes, formerly of Belleville, is president of the Fanny Farmer candy company of the United States, which is also engaged in distributing candy to recipients of polio vaccine.

Suckers will continue to be supplied Belleville school students as long as the vaccine is administered locally.

Police Blotter

The lure of outdated comic books which had been sold as scrap paper and stored in a shed ago, was responsible for a small break-in at a Station street address over the week-end.

The waste paper dealer had purchased out-dated books from a news dealer and after storing them in his garage found the premises had been entered.

Police investigated and found only the comic books had been touched and came to the conclusion that children were responsible.

And boys practising with BB guns resulted in a complaint from a North Front street woman, who said her garage was being peppered with shots. Police investigated but failed to find the boys responsible.

A five-year-old boy was injured when he ran in front of a car on Front street. He suffered head lacerations and facial cuts.

The only other week-end mishaps were minor resulting only in property damage. Most serious was a two-car collision at the corner of Queen and George streets when cars driven by Glen Fleming, Kingston and Robert H. Armstrong, 81 Church street, collided causing $300 damage to each vehicle.

Miss Ruth Watson Winner of Lions' Ontario-Quebec Oratory Contest

On Saturday, Miss Ruth Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Watson of this city, won second place in the girls' section of the Ontario-Quebec Lions' Club Oratorical contest finals, held in the Oshawa Collegiate Vocational Institute. Miss Watson, who was sponsored by the Belleville Lions' Club, had earlier won the district A-3 girls' oratorical contest held in Peterborough.

Saturday's contest in Oshawa in which 21 took part, featured 8 English-speaking girls, 8 English-speaking boys and a mixed group of five French-speaking students. It represented the goal for contestants who had successfully hurdled elimination meets, first in zone contests such as at Napanee, then in district finals across the two provinces, such as Peterborough, on March 28. In late January and early February, Lions Clubs in many towns and cities across Ontario and Quebec began the preliminary contests in which a total of 1500 high school students were entered.

The top four contestants in each group represented centres north to South Porcupine and west to Thessalon in Ontario and as far east as Quebec City.

Members of the Lions' Club of Belleville are justly proud of the excellent showing made by Miss Watson.

WEST GERMANY

The West Germans do not expect to have their projected 500,000-man defence force trained for atomic war until 1960.

The Bonn parliament must first approve legislation providing for the raising, training and equipping of the new army, navy and air force. Plans call initially for 18 months of training for a nucleus of 150,000 volunteers. To date 139,000 Germans have volunteered, including 130,000 veterans of the Second World War.

Adenauer's government does not plan to call up any of the 350,000 draftees envisioned until after the national election in September, 1957.

BELLEVILLE SHOULD JOIN DEVELOPMENT BODY

All of Eastern Ontario today stands on the threshold of a new era.

The construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and the development of this major source of Hydro power are going to have a two-fold effect.

Ships from the four corners of the globe will sail past our doors and the men that man them are certain to return home with tales of our resources and of the opportunities awaiting enterprising individuals.

Power to turn the wheels of industry will be plentiful and developed right in the area.

If any section of Canada grows and prospers, Eastern Ontario will do so. And Canada will grow and prosper. Therefore, we can be reasonably assured that we shall see a vast program of industrial development in this area in the remaining years of this century.

The communities which lie nearest to the site of the seaway have every reason to plan for a bright future. It would, however, be in the best interests of the country as a whole if the industrial expansion ahead was uniform throughout the length and breadth of Eastern Ontario. If those sentiments lying closest to the seaway site believe it is necessary to plan and work in co-operation in order to reap the greatest benefits from this development, surely it is obvious that communities, like Belleville, some distance away from the seaway and cut off from Lake Ontario by the width of the Bay of Quinte and Prince Edward County, will find such co-operative planning and effort doubly necessary.

Many Belleville citizens therefore, must have been surprised when they read that Mayor Beith had sent word to a meeting at Campbellford that Belleville "would have no part" of a plan to form the Lake Ontario Region Development Association.

We do not regard that either the statement of the Belleville representative at the Campbellford meeting, or the mayor's instructions to this representative, were misinterpreted.

Belleville's representatives at the Campbellford meeting could not approve of the formation of the Region Development Association because the city council had not approved the scope of the proposed organization. Those representatives, even if they had been unanimously opposed to such a plan, (which they were not), could not say that Belleville "would have no part" in the plan.

It is a decision which can be made only by the city council —not by the mayor alone or by the mayor and some aldermen but by the council as a whole, at a formal meeting.

We may be sure that this question will, indeed, be debated in council. It deserves careful consideration. Any project has its drawbacks. It would be foolish to suggest that there are not possible pitfalls in a program of regional development. But by the same token the plan has such excellent possibilities, if it is energetically and efficiently administered, that it certainly deserves a trial. Belleville should be in the forefront of those municipalities working to see that the most is made of the possibilities and the risks cast aside as much as possible. The pitfalls may rest assured that, if events should prove that critics of the program are right, Belleville will not later stand alone in demanding disbanding of the association or reform of its operations.

What is needed today, though, is not over-cautiousness, but trust and teamwork.

MORE WANT CANADIAN FLAG

Continuing discussion in parliament and in the press concerning a distinctive Canadian flag is evidence that there is a growing desire among Canadians for a flag of their own. Only years of discussion on a Canadian flag distinct from the Union Jack would have caused excited comment in the House of Commons for about two days. The suggestion was hotly dismissed by the prime minister in a withering editorial blast that would conclude that debate had been forever closed.

Such unanimous sentiment is not felt throughout Canada today. There is a growing segment of Canada's population which sincerely believes that a distinctive Canadian flag is not only desirable, but necessary to unite the many peoples into one nation.

More and more second and third generation Canadians find the Union Jack an inadequate expression of their growing nationhood. Canada's independent action in international affairs has increased this country's importance in international politics. With more and more economic and political maturity there has been a new sense of identity and greater appreciation of independent worth. A distinctive national flag is a natural evolution for a distinctive Canada.

It is almost inevitable that Canada will have a distinctive flag in the future. It is to be hoped that this distinctive flag will be distinguished by the absence of distinctive racial symbols for certain large minorities in the total population.

TEMPERAMENT

(Temperament is important to retirement, say psychologists)

If your temperament is gentle,
some psychologists declare,
You can drop your business duties and enjoy a rocking chair.

If you know the world won't suffer, after you are sixty-five,
You can settle down contented
when your pension checks arrive.

If you're satisfied the office doesn't need you any more
You can help to do the dishes, and run errands to the store.

There are some who take retirement as they would a sudden shock.
They don't care for peace and freedom. They don't want to sit and rock.
If you're used to giving orders and the habit you can't break,

You will not enjoy the pension that is monthly yours to take.
But psychologists now tell us,
when the business pressure ends
That the pleasure of retirement on your temperament depends.

In the city or the country you can slip away from care
And your wife will give the orders if she finds you in a chair.
She has tasks to keep you busy.
There's the garden you can hoe;
You can wash the car and windows, if an idle hour
you know.
When you have to face retirement, you can have a happy life
If your temperament's adjusted to the temper of the wife.

Women Open Barber Shop

(London Free Press)

Two Finnish women have opened a barber shop in Vancouver and their enterprise seems to have taken the natives by surprise. Mrs. Irene Novosel, who operates the shop, replies by saying that in Finland all barbers are women.

The older generation of men in Vancouver however, will recall the time when there were many women barbers in that city and operating successfully. Most of them were from Central Europe, Scandinavia or Japan.

The fashion never spread to the East but was common on the Pacific Coast.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON SEEING THINGS

What an art it is to see things in their honest light. The American painter, Robert Henri, was a wonderful artist, but a philosopher as well. He used to give talks to his pupils. Many years ago one of them gathered these together in a book and had a book published called "The Art Spirit." It is one of the most inspiring books in my library.

This is what Henri once said, as quoted in his book: "When you saw the thing and it looked beautiful to you, you saw it beautifully. Paint it as it looked then."

What I read in that interesting statement I whispered to myself why couldn't we look upon our new acquaintances and friends like that! If we first saw them as beautiful and fine, then always believe them as such. How many more friends we would then have, and how much longer we would keep those who have been with us for some time. For there is something essential to life it is friends.

Anything that is beautiful is worth seeing many times, for every time it is as something new. I could visit the Grand Canyon a number of times and see something new, colorful, dramatic and fabulous. It's the s a m e with a place you have believed, love and where you have been happy. Each return endears it to you. I like to think of those beloved, who are no longer here in life, as I last saw them. I had much rather recall a smile than a frown!

We all see everything differently than others, and differently to at each visit. After passing something interesting, how many times do we recall? I have read a book that impressed me many years ago so only to read it again and recall little of my first reading.

The artist puts something himself into his drawing, etching or painting. He sees with his pencil, etching needle or paint brush. The camera merely produces a picture. We would be richer human beings if we always saw the beautiful and good in things and people!
